

Over The County

Troy News: At the last meeting of the Commercial club the regular election of officers took place and G. C. Hoyt was chosen president for the coming term. Other officers elected were Alex Bohman, vice-president; Dr. E. S. Peterson, secretary; Alfred Sandell, treasurer; J. A. Green, Rev. I. N. Hughes, W. M. Duthie, H. M. Driscoll and T. A. Myklebust, executive committee. The club plans to keep up its activities, and has changed the plan of evening meetings for the present to noonday lunches. The first of these was held in the American Legion headquarters on Wednesday noon with a good attendance and considerable important business was cared for.

Juliaetta Record: Louie Ogden was in town today (Thursday) and states that he is now moving to the ranch he rented some time ago in the Peck section. His 12-year-old daughter who suffered an attack of infantile paralysis about two months ago, he thinks, is slowly improving. Although she cannot walk without assistance improvement is noticeable, he says. She is now being treated by Dr. Fite of Lewiston, who thinks the little girl will be able to walk soon.

Genesee News: Work of shaping up the new state road between Genesee and Moscow is in shape for acceptance by the state. All has been completed for the past several days, but there were several places where the road had been pretty badly worn by the heavy trucks hauling gravel for surfacing.

The "missing link" is now in fair condition for all-weather travel and it is now possible to make the entire trip from Moscow to Lewiston on a graveled road and the people of this section of the country are duly appreciative of this fact.

There are those who think good roads are a detriment to a community; that they cause trade to go to other points that rightfully belongs at home. This is perhaps true in a measure, but it is hardly probable that anyone is going to drive to Moscow or Lewiston to trade if they can get the same grade of goods at the same price at home.

Star-Mirror: Deputy State Game Warden L. E. Brooks of this city served warrants on Dr. R. C. Faust, F. P. Mallory, G. R. Lawrence and J. R. Lawrence, of Deary, this county, and H. E. Walker of Joel, charging them with the wanton waste of game animals. The arrests were made in connection with the shooting of Elk on the Lochsa, the hunters having, it is alleged, brought out seven elk heads and but a small quantity of meat. Investigation on the part of the officials a few days later showed that a large quantity of meat had been destroyed in the district where the Latah county men are alleged to have been shooting. The men will appear before Probate Judge Byron of Idaho county, at Grangeville, November 7, for hearing. The penalty provided by law for the wanton destruction of game is $150 to $300 fine, or 30 days to six months in jail or both, at the discretion of the court.

The men involved are all well known Latah county citizens and deny any infringement of the state game laws.

Deary Press: Knight Reid seems to be death on stumps. He has extracted more than 250 of the unsightly beasts this fall on his own place and the Latah Realty Company's property, which he has rented. He uses the wet straw method of burning and gets 'em root and branch. They burn as long as there is any wood left in the ground.

Miss Opal Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davis of the Fairview neighborhood, was taken to Lewiston for a series of osteopathic treatments. Miss Davis suffered an injury to her spine about two years ago. She ran into a low-hanging clothes line and was thrown violently backward. She has been practically an invalid ever since.

Build Roads and Bridges

Tribune: With the sale of $400,000 worth of road and bridge bonds of Nez Perce county by the county commissioners, Tuesday, which money will become available at once, road and bridge work in Nez Perce county will now go on with a swing. Following the opening of the bids for the bond issue the board opened bids for the construction of two bridges across the Clearwater river which, when completed, will open up to the city of Lewiston as well as adjacent places, the trade and travel from one of the richest sections in the northwest, a country that has all this time been hampered in many ways by circuitous routes being necessarily taken in order to reach cities, towns and points of shipping.

The Security Bridge Co. of this city was awarded the contract for both bridges.

The plans and specifications of County Engineer Burns, approved by the board of commissioners, called for the erection of bridges of steel and concrete at Cheerylanes and at Myrtle, the latter at a point called Dead Man's eddy.

The successful bidder will be given 15 days in which to sign the contracts and furnish bonds to the county, and work will start immediately after that period.

The construction of these bridges opens up a vast territory to this city and section. Orofino, Peck, Cavenish, Lenore, Myrtle, Agatha, Gifford and other Clearwater towns, all famous for their agricultural interests, will now be provided with river highways with a roadway width of 18 feet. To both bridges well made roads lead from all directions, but in the past owing to the many insurmountable bluffs and other natural inconveniences, much of the travel has been made twice longer through the necessity of making detours to avoid impassable points. The bridges will remedy this to the fullest extent.

The bridge at Myrtle will consist of one 80 foot span, two of 240 feet each and two of 108 feet each. The total length, including approaches, will be 783 feet.

The Cheerylanes bridge will consist of five spans of 160 feet each, and approaches to the extent of 30 feet.

Nez Perce Bonds Sell

The $400,000 road and bridge bond issue in Nez Perce county was sold Tuesday to the bond firm of Sidlo, Simons, Fels Co., of Denver, Col. The bonds brought $101.27 per $100 and a premium of $5,080 was given on the full amount, together with the accrued interest at 6 per cent since November 1, 1919. The sale of the bonds was ordered by the county commissioners. The issue was authorized by an election held October 7, 1919. The money will be available at once.

Fix Ridge Auto Wreck

The Millard boys of Juliaetta and Julius Giese of Fix ridge had a collision on one of the curves in the Fix ridge grade, Sunday. The Millard boys were driving a Ford and Mr. Giese a Willys-Knight. Both cars were badly damaged and the boys severely cut by broken windshield. They also suffered bruises, but nothing serious.

Ex-Governor Died a Pauper

Norman B. Willey, former governor of the State of Idaho, died at the Shawnee county poor farm several days ago. He was elected lieutenant governor on the republican ticket in 1890. In December of that year Governor Shoup resigned and Mr. Willey became governor of the state. After being out of office for some time his health failed and the state legislature appropriated $50 a month for his maintenance but this appropriation ran out and was not renewed.

