

Over The County

Troy News: The water committee of the council has been putting the reservoir into condition this week to receive the fall flow of water for city use. On Tuesday the water in the big pond was released and all the surplus dirt washed from the slopes and carried down stream. As soon as the reservoir is again full the water will be turned into the mains for public use. At present, homes on the hill have practically no use of the water in the mains, as the pump in the well cannot furnish enough to supply those higher up than Main street all of the time during the day.

Genesee News: In line with the willingness of those at the commercial club meeting last Wednesday night, some 25 men volunteered for work in the local city park last Monday morning and work was begun at that time on the much needed improvements of the unsightly place. After the men had finished it was found that about three-fourths of the old poplar trees had been pulled down and the southern bank leveled with the sidewalk. Still more work is needed, but when it is completed the old park will take on a much neater appearance. The workers were served with sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee during their labors by the members of the Linger Longer club, for which the workers were duly thankful.

In this little demonstration it was shown conclusively that the community spirit is not entirely dead and that all it needs to again put life in the old town is for some one to "start something."

Deary Press: Work on Legion building is progressing. The boys are anxious to get the roof on so as to shield the floor from damage by rain. One of the fine features of this house will be its excellent stage facilities. The stage will be built in as a lean-to on the west end and will not reduce the seating capacity of the building.

Julietta Record: Ralph Schetzle, Clay Albright and Fred Albright did not have very good luck on their recent hunting trip though they got one deer and wounded a bear which got away from them in the brush.

Improve P. O. Building

Extensive improvements are being made in the local post office building. The interior will be thoroughly repaired and calcimined and the old lock boxes torn out and new ones substituted. Plans are now on foot to put in combination lock boxes which will do away with the inconvenience of carrying a key. Mr. Brown estimates the work will be completed by the first of the year.

Bandits Rob Mail

Monday night ten bandits held up the Illinois Central New Orleans 10 miles south of Paxton, Illinois. Four of the train crew were wounded and two pouches of registered mail stolen. The bandits escaped after setting fire to the mail car. The loot obtained by the robbers was about $400. Two pouches of registered mail were overlooked. It is said that one of these contained $100,000.

Entertain Circle Card Club

The members of the Circle Card Club were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. MacPherson Tuesday night. Cards served to pass the time very pleasantly. Mrs. Frank Boyd and George Lieth tied for first honors, Mr. Lieth winning by cutting the high card. The consolation prize was awarded to Theo Hanson. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. Miss Reta Leith and Sylvester Stevens were guests of the club.

Commits Suicide in Spokane

Joe Riordan, son-in-law of George Riffin of this place, committed suicide in Spokane last Saturday afternoon, by shooting himself through the head. He died Saturday night at the Sacred Heart Hospital.

Riordan is believed to have taken his life following domestic troubles. He and his wife, Elva, had separated last summer. She went to Ontario, Oregon, for two months stay with her brother, who is farming there. On returning to Spokane she stayed at the home of her sister. She was with her husband at their former home at the time he shot himself.

The bullet entered the head above and slightly back of the ear. He was in a semi-conscious condition until his death. He is survived by his mother and a brother in Spokane, as well as his widow.

School Notes

The local high school played Julietta a practice game of basketball during institute week. The score was 11 to 26 in favor of Kendrick.

The return basketball game with Troy will be played Friday, Nov. 11, on the Troy floor. A hard game is anticipated. Several high school students are planning on seeing the game.

The girls' basketball team was organized and started practice Tuesday. Several games have been scheduled for the girls' team and prospects seem good for a very successful season.

The Glee Club was organized last Tuesday with a large number enrolled. Miss Dermott, who has had considerable experience with chorus and glee clubs, is in charge of the club, a credit is being offered for that work.

Mrs. Erickson, state inspector for commercial vocational work was visiting the school Tuesday afternoon. She expressed herself as being quite well pleased with the commercial work offered.

The school enrollment has been increased by 7, owing to the entrance of Kenneth, Walter and Margaret Brocke, Leo Jones, Mae and Henry Freytag and Earl Smith.

Monroe's Standardized Silent Reading Test was given to the high school Wednesday. Several students did exceptionally well, however a large majority are slightly below standard.

Silent Reading is to be emphasized for the next few weeks and an attempt will be made to bring all students up to, or above standard.

Linden Items

Mrs. McAllister and daughter, Nona, spent several days last week on the ridge visiting relatives and friends.

Frank Abrams and family returned Saturday from a week's visit on Texas ridge.

Jim Harrington and Bill Hunt spent Sunday evening at the Clarence Harris home.

Mrs. Vaughan and son, Ted, and Miss Hammond spent Sunday at the Shingler home.

Mrs. James Langdon returned to her home in Julietta, Wednesday, after spending a couple of weeks at the Earl Langdon home.

A. L. Longfellow delivered a load of supplies to Shoves Sawmill at Long Meadow, Monday afternoon, in his truck.

Miss Hammond returned Saturday from Lewiston where she attended institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilchrist and children were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fry.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Alexander were callers at the John Carr home Sunday afternoon.

I. E. Foster spent Sunday at home, returning Monday to Long Meadow, where he is doing carpenter work.

Fred Crocker and sons, George and Everett of Kendrick were Sunday visitors at the John Carr home.

Rev. and Mrs. Pressonell, Mr. Benjamin and Miss Henderson of Southwick and Mrs. C. P. Israel and children spent Sunday at the Lou Alexander home.

The Melancholy Days Have Come

First Lyceum Number

It might be well to keep in mind the fact that the first number of this season's lyceum course will be given here Thanksgiving night, Thursday, November 24. This will be an entertainment by the Freeman Hammond Company, three talented artists. They give a high class performance in a most classical manner. Mr. Hammond is an impersonator. Miss MacDonald plays the violin and is a soprano soloist. Miss Carpenter is a pianist and reader. This number of the course comes most highly recommended by the lyceum company.

Kendrick Needs a Dentist

Dr. Landquist has closed his dental office in Kendrick and will locate in Lewiston. This leaves the field here open to a new dentist. There are few better locations in the northwest today for a good dentist than in Kendrick. If he gets the business there is more work in this territory than one man can take care of.

High Freight Rates

O. Hower, Cowley, Wyo., bought a carload of prunes in Idaho where his father-in-law grows them, says a Kansas paper. Prunes are shipped in boxes. They sell at $1.40 a box in Wyoming. The man who grows them in Idaho gets 40c a box. The dollar difference represents the freight charges. It cost Mr. Hower $760 to ship about $200 worth of prunes to where he could sell them and lose money on them. He will probably buy his next shipment in Turkey as he finds it is cheaper to ship prunes around the world than halfway across the United States by rail.

Cameron News

August Hartung returned home from Spokane, Thursday of last week, where he attended the Pig Club meeting.

Herman Wilken went to Lewiston Sunday evening where he has started to school.

