

Over The County

Deary Press: Spring work has commenced in all parts of the country. The farmers are glad to get to work early for early seeding means a longer growing season, which in turn means a bigger crop. Fall wheat looks fine. Nobody can say how crops will pan out, of course, but you know we never have failures. Its not a question of a crop, but one of how big a crop. And we are a dern site surer of that than we are of what we'll get for it.

Troy News: Troy can boast of two inventors. Albert Olson and Alfred Sandell got their heads together a while back and the result is they have constructed a potato flour mill. Albert took the electric motor off his wife's washing machine and hooked it to the new invention and it is a sight to see the machine grind out potato flour. They expect to start the machine this fall in time to make up all the potatoes raised in this section into flour as they are dug. The machine is on exhibition at the Johnson-Hildahl Company's store.

Star-Mirror: The body of the late Ira Archie Hawley, who was killed in action in France in 1918, reached Moscow, Tuesday evening and the funeral will be held from the Methodist church at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. It will be a full military funeral with Col. Christman in charge and the cadets and all service men will take part. Rev. J. Orrin Gould, student pastor of the University of Idaho will conduct the services. Friends of the family are invited to attend. Interment will be in the Moscow cemetery. Mr. Hawley was a Moscow young man, had grown to manhood here and gave his life for liberty and his tragic fate awakened great interest and sympathy in Moscow and vicinity.

Julietta Record: Mr. and Mrs. George McClintic who have resided at Cottonwood for the past year or so have returned to Julietta and will make their home here again for the present. Mr. McClintic has applied for a patent for what he calls "Stick-Light" glue, which he developed after considerable experimenting. He claims that it is better than any glue on the market today for wood or leather. A pair of half-soles, he says, can be put on with it and it will hold equally as good as tacks. He expects to manufacture it in large quantities later on and may decide to locate the factory in Julietta.

Genesee News: Some considerable excitement was "on tap" last Sunday afternoon when the word was passed around that the Genesee "Bullet" had been wrecked about a mile and a half west of town and a continual stream of excited people made their way on foot, in automobiles and Fords to take a look at the "remains" of our beloved train. Johnny Roberts, ticket-taker, and Fred Lenzi, throttle shover, were both away having a good time and had turned the Bullet over to "strangers" and about the first thing they did was to get rough with it and wreck it. When Johnny came back on the job Tuesday morning he had very large crocodile tears in his face and he could hardly "contain" his pent-up grief at the rough usage the Bullet had had at the hands of the new pilots. At last reports the news had not been broken to Fred for fear it might cause a relapse of his condition.

The wreck was caused by one of the "castors" under the tender breaking, the axle coming in two in the middle and the rest of the train was dragged over it, wrecking all of the trucks, sure enough and tearing some of them entirely loose from the cars. Had the accident happened on a curve the cars surely would have turned over and more serious results might have happened. It could easily have been a very serious affair.

League Play a Success

The entertainment given by the Epworth League at the Grand Theatre last Friday evening was a great success from every standpoint. Ebenezer was embalmed according to the latest methods. The three "dark spots" proved to be H. W. Mort, Fred Flaig and O. E. MacPherson. They carried out their little comedy sketch in a highly entertaining manner.

The play that followed was enjoyed very much and the members of the caste sustained their parts in a most commendable manner.

At the end of the first act it developed that Kester Dammarell was "The Fascinating Fanny Brown." He appeared before the audience in a modern party gown with the short sleeves and everything. His appearance alone brought down the house.

The play consisted of two acts and many amusing situations were developed. John Dammarell who took the part of Percival Gale got Wayne Herres, alias Billy Pearson, into a number of difficult scrapes, but they were all straightened out before the end of the play. Mrs. J. G. Gardner as Mrs. Caldwell had quite a serious time looking after her daughter, Helen, better known to the audience as Audrey Stanton. Beulah Long as Dorothy Dudley, was a flirt and judging by conditions existing before the curtain fell, she was destined to marry Billy Pearson. Edith Dammarell as Florence Howe had an "awful case" on Percival Gale, which ended most happily. Lena Bibb, as Mrs. Moffet, was a very nervous individual whose principal fear seemed to be men and one man in particular, who afterwards developed into Fannie Brown and then ended up as Henry Dudley, a college Sophomore.

The scene of the play was the living room of Percival's summer hotel, Idlewild.