Traffic Regulation Needed

Daugherty-Harrison

The marriage of Miss Geraldine Daugherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Daugherty, and Mr. Lyle L. Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Harrison, all of Leland, was solemnized at Spokane Thursday morning of last week. The ceremony took place at the office of the probate judge at 11 o'clock in the presence of Enoch Harrison, T. H. Daugherty and Mrs. Gertrude Gant of Spokane.

The bride and groom are popular young people of the Leland community. They will make their home on the Harrison farm near Leland.

Masons Entertain

Last Monday evening the Masons of Juliaetta, Troy and Kendrick entertained their wives at a Halloween party at the Fraternal Temple. A crowd of approximately one hundred people were present and spent a most enjoyable evening. A picture show, games and dancing furnished amusement for the evening, after which Mr. and Mrs. N. Brocke, assisted by Mrs. John Brocke, served a very nice lunch cafeteria style. Masons and their wives from Juliaetta, Troy, Clarkston, Peck and Kendrick were present.

Linden Items

Miss Myrtle Hammond is attending teachers' institute in Lewiston this week.

Ben Smith and Arley Allen were business visitors in Moscow and Lewiston, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Taylor are moving to Crocker & Wright sawmill at Crescent for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Longfellow and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Longfellow spent Sunday afternoon at the Dick Winegardner home.

Mrs. Lou Alexander and children and Mrs. Sylvia Jenks spent Thursday with Mrs. Clein Israel.

H. A. Taylor, who has been picking fruit near Grandview, Wash., returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bohn spent Sunday at Mr. Whistler's. The Halloween program and pie supper given by the school was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. $36.85 was taken in from the sale of the pies.

John Michael closed a deal Friday in which he sold 80 acres of timber land to Lester Weaver. The price paid was five hundred dollars.

The surprise dance given at Jim Garners was well attended. Everyone reported a good time.

Mrs. Kunes' and Mamie returned to Lewiston Monday after a week's visit with old neighbors on the ridge.

Mrs. Vaughan spent Sunday afternoon at the McPhee home.

Mrs. Francis Stevens and Mrs. Gus Farrington spent Sunday with Mrs. Granvill Wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Garner and Mr. and Mrs. George Garner were Lewiston visitors the first of the week.

John Florance and Harry McKeever arrived Tuesday afternoon from Clarkston to be present at the Masonic party at the Fraternal Temple that evening.

Nez Perce District Court

The fall term of the district court for Nez Perce county will meet at Lewiston Monday, November 7. There are a large number of cases to come before the court, 25 per cent of them being divorce cases. Criminal cases concerning people of this community are as follows:

Fred Choate for possessing intoxicating liquor; Jesse Rich, grand larceny; also Melvin and James West, formerly of this place but now residents of Lewiston, are to be tried for selling intoxicating liquor.

Auto Went Over Grade

Stewart Hefle of Potlatch ridge, while returning with his family from Moscow, Wednesday afternoon, went over the Wilcox grade on the lower point of American ridge. The grade is steep and his brakes got hot. It is thought that he leaned over to make some adjustment of the brakes, when the car ran off the grade, turning over twice. There were four occupants in the car but no one was seriously hurt.

U. of I. Took 74 Prizes

The University of Idaho took 74 prizes for fine stock at the Western Royal Livestock Show held at Spokane last week. Out of this number there were 5 grandchampionships, 12 championships, 31 first places, 17 seconds, 6 thirds and 3 fourths. University entries consisted of Herefords, Holsteins, fat steers and sheep.

Fish Fell From Skies

It rained fish here Friday morning. At least a big squaw fish fell from the sky and splashed in the mud of Main Street. The force of its fall was sufficient to cause one of its eyes to pop out, which would lead one to believe that it dropped several million miles or more. Probably took a high dive from Mars thinking that Main street in Kendrick would be nice, slippery, oozy place to spend the winter. Some advanced the theory that the fish was dropped by a hawk, but that's a tame supposition.

Killed Two Elk

The Linden hunting party consisting of Clem Israel, Francis Stevens Abe Dorendorf Gus and Jim Farrington returned from the Pot Mountain country this week with two elk. They said game was scarce in that section and that many hunters who went out failed to get even a deer.

Westover Leased Land

W. J. Westover, who owns a place in Bear Creek canyon near Clydes Spur, rented his ranch to a man by the name of Muller from Culdesac. Mrs. Westover's health is not good so a change was desired. The Westovers will either locate in Kendrick or will go to Lewiston or Clarkston to spend the winter. Their plans are still indefinite.

Girl Killed Coyote

Miss Ada Bean of Big Bear ridge, killed a full grown coyote with a clut Thursday morning of last week. The animal had been chased by the hounds until it was practically exhausted. It was sitting on its haunches not far from the house when first seen. As the men were all in the field working, Miss Ada told her younger sister to run to the house for a gun. She returned with a shotgun, but was told to go back and get a rifle. The second gun brought was an old style army gun. This weapon wasn't suitable either and the younger girl was told to bring the 22. caliber rifle. Her older sister, however, was becoming impatient by the delay, so picked up a club, walked up to the coyote and knocked it in the head.

K. H. S. Defeats Troy

The first basket ball game of the season was played at the high school gymnasium here last Friday evening, between Troy high school and the local high school team. Considering the limited time in which both teams have had to practice, it was a very good game. Troy boys outweighed the Kendrick team considerably but were not as fast and were unable to keep the ball in their territory.

At the end of the first half the score was close but when the whistle blew for the end of the game Kendrick had 27 to Troy's 18.

Kendrick high school has the lightest team in its history but the boys are all fast and give promise of making a splendid team.

The lineup for the locals was Claud Stanton and Egnaz Flag, forwards; Edgar Dammarell and Harley Perryman, guards; Wayne Herres, center.

Clarence Perryman refereed the first half and Prof. Carlisle the second half.

