

THE REAL VALUE OF MOSCOW LAND

G. P. Mix Says Land Worth From $150 to $250.

Star-Mirror: Since the price of farm products receded from the war-time figures, there is a tendency to bear down the price of Palouse land below its real value. There are many, however, who believe that the rich Palouse soil, properly tilled, is worth practically the price which it was bringing when wheat was $2 per bushel. They claim, and with good reason, that it is worth at least $150 per acre, and that with the farmers getting into diversified farming, it will soon be selling readily at that figure or more, and claim that a farmer is foolish to throw his farm on the market at a figure below its actual worth because he has been pinched somewhat in the readjustment process.

G. P. Mix, well known farmer and Moscow booster, is one of the men who believes that land in the vicinity of Moscow is now being valued at its real worth, and expresses his opinion in the following interview given the Star-Mirror:

"The value of farm lands is a question much discussed during these times of stress and strain, and we find every kind of opinion expressed by those who know and those who ought to know and then by those who talk against their judgement and hoping in the meantime that land prices will drop to a point so they might invest the more readily. Agriculture is the greatest of all industries and upon which governments depend for stability and strength, yet we minimize the importance of land itself, as a matter of local pride it ruffles my disposition to have men argue that land here, possessed of every requirement that will make land produce bountifully year after year, decade after decade, with as much certainty as season follows season, has not a value more than the rate of interest which it will pay from a money lenders standpoint.

"Our good farm lands in a radius of several miles of Moscow are worth from $150.00 to $250.00 per acre, depending more or less on location of roads, water, depth of soil and ability to yield to proper handling and improvements.

Yet we have a class of men constantly preaching that no land is worth more than $100.00 per acre. Such pessimism is not conducive to the good of the community, nor are they giving proper credit to our most important asset. Farmers have suffered at all times by lack of credit to finance his business, he is more or less subject to the whims and notions of local institutions. This condition is going to change. Just notice the wonderful concessions recently made in our Federal Reserve Board. A farmer is to be put on the Board of seven Directors. This industry, the basis of all prosperity and more important than all others, is to be recognized against the bitter protest of Wall Street, by one man on the Board, I fail to see why we shouldn't have at least three. But time will attend to this. The farmer has been the hardest hit of all in the recent unpleasantness (politicians tell us not to say panic), yet he will be the first to come into his own. The fact that so many congressmen and senators are coming up for election again this fall makes me feel that we may expect some legislation much needed by agricultural interests. We do not need a guaranteed price on wheat. We do not need the sympathy of Wall Street and allied interest. Only the realization by our government of the tremendous responsibility that rests on the farmer in maintaining his business on a more profitable basis, thus insuring an epoch of prosperity never before reached by any country or people. We are now rapidly entering this door. Farm lands are to become

Stocked Atwater Lake

Last Friday W. M. McCrea, S. P. Callison and son, Ben, drove to Atwater Lake taking with them 250 catfish for the purpose of stocking the lake. This winter the lake froze over and smothered hundreds of tench, a species of fish that has been in the lake for a number of years. A good many years ago the lake was stocked with bass, but one winter it froze over and smothered all of them. Mr. McCrea stated last Saturday that he saw a number of live tench, so the cold weather didn't get all of them.

If the catfish are left undisturbed in the lake for the next two or three years, it will be alive with them and there will be some good fishing there. Anyone catching a catfish next summer should throw it back and give it a chance to multiply.

HELD SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE AT LELAND

Good Attendance at Both Sessions.

The Farmers' Institute held at Leland Tuesday through the cooperation of W. W. Skuse, county agent, and the extension department of the University of Idaho, was a pronounced success from every standpoint. The attendance numbered 80 men and 10 boys, 35 women and 14 girls.

A separate meeting was held for the women and girls, addressed by Miss Ada B. Irwin, who gave a dress form demonstration. The meeting practically resolved itself into a training class for university extension work and project leaders were selected. Mrs. Jesse Hoffman for Leland community and Mrs. H. L. Hayward for Southwick.

