How Science Can Make Soil ELECTRIFICATION LEGISLATURE DID And Industry More Profitable OF COUNTIES TO NOT AID PEOPLE;

Seldom has any of the great conventions of the Inland Empire, held in Spokane, attracted a more intensive assembly of scientific facts than will feature the Pacific Northwest Farm Chemurgic conference, to be held March 22-23. Visitors from several states and some from Canada will attend.

Industry, already a large user of the products and by-products of the farm and forest, will in the not distant future consume as large a proportion as is used for human consumption, according to skilled engineers and chemists who are increasingly busy in research along this line.

What "Chemurgic" Means.

"Chemurgic" is the term covering their activities, or "chemistry at work for agriculture," and the conference will discuss and report such activities for the benefit of the business men, agriculturists, and civic officials.

L. F. Livingston, one of the most informed men in the country as to chemurgic activities, will be a feature speaker.

He will present facts relating to what a chemically engineered future holds in store for the northwest. Science in Infancy.

Industries based on the chemical conversion of farm and forest products are still in their infancy. Chemists in their laboratories and other scientists working out practical applications of chemical discoveries still have technological difficulties to overcome in making the fullest use of these products. But almost daily some haffling problem is solved, some new way opened for the forward progress of the industrial use of raw materials grown on American soils.

For Using Raw Materials.

Mr. Livingston emphasizes the important point that the raw materials used in these industries are perpetually renewable and capable of adding to the nation's raw materials without impoverishing future generations as we do when we use natural resources.

In future developments, not only will the timber wastes be reduced, but many woods, previously thought to be of little value, will each have an important destiny to fulfill. Chemical and technological research are already overcoming the difficulties presented by their individual characteristics.

Chemistry's Aid to Industry.

Industry, through chemistry, is coming to the aid of agriculture and lumbering. It is beginning to buy up a considerable portion of their surpluses, increase their income and open new opportunities. In the long run, chemists who provide new markets and help the grower to increase the fertility of the land offer a brighter future for agrieulture than programs based solely on restricted production to balance a restricted demand.

BEATS UNION JOKE

DETROIT, Mich.-According to a recent press dispatch, the unionization drive in the automobile industry has spread to the apple vendors.

It started here last week when a corner salesman in front of the Wayne county court building was boycotted by the huge picket line of auto workmen awaiting the Chrysler injunction decision.

Joking pickets almost broke the old vendor's heart when they told him none of the 2000 or more pickets would buy office, he was widely known as an his apples because they were not "union apples."

The day following when the picket lines returned the old vendor did a rushing business.

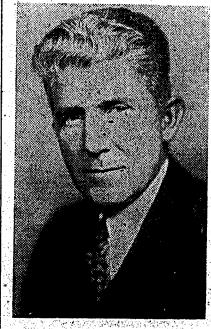

A big sign in front of his stand said, "These apples were grown in Union town, Pa."

HOP GROWERS FEAR BOYCOTT

MOXEE, Wash.-Yakima valley hop growers, fearing a boycott of Washington hops by eastern breweries if Washington places a license restriction on beer importers, wired Governor Martin Saturday asking him to strike sections 23F and 23G from house bill No. 439 before signing it.

The wire was sent after a conference of the Yakima Valley Hop Growers' association had decided the restrictions would react to the detriment of the industry here should the sections be for the annual spring festival dance retained in the bill.

Here, purified by fire, the pig iron will change into steel, and here, in the adjacent mountains, will be produced molybdenum, tungsten, chrome, nickel, manganese, magnesite and other alloys and "sweeteners" used in the various steel mixtures. There will be many prosperous communities along the shores of the lake where the hundreds of well-paid workmen will live.

This is the vision of the dean of iron in the Inland Empire region. In his 30-year-long struggle to establish a steel indutsry in this region he has overcome many handicaps apparently inspired by reactionary forces, seemingly determined to block all efforts to establish a steel industry in the region.

Since Shallenberger came to the west he has seen great areas of virgin timber destroyed and the lumber industry shrink to only a fraction of its early-day volume. Where, in the "Boundary days" there used to be two long passenger trains each way each day on the Spokane Falls & Northern, one train a day of two cars is more than ample to handle the present northward traffic. In Greenwood, Phoenix and Grand Forks there are no smelters in operation and very few small mines operating. The Northport smelter has been abandoned for years.

An iron and steel industry will restore the early-day activity of north Washington and the Boundary country, Shallenberger believes, and the restora-

SUNNYSIDE, Wash .-- Word are ceived last week by the Prosser Commercial club that the Prosser-Paterson road project had been omitted from the proposed state secondary highway program brought dozens of telegrams to lower valley senators asking them to make every effort possible to get the road put back in the state code.

The club was informed that if the route could be put back in the program in the senate, house members would Prosser is also asking for the grading and surfacing of 26 miles of the road between Prosser and Paterson This would give a paved highway from Salt Lake to Seattle via Prosser.

Word from Olympia said improvement of the track grade from Parker to Prosser as a state highway was virtually assured.