Leland Items

The Epworth League met Friday evening with Mrs. Hall. There were thirty present. After the business session games were played until 10 p. m. when light refreshments were served after which the young folks departed for their respective homes.

Mrs. DeWinter fell from a chair on which she was standing to fix a stove pipe, Monday, and broke her arm at the wrist. Mr. DeWinter took her to Lewiston Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hoffman are spending a few days in Spokane and Cheney.

We are informed that grandma Hartinger has bought property in Kendrick and will move to it shortly.

Wm. Bleck had the misfortune of having a horse on which he was riding, fall with him. His foot was caught and badly bruised, causing him to have to go on crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. Denzie Kuykendahl are moving into the Welker property on main street. Every dwelling in our little town is now occupied.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Craig were at Lewiston from Saturday to Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodward celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary, Tuesday, by entertaining at a dinner (under which the table fairly groaned because of its burden of good things.) Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames R. M. Smith, R. W. Smith, J. A. Hall; Mrs. A. H. Smith, Miss Edyth Locke, Miss Lelia Webster and Harry Chandler all of Leland, Mrs. Clyde McGhee of Gifford and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ward of Lewiston. Including the children there were thirty-three present. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward were the recipients of a number of nice and useful presents.

Mrs. J. A. Hall went to Oakesdale Friday to visit old friends for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bigham have moved from their ranch near Troy to the old R. F. Bigham place, now owned by Warney May. Bob has rented 60 acres from Warney which he will put in beans next spring. He has his Troy farm all seeded so will spend a greater part of his time on American ridge.

Town Council Meets

Last Tuesday evening the regular monthly meeting of the town council was held in the city hall. The usual routine business was transacted. Under the head of old business the matter of the condemned buildings on the old Sterling property was brought up. Emulus Brown, who recently purchased the property, appeared before the board and asked for an extension of time for tearing down the buildings. He was granted 30 days to tear down the house, all but the two front rooms, which he will be allowed to keep to live in until May 1, 1922. The barn will also be allowed to remain standing until May 1, by which time Mr. Brown has promised to have it torn down.

G. F. Walker appeared before the board with a communication from the Northwest Insurance Association, which stated that the Lou Daugherty house on Lot 10, Block 5, located near the Kendrick Rochdale warehouse, was too much of a hazard and the company asked that it be eliminated. The matter was referred to the Fire and Building committee.

The curfew question was brought up and the Board gave Marshal Housley instruction to rigidly enforce this ordinance.

Marshal Housley was also instructed to put in cinder cross walks at several points in the lower end of town.

The matter of grading a section of the street at the corner of the Charles Riggle property was discussed and referred to the Street and Alley committee. The committee has already outlined plans for this grading, which will be started in the near future.

Nothing further being brought up before the Board, the meeting adjourned.

News Notes of Interest

First prize of $50 for the best gilt in the Armour boys' and girls' pig club contest at the Western Royal Livestock show at Spokane, was won by Wesley Calkins of Lapwai, Idaho, who was also the winner of the prize trip to the Chicago International fair in the spring. Wayne Beaver of the same town won second in the contest.

Nearly $1,000,000 has been invested in home construction in the first 10 months of this year in Spokane. Permits have been issued for 376 new houses, costing $967,655, as compared with 130 new houses in the same period last year, valued at $442,750. The present year has been the most active in home building in the last 9 or 10 years.

An orchestra playing at Los Angeles theatre was heard plainly at Walla Walla recently. Fay Coit, who has a wireless outfit, entertained his friends with the music, the strains being easily heard across the room.

The steamer Lewiston, with Captain John E. Akins in charge, has resumed operations on the Snake river, after having laid up in the Lewiston dock since last June, owing to low water. It is estimated that five months will be required to move the grain from the warehouse along the river to terminal points. Approximately 500,000 sacks of grain are now in storage at Asotin and lower river points. The first boatload was brought recently from Asotin and loaded on cars at Lewiston.

With the closing of Highbridge tourist camp at Spokane, this week the total number of cars registered for the season was 9928.

Emulus Brown purchased the James Sterling property in Kendrick last week. There are a number of fine lots in this property which can be made valuable. Mr. Brown expects to tear down the old house and barn and rebuild them.

J. T. Schmitt, a former Potlatch-er, who has been working at Clarkston for several months, is now employed on a farm near Anatone, Wash.

There is only one way that good grades can ever be built from the various ridges to Kendrick. The people, living on each ridge will have to get their heads together and decide on one main road that will best serve the interests of the majority. The idea of having two or three good grades from each ridge is out of the question, as the cost of building and the upkeep expense would be prohibitive. American ridge is keeping up four grades, or rather, endeavoring to keep them up. One grade could easily be made to serve the entire ridge if it were built down Brady gulch or along the side of the gulch. Bear ridge could get a splendid grade in either of two different places, and with good laterals leading from the various sections of the ridge to the head of the grade, a practical road system could be built. Southwick, Leland and Cameron could be served by one grade in Wandcheer gulch, with a lateral from Leland intersecting the grade a third or half way down. It will take co-operation to build roads in this community.

Either the kids of Kendrick were in a particularly angelic frame of mind Halloween, or Marshall Housley "had their goat". There was practically nothing done to indicate any celebration of the eve of All Saints' Day.

Cameron News

The Halloween party at the parsonage was well attended. The prizes were carried off by Marvin Long, dressed as a clown and Herman Ehlers, as a girl. The married people were also given prizes which were awarded to Mrs. Henry Brammer and Mrs. Aug. O. Wegner. Some of the games were bobbing for apples, and having apples and marshmallows tied to a string and hung from the ceiling. At 10:30 the young folks gathered around the bonfire and toasted venies and marshmallows. Some of the other eats were: buns, doughnuts and pickles. Everybody enjoyed a good time.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

Whereas; It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Alex Galloway.

