WASHINGTON-IDAHO UNITE AT CONFERENCE NOV. 23-24

Conservation Meet Will Be Attended By Many Notable Men From Great Centers

The purpose of this great reclamation convention is explained by W. W. McLaughlin, chief of the division of irrigation of the reclamation bureau:

"I realize the importance of the work being done by the National Reclamation association, especially in the guidance of reclamation efforts at this critical period in the history of our agricultural development in the west.

"We have heard a lot of talk about the great bargain Uncle Sam made when he purchased Alaska for $7,000,000 and it was a bargain, too-nobody will ever dispute that. "In the last year for which figures are available, 1929, Alaska produced in gold $1,761,000. "The same year the Yakima irrigation project produced, in new wealth for this nation $52,348,938. "What the Yakima project did was duplicated in relative degree by every other federal reclamation project of the west. If we had the figures for Salt River, or for the Payette, or for the Arrow Rock, or for the Owyhee projects or for the Casper El Cova project, it would show the same comparison. "Why, oh why, is it possible for some easterners to doubt the value to this nation of western reclama-

To Be Notable Gathering.

Reclamation leaders from various parts of the nation, with several governors, Senator Borah of Idaho and other distinguished public men, will attend one of the most notable conferences ever held in Spokane. It will take place November 23-24. Many from Idaho wili attend. Governor Martin of Washington, with Governor-elect Ayers of Montana will be joined by other governors. There will be several congressmen. The Montana governor-elect has served as congressman also.

TURKEYS TO COST LESS

SEATTLE.—Poultry dealers here predict this season's Thanksgiving day turkey will cost from 4 to 5 cents a pound less than last year.

They attribute the lower cost to the enormous young crop this year-20,000,-000 turkeys throughout the nation.

Young Toms were 20 cents and young hens 22 cents Saturday.

ECONOMIST SEES REVENUE TAXES AID TO BUDGETS

If history repeats itself, heavier miscellaneous internal revenue taxes may be expected to carry the principal burden of balancing the federal budget, according to a study of federal taxation policies and their effect on business from 1870 to the present by Dr. Erwin Graue, professor of economics in the University of Idaho.

Probelm of Deficit.

The major objectives of Dr. Graue's study were to review the action of the federal government, whenever confronted with a treasury deficit and to discover a course of action which the government may be expected to take in case it "gets down to business and attempts to balance the budget in the course of the next four years."

Study of Two Angles.

One point revealed by the study is the persistency with which miscellaneous internal revenue taxes have hung John C. Page, acting commissioner on as a source of government income of reclamation, who has just completed following the termination of each war a 13,000-mile tour on the west, will be period. Another is that periods of federal treasury surplus correlate with periods of active business and periods of treasury deficit with relatively inactive business.

$200,000 IN WHEAT CHECKS TO ARRIVE IN LATAH COUNTY

Wheat allotment checks totaling $200,000 are expected to arrive in Latah county for distribution to the farmers, according to G. T. McAlexander, county agent.

This money is a payment to the farmers who fulfilled their contract of curtailing their wheat acreage when the AAA was still in force. The payments will average 20.8 cents a bushel. Farmers will be notified when treasury warrants are received.

THANKSGIVING DAY

WASHINGTON, D. C. - President Roosevelt, November 12, proclaimed Thursday, November 26, as "a day of national thanksgiving" and asserted America stood ready to "promote international friendship and, by the avoidance of discord, to further world peace, prosperity and happiness."

The text of the proclamation fol-

"I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, hereby designate Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1936, as a day of national thanksgiving.

"The observance of a day of general thanksgiving by all the people is a practice peculiarly our own, hallowed by usage in the days before we were a nation and sanctioned through succeeding years.

"Having safely passed through troubled waters, it is our right to express our gratitude that divine providence has vouchsafed us wisdom and courage to overcome adversity. Our free institutions have been maintained with no abatement of our faith in them.

World Peace Sought.

"In our relations with other peoples we stand not aloof, but make resolute effort to promote international friendship and, by the avoidance of discord, to further world peace, prosperity and happiness.

"Coupled with our grateful acknowledgement of the blessings it has been our privilege to enjoy, we have a deepening sense of our solemn responsibilty to assure for ourselves and our descendants a future more abundant in faith and in security.

"Let us, therefore, on the day appointed, each in his own way, but together as a whole people, make due lander, Ont., while the rest of the proexpression of our thanksgiving and gram will originate in New York. humbly endeavor to follow in the footsteps of Almighty God.