TO "POST" BASIN LANDS AGAINST SPECULATORS

WASHINGTON, D. C .- Preliminary to asking further appropriations with which to complete the gigantic Grand consider "necessary measures" to meet fully the president's recent request that congress "assure itself of complete control, over the lands in the Columbia basin" before appropriating further funds. Earlier they received an opinion from Interior Department Solicitor Nathan Margold that very little legislation would be necessary to curb land speculation on the 1,200,000 fertile central Washington acres against

Margold said "experience on some 10 existing projects has shown that under existing law speculative dealings in irrigable land con be controlled contractually through provisions inserted in the repayment contracts."

Turkey hens have begun to lay and sufficient eggs should be available in 10 or 15 days so the incubator can be for hatching turkey poults.

So far, orders for chicks have not ceen as numerous as a year ago. This is attributed to the low price of eggs and the high price of feed.

FAVORABLE POTATO MARKET

YAKIMA.—There are about 500 cars of unsold potatoes in Washington and it is estimated about 2000 cars in Oregan, with indications market conditions will continue favorable from the growers' standpoint during the remainder of the season.

Shipments during the past week were heavier, Washington loading 16 cars and Oregon 98 cars. Idaho's shipping slackened, with 580 cars sent out, it being the fourth consecutive week of loadings averaging less than 100 cars

TONASKET, Wash.—At a largely attended meeting of the Dairy Herd Improvement association, held here Monday evening, there was a great deal of interest and discussion on the new "owners' sampler system."

Under the owners' sampler plan the dairyman weighs his milk, does his own sampling and sends it to the tester at the creamery. The tester tests the sample, makes his computations and sends a copy of his report to the state office of the department of agriculture. With the reports of the tests, he also sends recommendations of the

OLD-FASHIONED KITCHENS MODERNIZED

Every woman would like to have one of the new, scientific kitchens like the now modern homes have, but many of us are not so fortunate. While we look forward to the time when we can have such a work room, we can do a great many things to improve the kitchen we now have.

First of all, have plenty of light, especially over the sink. It will make dishwashing ever so much easier. Next, fix a place to keep your most used implements, such as measuring cup, mixing spoons and seasonings, near where they are to be used. Think of the steps you can save when baking a cake or getting an ordinary meal. A Livable Spot.

Is your kitchen a cozy, livable place or is it dark and gloomy? A room where you spend so much time should have cheerful colors. Washable paint in a color you like is the best for the average kitchen. If your walls are in had condition there is an oilcloth fabric covering which if properly applied prevents further cracking and makes a good-looking wall and it can be washed the same as paint.

Next get a cheerful pattern for your floor linoleum and give it a coat of quick-drying varnish when first laid and whenever it begins to wear off apply another coat—thus making your linoleum last much longer.

Then paint the cupboards, chairs, dining table, refrigerator, etc., in smart colors as the new, up-to-date kitchens. Paint the insides of your cupboards and cabinets red or marine blue and the chairs to match.

Oyster white, pale yellow or apple green are good colors for your walls. For curtains, straight tailored curtains at the National Fashion Accessories of gingham, chintz or calico, pushed to each side of the window will contribute charm and will not interfere with the light. Never use frilly curtains in your kitchen, as they look out of place and need many washings.

Culinary Inspirations For Spring

Springtime-- and with it new culnary inspirations-is just around the corner. When appetites need tempting these recipes will tempt them!

Savoy Pudding. Four egg yolks slightly beaten, 3 ablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 234 cups milk, 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin, lady fingers or strips of cake, I cup sliced cannel apricots, 11/2 cups shredded coconut.

Combine egg yolks, sugar and milk, in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Remove from boiling water; add gelatin and stir until it is dissolved. Turn part into mold, making 1-inch layer, and chill until firm. Chill remaining custard mixture until slightly thickened; then dip lady fingers into part of mixture and line sides of mold. Fill center of mold with alternate layers of apricots, remaining custard, and coconut. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with additional apricot halves and whipped cream. Serves eight.

Daffodil Cake. One cup sifted cake flour, 1 cup ogg whites, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 11/4 cups sifted sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon orange lemon-colored.

They're not mur- from his own thoughts-from the derers; they were part of a mob. They thoughts that Katherine's words had were not motivated by thought, by put into his head. Her voice pursued reason. A mob doesn't think-has no him: "Twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four . . ."

The jury was returning verdicts in-

"Go on! Go on!" sobbed a woman defendant. "I'm guilty! I burned him! I'll pay!"