Koepf-Kuykendall

Miss Marie Koepf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Koepf, of Leland, was married to Mr. D. V. Kuykendall at Spokane, Mar. 26, Mrs. Koepf accompanied them to Spokane and witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kuykendall are popular young people of the Leland community.

Friday evening [March 25, a large crowd of friends of the couple gathered at the Koepf home and gave the bride-to-be a shower. She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents. It was a jolly time for everyone present. Best wishes were expressed that the young couple might have a long and happy married life.

were on the train and they were a scared bunch. When the accident happened they all got up in the aisle and tried to pass each other but they were so scared that all they could do was jump up and down. F. S. Casebolt was also on the train on his way to Coeur d'Alene. They all "hoofed" it back to town and took an auto for Moscow.

A Passing Landmark of Old Manila

This is a photograph of the famous old Bridge of Spain, Manila. It is now a departed landmark of the Philippines, for its place has been taken by one of the finest bridges in the entire Orient, the new Jones bridge. The Jones Bridge is named in honor of the late Congressman W. A. Jones of Virginia, author of the Jones law of 1916 which promised the Philippines independence upon the establishment of a stable government. The old Bridge of Spain is called "the mother of Manila's bridges." The original bridge was built of pontoons sometime between the years 1590 and 1600, being known as the Bridge of Bonts. The stone bridge shown above was built about 1630. It was twice damaged by earthquakes, and was once partly demolished by a flood.

Dray Team Over Cliff

Frank Chamberlain had a narrow escape from death last Wednesday morning, when his dray team, which he was driving, backed the wagon over the cliff back of the Hollada residence near the old school house.

Mr. Chamberlain had a heavy load on the wagon and was pulling it out from behind the old barn on the Hollada property. The footing was bad for the horses and after attempting the pull gave it up and started to back. Mr. Chamberlain stayed in the wagon until he saw it was useless to linger longer, so he attempted to jump, but his overalls caught on the wagon and caused him to get a hard fall. One leg and hip were badly bruised and skinned, but otherwise he escaped uninjured.

The horses backed the wagon over the steep, rocky slope landing on top of a machine shed, which they practically demolished, and the wagon came smashing down on top of the horses. Aside from the loss of considerable hair and skin the animals were uninjured and were put to work an hour later. The wagon was badly smashed. It is estimated that the team and the wagon rolled and fell a distance of 200 feet or more, so it was rather astonishing that the accident was not more disastrous.

Highway District Notes

The road from Little Bear ridge to Kendrick, which was badly washed out along the banks of Bear creek, was rebuilt, the job being completed the first of this week. It is still necessary to ford the creek at one point because of the bad condition of one of the bridges. The bridge cannot be repaired until the water is lower.

The commissioners plan to do away with the old wooden bridge which crosses Little Bear creek. They will move the steel bridge from its present location to a point just above the forks of the creek and make the crossing over Bear creek, eliminating the crossing over Little Bear creek. This will necessitate building a quarter of a mile of new road up the creek, but as it does away with one bridge, the commissioners believe it will be the economical and satisfactory way in the end. The cost of moving the bridge and building the quarter mile strip of road is estimated at $700.

The commissioners figure the cost to the district on account of the high water damage to be in the neighborhood of $2,000. However, they still believe they will have sufficient funds available to build the one mile strip of surfaced road from the bridge across the Potlatch at the upper end of town, to the mouth of Wandcheer gulch.

Hamleys Visit Kendrick

Mr. and Mrs. John Hamley and daughter and Mrs. Hampton, all of Pendleton, Oregon, arrived here Wednesday to visit old friends. They drove from their home at Pendleton in their Buick car.

Mr. Hamley used to own the harness and saddle shop here, but sold out about fifteen years ago and opened a shop at Pendleton. While there he developed a remarkable business and has been and is still making the greatest saddles in the world, the wonderful "Pendleton Round Up Saddles" which are known wherever saddles are used. Mr. Hamley's success in developing his business is no doubt due largely to the fact that he has established something better in the line of saddles than anyone else has ever done and has made them after an original pattern which puts them in a class by themselves.

The members of the Hamley family were very much surprised to see how greatly the town had developed during the past fifteen years. Many changes were noted and most of them improvements. Their home was in the house now owned by the E. H. Dammarell family.