The farm institute speakers for the men delivered very interesting and instructive talks on subjects that vitally concern present day methods of agriculture. At noon, lunch was served by the ladies.

Considerable wheat has been sold in Kendrick this week. The price of $1.07 yesterday proved attractive to a number of growers who sold at that price. There is still considerable wheat unsold as a number of farmers are holding for a better price.

our most cherished possessions and fortunate indeed will be the man who hangs on. Within ten years I look to see in every farm home in this community, hot and cold water, toilet and bath, furnace heat, electric lights. The automobile and telephone, we have now. Then it will be no longer a question of keeping the farm boy on the farm but how will you keep the town boy in town.

"Don't sell your farm, at least until you get a fair price."

Scenes along the Potlatch

Spring Poetry

I've traveled this whole country over looking for the fountain of youth; I've spent quite a bunch of my money, now the sky is my only roof. I've traveled from Iowa to California, from Canada to Mexico. If I could only keep from getting old, to the end of the world I'd go. Disappointment may come to all of us no matter how hard we try. But we hate to admit we're getting old, that sometime we have to die. I left the Haven of Paradise, only to return again. To the little town of Kendrick to dwell among real men. I love this Potlatch Country—the land of wheat and beans. Where there's plenty of fishing and hunting among nature's beautiful scenes. It makes me feel twenty years younger, when I can take my fishing pole and cook a meal of fish and wienies down by the swimming hole.—Bob Shumaker.

Get Ready to Poison

Plans are being made for the annual campaign of the Latah County farm bureau against the ground squirrel. Project leaders have been elected in the different communities of the county and plans have been made for the cooperative purchase of strychnine alkaloid and saccharine so that all may get their poisoning supplies at reduced rates and be thereby encouraged to put forth special effort to control the squirrel. Each community will finance the purchase of supplies for that community, either by having each individual pay in advance for supplies wanted, or by having a committee borrow funds from the local bank for supplies for the community. Practically all of the communities have voted to have the individual pay in advance for supplies wanted.

Community project leaders are now receiving orders for supplies for the season. Strychnine alkaloid will cost the farmer $1.20 per ounce in one ounce containers and saccharine will cost 20c per ounce. All farmers desiring to take advantage of these prices and help conduct a concerted attack against the ground squirrel should see their committee man and place their orders before March first.

In the territory tributary to Kendrick the following men are taking orders for poisoning supplies: Kendrick, J. L. Sturdevant; American Ridge, Frank Benschoter; Big Bear Ridge, R. A. Hughes; Cedar Creek, A. Alexander; Little Bear Ridge, Richard Reiersen.

Herman Schupfer took the contract of wiring the new theater building the first of the week and is now working on the job. As soon as the wiring has been done the building will be plastered and then the cement floor put in.

May Organize Scouts

Scout Commissioner Hawley of Moscow was in Kendrick Wednesday for the purpose of meeting with the boys and to make plans with them for organizing Boy Scout troop here. Sentiment was very much in favor of organizing, so that it is almost assured that in the near future there will be a Boy Scout troop in Kendrick. There are enough boys of the proper age to form a strong organization. As Mr. Hawley says, the success of the organization depends largely upon the scout master, as he is the leader and must devote considerable time and attention to the boys. There are few things that could be done that would be more beneficial to the boys, than to organize the scouts. The training would prove of value to them during their entire lives.

Alexander McKee

Alexander McKee, for many years a resident of Bear ridge, died at the home of his son, Albert, at Lapwai, at 2 o'clock Monday morning. The deceased was born December 13, 1819, 102 years ago, in Wabash county, Indiana. He crossed the plains to Missouri over 50 years ago, coming west in 1833, where he settled on Bear ridge. In 1865 he was married to Anna Cuers of Cincinnati, Ohio. To this union two sons were born, the elder of whom, Albert, survives. The wife and younger son have been dead for many years and the deceased has made his home with Albert at Lapwai.