Miss Elsie Wegner, returned from Lewiston, Friday, where she attended institute.

Miss Martha Silflow entertained as dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Wegner and family; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Uttke; Rev. and Mrs. Rein and children; Herman and Martha Meyer; Laurence and Bertha Abitz; Ida Silflow; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Silflow; Mr. Walter Silflow; Gus Kruger and Herman Lohman.

Miss Laura Blum returned from Kendrick, Saturday, where she had been doing house work for Mrs. Fred Bolq.

Herman Schupfer and mother attended the German services at the Lutheran church, Sunday morning.

Grandma Mielke is still quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hartung were transacting business in Moscow, Monday.

Gus, Bill and Eddie Wegner, Albert Brammer and Herman Silflow returned from Big Island, Monday, where they had been hunting for the past week. Bill Wegner shot a large deer. They all seemed to have had a good hunting trip.

May Do Some Grading

The old board walk around the corner of the former Nelson property in the lower end of town was torn out this week by Commissioner Housley. The street and alley committee of the town council expects to do some grading around the double curve in the street at this point and will lower the crown of the street nearly level with the new cement walk along the side of the Riggle property.

Three Hunters to One Deer

S. P. Callison and grandson, Norla, returned the first of the week from their hunting trip in the Clearwater country. They camped about three miles below Big Island. Mr. Callison estimated there were three hunters to every deer in that country and more on the road going in. Very few deer have been killed in the Clearwater country this fall as the mild weather has caused them to stay in the higher mountains.

Nellie May Baker

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker was buried in the Kendrick cemetery Monday afternoon. A short funeral service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crocker, as well as at the grave, by Rev. Mort. Mrs. Baker is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crocker.

The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

On Educational Council

A. L. Daniel, superintendent of the Kendrick schools, was named on the educational council of the institute. The educational council is made up of the members of the executive board, the county superintendent and one teacher from each county. Mr. Daniel was named as the teacher from Latah county.

Crescent News

W. M. Kauder and Frank Souders were Kendrick visitors Monday.

Fred Zimmerman was a visitor at the W. L. Hunt home Sunday.

Gertrude Hunt spent institute week with home folks, returning Sunday to resume her school work in Kendrick.

Miss Joyce Hunt returned from Lewiston Sunday, where she spent the past week at institute.

Nina and Belle Hunt were visitors at the Clarence Harris home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Winegardner were Kendrick visitors last Saturday.

Charles Riggle was exhibiting some "oil rock" in Kendrick last week, taken from his land near the Swallow's Nest, above Clarkston. Mr. Riggle feels confident that if oil is struck where the well is being bored above the Swallow's Nest, he can get oil on his place. He has had numerous opportunities to lease his land.

County Agents Meet

An important conference was held Wednesday at the office of County Agent Skuse, by a number of state and county farm bureau officials, to consider plans for the annual membership campaign, and to endeavor to secure the coordination in a helpful way of the local, state and national farm bureau organizations, says the Tribune.

As a result of the meeting, it was decided to call a meeting for next Tuesday morning of the county executive committee, following which a delegation from the county farm bureau will visit the meeting of the Lewiston Commercial club, which will be addressed by C. B. Ross, secretary of the Idaho state farm bureau, of which W. S. Shearer of Lewiston Orchards is president; probably also by Charles B. Stonebraker of Independence, Iowa, representing the national farm bureau federation. The purpose of their appearance before the Commercial Club will be to better inform business men of the purposes and work of the farm bureau and secure better cooperation between business men and farmers.

At the meeting Wednesday there were present: Secretary C. B. Ross of the state farm bureau; W. Kjosness, state county leader of farm bureaus, formerly farm bureau organizer for north Idaho; O. S. Fletcher of Moscow, farm bureau agent for Latah county; R. M. Pavey of Grangeville, farm bureau agent for Idaho county; Edwin Nelson, Grangeville president of the Idaho county farm bureau; Waldo W. Skuse, farm bureau agent for Nez Perce county and H. H. S. Rowell, secretary of the Nez Perce county farm bureau.

Thursday Mr. Ross and Mr. Stonebraker will hold a conference with the farm bureau executive board of Latah county at Moscow; Friday a similar meeting will be held at Sandpoint; on Saturday, a conference will be held at Bonner's Ferry, and on Monday a meeting will be held at Coeur d'Alene.

The meeting Wednesday was first addressed by State County Leader W. Kjosness, who briefly reviewed the past history of the farm bureau in this state. He stated that its first purpose was to carry back to the farm information that had been collected by the extension department, and was a sort of experimental proposition. It was later found that it needed a group of farmers for more concerted action, and so the farm bureau was organized, the first one in this state being in Canyon county.

Finally the idea arose of having a federation of farm bureaus of the state, it being recognized that there were some problems greater than the county, such as transportation and railroad rates. The beet growers' problems in southern Idaho were also considered. The old organization of the state farm bureau was not satisfactory, and last fall it was decided to reorganize the state farm bureau and have a program for the state farm bureau to get into, such as the business of promoting cooperative enterprises, but the people did not readily comprehend the plan. Then the national organization arose, but the relations between the local, state and national organizations had been much misunderstood, causing considerable confusion.

State Secretary Ross addressed the meeting and showed some of the things that the state farm bureau has done this year in lowering freight rates, thus saving the farmers of the state more than $1,500,000 on wheat and potatoes alone. It has organized a poultry association which has sold $1,080,000 worth of eggs during the year at a cost of only 3 to 4 per cent. It has also organized the Western Seed Growers' Marketing association, and proposes to organize an association to buy cows for the farmers. One of the best results has been the growth of good feeling between business men and the farmer. Great care is used in giving support to co-operative organizations and but two have

Nez Perce Bank Closed

At the request of the directors of the Union State Bank of Nez Perce, Idaho, did not open its doors Wednesday morning. The directors held an all-night session going over the bank's condition and decided to close the bank and put it in charge of the state bank examiner.

It is said that thousands of dollars of irregularities have been discovered by the bank officials. Ernest Weiness, former cashier of the bank, recently escaped from custody in Spokane while under arrest on the charge of forging a name on a note for $1,004 on May 9.

Weiness left the Union State Bank over two months ago when irregularities were discovered in his work and his resignation asked for. He is now being sought by officers of the law. It is said by officials of the bank that it is not likely the depositors will lose by the closing of the bank.

Big Bear Ridge

The Big Bear Ridge Literary Society will be reorganized at the Steele school house Saturday evening, November 12th. Come! Help make this a success.

Mrs. Leonard Davis and daughter of Leland spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Elliott.

The Willing Workers were entertained by Miss Emma Aas, Thursday afternoon. Officers were elected for the year and various business matters were decided upon.

Miss Mary Galloway spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Bowers.

Miss Claribel Ingle returned to Clarkston, Monday, having spent the week at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lien returned home Saturday having visited their daughter, Mrs. Einar Bruseth in Spokane.