Dr. Henkle Lost Appeal

Boise—Dr. C. K. Henkle, practicing physician of Troy, Idaho, who was committed to the northern Idaho sanitarium at Orofino in January as a drug addict by Judge Edgar C. Steele of the second judicial district, was legally committed and must remain in the institution, the supreme court of Idaho decides. And on Thursday of this week the doctor, through his attorney, must show cause before the state committee of medical examiners why his license to practice medicine should not be revoked, for an application for such revocation has been filed by the prosecuting attorney of Latah county in the department of law enforcement.

Millinery Shop Opened

Mrs. M. A. French has announced the opening of her millinery and dressmaking shop today. It will be known as "The French Shop" and is located in the brick building on Main Street across from the Carlson Hardware.

Mrs. French has put in a stock of new hats and is prepared to make others to order or make over old ones. She is a milliner of wide experience and her establishment will be a valuable asset to the town and deserves the loyal patronage of the community.

Dressmaking will also be handled at the French Shop. The building which Mrs. French has rented has been painted and kalsomined and other improvements added. It is a very good location for a millinery and dressmaking shop.

Jubilee Singers Good

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in the Grand Theatre greeted the Garner Jubilee Singers last Monday evening. Every seat in the house, including the gallery, was taken and many had to stand. It was the last number of the lyceum and as expected proved to be the most popular. It takes a troupe of colored entertainers to pull a crowd.

The receipts at the door, exclusive of season tickets, were $116. The lecture, given by Bale some time ago as a feature number of the course, drew one cash admission, or fifty cents. The fifty cents was from a traveling man who had no place else to spend the evening.

The Jubilee Singers gave a splendid musical entertainment. Along their line they are exceptionally good and the audience was well pleased with the program.

A dance was scheduled to take place after the entertainment and it was the understanding that a colored orchestra would furnish the music. When the Garners arrived it was learned that they could not play the instruments. As the dance had been advertised quite extensively, Jack Bechtol, to save the day, took over the dance and got an orchestra from the University of Idaho.

Real Estate Changes

G. F. Walker, local real estate dealer, reports the sale of the Isham Morgan 40 acre farm to Alonzo E. Brown. The ranch is located on the point of Texas ridge. The price paid is reported to be $1500.

After completing this deal Mr. Walker then sold the Wilmot house and 2 acres of ground in Juliaetta to Mr. Morgan, who will make his home there.

Chester Baker a Suicide

Chester Baker, while visiting at the home of Isham Morgan of Texas ridge, shot himself through the head with a 38-40 caliber rifle, Sunday evening at 5 o'clock. The top of his head was blown off by the shot, so that death was instantaneous.

Isham Morgan and Chester Baker attended a dance at the Elwood school house on Texas ridge Saturday night. At the dance Baker had an epileptic fit, being frequently subject to these spells. On the way home from the dance he kept repeating to Mr. Morgan how badly he felt over making a scene at the dance. The following day he had several more of these spells and became very despondent. Mr. Morgan comforted him the best he could and told him not to mind about it that it would be all right. At five o'clock he went out to do the chores, leaving Baker in the house. When he came back he found the young man lying on the floor with a great-er part of his head blown off.

Sheriff Woody and Coroner Grice were notified at once and drove from Moscow that night in a car. On arriving at the scene they soon decided that it was a plain case of suicide and that an inquest was unnecessary.

Baker had written a note to his father, William A. Baker, second-hand dealer of Lewiston, as follows: "Kendrick, Idaho, April 3, 1921.

Dear papa: I will try to write you a few lines to let you know I am alive yet, but think I will leave the world for good, so tell them all good-bye for me. I will leave my money here for you, $12. My clothes are here, too, so good-bye. Chester Baker."

Chester Baker was 32 years old. He was quite well known in this community as his father lived on the old Jack Bailey place until about a year ago, and the young man often visited here. He was not married and is survived by his father and two brothers. The father came up from Lewiston on the morning train, Monday, to make arrangements for the funeral which was held Tuesday on Texas ridge. The body was buried in the Texas ridge cemetery beside that of his mother, who died several years ago. The funeral service was conducted at the grave by J. M. Moore at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Exhibits Ready For Entry

Entries for the second annual Sportsmen's and Tourists' fair at Spokane, April 12-15 close this week. Despite the fact that twice as much space is available this year as in 1920, it seems likely that the congestion will be equally as great incident to increased entries and more comprehensive displays. The fair gives communities desiring tourist business a splendid opportunity to show their attractions and the fact that no charges are made to exhibitors of the public has attracted considerable favorable comment. It is expected that 25,000 persons will attend the fair and that one result will be a vast increase in knowledge of the Inland Empire.