SMART New - Car OWNERS USE PYROIL

For These Reasons:

* COLD WEATHER-Starting a cold motor is hard on the battery, and using the choke washes away the little, if any, lubrication on the cylinder walls, slips past the rings as the crankcase oil has not started to flow so that the rings are not sealed and the crankcase is diluted with raw gasoline-all of which causes metal-to-metal

* THE BREAK-IN-The first 1000 miles determine the life and performance of the motor to a large degree. Pyroil has ALWAYS been known as "The Perfect Break-in Oil," but experience of millions of car owners shows that not only is Pyroil the finest lubricant known to science to "break in" a motor, but that the continued use of Pyroil A in the gas and B in the oil and grease not only increases the performance of the car but that the EXTRA SAVINGS are so great that they cannot afford "not to use Pyroil."

★ EXTRA PERFORMANCE—Frees up the motor so that it can "turn-up." The new motor has high spots that, with ordinary oils, "wear in" by abrasion. Pyroil will aid the proper "breaking-in" without abrasion. The new motor, when Pyroil-treated, gives extra horsepower, free and easy performance and many new motors can even be abused with little or no damage.

* EXTRA MILEAGE—From 2 to 5 extra miles per gallon of gas because the "oil drag" and "friction drag" have been reduced by 50 per cent or more and because of the better compression and improved sealing of the rings.

* CHEAP INSURANCE—It costs the average car owner less than 75 cents per 1000 miles to use Pyroil A in the gas and Pyroil B in the oil—the cheapest motor insurance you can carry. However, as Pyroil savings in extra gas and oil mileage pays for the small cost of Pyroil many times over, this Extra Protection (insurance) costs you nothing, and, more than that, pays you dividends.

What The New Car MANUFACTURERS SAY ABOUT PYROIL:

Recent conferences with General Motors, the Chevrolet Motor company, Chrysler corporation, the Ford Motor company, the Studebaker corporation and others have been very gratifying and they have issued instructions to their dealers and service departments that the use of Genuine Pyroil in their new cars does not affect the "factory guarantee" on any of their new motors. The importance of this statement on the part of the manufacturers is readily appreciated when you realize that they very strenuously object to other so-called "break-in" oils because of the corrosive acids or form of graphite

REMEMBER-There is no substitute for Genuine Pyroil. Only Pyroil is endorsed by the leading automobile clubs—only Pyroil has been used in the winning cars, planes and boats—only Pyroil holds the records for "dry runs" (motors are Pyroil treated for 1000 miles and then the car is run without oil). The present record is 922 miles without oil and without damage to motor. Insist on Genuine Pyroil for

OUTGROWN SHOES

Last week the necessity for free foot function was emphasized, particularly as it pertained to the use of the toes. This is of first importance when earing for children's feet, as, at certain ages, children's feet grow so fast that shoes may be outgrown in even as short a time as four to eight weeks, and no child should ever wear a shoe longer than three months without a very careful check to know that he has not outgrown that shoe. Surveys in eastern cities have shown that 75 per cent of children in the public schools are wearing shoes that they have outgrown. The immediate effect of such practice shows actual malformation of the soft bones when viewed under the X-ray. On the other hand no X-ray is needed to demonstrate the position of toes that have been crowded into shoes that were either outgrown, or too short when purchased, or too pointed a toe for that particular foot. SYNOPSIS

Jeff Hawkins and Wahoo Jones, bandits, join the Texas Rangers to procure inside information about pay rolls and gold shipments to send to their outlaw pal, Polka Dot McGee. Hawkins falls in love with the beautiful daughter of the Rangers' commanding officer and Jones lies his new life as a law officer. The two decide to east their lot with the Rangers and break with McGee. Hawkins, assigned to capture Polka Dot, resigns rather than go after his former pal.

CHAPTER IX.

"I made it out of camp by the skin of my teeth-or I'd be in that pokey with Jeff right now," Wahoo told Sam McGee when he caught up with him at the adobe house of Maria Valesquez. "The kid came with me because they don't treat him right. Poor little tyke, He's all tuckered out. I'm glad Maria put him to bed."

Sam said nothing but continued to pace back and forth across the yard. "You should have let us quit you when we wanted to-then this wouldn't have happened." Wahoo was striving to quiet any suspicions that his former partner might have. "Jeff's in a tough spot!" "Keep your shirt on," Sam answered coolly. "We'll take Jeff out of that pokey . . . right from under their moses. We'll start in the morning, I'm expectin' four more boys here, an' the more the merrier. Them Rangers might show a little fight at that."