Mrs. C. W. Beng and daughter are visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. M. Blenden.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mathes and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus May entertained over sixty young people at the Mathes home Thursday evening. The party was given as a surprise on Delmar Mathes who returned home from the East, where he has been in the military service and Miss Bessie May, who recently returned home from Cashmere, Wash. Games and music gave everyone a jolly good time. At midnight a delicious lunch consisting of sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee was served by the hostesses.

American Ridge

Mrs. Frankie Bencoter and little son, Donald, spent Saturday with Mrs. Frank Bencoter.

Byard Davidson and son, Arthur, of Colton visited at the Wm. Watts home Sunday.

Jim Cain returned from a visit at Lewiston, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinzer and Mr. George Dougherty were up from Julietta Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson and children drove to Pullman Sunday to visit Mr. Byard Davidson and baby boy. Both are getting along nicely.

Mrs. Clarence Dougherty entertained her Sunday school class last Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Whetstone spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Ameling.

Mrs. Mary Cain called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank May Sunday.

The Gazette office force were treated to some beautiful trout last Saturday by Martin Thomas. To say that they were perfectly delicious, is a needless waste of words. There is only one food equal to trout and that is trout. Mr. Thomas caught these speckled beauties while on his trip in the Lochsa country this fall. We hope he goes again next year.

thus far been supported. Attention is given to three important points—finance, management and volume of business. The cow association will be financed through the war finance corporation, with the assistance of the extension department. Mr. Ross stated that in Canyon county the slogan is: "Five cows, two brood sows and 100 hens for every forty acres."

United action on the part of the people of Potlatch ridge, the citizens of Kendrick and the Kendrick highway commissioners would very shortly result in accomplishing the building of a crushed rock highway from Southwick to Leland, Cameron, Kendrick, Juliaetta and Lewiston. With the selling of the $400,000 bond issue in Nez Perce county it ought to be comparatively easy to finance the road from the county line below Juliaetta to Lewiston. The building of this road would be the biggest blessing that ever came to the Potlatch.

Interest centers to a considerable degree as to the effect the low price of grain will have on land values. Fortunately land values have never been inflated in the Potlatch country. The land here is worth the highest price paid for it and will no doubt continue to increase in value. In the central states where prices went to $600 an acre for entire farms, they are already experiencing disaster, as the extremely low price of corn is grossly out of proportion to inflated land values.

Nebraska City Press announces that it will be but a short time until Santa Clause will be in their city to again fill the stockings. "If he can fill 'em any better than some of those we've seen this summer he'll have to go some," says the sporting editor of that sheet.

Potlatchers are sitting on top of the world compared to farmers in the corn belt. Wheat prices are not what they ought to be, but not so bad as 18 cent corn on $600 land.

We read the other day that there are two kinds of men—those who do what their wives tell them and those who never marry.

One of the pleasant phases of the month of November is that it has a holiday even for the bankers.

According to a Boise dispatch sent out to the newspapers, the North Dakota recall election was a severe blow to the nonpartisans in this state, but they are beginning to revive from the shock and are threatening to tighten their lines and get into the fray next year. Someway we have a feeling that nonpartisanship will never again get as far in Idaho as it did a couple of years ago. And that wasn't so very far, when we come to think of it. —Star-Mirror.

When it comes to cave women, the hand painted club will have to be awarded to a Dallas, Texas woman. Having killed her husband, she remarked peevishly to officers that "she didn't understand why she couldn't shoot her own husband if she wanted to."

Yeggmen in the last 12 months burglarized 240 banks, says the American Bankers Association. Total loot was only $239,087.95, an average haul for each "job" of $996. Usually it has to be divided among a gang. And for every 166 successful bank burglaries, 74 failed entirely. Does crime pay? Not even in dollars and cents.

The lowly bean will yet come into its own in the Potlatch. Those who got a fair crop of beans in the Potlatch this fall will make more money than the wheat raisers.

Most of the deer hunters who return from the woods this fall refuse to be interviewed. They get back—and that's about all.

A man who has much time to spend thinking of his troubles, ought to get busy.

It must be a comfort to strangers to stop at the Kendrick garages. There isn't a grouch in either garage here, which is something out of the ordinary in that line of business. The boys here believe in treating people like real human beings and that's why they get a large amount of transient business.

Sure They Know.

There is a merchant in our town Who thinks he's wondrous wise; He scoffs at those who spend hard cash

Their goods to advertise. He mocks the ad man to his face. "You're talking through your hat, 'Cause everybody everywhere Knows where my store is at!"

Of course most people vaguely know That Jones conducts a store— Out of the beaten path where goes The cream of trade no more.

But what he sells in his small place, What goods he has on shelf They cannot say, because old Jones Keeps that all to himself.

And that is why the blinded man Has troubles now, and woe, And why his sales are less than they were

Mrs. Richard Winegardner entertained the missionary ladies, Thursday, assisted by Miss Alice Winegardner in serving a delicious dinner to twenty-six. At the business session plans were outlined for making and selling things suitable for Christmas presents. The topic for study was "Corea, its location, its people, education, religion and what the Methodist church is doing for the Corea people." Mrs. Frederickson, Miss Edyth Locke and Mrs. R. M. Smith made very interesting talks along these lines. Miss Cathryn Lund read an article along the same line.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith visited the LeBaron family at Cavendish, Sunday.

Dr. Stoneburner had what came near being a fatal accident with his car Monday. He had gone to Juliaetta to meet Dr. Reece, who was coming to visit him. Dr. Reece said, "We were driving slowly and I was asking where certain persons I knew lived and just as we passed Vergil Freshman's place the doctor motioned toward the house, telling me who lived there and all at once the car shot over the bank. I was caught only by the foot and pulled myself free. Dr. Stoneburner was under the car and could only breathe as I put my shoulder under one corner and lifted it and then would have to let it down on him waiting for help to come. I don't think he could possibly have lived five minutes longer under the car." Doctor Stoneburner is quite badly hurt but we hope, not seriously.

Mrs. J. W. Kritzner of Lewiston, a cousin of Mr. Winegardner, visited at the Winegardner home from Friday until Sunday.

Mrs. Fox and children of Juliaetta are visiting Mrs. Claud Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Spears of Cheney, Wash., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jesse Hoffman.

The Leland Athletic Club will give a box social at the school house Friday evening. A short program will be given. Girls bring boxes and boys bring your pocketbooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Winegardner drove over to Genesee Sunday to take James and Alice to their school work.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.—Adv.

FEW OPPOSE TB ERADICATION

Cattle Dealers Who Do Not Favor Measures Are Influenced by Selfish Motives.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Only a few people are opposed to regulating traffic in tuberculous live stock, but their opposition is sometimes effective, and several cases of the kind have been traced by the United States Department of Agriculture. However, the department believes that cattle dealers who do not favor tuberculosis eradication are influenced by selfish motives and do not represent the true spirit of live-stock owners and others interested in healthier and better domestic animals on American farms.