Kendrick is the only Latah county community that has made an entry. The exhibit that will be sent from this community has been made possible through the efforts of S. P. Callison and M. V. Thomas. They have taken a great deal of interest in collecting trophies and other interesting exhibits and now have the show window of the Kendrick Hardware full of interesting specimens.

The display consists of mounted heads of elk, deer, etc., a beautiful cougar hide, stuffed birds, photographs silver cups medals and ribbons won by agricultural and poultry displays in the past, also specimens of corn, beans, wheat, oats, etc.

Mr. Callison has agreed to take a greater part of the exhibit to Spokane in his car. He and Mr. Thomas will stay in Spokane during the Fair and will have charge of the Kendrick display while there.

We heard a man, who is not noted for his boasting qualities, say last week that there were 25 vacant houses in Kendrick. He told this fairy tale to an individual who lives out of town, so the story may travel around some time and injure the town to some extent. The truth of the matter is, there isn't a single vacant house in town that is habitable. There are several shacks, two or three of them under the disapproving eye of the town council, so that they will no doubt be condemned soon unless put in repair. At this writing there is a family badly in need of a house to rent but can't find one.

IMPROVEMENT OF PET STOCK

Officials of Bureau of Animal Industry Puzzled as to Where to Draw Dividing Line

Applications to recognize the improved breeding of such stock as Belgian hares, wild ducks raised in captivity, game birds, and dogs is making it difficult for officials of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, to determine just where the dividing line between farm live stock and other animals, including pet stock, should be drawn in developing the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign. The classes in which particular efforts toward improvement by the use of purebred sires are being directed include cattle, horses, asses, swine, sheep, goats, and poultry.

A supplementary list of pet stock and miscellaneous animals is being kept, and thus far 176 such animals, all bred to purebred sires, have been listed. The predominance of interest, of course, is in the improvement of general farm live stock, of which nearly 400,000 head are now listed with the department.

your cab, sir, and he thought he ought to report anything like that."

"Tell him to undo the check and let it feed itself down again," growled Mr. Randolph.

The light merely flickered in Mr. Randolph's blue eyes, and he returned to his old job of sawing wood. Not for nothing had he made that grandstand flourish, and his object had been gained. A new seriousness, masked in cold-edged, classic poker smiles, settled upon the table as a whole. The idea that they were gathered together merely to while away an idle evening faded into the background, and, one by one, like stars coming out at evening time, supper trays began to make their appearance. All but Randolph, they had been toying with poker; now they began to play it.

That gentleman continued for the nonce the even tenor of his stride except for a Lenten concession to his insides. He ordered placed on a stand at his elbow a large jug of ice water and a platter containing four dozen sandwiches. No added touch could have done more toward persuading his friendly antagonists that he, Randolph, was out for thick blood. If any one of the five had joyed in the knowledge that two slices, thin, of buttered bread embracing a sliver of meat had been named eternally after the earl of Sandwich on just such an epochal occasion as this, he would probably have seen the high sign and beat it for home and bed.

Night was fast joining the discord when the weary Herbert dared to interrupt.

"Please, Mr. Randolph, the officer on the boat says the grass is lifting

The game ended, as do all titanic battles, in absolute silence. Mr. Randolph sorted, stacked, tabulated his winnings, and stuffed them into all the pockets on his person. He then noted the hour—eleven o'clock of a bright Thursday morning—and, proceeding to the nearest telephone booth, called up Mr. William Verries of Verries & Cat, stock brokers.

"That you, William? This is Bob Randolph. William, I've got sixteen thousand dollars in my jeans at the moment of speaking. What's the lowest margin you'll give me to sell Amal. I. S. & C. short for delivery at tomorrow's closing?"

"Sell Amal. I. S. & C. short!" gasped Mr. Verries. "Why, you're crazy! Buy, and I'll talk to you."

"I don't want to buy," said Mr. Randolph patiently. "You're right, in a way, about my being crazy. You see, since you saw me the other day, I've come into some easy long stuff, and it's just ruining my experiment in the philosophy of a moneyless life. I want to lose my way just like I told you, and if you don't promise to start selling for me inside of the next five minutes, I'll let friendship slide and call up some real brokers."

"Well, if you put it in that way, you escaped soon, I'll assist your sap-headed philosophy to your exact cash limit. When will you pony up?"