"It'll be like takin' candy from a baby!" Wahoo feigned enthusiasm. "Jeff'll sure love you for this! Say, Jet's go in the house and play some cards while we're waiting for the oth-

The two men went inside, located the greasy cards and played a few hands. Then Wahoo rose casually to his feet and turned toward the bedroom.

"I'll just take a peck in and see if Davie's asleep all right," he explained. The bedroom was in darkness as he entered. Davie seemed asleep but when out of reach. Wahoo crossed to his cot he jumped out of bed and waited tensely.

"Give this to that telegraph operaor in town," the Ranger whispered as

"Don't worry about me," answered fired two quick shots under the table. the boy as he slipped into his clothes Wahoo slid forward among the scatand clambered through the window, tered cards without a sound. "They'll never catch me."

But his prediction was wrong. As he ontied one of the horses at the hitching post the animal whinnied sharply. A moment later a big Mexican bandit caught the boy by the arm. "Uno momento, my friend-where you gof" inquired his captor. "Jes' takin' a little ride," lied Davie. "Oh no, you in too much hurry, muchacho," grinned the Mexican, "Come in. I take you to see Sam." Realizing that he could not escape, the youngster wadded the telegram into a ball and tried to swallow it. But once again his enemy was too quick for him and extracted the paper the point of a knife. "Don't let him get away," the Mexican instructed a companion who had been attracted by the noise. "I take thees paper to the boss."

Sam and Wahoo were deep in another game of poker when the swarthy bandit appeared at the door and beckoned peremptorily. The bandit leader nodded quietly, laid down his cards and hurried outside. Two minutes later he returned, his face a stolid mask, and picked up his hand again.

"What'd you come up here for, anyway?" he inquired softly after raking in a jackpot.

"What's the matter with you?" Wa hoo shivered slightly. "You know why came-to get Jeff outa jail. He's my hest friend-and yours too."

"You're a good friend of mine, too, ain't you?" Sam's voice was sharp.

"Why, you know that-that goes without sayin'." Wahoo was wondering whatever had possessed him to hang his gun belt over the back of the chair,

"Then what's the idea of crossin"

"Cut it out, Sam-I don't feel like iokin'." Wahoo tried to laugh.

"Neither do I!" In his rage at the light of the moon scribbled hastily on perfidy of his former partner, Sam hurled the full deck of cards into the t right away to Major Bailey. Then Ranger's face. Then, as the latter made a wild grab for his gun, the bandit

> Early, the next morning Jeff was awakened in his narrow adobe cell by the sound of galloping hoofs followed by the rattle of revolver fire. Running to the barred window he saw several riders disappear into the distance. Behind them they had left a pony across the back of which was strapped the body of a man. "It's Jones! Dead!" cried Major Bailey as he ran up to investigate the cause of the shooting.

"There's a note pinned to his back, Major," exclaimed a Ranger.

His hands trembling with fury, the officer unpinned the crumpled paper and read slowly: "This is what I think of Rangers. Better keep out of my way or I'll kill the kid. P. S .- Jeff. Give Wahoo a good funeral. That's why I'm sending him back, Sam,"

Jeff clutched the bars of the window, his jaw muscles working tensely, as he comprehended what must have happened, Amanda, who had appeared outside to discover the cause of the excitement, put her clenched hands quickly to her lips, as if to keep back a sob, when Davie's name was men-

"Elliott, Russell, Blake," the major was shouting. "You three start pronto for Lampasses! Get in touch with the sheriff there . . ."

"Major Bailey," Jeff shouted in his turn. "Major, listen to me."

"Murphy, Baxter, Spring," the officer continued as if interrupted, "you'll go with Lieutenant Spaulding, I'll give you free rein. Start now, all of youand don't come back without him."

"Major Bailey! Major!" Jeff's voice was desperately beseeching as the other Rangers started to run toward their horses. For the first time the officer glanced at him, then came toward the

"How do I know-you don't mean to join McGee?" "I'm sorry you said that," choked

Jeff. "All right!" Bailey came to a sudden decision and unlocked the door. "Take my horse. He's the fastest. And here . . ." he unbuckled his gun belt.

"You'll need these." Then, as Jeff snatched the guns and started at a run for the corral, he called, "Best of luck to you!"