Although many states have suitable laws to protect farmers and other live-stock owners against traffic in tuberculous animals, the practice continues in some localities. Here is an instance: In Massachusetts a purebred Holstein cow, valued at $100, was disposed of as a reactor; but instead of being slaughtered or segregated she was later sold to a state institution for $300. The herd at this institution had previously been free of tuberculosis. It was being improved by the purchase of new animals and every available precaution was taken to see that they were healthy. Recently this herd was re-tested and three reactors were found, one of which was the cow in question. All showed well-marked lesions of tuberculosis on post-mortem examination.

Dairy Herd Free of Tuberculosis.

There is no law or regulation in Massachusetts preventing the sale or requiring the segregation of reactors. A few cattle dealers led the opposition to a bill before the last general court providing for the control and sale of animals reacting to the tuberculin test. Owing to the importance of eradicating tuberculosis from live stock, the Department of Agriculture is furnishing to the public full information regarding the nature of the disease and the way to get rid of it.

The way herd owners value protection against bovine tuberculosis is illustrated, says a specialist in the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture, by the experience of the Bonner Springs (Kansas) Bull Association. Every member of the association, 11 in number, signed up for the accredited-herd campaign. They had 104 animals tested, and in 8 of the 11 herds no reactors whatever were found. Of the other three herds, each had just one animal affected by the disease.

SHOOT SHEEP-KILLING DOGS

No Consideration Should Be Given Such Animals and Should Be Destroyed at Once.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The sheep-killing dog constitutes one of the greatest menaces to the sheep industry. Such dogs not only kill sheep, but keep out of the sheep business men who are otherwise inclined to go into it, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Sheep-killing dogs work both singly and in groups, but usually in twos or threes. They do not limit their attacks to the flocks of the immediate vicinity in which they are kept, but travel for miles in all directions, spreading destruction in the flocks with which they come in contact. Because their work is so often done under the cover of darkness it is almost impossible to catch them in the act of worrying sheep.

After a dog has once formed the habit of killing sheep it seemingly becomes a mania with him and he is seldom if ever broken of it. He not only destroys sheep himself but leads other dogs to the work. No consideration should be given such dogs; and if additional losses from this source are to be avoided, they should be killed as soon as their habits are known.

ATTENTION TO YOUNG CALVES

WORK HORSES REQUIRE CARE

Animals That Have Had Their Teeth Looked After Are Usually Most Efficient.

Horses working in the fields not only require good care and feed but they will eat better. Horses that have had their teeth looked after are usually more efficient workers than those which have not, especially horses with some age. Horses with poor teeth cannot digest their feed efficiently. A little time spent in rasping the teeth down level is often well spent.

HIGH-PRODUCING DAIRY COWS

To Increase Productiveness of Herd It Is Necessary to Begin With Individuals.

Increasing the productiveness of a dairy herd through selection must begin with the individual as a unit. Cows with the best performance records are mated to a bull backed by a line of high-producing ancestors. Even this will not guarantee offspring equal to their parents in productiveness, since the law of chance operates to make results uncertain. However, the average will be as good as their parents' and some will exceed their dam's record. The best producers are further bred for further improvement.

PUREBREDS REPLACE SCRUBS

Nothing but Registered Sires Being Used at the Louisiana State Normal School.

"Within the past ten days we have sold to the butcher five scrub cows. We are now keeping only high grades and purebreds." With this explanation an official of the Louisiana State Normal school in Natchitoches parish enrolled in the "Better Sires, Better Stock" movement conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various states. All the live stock on the school farm, which includes cattle, swine and poultry, are being bred only to purebred sires.

BEST TIME TO SELECT CALF

If Dam Is Wide, Deep-Bodied Cow Giving Liberal Supply of Milk, Useful Animal Is Assured.

The best time to select a cow is at a few months of age, when it may be seen with its mother, or, at any rate, before it is weaned. Observe the calf's mother. If she is a wide, deep-bodied cow with plenty of size and is giving a liberal supply of milk, you may be reasonably sure that the calf, if sired by a good bull and properly cared for, will grow into a useful breeding animal.

The secret of such high-quality in the Brunswick Phonograph

The Brunswick is a 100 per cent Brunswick product, not assembled. Parts are not bought here and there. Cabinets are not picked up from different builders.

Brunswick controls every process, every detail. From the raw wood to the final finishing, Brunswick decides the standards.

This accounts for the all-round goodness of The Brunswick—the freedom from flaws, the everlasting uniformity.

Brunswick is not dependent on fluctuating conditions outside. And need not make compromises. This is not a new policy. But it has been one of the old-time ideals of the House of Brunswick.

Since 1845 Brunswick has been building to meet the highest standards—no wood-working organization in the world is more famous.

In every Brunswick Phonograph we include the Brunswick idea of high quality. No instrument goes out without complete inspection.

CHEAP COOP FOR BACK YARD

Inexpensive House Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory Where Small Flock Is Kept.

It is not necessary to spend much money for housing if you are going to keep a small flock of hens in your back yard. Indeed, it is unwise, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. One or two piano cases or a large packing box may often be made into an acceptable home. But whatever you build should be made dry and free from drafts, and have good ventilation. The United States Department of Agriculture has numerous bulletins giving directions for this kind of construction, and any of these are available for the asking, or for a very few cents where a charge is necessary. A card to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will get you what you need.

EGGS PRESERVED WITH LIME

Will Be Found Quite Satisfactory Where Water Glass Is Difficult to Obtain.

If water glass is not obtainable, lime may be used for preserving eggs, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is not considered so good as water glass, as in some instances eggs preserved by this method have tasted slightly of lime, although at other times lime-water has proved entirely satisfactory.

To preserve with lime, dissolve two pounds of unslaked lime in a small quantity of water, and dilute with five gallons of water, that has previously been boiled and cooled. Allow the mixture to stand until the lime settles, then pour off and use the clear liquid. Place clean, fresh eggs in a clean earthenware crock or jar, and pour the clear lime-water into the vessel until the eggs are covered. At least two inches of the solution should cover the top layer of eggs.

PRODUCING MILK FOR PROFIT

Like Real Business Man Farmer Cannot Afford to Keep Unprofitable Producers.

The way to make money out of the production of milk, is to begin at home. Weed out unprofitable producers. No real business man will keep a workman in his employ a week if he is an unprofitable producer, and the cow is the dairyman's machine, the dairyman's workman.

BETTER-STOCK CAMPAIGN AID

Poster Issued by Department of Agriculture Illustrates Value of Good Dairy Cows.

"For the Children's Sake" is the title of an attractive poster just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, to be used in its better-stock campaign. The poster shows two cows, each surrounded by pictures of healthy children. Good milk, it is well known, is a health-giving food for children, but scrub cows do not give enough milk to feed many children. One of the animals shown on the poster is a scrub cow which produced about five quarts of milk a day—enough to supply the five children who are grouped about her. The other cow is a purebred, which gave a daily yield of 20 quarts—enough to feed the 20 children surrounding her.