The body was shipped to Kendrick Thursday morning and interment made at the Wild Rose cemetery on Bear ridge, Rev. Pickering having charge of the service.

INTERESTING SESSION FARMERS INSTITUTE

Good Attendance at Afternoon Meeting.

The first of the series of three farmers' institutes to be held in Latah county, took place here Thursday morning and afternoon. While the attendance at the morning session was not large, the hall was well filled in the afternoon, and those who attended were well satisfied with the program. These meetings are being held for the purpose of arousing interest in agricultural questions, and to discuss the problems that the farmers always have in abundance. They are mainly educational.

The program took place as scheduled except that Prof. Dale of the department of economics was not able to be present, owing to the fact that he had a conflicting engagement.

Those who took part in the program were: Miss Ada B. Irwin, home demonstration specialist; Prof. F. W. Atkeson, head of the dairy department of the University of Idaho; Prof. G. R. McDole, in charge of soils work at the University; and County Agent Fletcher, who took part in the various discussions.

There will be a similar institute held at Genesee and one at Potlatch.

Those present at the meeting gave a vote of thanks to the business men of Kendrick for furnishing the hall, etc.

I Am Your Town

Make of me what you will—I shall reflect you as clearly as a mirror throws back a candle beam.

If I am pleasing to the eye of the stranger within my gates; if I am such a sight as, having seen me, he will remember me all his days as a thing of beauty, the credit is yours.

Ambition and opportunity call some of my sons and daughters to high tasks and mighty privileges, to my greater honor and to my good repute in far places, but it is not chiefly these who are my strength. My strength is in those who remain, who are content with what I can offer me, and with what they can offer me. It was greatest of all Romans who said: "Better be first in a little Iberian village than be second in Rome."

I am more than wood and brick and stone, more even than flesh and blood—I am the composite soul of all who call me Home.

I am your town.—Selected.

H. A. Mathieson, district boys' and girls' club leader for North Idaho, was in Kendrick yesterday in attendance at the Farmers' Institute.

Frank LaBolle was arraigned in the district court at Lewiston, Monday, on a charge of having intoxicating liquor in his possession. He entered a plea of not guilty. The date for his trial will be fixed later.

LATAH COUNTY NEWS PARAGRAPHS

Clipped From The Columns of Neighboring Papers.

Star-Mirror: Highway district No. 2, the second largest highway district in the county in valuation and the district which includes the city of Moscow, sold $50,000 worth of highway bonds, Friday afternoon, to the highest bidder, the First National Bank of Moscow. The bid of the First National was at par on the 10 year, optional 20 year bonds, which carry six percent interest.

The sale of the bonds will provide funds for the maintenance of highways in this district this year and on any new construction work contemplated this summer.

The bonds are in denominations of $500. J. S. Heckathorn, as cashier of the First National, submitted the successful bid. Commissioners of the district are: G. P. Mix, J. H. Hazeltine and A. Baring.

Genesee News: Some people have the faculty of "getting next" to almost every good thing that comes along. This is especially true with regard to anything of exceptional value that is offered by our local merchants. It saves them dollars in the run of a year.

How do they do it? They read the ads in every issue of the home paper, never missing even the small want ads. Every issue of this paper has something of especial value advertised therein, something that many people would be glad to have. The persistent ad. reader locates these things—and gets them.

Keep your bargain eye on the ads of the home merchant. If he says its good, or of especial value, you may be sure it is as he states. He cannot afford to misrepresent his goods, even if he so desired. To do so would soon put him out of business. This paper has many things mentioned in it that you need and want.

Read up, and pick 'em up!

Junietta Record: The injuries sustained by Charles Talbot to his knee during a coasting accident a few weeks ago, have not healed and he went to Kendrick, today (Thursday) to consult a doctor and after an examination was advised to go to Moscow and have an Xray picture taken of the injured member so that proper treatment could be given.