As Jeff finished saddling the major's horse he stood up and came face to face with Amanda, Tense, eyes burning into each other's, they tried for a moment to control their emotions. Then, without a word, the girl threw herself into her lover's arms. They kissed-tenderly, A kiss which sealed them to each other forever. Then Jeft leaped into the saddle and spurred away in a cloud of dust.

"I'm going to get that boy a pardon," said the major softly as he came up and slipped an arm about his daughter's trembling shoulders.

Fruit shippers of the Inland Empire will be interested in a new type of a practical solution of the old problem in Latin. of cheaper and more efficient earrying! of perishable products by Oscar C. Walker, chief supervisor of perishable traffic of the Canadian system. Overhead bunkers, said Mr. Walker, who was in British Columbia recently, effect a decided improvement in temperature distribution, an essential requirement particularly for shippers of quick frozen materials such as berries and vegetables, fish and meats.

It is said, "The essence of politeness consists of so conducting ourselves, in manner and word, that others may be pleased both with us and with themselves." There are countless little tests of good manners that distinguish the well-bred person in public.

traveled widely there, accompanyingMacDonald on a speaking campaign through Scotland, then touring the continent until they came to Italy, where Kathleen spent the winter with friends who lived in an old Florentine palace. - "We nearly froze to death," is her comment on that glamorous interlude. She studied painting and fencing in Italy and became so proficient at the latter that when she returned to the United States and enrolled at the University of California she won and held the during her stay there.

Among the principal topies on the program are perennial noxious weed control; an agricultural conservation program for 1937; feeding wheat to live stock; Columbia river development; cooperative marketing of farm products; crop insurance; social security; the effect of currency valuation on trade; substitute crops for eastern Oregon, and needed changes in agricultural legislation in Oregon.

New Varieties of Wheat.

Although not on the program, wheat growers may give a good deal of study to two comparatively new varieties of wheat which have attracted state-wide attention lately and, seemingly, offer outstanding advantages in both the soft and hard wheat realms.

Rex wheat, already well known in several districts of eastern Oregon, of fers much promise to growers because of its smut-resistance as well a's its ability to withstand winter weather. It is an early-maturing, hardy, soft, white, beardless wheat with brown chaff. Having a stiff straw, it does not Jodge easily and its sponsors claim it does not shatter after ripening. It yields heavily, it is claimed.

Willamette Valley Hard Wheat. Another wheat which promises to become an important factor in the industry in this state, possibly making the Willamette valley a serious wheat competitor of eastern Oregon and the Enland Empire, is the new Reward wheat-flinty, hard and with high gluten content. Stranger still, it is the only hard wheat ever known to grow successfully in the Willamette valley, where, it was believed, only soft wheat could be produced, and that not very successfully.

No solution of the mystery was made until during the recent hunting season, when a party of hunters from Guy Sharps at Goat wall, hunting near the top of the 7,000-foot-high Goat Peak, sighted an elk, an unusual sight in his neighbor's wife had shot a 280that district. DEER KILLS LARGEST Inland Empire Sports NUMBER IN HISTORY

OKANOGAN, Wash,-One of the most successful of the annual deer sea sons has now passed into historywith many lucky, and some disgusted,

Imagine the disgust of the veteran hunter who planned his expedition for weeks; who walked many weary, hazardous miles; who hunted with all possible caution and stealth, and who came back empty-handed only to find that

That, along with many other things which tries the souls of hardy nimrods, is exactly what happened this year to county hunters.

Although game wardens have not yet completed their check on the kill, the mass of information gathered at different checking stations and sent to the state department, shows this season's to be one of the largest kills in

Take the case of the Leavenworth couple who, after making eamp, started out hunting together until they came to an unusually steep mountain. The husband wanted to go up, but wifie the past four years. He plans to use wanted to hunt around the bottom. As a result of the dispute he went up and she returned to camp.

Spokane wrestling fans are to experience a new set of wrestling rules as well as a new and distinct division of weights and grapplers. For four seasons Promoter Charles W. York has exhibited only those in the all-heavyweight class. From this latter set he is changing to the junior heavyweight, light heavyweight, middleweight and welterweights. Also the supervision and rules will be under those of the National Wrestling association, which organization supervises the wrestling sport in most of the states, and also sections of Canada and Europe.

This will mean that the Inland Empire fans will be able to see such champions recognized as follows: Alvin Britt, junior heavyweight (190 pounds); Leroy McGuirk, light heavyweight would equal, and probably exceed, that (175 pounds); Gus Kalio, middleweight kane. terweight (147 pounds), with the all-