"A good dairy cow," says the poster, "produces enough to feed about twenty children a quart of milk a day. An ordinary cow produces enough to feed about five children a quart a day. Every quart of milk contains health and a smile for some baby."

CORN ALONE FOR MILK COWS

It Can Be Used to Better Advantage With Such Feeds as Bran, Meal and Legumes.

With well-filled corn cribs on many farms, and relatively low prices now in effect, the United States Department of Agriculture believes it is time to correct the impression that corn is not good feed for milk cows. Of course, corn cannot be fed alone, as its function is to supply heat, energy, and fat, rather than such elements as make up bone, muscle and the casein in milk. But it can be used to advantage along with such feeds as bran, linseed, meal, or cottonseed meal. Bran lightens and helps to balance the ration. Alfalfa or clover is usually fed with corn to supply protein.

COW IS EFFICIENT MACHINE

Animal of Big Value in Converting Farm-Grown Feeds into High-Priced Products.

The dairy cow, of all farm animals, is our most efficient machine for converting farm-grown feeds into concentrated, high-priced food products, and therefore is entitled to the best of care. She is thin in flesh and naturally more susceptible to cold than most other classes of farm stock. If she is compelled to fortify herself against cold, snow, sleet and rain, she must, of course, convert a greater proportion of her feed into heat with which to keep up body temperature, and as a result she becomes less efficient for milk production.

LET POTATOES LAY ON SOIL

If Exposed for an Hour or So After Digging Skin Toughens and Wards Off Decay.

It is always advisable to allow the potatoes to remain on the ground for an hour or two after digging, as this toughens the skin against bruising and decay resulting from handling. It also loosens the dirt on them and removes some of the moisture from the surface, so that their appearance and keeping quality are improved.

SUNFLOWER IS MADE USEFUL

Experiments Not Sufficiently Explored to Reach Definite Conclusions in Northwest.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sunflowers are likely to become good for silage material for farmers on irrigated land in the Northwest, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture from Montana. The Mammoth Russian is in much favor, although experiments have been tried with some of the smaller varieties. The sunflowers were drilled in rows 20 inches apart and irrigated. They were put in about the middle of May, but from their frost-resistant qualities it is believed they could be put in at the same time as grain is sown. About 15 pounds of seed were used to the acre on irrigated land, but it was stated that if sunflower ers are to be raised under dry-land conditions the seed should be put in rows 30 to 36 inches apart.

On the project under observation it was intended to let the sunflowers get fairly well matured, about the same as corn, before putting them in the silo, but as a storm broke them down it was necessary to put them in the silo earlier. The yield was from 30 to 40 tons per acre. Cows fed on sunflower silage kept up the usual flow of milk

Disease Contracted by Way of Navel or Mouth Soon After Birth—Tablets Worth Trying.

Many calves die of white scours or pneumo-enteritis, which is a deadly germ disease born in the calf and contracted by way of the navel or mouth soon after birth. Medicinal treatment usually fails, but triple sulpho-carbolic tablets are well worth trying, under direction of a qualified veterinarian. He should also immunize each new-born calf with polyvalent anti-dysenteric serum and likewise use it in double doses should a case occur. Provide a new clean pen for new-born calves. At birth saturate the stump of the navel of each calf with tincture of iodine and then apply powdered starch. Repeat the treatment daily until the navel is entirely healed. Also cleanse the teats with a saturated solution of boric acid before the calf is allowed to suck for the first time and daily for ten days if it continues to nurse.

Farmers Given Better Understanding of Value and Cost of Various Feeds Available.

A series of 26 dairy feeding schools were conducted during the spring months in six New Hampshire counties by county agents, working co-operatively with the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural college. Seven more are planned. In carrying out these schools lecturing and formal talk have been practically eliminated and the dairy-men are seated at tables, where they figure out for themselves the composition of various rations and compute costs. Much enthusiasm has been aroused.

That the results are worth while is indicated by the statement of a Hooksett farmer, who reported a saving of $1 a day, while another who attended the school at Warner wrote the county agent that he is now saving $30 a month as a result of feeding a ration that he figured out there. The discussion provoked by the farmers figuring these rations gives a better understanding of the value and cost of the various feeds available than any amount of lecturing could possibly accomplish.

RULES FOR FEEDING SILAGE

Good Plan Is to Allow Three Pounds of Material to Every 100 Pounds of Live Weight.

A rule for feeding silage to the dairy cows is: Feed three pounds of silage for every 100 pounds of live weight. A cow weighing 1,000 pounds should receive about 30 pounds. A cow which weighs over 1,500 pounds should receive about 45 pounds of silage per day. Silage is usually fed twice a day, in the morning and evening after milking.

CHAPTER IV.—At Buenaventura, capital of Sobrante, Billy Geary, ill and penniless, is living on the charity of "Mother Jenks," keeper of a dramshop. She receives a cablegram from Dolores, telling of her coming.

CHAPTER V.—Dolores' father, Ricardo Rucy, president of Sobrante, had been killed in a revolution led by Sarros, the present executive. Dolores, a child of eight, was smuggled out of the country by Mother Jenks and supported by her in the United States. The old woman, ashamed of her occupation and habits of life, fears to meet Dolores, and sends Geary to the boat to say she has gone to the United States.

"What's a human life to a doctor? Besides, he's on the slush-fund pay roll and does whatever the higher-ups tell him. You be guided by what I tell you, Miss Rucy, and do not set foot on Sobrantean soil. If you stay aboard La Estrellita, you'll have your nice clean stateroom, your well-cooked meals, your bath, and the attentions of the stewardess. The steamer will be loaded in two days; then you go back to New Orleans, and by the time you arrive there I'll have been in communication by cable with Mother Jenks—I mean—"

"Mother who?" Dolores demanded. "A mere slip of the tongue, Miss Rucy. I was thinking of my landlady. I meant Mrs. Wilkins—"

"I'm so awfully obliged to you, Mr. Geary. You're so kind, I'm sure I'd be a most ungrateful girl not to be guided by you accordingly. You wouldn't risk any friend of yours in this terrible place, would you, Mr. Geary?"

"Indeed, I would not. By permitting anybody I thought anything of to come to this city, I should feel guilty of murder."

"I'm sure you would, Mr. Geary. Nevertheless, there is one point that is not quite clear in my mind, and I wish you'd explain—"

"Command me, Miss Rucy."

"If this is such a frightful place, why are you so anxious, if I may employ such language, to hornswoogle your dearest friend, Mr. John S. Webster, into coming down here? Do you want to kill him and get his money—or what?"

Billy's face flamed at thought of the embarrassing trap his glib tongue had led him into. He cursed himself for a star-spangled jackass, and while he was engaged in this interesting pastime Dolores spoke again.