"Jerome Harris, guilty" . . . "William Hull, guilty" . . . Milton Jackson,

Suddenly, Dowson broke away, sped down the aisle, in the mad hope of escaping, creating an uproar of con-Can't you imagine what Charlie and fusion. Two bailiffs outside the door Tom went through? A great hush fell over the spectators happy. Let me go with you to the as Joe Wilson walked up to the judge's bench. "Your honor, I'm Joseph Wil-

> "I demand that this man be put under arrest!" shouted the district at-

"I'm ready for that," said Joe, "but I've got something to say first. It's no and have some fun. Stop thinking excuse for what I've done. I'm ready about them. Why don't you think about kill, too. I wanted revenge. But now I don't. Now that you're alive, now "I am thinking about you-about that we're together, I want happiness

"I know what I want, and I'm get-

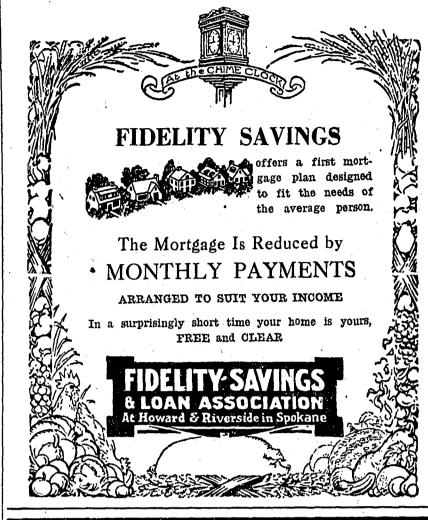

"But, Joe, you're hanging 22 people to pay for that. But it's no excuse for what these people have done to me, either. I came to save them, but not for their sakes. They are a disgrace to humanity. They, who pretend to be humans, showed themselves at the first smell of blood, to be cruel and brainless beasts. . . . No. I don't forgive them. I never will. They didn't lynch my body, but they lynched what mattered to me them. I hate them for it, and hope it tortures their souls for the rest of their lives. . . . I didn't come here either for the sake of three people who love me. I came for myself, because I couldn't live alone and wander like & man without a country. To start over again with my girl and my brothers. I've got to take the responsibility for what I've done, and pay for it, according to the law."

THE END.

Even pears or baked apples take well -my liking people and having faith in to the magical touch of chocolate sauce.

Make More Profits Through Fertilization of Pastures

same cow in the barn is 38 cents a veys made in New York state as reof THE FERTILIZER REVIEW, published by the national fertilizer association. "The saving of 28 cents per cow per day in the case of pasture feeding emphasizes the importance of lengthening the grazing season by producing earlier grazing in the spring and, if possible, later grazing in the fall."

The article continues, "The question is: What is a farmer to do about it if he has no pasture or only a poor one? Will it pay to fertilize and regood pasture?"

The most conclusive answers to these questions are to be found in the results obtained in 80 actual tests, like areas of not less than four acres each, one fertilized and one not fertilized, were compared on the basis of cow-days grazing per acre was doubled by ferti- and buckle the strap. lization. This results showed in more than doubling the milk produced on each acre and also in doubling the receipts per acre above the cost of supplemental feed. The profit on each acre due to fertilizer was found to be $32.36. Few silage or any crops show as large an average profit per acre as the average forme these 80 pastures.

At the Louisiana experiment station it was found that a top-dressing of 400 pounds of complete fertilizer produced a yield of 6,152 pounds of grass-hay per acre, while the yield on unfertilized land was only 3,658 pounds per acre. On 34 pasture experiments in Ohio, complete fertilizers produced an averge yield of 5,835 pounds per acre. The unfertilized areas only 2,494 pounds

Grazing management, soil conservation, and the use of fertilizer are recommended practices in a pasture improvement program. Rotational grazing is advocated for dairy farms. It is recognized that close grazing is essential in some areas to encourage growth of white clover. However, an inch or two of growth is about the limit for closeness of grazing. Undergrazing is undesirable because it allows the growth to become too course and stemmy resulting in poor feed, and it encourages growth of weeds.

In regard to proper use of fertilizer, the article states that phosphoric acid is almost universally the first plant food to become seriously deficient. If fertilization is commenced before exhaustion of fertility has gone too far, superphosphate alone may be a sufficient treatment. However, probably more than half of the permanent pasture area reached and passed the first stage of soil fertility exhaustion more than a generation ago and now has become about equally deficient with respect to organic matter, readily available potash, and nitrogen.

Use of manure or a complete fertilizer is advocated in addition to growing of legumes in the process of bringing a badly exthausted pasture back to high productivity.

In the northeast a minimum of 600 to 800 pounds of normal strength or proportionately less of higher analysis fertilizer per aere of a grade similar to that used in fertilizing potatoes is

In the middle west a fertilizer similar to that used on corn but with somewhat more nitrogen has proved satisfactory.

It is suggested that, in order to get Boasting the largest stock of trusses in the Inland Empire, F. A. Schindler, of the Schindler Artificial Limb company in Spokane, guarantees accurate fit no matter how complicated or difficult the ease may be. This, according to Mr. Schindler, is only possible through being well equipped and knowing how a truss should be shaped.

"If what you need isn't in our stock, we can make it for you in our own factory," says Mr. Schindler.

The Schindler Artificial Limb company saw its beginning more than 23 years ago. Mr. Schindler unfortunately lest a limb while a very young man. While being fitted with an artificial one he became very much interested in relieving others of similar handicaps.

Mr. Schindler's business has developed until it embraces the entire Inland Empire and parts of Canada. He even supplies artificial limbs to members of the army and the navy.