Resolved; That as members of Kendrick Lodge No. 37, I. O. O. F. Kendrick, Idaho, in yielding to the events which we cannot control, with an undying faith in the goodness, and justice of the Great Father of all, believing that all things work together for good to those that love and serve him.

Resolved; That by the death of Brother Galloway this lodge has lost a loyal and faithful member, and the family a devoted husband and father, and we extend to them our deepest sympathies, and while they mourn the loss of a loving husband and devoted father, we mourn the loss of a faithful friend and brother.

Be it further resolved; That our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, a copy be furnished the wife and a copy be published in the Kendrick Gazette.

Thus, McDowell
Chas. Chandler,
Hugh Stanton, Committee.

MINERAL MIXTURE FOR HOGS

Animals Crave Something in Addition to Feeds Given Them to Meet Growth Requirements.

Hogs need certain minerals to meet their growth requirements. One such mixture that has proved satisfactory is composed of: Charcoal, 50 pounds; wood ashes, 50; epsom salts, 3 pounds. Partly burned corn cobs and soft coal are good. It is well to keep a mineral mixture before the hogs all the time.

FEEDING CATTLE FOR PROFIT

Market Requirements for Beef Are Much Higher Than in Former Years—Skill Needed.

The feeding of beef cattle for the market has become a special line of work, which requires a high grade of skill through understanding of the feeding values of different materials used in the production of beef, as well as an appreciation of the requirements of animal nutrition and shrewd business ability. Without these prerequisites the feeder is doomed to receive very small returns for his labor. The market requirements for beef at present are much higher than in former years. It is necessary, therefore, in order to obtain prices which will pay the feeder for his time and outlay, to produce a herd of cattle as nearly uniform as possible in appearance and quality, with a high market finish and symmetrical development, particularly in those parts which yield high-priced cuts in which the profits lie for the butcher.

ARRANGE WALLOWS FOR HOGS

Water Must Be Supplied Not Only for Drinking but for Animals to Cool Bodies.

Hogs in pasture where there is no water are likely to suffer, not only for drinking water, but for water in which to cool their bodies. Stops are not sufficient. The hogs should have water in their troughs and in the wallow to cool themselves when the burning rays of the sun makes their lives a torture.

Hogs have a way of ridding themselves of troublesome parasites when they have a muddy wallow. Nature, it seems, helps them to survive as the fittest when there is a struggle for existence with parasites.

Hogs that must be penned should have shade and plenty of water. It is hard enough to be kept in pen without a struggle with heat and thirst. Give them shade and water.

PLAN TO PREVENT INFECTION

Newly Purchased Animals Should Be Quarantined in Separate Pens for Two Weeks.

Do not place newly purchased stock, stock procured or borrowed for breeding purposes, or stock exhibited at fairs immediately with your herd. Keep such stock quarantined in separate pens for at least two weeks, and use care in feeding and attending stock to prevent carrying infection from these to other pens.

BOAR HAS GREAT INFLUENCE

Breeding Animal Should Be Placed in Good-Sized Yard and Away From Rest of Herd.

How about the herd boar? Get him out in a good-sized yard, away from the rest of the herd. Remember he is half of the breeding power of the herd, and that his influence on the profits for the year amounts to more than that of any one sow.

STRONG APPEAL MADE FOR HEALTHY CATTLE

Poster Used in Tuberculosis Eradication Campaign.

Careful Experiments Have Demonstrated That Disease Cannot Be Detected to Any Great Extent by Physical Examinations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Unlike most other infectious diseases, tuberculosis has an insidious way of working under cover, and oftentimes animals of the most healthy appearance are found to react to the tuberculin test, say veterinarians of the United States Department of Agriculture. No cattle owner can afford to live in doubt as to whether his animals are affected, they add. This point is brought out clearly in a two-colored poster published by the department, on which is shown two herds of dairy cattle. From all appearances the animals of both herds are healthy, but as a matter of fact those of one herd are afflicted with tuberculosis.

The poster also shows two children—one healthy, one diseased—and the point is brought out that tuberculosis animals may transmit the disease to children who drink the milk produced. The poster is a strong appeal for healthy cattle, and it is to be used extensively in the tuberculosis eradication campaign being carried on by the department.

Careful experiments in practical work have shown that tuberculosis cannot be detected to any great extent among animals by physical examinations. The most reliable method is the tuberculin test applied by a trained operator. Tuberculin, while regarded as the most accurate diagnostic agency known to science, is safe only in the hands of a trained and skillful operator who is acquainted with its limitations and with the symptoms it produces in the animals to which it is applied, the department veterinarians say.

MANURE SHOWS GREAT VALUE

Where Applied to Clover Fields It Increased Yield Threefold—Phosphorus Helps.

Due to the cool weather of the spring and the freeze which occurred early in the season, the Iowa agricultural experiment station has had an opportunity to show the value of common barnyard manure on clover. It has been found that where manure was added to the fields only once in the rotation the stand has been increased three times over the plots where no manure was used. Eight tons per acre were added to the manured plots and here the leaf surface and root development are heavier and better. Where phosphorus was added at the same time as manure, plants are even more vigorous and have a greater height.

CARE FOR LATE VEGETABLES

To Store Late Products Nothing More Is Required Than Use of Existing Facilities.

The storing of late vegetables is often profitable for those who grow them in sufficient quantities for marketing, giving the grower the direct benefit of the winter price. To care for the surplus vegetables in many cases requires nothing more than the use of existing facilities in the form of a storage room in the basement of a dwelling or under an outbuilding or to build an outdoor cellar of wood or masonry. If permanent facilities are not available, late root crops can be kept in outdoor pits or banks, requiring no cash outlay except for labor.

SHEEP GOOD AS SCAVENGERS

Feed and Care Are Essential to Develop Flock for Mutton—Animals Keep Down Weeds.