"And by the way, which is it? Miss Wilkins or Mrs.? You've called her both, and when I reminded you she was a Miss, you agreed with me; whereas she is nothing of the sort. She's a Mrs. Then you blurted out something about a Mother Jenks, and finally, Mr. Geary, it occurs to me that for a complete stranger you are unduly interested in my welfare. I'm not such a goose as to assimilate your weird tales of death from disease. It occurs to me that if your friend John S. Webster can risk Buenaventura, I can also."

"You—you know that old tarantula?" Billy gasped. "Why—I came out to warn him off the grass, too."

Dolores walked a step closer to Billy and eyed him disapprovingly. "I'm so sorry I can't believe that statement," she replied. "It happens that I was standing by the companion-ladder when you came aboard and spoke to the purser; when you asked him if Mr. Webster was aboard, your face was alight with engerness and anticipation, but when you had reason to believe he was not aboard, you looked so terribly disappointed I felt sorry for you."

"I'm going ashore, if it's the last act of my life, and when I get there I'm going to interview the cable agent; then I'm going to call at the steamship office and scan the passenger list of the last three north-bound steamers, and if I do not find Henrietta Wilkins' name on one of those passenger lists I'm going up to Calle de Concordia No. 19—"

"I surrender unconditionally," groaned Billy. "I'm a liar from beginning to end. I overlooked my hand. I beg of you to believe me, however, when I tell you that I only told you those whoopery because I was in honor bound to tell them. Personally, I don't want you to go away—at least, not until I'm ready to go away, too! Miss Rucy, my nose is in the dust. There is a fever in my brain and a misery in my heart—"

"And contrition in your face," she interrupted him laughingly. "You're forgiven, Mr. Geary—on one condition."

"Name it," he answered.

"Tell me everything from beginning to end."

So Billy told her. "I would much rather have been visited with a plague of boils, like our old friend, the late Job, than have to tell you this, Miss Rucy," he concluded his recital. "Man proposes, but God disposes, and you're here and bound to learn the truth sooner or later. Mother isn't a lady and she knows it, but take it from me, Miss Rucy, she's a grand old piece of work. She's a scout—a rasctailed sport—a regular individual and game as a gander."

"And I mustn't call at El Buen Amigo, Mr. Geary?"

"Perish the thought! Mother must call on you. El Buen Amigo is what you might term a hotel for tropical tramps of the masculine sex. Nearly all of Mother's guests have a past, you know. They're the submerged white tenth of Sobrante."

"Then my benefactor must call to see me here?" Billy nodded. "When will you bring her here?"

Billy reflected that Mother Jenks had been up rather late the night before and that trade in the cantina of El Buen Amigo had been unusually brisk; so since he desired to exhibit the old lady at her best, he concluded it might be well to spar for whid—

"Tomorrow at 10," he declared. Dolores inclined her head. Something told her she had better leave all future details to the amiable William.

"I remember you inquired for your friend, Mr. Webster, when you came aboard the steamer."

"I remember it, too," Billy countered ruefully. "I can't imagine what's become of him. Miss Rucy, did you ever go to meet the only human being in the world and discover that for some mysterious reason he had failed to keep the appointment? Miss Rucy, you'll have to meet old John Stuart the minute he lights in Buenaventura. He's some boy."

"Old John Stuart?" she queried. "How old?"

"Oh, thirty-nine or forty on actual count, but one of the kind that will live to be a thousand and then have to be killed with an axe. He's coming to Sobrante to help me put over a mining deal."

"How interesting, Mr. Geary! No wonder you were disappointed."

The last sentence was a shaft deliberately launched; to Dolores' delight it made a keyhole in Billy Geary's heart.

"Don't get me wrong, Miss Rucy," he hastened to assure her. "I have a good mine, but I'd trade it for a hand-shake from Jack! The good Lord only published one edition of Jack, and limited the edition to one volume; then the plates were melted for the junk we call the human race. Two weeks ago, when I was sick and penniless and despairing, the possessor of a concession on a fortune, but without a centavo in my pockets to buy a banana, when I was a veritable beach-comber and existing on the charity of Mother Jenks, I managed finally to communicate with old Jack and told him where I was and what I had. There's his answer, Miss Rucy, and I'm not ashamed to say that when I got it I cried like a kid." And Billy handed her John Stuart Webster's remarkable cablegram, the receipt of which had, for Billy Geary, transformed night into day, purgatory into paradise. Dolores read it.

"No wonder you love him," she declared, and added artlessly: "His wife must simply adore him."

"He has no wife to bother his life, so he paddles his own canoe," Billy replied. "I don't believe the old sour dough has ever been in love with anything more charming than the goddess of fortune. He's woman-proof."

"About Mrs. Jenks," Dolores continued, abruptly changing the subject. "How nice to reflect that after she had trusted you and believed in you when you were penniless, you were enabled to justify her faith."

"You bet!" Billy declared. "I feel that I can never possibly hope to catch even with the old Samaritan, although I did try to show her how much I appreciated her."

"I dare say you went right out and bought her an impossible hat," Dolores challenged roguishly.

"No, I didn't, for a very sufficient reason. Down here the ladies do not wear hats. But I'll tell you what I did buy her, Miss Rucy—and oh, by George, I'm glad now I did it. She'll wear them tomorrow when I bring her to see you. I bought her a new black silk dress and an old-lace collar, and a gold breast pin and a tortoise shell hair comb and hired an open carriage and took her for an evening ride on the Malecon to listen to the band concert."

"Did she like that?"

"She ate it up," Billy declared with conviction. "I think it was her first adventure in democracy."

Billy's pulse was still far from normal when he reached El Buen Amigo, for he was infused with a strange, new-found warmth that burned like malarial fever, but wasn't. He wasted no preliminaries on Mother Jenks, but bluntly acquainted her with the facts in the case.

Mother Jenks eyed him a moment wildly. "God's truth!" she gasped; she reached for her favorite elixir, but Billy got the bottle first.

"Nothing doing," he warned this strange publican. "Mother, you're finking it—and what would your sainted 'Enry say to that? 'Do you want that angel to kiss you and get a whiff of this brandy?"

Mother Jenks' eyes actually popped. "Gor, Willie," she gasped, "aven't I told ye she's a ludy! Me kiss the lamb! I'll trust, Mr. Geary, as 'ow I know my place an' can keep it."

"Yes, I know," Billy soothed the frightened old woman, "but the trouble is Miss Dolores doesn't know hers—and something tells me if she does, she'll forget it. She'll take you in her arms and kiss you, sure as death and taxes."

And she did! "My lamb, my lamb," sobbed Mother Jenks the next morning, and rested her old cheek, with its rum-begotten hue, close to the rose-jointed ivory cheek of her ward. "Me—wot I am—an' to think—"

"You're a sweet old dear," Dolores whispered, patting the gray head; "and I'm going to call you Mother."