"In twenty minutes by the clock," said Mr. Randolph cheerfully, and rang off.

The historic pounding drive on Amal. I. S. & C. that started with the opening of the market on the following day was of such Homeric proportions that the advance sale made by Messrs. Verries & Cat on behalf of Mr. R. H. Randolph during the Thursday afternoon next preceding was a mere drop in the bucket of oblivion to the public at large—a mere flea-bite lost in the shuffling of speculations to the monster saurians involved in the combat; but to Mr. Randolph, it was a matter of transcendent importance.

With a feeling of great relief over an order that he had placed with his tailor nine days previously, for complete new afternoon and evening outfits, the successful hunchbustler collected one hundred and thirty-two thousand, thirty-eight and no hundredths dollars, and proceeded to turn in his wagon to the Village Cab company, together with the highest clock reading ever known in the history of Manhattan. He then chartered one of the vehicles for hire of that concern and directed it to carry him to his new clothes.

At ten minutes to four, he emerged from his tailor's, garbed in the very latest thing in slim-line morning coats, a top hat, pearly-striped trousers, spats, a mottled, platinum-handled, snakewood stick, and a gardenia in his buttonhole. Ignoring the wise and friendly-smearing look on the face of the cab driver, who was none other than our old friend of saturnine visage, Patrick O'Reilly by name, fallen on evil times, and re-engaged that very day on Mr. Randolph's recommendation, he gave a certain address in Fifty-ninth street.

Let us now break one of the cardinal rules of narrative for cash by ruthlessly switching the objective point of view. Behold Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton dressed in a ravishing, modestly modern tea-gown effect that would have cost her great-great-grandmother a ducking in the pond off Bleeker street if she had dared to wear it in her day at a fancy-dress ball, pacing up and down Mr. Randolph's recent sitting room and counting off nine on her fingers... for the hundred and eighty-sixth time.

And then, at last, the bell! Tomlinson, his jaw set grimly, advanced upon the door. For an agonizing small moment, Pamela held her breath, and then let it go with a rush as she heard the old valet's sonorous voice tinged, nay, reeking, with the joy of welcome.

"We-won't You Sit Down?"

"Glad to see you back, Master Robert. Miss Thornton will receive you in the sitting room." Followed jingling sounds as Tomlinson disconnected the doorbell.

He was right in surmising that his former employer did not require a guide, but, as it turned out, there was no reason why he should not have witnessed the very proper meeting which took place between the two outwardly, cool young members of society who were inwardly, nevertheless, keeching with more emotions than there are fumes in a lime-kilo.

"Miss Thornton!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph, as, from force of long habit, he laid hat, stick and gloves on a side table and then advanced with a tentatively outstretched hand.

"Oh, how do you do?" asked Pamela, rising and offering her hand. "We-won't you sit down?"

"Thank you; I will." He took the other end of the couch, crossed his legs in an effort to appear thoroughly at home, and gazed almost furtively at the apparition before him. Ye gods and heaps of daffodils! What a vision of loveliness, of charm, grace, breeding, carriage and nurtured beauty! What a bubbling well of mirth; what a source of the light of youth that never falls; what an armful of divine delight!

"Er—I—er—told Mr. Milyuns I'd call," said Mr. Randolph.

"Yes?" eagerly countered Miss Thornton.

"Er—I—said I'd be here at four," supplemented Mr. Randolph.

"Yes; he told me," murmured Miss Thornton, not quite so ardently.

"Er—it's just four now," stated Mr. Randolph.

"So it is," agreed Miss Thornton quite coolly, glancing at the clock and registering surprise—tone quite calm and dignified.

A long silence intervenes. The lady could easily break it, but won't. She has gathered somewhere that silence is often a club. Mr. Randolph aviently shares the intuition; he must say something and does.

"I've been very busy since I saw you last."

INVESTIGATE UNUSUAL NOISE

Excellent Plan for Truck Drivers to Ascertain Cause of All Queer Knocks and Squeaks.

Truck drivers should be taught to investigate any unusual noises immediately they are heard. Neglect or delay may make later investigation useless. For instance, an immediate investigation of a noisy differential, followed by a thorough cleaning and filling with fresh oil, may save the cost of new gears and bearings. And this applies in a hundred other parts of the mechanism.

"ARMENIAN NATION LOOKS TO U. S. FOR SUCCOR FROM DEATH"

Edwin M. Bulkley, Financier and Philanthropist, Defines Near East Relief Work.

