First I want to congratulate Frank Dammarell on his letter to the editor concerning kid's responsibilities and about the Kendrick Fire Dept.

I would like the Kendrick Fire Dept. to investigate a rural fire district. I think Kendrick is the only town in the county that isn't involved with a rural fire district. It seems to be working successfully in other areas of the county. Chas. Bower

Marmie Henson will leave here tion for "Young Woman of the Year" state competition to be held Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2, in the University Student Union Building ballroom, begin-

There will be four groups consisting of ten girls each. Marnie is in the "Daydreamers" group. She will give her creative and performing arts presentation Thursday evening.

The basis of selection and the format are the same at the local, state and national levels, emphasizing excellence in scholarship, fitness, creativity, and in human relations. Half of the procedures are "behind; the teaching at the sixth grade at Potscenes" in schollastic achievement 20% and the panel evaluation, onstage presentation, creative and performing arts, fitness and presence and composure make up the remain-percentages of the scoring. "Young Woman of the Year" is the only State Competition held consistently here each year. So, with continued support, it is hoped this scholarship program will continue, both at local and state levels.

Loud and Dry!-

The hunting season started off with a bang last Thursday—lots of firepower, but not too many hunters scored. Later, after the game had been excited, they were doubly hard to catch unawares, because the dry weather conditions make the duff underfoot as crackly as corn flakes.

Visiting in Park for hunting season have been several of the Engers, staying at the cabin, including the patriarch of the clan, Charlie Enger. 82, of Deary, who took a stand under 'his" tree opening morning. At the Smith Lodge, temporary resident were Don Smith, Jim White. Joe and Chris Blasko, John, Mike and Lee Franklin, and Dennis Froeming.

Mark LaBolle visited the Jerry Smiths. Bob Mullins, Orofino, visited his brother-in-law and sister, Kary and Wanda Enger on a recent Tuesday, to help ready their new home for the winter. His wife Linda accompanied him as he came back the next weekend.

Leah Smith was home Sunday to bring several friends for an afterparents, Clinton and Ethel Smith.