Sheep possess great ability to renovate the soil, keep down all kinds of feed that would otherwise often be weeds and to consume odds and ends totally wasted, but the man who undertakes to develop a really profitable flock of mutton sheep must get away, as far as possible, from the idea that they are kept because of their ability as scavengers. He must like his sheep and plan to give them the most painstaking care and the best food that his arm affords. Unless he does this he is likely to have trouble.

PICK FEATHERS FROM GEESE

Many Breeders Follow Practice Some Time Prior to Molting When Quills Are Dry.

Many breeders of geese in the South, and some in the Middle West and the North pluck the feathers from the live geese at some time prior to molting. Some pick every six weeks during the summer, and early in the fall, while others pick only once or twice a year, either in the spring, or in both spring and fall. Feathers are considered ripe for picking when the quills are dry and do not contain blood. Both young and old geese are plucked. The average yearly production of feathers is about 1.1 pounds to the goose.

The practice of plucking live geese, however, is considered by many breeders to be cruel and injurious. Geese should not be plucked during the breeding season. A stocking usually is placed over the head of the goose, and part of the soft feathers on the breast, back and sides and abdomen are pulled. Enough soft feathers to support the wings always should be left. Geese feathers are now bringing about 75 cents a pound for pure white; 65 cents for average white; and 55 cents for gray. These prices are for good, dry feathers.

COWS FRESHENING IN FALL

It Means Maximum Production When Prices for Dairy Products Are at High Level.

Milk cows bred to freshen in the fall mean maximum production when butter, butterfat and milk prices are better than they are in the summer. It also transfers the big job of milking, handling the milk, and caring for the calves to a time when the farmer is least busy. Help is easier to obtain during the fall and winter and more time is available to devote to cows. Cows freshening in the fall can be fed grain and made to produce better than they do in summer.

DAIRY FACTS

TESTING INCREASES INCOME

California Association Is One of Oldest to Continue in Successful Operation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The Ferndale Cow-Testing association in Humboldt county, California, is the largest cow-testing association in the United States. In the organization 103 members, owning from 2 to 150 cows, finished the work last year, and the association tested 4,546 cows, according to a report compiled by the western office of the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture.

Not only is this the largest cow-testing association, but it is one of the oldest to continue in successful operation. It was started 12 years ago, and now has a successful breeder as its secretary and manager.

The history of this association gives ample evidence of the value of cow-testing associations in developing the dairy industry. The report shows that 4,014 cows finished the year's work with an average lactation period of nine and one-half months and with an average butterfat production of 834.03 pounds per cow. There are but few associations, dairy specialists of the department say, that equal this average production, and none that can approach it in number of cows and height of production.

Seventeen herds in the association averaged from 400 to 495.76 pounds of butterfat per cow; 19 averaged from 350 to 400 pounds; 38 averaged from 300 to 350 pounds; 23 averaged from 250 to 300 pounds, and 6 averaged from 213 to 250 pounds. It is interesting to note that the six low herds had been on test for the first time and the owners had not had a chance to cull out and breed up their stock.

The high cow of the association produced 728.95 pounds of fat; 17 cows in the association produced over 600 pounds of fat; 98 over 500 pounds; 628

To Remove Paint From Cloth. To remove paint from cloth, lay a pad of blotting paper on the side of the material on which the paint fell, and rub the other side gently with a soft piece of flannel dipped in chloroform or benzol, both of which are paint solvents, as the paint dissolves it naturally passes into the most absorbent material in contact with it—which is the blotting paper—not into the adjacent cloth. Deep stains can be completely removed by this method.

GUARD AGAINST HOG CHOLERA

Dread Disease Most Likely to Appear in Herds During Months of October and November.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

October and November are the months when the dread disease, hog cholera, is most likely to appear. During those months and until snow covers the ground swine raisers are urged by the United States Department of Agriculture to be especially observing when feeding hogs in the morning. Any animals in the herd which fall to come to their feed, and particularly those having arched backs and rough coats, should be removed promptly from the rest of the herd.

In some cases hogs sick with cholera die within a few days; in others the disease may assume a chronic form and linger for several weeks. If cholera is suspected swine growers should immediately call a competent veterinarian to make a proper diagnosis and to apply the preventive serum treatment if they are found to be affected with cholera. A post-mortem examination of swine that have died from cholera generally will show one or more of the following symptoms: Purple blotches on the skin; blood-colored spots on the surfaces of the lungs and heart, on the kidneys, and on both the outer surface and inner linings of the intestines, stomach, and bladder; reddening of lymphatic glands; enlargement of the spleen, in acute cases; an ulceration of the inner lining of the large intestine.

In the lingering or chronic cases of hog cholera it is usual to find intestinal button-like ulcers on the intestines.

Take Note of the Beautiful. Love of the beautiful is a good source of happiness. It is, therefore, well to have a keen perception of beauty and to take an interest in everything that is good and beautiful.

SALT OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Required by All Animals and Cow Should Be Given an Ounce or Two Every Day.

Salt is required by all animals. The dairy cow requires an ounce or more a day. She should be given all she needs, but should not be forced to take more than she wants. It is best, therefore, to give only a small quantity on the feed, and to place rock salt in boxes in the yard where she can lick it at will.

ONE ADVANTAGE OF DAIRYING

After Farmer Has Fed All His Crops and Sold His Produce He Still Has Machinery.

One of the great advantages of dairying over steer feeding is that after a farmer has fed all his crops and sold his produce he still has the machinery left for producing more of the same kind, while when the steer is sold a new animal or machine must be purchased.

COWS FRESHENING IN FALL

Largest Milk Production Will Come When Prices Are Highest and Labor Cheapest.

The cows that freshen in the fall will produce more milk during the year than those that freshen in the spring, and the largest milk production will come when the prices for milk and butterfat are the highest and labor the cheapest.

Off Summer Pastures

As your animals come in off the pastures they'll miss the tonics and laxatives which nature supplied to keep them in condition. It's a big change. You must supply what is lacking in the dry feed—hay, grain and fodder—or they will get "off feed" and out of fix.