New York.—"There is no spot on the globe today where there is more desperate and hopeless suffering than in Armenia," Edwin M. Bulkley, the well-known New York banker, who has just been elected chairman of the board of trustees of Near East Relief, declared today. Mr. Bulkley succeeds the late Alexander J. Hemphill as head of the American relief work in Armenia, Turkey, Palestine, Syria, Mesopotamia and Persia. He has long been connected with the banking house of Spencer Trunk & Co., and is thoroughly conversant with the Near Eastern situation.

"Elsewhere," Mr. Bulkley continued, "there is famine that tears at our heart-strings and evokes our pity and our help. But in Armenia it is not starvation alone that the people face—but starvation coming after six years' destruction, wrought by a war that has never ended and that today is not even ended. It is starvation following pestilence, and stalking hand in hand with death from exposure, from violence or from disease.

"In the mountains between Kars and Alexandropol there are 203,000 human beings without clothing, food or shelter in the bitter winter, who are wandering from place to place like people in a nightmare. Unless they are succored before the end of another month, they will all be dead. In southern Persia, the remnant of the ancient family of Chaldean Christians have been forced to renounce forever all hope of ever returning to the homeland where they have dwelt and flourished for 1,000 years, and to become pitiful fugitives, dependent upon the generosity of strangers for life itself. In Cilicia, 15,000 Armenian refugees have crowded into the coast regions seeking safety from the anarchy which reigns in the interior, in terror for their lives. They live from day to day on the food which is given them in the soup kitchens established by the Near East Relief. Scattered throughout the Near East, there are some 7,700,400 Armenians, the remainder of a nation of 4,000,000, who have neither government, country, homeland, shelter or hope of regeneration, save that which lies in the great heart of America.

"It is a tragedy so stupendous that it is difficult for us to grasp its meaning. A whole nation, a living, Christian people, face to face with extermination today, unless we help. We shall see an entire nation disappear from the face of the earth before our eyes if we withhold our hand now, when the call comes to us to save by giving, or by inaction to condemn to death.

Save the Children!
"Perhaps we cannot save all the grown people of this oldest Christian nation in the world. But at least we can save the little children who hold the future in their hands. They have wronged no one. They have harmed no one. And they have suffered through the precious years of childhood a calvary of agony and wretchedness. For three years the Near East Relief, an American organization, incorporated by Congress, has built up the nucleus of a new generation in the Near East, with the little children that it has taken in from the roadside and barren places, and nursed back to health, fed, clothed, housed and educated, in the name of the American people who have furnished the funds for this great work.

"This has been our signal contribution to the world's future peace—that tens of thousands of these little ones shall all their lives look to us with gratitude and faith. It is a seed of world brotherhood that we have sown. Shall we let it die now?
"The Near East Relief is appealing to the American people for the money to go on with this work—to keep these little ones alive and to save this martyred Christian people. Sixty dollars per year—$10 per month—feeds a child. We have taken this great responsibility upon us. A whole nation looks to us in faith and trust.
"We cannot betray them now."

JUNIOR JUDGING CONTEST HONORS

Missouri Team of Three Boys Captured First in Passing on Dairy Cattle.

ILLINOIS IN SECOND PLACE

Spectators Were Impressed With Businesslike Procedure of Youthful Judges—Two Girls Fortunate in Winning Prizes.

In the second national boys' and girls' dairy-cattle judging contest, in which 15-teams from as many states competed for the junior judging honors, the Missouri team of three boys won first place in judging all breeds of dairy cattle, second place going to Illinois, and third to Texas. A Missouri boy, Arthur Gwinn, made the highest individual score for judging all breeds. Another Missouri boy, Arthur Bennett, was second, and Clarence Doran of Illinois was third.

The awards for the best teamwork in judging different breeds were as follows: Ayrshires, Missouri; Guernseys, Maryland; Holsteins, Illinois; Jerseys, Ohio. The contest was conducted at the National Dairy show by the Boys' and Girls' club section, office of extension work North and West, states' relations service, and the dairy division, bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Spectators Much Impressed.
During the contest spectators were much impressed with the businesslike way in which these youthful stock judges went about their work of judging the eight rings of animals, consisting of a ring of cows and a ring of bulls of each of the following breeds: Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey. It was a big day's work, but well worth the effort, as all the contestants undoubtedly gained a broader knowledge of judging dairy cows through contact with excellent types of cattle, experienced judges, and through other educational features.