"Mr. William H. Geary," the girl remarked that night, "I know now why your friend, Mr. Webster, sent that cablegram. I think you're a scout, too."

For reasons best known to himself Mr. Geary blushed furiously. "I—I'd better go and break the news to Mother," he suggested lamely. She held out her hand; and Billy, having been long enough in Sobrante to have acquired the habit, bent his malarial person over that hand and kissed it. As he went out it occurred to him that had the lobby of the Hotel Mateo been paved with eggs, he must have floated over them like a wraith, so light did he feel within.

CHAPTER VII.

Webster reached New Orleans at the end of the first leg of his journey, to discover that he was one day late to board the Atlanta—a banana boat of the Consolidated Fruit company's line plying regularly between New Orleans and that company's depots at Limon and San Buenaventura—which necessitated a wait of three days for the steamer La Estrellita of the Caribbean Mail line, running to Caracas and way ports.

He decided to visit the ticket office of the Caribbean Mail line immediately and avoid the rush in case the travel should be heavy.

The steamship office was in Canal street. The clerk was waiting on two well-dressed and palpably low-bred sons of the tropics, to whom he had just displayed a passenger list which the two were scanning critically. Their interest in it was so obvious that unconsciously Webster peeped over their shoulders (no difficult task for one of his stature) and discovered it to be the passenger list of the steamer La Estrellita. They were conversing together in low tones and Webster, who had spent many years of his life following his profession in Mexico, recognized their speech as the bastard Spanish of the peon.

He sat down in the long wall seat and waited until the pair, having completed their scrutiny of the list, turned to pass out. He glanced at them casually. One was a tall thin man whose bloodshot eyes were inclined to "pop" a little—infallible evidence in the Latin-American that he is drinking more hard liquor than is good for him.

His companion was plainly of the same racial stock, although Webster suspected him of a slight admixture of negro blood. He was short, stocky, and aggressive looking; like his companion, bejeweled and possessed of a thin, carefully cultivated moustache that seemed to consist of about nineteen hairs on one side and twenty on the other. Evidently once upon a time, as the story books have it, he had been shot. Webster suspected a Mauser bullet, fired at long range. It had entered his right cheek, just below the malar, ranged downward through his mouth and out through a fold of fatty flesh under his left jaw. It must have been a frightful wound, but it had healed well except at the point of entrance, where it had a tendency to pucker considerably, thus drawing the man's eyelid down on his cheek and giving to that visual organ something of the appearance of a bulldog's.

Webster gazed after them whimsically as he approached the counter.

"I'd hate to wake up some night and find that hombre with the puckered eye leaning over me. By the way," he continued, suddenly apprehensive, "do you get much of that parakeet travel on your line?"

"About 80 per cent. of it is off color, sir."

Webster pondered the 80-per-cent. probability of being berthed in the same stateroom with one of these people and the prospect was as revolting to him as would be an uninvited negro guest at the dining table of a southern family. He had all a Westerner's hatred for the breed.

"Well, I want a ticket to San Buenaventura," he informed the clerk, "but I don't relish the idea of a Greaser in the same stateroom with me. I wonder if you couldn't manage to fix me with a stateroom all to myself, or at least arrange it so that in the event of company I'll draw a white man."

"I'm sorry, sir, but I cannot guarantee you absolute privacy nor any kind of white man. It's pretty mixed travel to all Central American ports."

"How many berths in your first-class staterooms?"

"Two."

Webster smiled brightly. He had found a way out of the difficulty. "I'll buy 'em both, son," he announced.

"I cannot sell you an entire stateroom, sir. It's against the orders of the company to sell two berths to one man. The travel is pretty brisk and it's hardly fair to the public, you know."

REMOVE WARTS FROM CALVES

Small Tumor-Like Growths on Various Parts of Body Are Not Difficult to Destroy.

Calves are frequently troubled with small tumor-like growths on the lips, around the eyes, on the ears, and at the tail head. Occasionally other parts of the body are affected as well. Warts may best be removed by snipping them off with sharp scissors. A strong thread or a horse hair may be used in their removal by looping it over them and then by the application of force slowly severing them at their base. After they have been removed the roots should be cauterized with tincture of iron, glacial acetic acid, or lunar caustic.

A bull that is to be kept for service should be taught to lead while he is a small calf. He can be halter broken at this time with a few minutes' effort. He should not only be taught to lead without a tight rope, but also should be taught to stand. If given this lesson while young, in after life, when he is led out for visitors to look over or to be photographed, he makes a much better appearance.

YOUTH'S COMPANION FOLKS.

The folks you meet in Youth's Companion stories are no different from those of your home town, but you meet them in unusual situations, crowded with incident and adventure, in which courage, resourcefulness and integrity are put to the severest tests. The Companion's purpose is to picture the permanent satisfaction that springs from following the path of duty rather than the fleeting, perishable distractions of those who always choose the easiest way. And The Companion has proved again and again that stories based upon this principle are in no way lacking in strength and sustained interest. The 52 issues of 1922 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

1. The Youth's Companion — 52 issues in 1922.
2. All the remaining issues of 1921.
3. The Companion Home Calendar for 1922.
4. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications, only $3.00.

How Not to Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

CO-OPERATIVE PRINCIPLES MUST BE FOLLOWED IN ORGANIZATION

A Creamery Which Gathers the Milk or Cream of Many Producers, to Manufacture Into Uniform High-Grade Dairy Products, Is One of the Best Examples of Successful Co-operation.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture urge constantly the establishing of uniform standards for farm products, and declare that if these standards are maintained, once they have been adopted, the confidence of the public will be established, and the success of co-operative marketing more generally assured. Too many organizations are brought into being as a result of enthusiasm created by appeals to prejudice and by misconception. The proper foundation is through a well-recognized need for an organization.

"Co-operative principles," said a co-operative specialist of the bureau of markets, "must be adhered to in the organization and operation of farmers' marketing associations. The farmers themselves cannot be expected to have a vital interest in a marketing organization operated for the profit of and controlled by a few persons. Such an organization should be operated, of course, to effect savings and to render service and not to earn profits for distribution as dividends on money invested. A fair rate of interest is granted to the capital invested by the members, and the remainder of any surplus to be distributed should be divided in accordance with patronage, that is, the amount of business transacted with the organization.

Loyalty is Essential. "The membership should be open to producers only who desire to avail themselves of its facilities, and there should be safeguards to prevent the ownership and control of the enterprise from falling into the hands of a few persons. The success of the entire effort depends upon the loyalty of the members and their interest in the organization, the high standards they maintain, and their distinct understanding that as a business association it should be managed by a man or men able to earn a dignified compensation. Disloyalty has caused the failure of more than one co-operative organization, and it is a weakness which can be remedied only by the members themselves.

"The manager, of course, is the keystone supporting the business. The salary offered him should attract high-class ability as in any business looking to success, and he should have authority to support his work. An entire business can be ruined by an incompetent manager at its head.