CHAPTER III.—Dolores Ruey, the young woman Webster befriended, and who has made a deep impression on him, as he has on her, is also on the way to Sobrante.

CHAPTER IV.—At Buenaventura, captain of Sobrante, Billy Geary, ill and penniless, is living on the charity of "Mother Jenks," keeper of a dramshop. She receives a cablegram from Dolores, telling of her coming.

"Well," Billy countered thoughtfully, "apparently there's no way of heading her off before she takes the steamer at New Orleans, so we'll take it for granted she'll arrive here in due course. About the time she's due, suppose you run up to San Miguel de Padua for a couple of weeks and leave me to run El Buen Amigo in your absence. I'll play fair with you, Mother, so help me. I'll account for every centavo. I'll borrow some decent clothes from Leber the day the steamer gets in; then I'll go aboard and look over the passenger list, and if she's aboard, I'll tell her you closed your house and started for California to visit her on the last north-bound steamer—that her cablegram arrived just after you had started; that the cable company, knowing I am a friend of yours, showed me the message and that I took it upon myself to call and explain that as a result of your departure for the United States it will be useless for her to land—useless and dangerous, because cholera is raging in Buenaventura, although the port authorities deny it—"

"Willie," Mother Jenks interrupted impressively, a ghost of her old debonaire spirit shining through her tears, "yer don't owe me a bloomin' sixpence! Yer've sved the day, sved my reputation, an' sved a lady's peace o' mind. Kiss me, yer precious byby."

So Billy kissed her—gravely and with filial reverence, for he had long suspected Mother Jenks of being a pearl cast before swine, and now he was certain of it.

"I'll send her back to the United States and promise to cable you to await her there," Billy continued. "Of course, we can't help it if you and the cablegram miss connections, and once the young lady is back in the United States, I dare say she'll have to stay there a couple of years before she can save the price of another sea voyage. And in the meantime she may amrry—"

"Or that hanerism may 'ave turned the trick before that," Mother Jenks suggested candidly but joyously. "In course she'll be disappointed, but then disappointment never lays 'eavy on a young 'art, Willie; an' bein' disappointed at not seein' a person you ain't really acquainted with ain't as bad as some disappointments."

"I guess I know," Billy Geary replied bitterly. "If that cablegram had only been for me! Mother, if my old partner could, by some miracle, manage to marry this Dolores girl, your arteries and your aneurisms might bust and be damned, but the girl would be safe."

"Mybe," Mother Jenks suggested hopefully, "yer might fix it up for her when I'm gone. From all haccoun'ts 'e's no-end a gentleman."

"He's a he-man," Mr. Geary declared with conviction. He sighed. "John Stuart Webster, wherever you are, please write or cable," he murmured.

CHAPTER VI.

The ancient bromide to the effect that man proposes but God disposes was never better exemplified than in the case of John Stuart Webster, who, having formulated certain daring plans for the morrow and surrendered himself to grateful slumber in his stateroom aboard the Gulf States Limited, awoke on that momentous morn to a distinct apprehension that all was not as it should be with him. His mouth reminded him vaguely of a bird-and-animal store, and riot and insurrection had broken out in the geometric center of his internal economy.

Webster was sufficient of a jack-leg doctor to suspect he was developing a splendid little case of ptomaine poisoning. He decided to go into executive session with the sleeping-car conductor, who wired ahead for a doctor to meet the train at the next station. And when the sawbones came and pawed Jack Webster over, he gravely announced that if the patient had the slightest ambition to vote at the next presidential election, he should leave the train at St. Louis and enter a hospital forthwith. To this heart-breaking program Webster entered not the slightest objection, for when a man is seriously ill, he is in much the same position as a politician—no-vit: He is in the hands of his friends.

However, life had the habit of going hard with Webster so frequently that fortunately he was trained to the minute, and after three days of heroic battling the doctor awarded Jack the decision. Thereafter they kept him in the hospital ten days longer, "feeding him up" as the patient expressed it—at the end of which period Webster, some fifteen pounds lighter and not quite so fast on his feet as formerly, resumed his journey toward New Orleans.

In the meantime, however, several things had happened. To begin, Dolores Ruey spent two days wondering what had become of her quondam knight of the whiskers—at the end of which period she arrived in New Orleans with the conviction strong upon her that while her hero might be as courageous as a wounded lion when dealing with men, he was the possessor, when dealing with women, of about two per cent less courage than a cottontail rabbit. Being a very human young lady, however, she could not help wondering what had become of the ubiquitous Mr. Webster, although the fact that he had mysteriously disappeared from the train en route to New Orleans did not perturb her one-half so much as it had the appearance. She had this advantage over that unfortunate man. Whereas he did not know she was bound for Buenaventura, she knew he was; hence, upon arrival in New Orleans she dismissed him from her thoughts, serene in abiding faith that sooner or later her knight would appear, like little Bo-Peep's lost sheep, dragging his tail behind him, so to speak.

Dolores spent a week in New Orleans renewing schoolgirl friendships from her convent days in the quaint old town. This stop-over, together with the one in Denver, not having been taken into consideration by Mr. William Geary when he and Mother Jenks commenced to speculate upon the approximate date of her arrival in Buenaventura, resulted in the premature flight of Mother Jenks to San Miguel de Padua, a fruitless visit on the part of Billy aboard the Caclique, of the United Fruit company's line, followed by a hurry call to Mother Jenks to return to Buenaventura until the arrival of the next steamer.

This time Billy's calculations proved correct, for Dolores did arrive on that steamer. The port doctor came aboard, partook of his customary drink with the captain, received a bundle of the latest American newspapers and magazines, nosed around, asked a few perfunctory questions, and gave the vessel pratique.

Dolores observed a gasoline launch shoot up to the landing at the foot of the companion-ladder and discharge a well-dressed, youthful white man. As he came up the companion, the purser recognized him.