Among the 45 contestants were two girls. One of the girls, Helen Greenlee of Ohio, furnished a surprise by taking first place in the judging of Jersey cattle, while Pearl Baker of Michigan won the bronze medal for judging Guernseys.

Contest Far-Reaching in Effect.
The judging work at the dairy show, while a great benefit to these boys and girls who took part in it, was only a small part of the far-reaching contest which, beginning in the local boys' and girls' clubs in many hundreds of communities, progressed to the contests for county supremacy, and then to the state championships, many of which were finally settled at the various state fairs. These state champion teams were the ones sent to compete for national honors at the dairy show.

In the contest last year only six individuals were entered, from as many states, while this year 15 states were represented with teams of three each. These 45 contestants were the guests of the National Dairy association for five days, and were taken by the association on a tour of the packing and machinery plants, and on automobile tours of the city. On the day following the contest they participated in a banquet, where the awards were presented by representatives of the various donors.

Opportunity Week, April 13, 14, 15 and 16

Lewiston's long followed custom of leaving its latch-string hanging out and welcoming in its special way all out-of-town people and strangers is to be celebrated by Opportunity Week on April 13, 14, 15 and 16 and from indications it seems that this is a time that should be reserved by all out-of-town visitors.

This week is to be one of Celebration and good fellowship, in order that we may acquaint ourselves with strangers and neighbors in the entire surrounding country and better acquaint them with the special features of our city. For this week there is now being planned an Elk's Minstrel Show, to be staged April 14th and 15th, and it promises to be one of the biggest events attempted by local talent at any time, having a chorus of forty voices, and the blackface with all that goes with it. During this week there will be a Band Concert every day and Free Moving Picture Shows each afternoon. Special Excursions will be made up the "Lewiston Hill Highway," over one of the world's famous scenic drives, through Lewiston and Clarkston Orchards and through our manufacturing plants, whole sale houses and retail stores. It is planned to serve free doughnuts and coffee from booths on the street at noon times.

The entire city has entered into the spirit of this week and all are willing to co-operate in every way possible to make it everything the name implies, Opportunity Week.

Stocks in all of our stores are to be rearranged and special displays made, and every merchant has promised that this week will find him offering you, the purchaser, actually more than has ever been offered in Lewiston in the way of value in dollars and cents.

Plan to be with us April 13, 14, 15 and 16. Bring the family and feel assured that you will be entertained during Opportunity Week, as you never were before.

If you can't smile, you won't have any fun.

Yours for Opportunities,
The Committee. 14-1f

VELVET BEANS MAKE GOOD GRAZING CROP

Excellent for Cattle and Hogs in Fall and Winter.

Usual Period for Pasturing is About Three Months but This May Be Lengthened or Shortened as Deemed Advisable.

Velvet beans are an important grazing crop for cattle and hogs in the South in autumn and winter, according to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. They are not grazed well by horses or mules, or by any live stock until after they are well matured or frosted. As the leaves, vines and pods decay but slowly when subjected to weather conditions, velvet beans will furnish feed until early spring. It is usually better to let the crop stand until it is well matured, or until it is killed by frost, as the leaves will be off the plants at that time and the corn which has been planted at the same time may be gathered with less difficulty.

The amount of grazing which will be afforded will, of course, vary with the growth of the crop and the quantity of corn not gathered, but it is the custom with many cattlemen to allow one-third to one-half acre a month for each steer or cow. The usual period for pasturing velvet beans is about three months, but this may be shortened or lengthened as deemed advisable. When the period is longer because of large acreage in proportion to the number of cattle there is necessarily some loss of feed through decay.

This is because the full, rich, real tobacco taste lasts so long, you don't need a fresh chew nearly as often.

And a small chew gives more real satisfaction than a big chew of the ordinary kind ever did.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

We Have Committed This Price Murder for Two Reasons

One reason is forced upon us. We need the ready cash, and will not hesitate to slaughter good merchandise, away below cost in some cases, to gain this object.

Our second reason is purely sentimental. The farmer is taking his loss on his last year's products and we are taking this means of showing our appreciation, and in our small way helping share the mutual loss.

You are not too late wonderful bargains in any day during and rest assured of prices lower than you would expect. But don't put off too long, for when we have gained our objective we will be compelled to revert to our regular prices again.