"A co-operative marketing association may be likened to a typewriter, which is a very efficient machine, but useless until you have some one competent to operate it. The success of co-operative marketing depends almost entirely upon obtaining a sufficient volume of business, observing true co-operative principles, employing capable management, having thoroughly modern business methods, and finally, loyal membership."

Steady Growth Tends to Success.

Men who have traveled in every part of the United States observing the work of co-operative organizations of various kinds, believe that the success of widespread co-operative marketing may be endangered through a poorly conceived hope or expectation that a hard and fast organization of producers will make it possible to sell anything and everything at a predetermined price without regard to quality or conditions. This is a dangerous attitude to assume.

Men who have given close attention to the subject declare that there is a widespread feeling that it is possible to revolutionize completely the entire system of marketing and attain success from the outset. This, of course, is impossible because it is necessary to build upon a solid foundation and to work out the many problems involved carefully. Steady, substantial and healthy growth tends to permanency and success.

No one should believe that because he is a member of a certain co-operative association, unusual prices are assured.

TO INSURE HEALTHY CALVES

If Cow Does Not Receive Abundance of Palatable Feed, Weak, Puny Calf Results.

Poorly nourished cows give birth to weak, puny calves which are hard to raise. The feeding of the calf, therefore, begins before it is born. The food elements necessary for the development of the calf are taken into the stomach of the cow, digested, assimilated and transmitted to the calf through the umbilical cord, the connection between the mother and the calf. It is evident that if the cow does not receive food enough to keep herself in thrifty condition and at the same time develop her calf, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, both she and the calf must suffer.

In endeavoring to raise good, thrifty calves many dairymen handicap themselves at the start by not properly feeding the pregnant cows. Such cows should have an abundance of palatable and succulent or juicy feed in order to insure good body flesh and healthy, thrifty condition at calving time. The calves will then be well developed, strong and sturdy, and ready to respond normally to proper feed and care.

In localities where they are especially well adapted, or which have disease-resistant qualities. This work is carried on in co-operation with the various state experiment stations, and in many cases has made profitable farming possible in sections in which agriculture was hazardous previous to the introduction of new crops or varieties particularly well suited to local conditions.

POULTRY AND DAIRY PROFITS

One of Very Best Ways Farmer Can Dispose of Surplus Milk Is to Feed it to Fowls.

The dairyman (or the farmer who runs a small dairy in connection with his farm) is in an enviable position to make the biggest proportionate profits from a flock of poultry. One reason for this is that the best foods, as milk producers are also excellent egg producers. For instance, clover, alfalfa, middlings, rye, etc., are all palatable and beneficial to cows and chicks alike—and so is an occasional mess of finely chopped silage.

Furthermore, the cows furnish one of the best of foods for laying hens, for milk is a valuable egg food in any form. One of the very best ways any farmer can dispose of surplus milk with profit is to feed it to the hens, or to growing young stock. It furnishes just the materials needed for improving growth of eggs—and does it in a palatable, easily digested form—hence it is an exceedingly valuable product as an adjunct to the grain ration, which often lacks essential elements.

MUCH IDLE LAND TO BE UTILIZED

Sources of Timber Supply for Chicago Market Exhausted One After Another.

FREIGHT BILLS NOW HIGHER

Ample Area to Support All Lumber Requirements if Land Could be Kept at Work Growing Various Kinds of Trees.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) "Reforestation has not been taken seriously by the average business man in the United States," said Col. W. B. Greeley, chief of the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, before the National Association of Wood Turners recently. "Reforestation has been looked upon as a fad quite removed from the practical interests of the manufacturer, as something more concerned with parks or shade trees or rose bushes.

"World's Greatest Lumber Market." "Chicago is the greatest lumber market in the world. Since 1890 an average of over 2,000,000,000 feet of lumber has come into Chicago every year. In 1920 the figure was nearly 2,500,000,000 feet, 90 per cent of which went into local construction and manufacturing industries. In 1900 the average freight paid on lumber coming into Chicago was less than $3 per M feet. Since that time the local sources of supply for this territory have been exhausted one after another. Lumber shipments have traversed greater and greater distances, and the average freight bill paid by the Chicago distributor has steadily risen to more than $12 per M feet.

"In other words, the increased transportation charge on lumber shipments into Chicago, as a result of the exhaustion of the forest regions surrounding it, represents a toll of $22,500,000 annually. And while this has happened there have accumulated in the Central and Lake states nearly 23,000,000 acres of logged-off forest land which is producing neither farm crops nor timber; $22,500,000 is the yearly tax which the wood-using industries and home builders, supplied through Chicago, pay for the idleness of a large part of the soil in the surrounding states which should furnish the natural supply for this district. This sum would plant every year 1,500,000 acres of land with forest trees.

"This illustration may be extended to cover the four states of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. These states consume annually between Scene in a Forest in the Pacific Northwest.

4,000,000,000 and 5,000,000,000 feet of timber in furniture factories, agricultural implements, wood-turning establishments and other wood-using industries. Sawmills are excluded from this estimate, also the requirements for general construction and housing, and the consumption of lumber on farms. The manufacturers referred to represent an invested capital of $760,000,000 and enroll 260,000 skilled employees.

Rapidly Exhausting Timber Supplies. "We are cutting our timber, probably four times as fast as timber is being grown. It is useless to decry the generous use which American industry has made of our forests. It has contributed powerfully to the industrial development and commercial supremacy of the United States. The forestry problem does not result from the liberal use of our forests, but from our failure to use our forest-growing land. There is an ample area of land in this country, which is not tillable, to support all of our timber requirements, all of our wood manufacturers, all of our home building and agricultural use of lumber, indeed, an even larger export trade than at present, if that land can be kept at work growing timber. Reforestation has become a commercial necessity of the United States."

DEMAND FOR SMALL CAPONS

Little Matter of Education Make Fowl of Lighter Breeds Quite Popular.

There is already a considerable demand for small mature capons. A little matter of education will make the capon from the small variety, when fat and well finished, just as popular as the big heavy capon from the larger breeds for the very good and simple reason that the small family often use a five or six-pound capon to better advantage than they can a ten or twelve-pound one.

Store-keeping of the character that sheds light unto darkness and leads the customer out of the Wilderness of Doubt, is, we believe a welcome relief in keeping the public faith always in a store's good intentions. It's encouraging—greatly so—to have many who elect to trade here straight along, tell us how pleasant it is to be relieved of the doubt of quality when they buy—to know in advance that they will find their purchase often more than they expected—never less.

Notice

Believing it to be the best thing for my customers as well as myself, the Kendrick Harness Shop is going on a cash basis until the first of March 1922, as I wish to clean up my books. Kendrick Harness Shop, by N. E. Walker. 40-11

Order cut flowers at McDowell's Confectionery. Agents for Stillings & Embry, Lewiston. 42-41

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.—Adv.