"Howdy, Bill," he called. "Hello, yourself." Mr. William Geary replied, and Dolores knew him for an American. "Do you happen to have as a passenger this trip a large, interesting person, by name John Stuart Webster?" added Billy Geary.

"I don't know, Billy. I'll look over the passenger list," and together they moved off toward his office. Dolores followed, drawn by the mention of that magic name Webster, and paused in front of the purser's office to lean over the rail, ostensibly to watch the cargadores in their lighters clustering around the great ship, but in reality to learn more of the mysterious Webster.

"Blast the luck," Billy Geary growled, "the old sinner isn't here. By the way, do you happen to have a Miss Dolores Ruey aboard?"

Dolores pricked up her little ears. What possible interest could this stranger have in her goings or comings?

"You picked a winner this time, Bill," she heard the purser say. "Stateroom sixteen, boat-deck, starboard side. You'll probably find her there, packing to go ashore."

"Thanks," Billy replied and stepped out of the purser's office. Dolores turned and faced him.

"I am Miss Ruey," she announced. "I heard you asking for me." Her eyes carried the query she had not put into words: "Who are you, and what do you want?" Billy saw and understood, and on the instant a wave of desolation surged over him.

So (this was the vision he had volunteered to meet aboard La Estrellita, and by specious lie and hypocritical mien, turn her back from the portals of Buenaventura to that dear old United States, which, Billy suddenly recalled with poignant pain, is a sizable country in which a young lady may very readily be lost forever. With the quick eye of youth, he noted that Dolores was perfectly wonderful in a white flannel skirt and jacket, white muck boots, white panama hat with a gorgeous puggaree, a mannish little linen collar, and a red four-in-hand tie. From under that white hat peeped a profusion of crinkly brown hair with a slightly reddish tinge to it; her eyes were big and brown and wide apart, with golden flecks in them; their glance met Billy's hungry gaze simply, directly, and with a curiosity there was no attempt to hide. Her nose was patrician; her beautiful short upper lip revealed the tips of two perfect, milk-white front teeth: she was, Billy Geary told himself, a goddess before whom all low, worthless, ornery fellows like himself should grovel and die happy, if perchance she might be so minded as to walk on their faces! He was aroused from his critical inventory when the hour spoke again: "You haven't answered my question, sir!"

"No," said Billy. "I didn't. Stupid of me, too. However, come to think of it, you didn't ask me any question. You looked it. My name is Geary—William H. Geary, by profession a mining engineer and by nature an ignoramus, and I have called to deliver some disappointing news regarding Henrietta Wilkins."

"Is she—"
"She is. Very much alive and in excellent health—or rather was, the last time it was my pleasure and privilege to call on the dear lady. But she isn't in Buenaventura now." Mentally Billy asked God to forgive him his black-hearted treachery to this winsome girl. He loathed the task he had planned and foisted upon himself, and nothing but the memory of Mother Jenks'

"You Haven't Answered My Question."

manifold kindnesses to him in a day, thanks to Jack Webster, now happily behind him, could have induced him to go through to the finish.

"Why, where is she?" Dolores queried, and Billy could have wept at the sight in those lovely brown eyes.

He waved his hand airily. "Quiet sake?" he said. "She left three weeks ago for New Orleans to visit you. I dare say you passed each other on the road—here, here, Miss Ruey, don't cry."

He took a recess of three minutes, while Dolores dabbed her eyes and went through sundry other motions of being brave. Then he proceeded with his nefarious recital.

"When your cablegram arrived, Miss Ruey, naturally Mrs. Wilkins was not here to receive it, and as I was the only person who had her address, the cable agent referred it to me. Under the circumstances, not knowing where I could reach you with a cable informing you that Mrs. Wilkins was headed for California to see you, I had no other alternative but to let matters take their course. I decided you might arrive on La Estrellita, so I called to welcome you to our thriving little city, and, as a friend of about two minutes' standing, to warn you away from it."

Billy's mien, as he voiced this warning, was so singularly mysterious that Dolores' curiosity was aroused instantly and rose superior to her grief. "Why, what's the matter?" she demanded.

Billy looked around, as if fearful of being overheard. He lowered his voice. "We're going to have one grand little first-class revolution," he replied. "It's due to bust almost any night now, and when it does, the streets of San Buenaventura will run red with blood."

Dolores blanched. "Oh, dearie me," she quavered. "Do they still have revolutions here? You know, Mr. Geary, my poor father was killed in one."

"Yes, and the same old political gang that shot him is still on deck," Billy warned her. "It would be highly dangerous for a Ruey, man or woman, to show his or her nose around Buenaventura about now. Besides, Miss Ruey, that isn't the worst," he continued, for a whole-hearted lad was Billy, who never did anything by halves. "The city is reeking with cholera," he declared.

"Cholera!" Dolores' big brown eyes grew bigger with wonder and concern. "How strange the port authorities didn't warn us at New Orleans!"

"Tish! Tush! Fiddlesticks and then some. The fruit company censors everything, Miss Ruey, and the news doesn't get out."

"But the port doctor just said the passengers could go ashore."

How Better Than Pills

The question has been asked. In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.—Adv.

The Number of Hairs.
Data gathered in this relation show that fair-haired persons possess, commonly, between 140,000 and 160,000 hairs on the scalp, the number being about the same for man and woman. Dark-haired persons have on an average, about 105,000, while red-haired persons are said to have only 30,000 hairs. But the latter apparently possess one great advantage in the fact that they retain their hair better, seldom becoming bald. Their hair is much coarser than that of dark or fair-haired persons.

TURKEYS FOR THANKSGIVING

Six Weeks in November and December Constitute Duration of Market for Big Birds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The American public demands turkey for Thanksgiving, and gets it usually if it is humanly possible. On no other festival of the year do the people of this country feel it necessary to have any one kind of meat, but Thanksgiving without turkey is like Hamlet without the ghost to most Americans. Many serve turkey at Christmas and New Year's also, but after the holiday season is past the demand for turkeys is usually small. This makes the marketing season for turkeys very short, running as it does from the middle of November to the latter part of December.

In sections where turkeys are grown in large numbers, as in Texas, dressing plants have been built by poultry dealers, who buy the birds alive and dress them for the various city markets. In such cases practically all the turkey raisers sell to these dealers, who often send buyers out into the country to gather up a drove of several hundred birds by stopping at each farm as they pass, weighing whatever turkeys the farmer may have to sell, and adding them to those already collected.

Turkeys to be killed and dressed on the farm should first be deprived of feed for 24 hours, but given plenty of fresh, clean water in order to clean the crop and intestines of all feed. When ready to kill, the bird should be hung up by the feet; holding the bird in one hand, a sharp, narrow-bladed knife is used to sever the veins in the throat by making a small cut inside the mouth on the right side of the throat, at the base of the skull. After making this cut and bleeding begins, the knife is thrust up through the groove in the roof of the mouth and into the brain at the back part of the skull. The bird gives a peculiar squawk, the feathers are loosened by a quivering of the muscles, and death is instantaneous.

In dry-picking, the feathers should be plucked immediately, and if the bird has been properly stuck they come out very easily. The tail and large wing feathers are removed first, after which the body feathers are pulled out. When the turkeys are to be marketed locally or are to be shipped but a short distance, they are cooled to a temperature of about 35 degrees Fahrenheit by hanging in the open air, provided the weather is cold enough, otherwise they are plunged into ice water and kept there until thoroughly cooled.

After cooling they are packed undrawn in boxes or barrels. It is inadvisable for the producer without proper refrigerating facilities to ship dressed turkeys, as losses from improper cooling and from their being exposed to warm weather during transit are liable to occur. Aside from this it is seldom profitable to ship turkeys any great distance except in carload lots; when this is done the turkeys are cooled to 32 degrees Fahrenheit, packed in boxes or barrels, and shipped in refrigerator cars.

YOUNG FOWLS BEST LAYERS

Seldom Pays to Keep Hens for Laying After They Are Past Two Years of Age.

There are people who have the right variety of fowls, who house and feed them properly, and yet who cannot obtain eggs early in the winter because their fowls are too old. It is seldom that it pays to keep hens for laying after they are two and a half years old; not that they will not give a profit, but because younger fowls will give a greater profit.

MAKE PROFIT OUT OF FOWLS

Farmer Should Keep Hens in Pink of Condition by Giving Good Care and Proper Feed.

Farmers should not endeavor to raise hens under natural conditions. For a hen raised that way is a liability rather than an asset. To make a profit out of hens a farmer should keep them in the pink of condition. This can only be done by giving extra good care and plenty of proper feed.

PREPARE GARDEN LATE IN SUMMER

One of Most Important Things Is to Burn or Haul Away All Trash of Any Sort.

FIRST PUT BEAN POLES AWAY

Plow or Spade Ground and Cover With Coarse Manure to Put it in Better Physical Condition for Spring Planting.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The man who makes a genuinely good garden does not begin in the spring. He begins in the fall. But the spring is a long way off, you say? The bean poles are beginning to rot already, and it is time right now to take out insurance by putting them away properly. And that is only one of a considerable number of simple things of equal importance that should be done in the garden—now.

Because you have harvested all the garden crops do not fall into the serious error of thinking that you do not need to give any further attention to the garden till next spring.

Clean-Up Time in Garden.
One of the most important things is to clean up. You wouldn't excuse a slovenly kept house. Well, slovenliness in the garden is hardly more to be tolerated. Good housekeeping in the garden is a matter of importance, not merely because a slovenly garden in winter is the most desolate-looking thing in man's perversion of nature, but because the success of next year's vegetables depends on it, largely.

Most of the diseases and insect pests that affect garden crops live over winter in the remains of the past season's crops. Such materials as cabbage stalks, bean vines, tomato vines—in fact, trash of any sort in the garden—should be collected and hauled to a dump, or burned.

Then, having the ground clean, there is another thing of equal importance. It should not be allowed to lie bare over winter. Ground exposed to beating rains will puddle and wash and great loss of plant food is sure to result. A very good plan is to sow the garden in some green crop, such as rye or winter barley. That protects the ground and adds organic matter to the soil. But there is, according to garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, a still better plan and one that can be put in practice after the season for sowing rye or barley is long past. That better plan is to plow or spade the garden in the fall or as early in the winter as possible and give it a heavy coating of horse manure. Leave the ground in the rough, as this will prevent the loss of the valuable ingredients in the manure.

Gives Early Vegetables.
Now, what have you gained by that plan? Well, in addition to fertilizing the ground and putting it in better physical condition, this: The garden can be planted earlier in the spring than if it had been left bare or planted to a green crop. And that amounts to a great deal. It amounts, frequently, to having a number of nice vegetables on your table two or three weeks ahead of your neighbor who did not break his garden till spring. Such crops as smooth peas, beets, lettuce and onion sets can be planted as early in the spring as the ground can be worked. If plowing or spading the ground has been deferred till spring, a delay of as much as three weeks is likely to occur after these crops should have been planted—which means, reducing it to money measure, that you will go on buying vegetables for at least that long after you might have been bringing them in nice and fresh from your own garden if you had done a little work in the fall or early winter.

PUTTING PLOW AWAY IN FALL

Excellent Plan to Apply Good Coat of Axle Grease and Cover With Thin, Dry Dust.

When you put your plow away for the season, put a good coat of axle grease on the point and moldboard and cover the grease with a good covering of dry dust. This will cause the axle grease to stay where the grease alone would dry out, and will save a lot of scouring when plow time comes.

To Gain a Good Reputation

The way to gain reputation is to endeavor to be what you appear. That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturer has been fully up to the standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take.—Adv.