Deary Press: You can tell by the feel that it is almost spring. Sure enough you may carry the feel around quite awhile before you see green grass or bluebirds, but nevertheless spring is on her way. One farmer told us his horses are shedding and what better sign do you want? Several fellows are complaining of being tired—that's spring fever. When such signs as these appear don't pay any attention to the thermometers or the present 30 inches or so of snow, but look up your summer straws and parasols.

The good sleighing that has existed in the Potlatch the greater part of this winter has indicated to a marked degree what good winter roads would do for Kendrick. In spite of the general business depression all over the country there has been more business in Kendrick this winter than anyone expected and it is due largely to good roads. The progress of the Potlatch depends upon better roads.

N. E. Ware says that in the early days in the Potlatch, people coming in from the country would stop at the Gazette office to find out what was going on in the world. Now nearly every farmer has a phone, rural delivery and a daily paper, and the best of prospects of soon having wireless press reports, hot from the ether, at his own fireside every evening. While the country newspaper has almost ceased to supply daily bulletins of world news, it still holds its place as a chronicle of local happenings.

There is nothing the Gazette would rather publish than articles written by farmers in this territory, giving some of the results of their experiments and experiences in practical farming. The article written by A. N. Rognstad of Big Bear ridge, published in a recent issue, created considerable favorable comment. Mr. Rognstad gave the results which he obtained from experiments with the use of gypsum as a fertilizer, covering a period of several years. The entire article was republished in the Clarkston Republic last week. To make a real success of farming one year after another requires both a theoretical and practical knowledge of agriculture. An exchange of ideas thru the columns of the local paper will prove of benefit to all of its readers.

The average merchant today has been forced to refuse credit to many of his customers, not so much because their credit isn't good, but to protect his own. A merchant can restock only so long as his money or credit holds out.

The chairman of the Americanism Committee of the American Legion, sent out a bulletin this week emphasizing the fact that as citizens of the Republic we owe it as a duty to good government to cast our ballots conscientiously to choose competent, efficient, patriotic men or women to office, whose ideals are unquestioned and whose characters are unimpeachable; to look upon jury duty as an obligation and to serve with willingness as a part of our judiciary in the courts of the country. A summary of the bulletin would indicate that in the opinion of the writer thereof, it rests with the individual voter to correct many of the conditions that have been responsible for the wave of radicalism and crime existing in the nation at this time. In other words, a keener interest in politics and a willingness to serve in positions of public trust are necessary for better Americanism.

For fifty years or more American capital has been engaged in building railroads, with which to haul our surplus of grain and other products to the sea ports. During that fifty years this surplus has been shipped to foreign countries in foreign ships and the transportation charges went into foreign pockets. This was good business for the foreign shipping interests. But now we propose to have a merchant marine ourselves some day, and ship our goods abroad in our own ships, and keep the vast sums of money paid for transportation charges in American pockets. Foreign countries don't like this, which is natural. They object mightily to the creation of an American merchant marine, because it will cripple the earning capacity of their own ships. This is also but natural and to be expected. But when they attempt to tell this country that we have no right to build a merchant marine, as some of them have done, they become presumptuous and must expect to hear a few words of home-ly truth.—Nez Perce Herald.

"Korn Likker"

Though Hot Springs (Ark.) citizens have recently inaugurated blue laws, law and order leagues and other means by which they are combating law violators, occasionally they find someone who totally—or nearly so—breaks the country's edicts. One fellow has gone so far as to advertise the fact. The following advertisement was picked up on the streets there: "Pure Cache River Korn Likker, bottled in barn. Made in the backwoods of the river of eastern Arkansas, by an old-time blockader that don't give a damn for laws or prohibition. Retail on the Hot Springs market by all high-class bootleggers for five bones a pint and worth every cent of it. Guaranteed to be strong enough to make you drunk as the devil in ten minutes and mean enough to make a baby bull frog spit in a whale's face. Shake well and get ready to have a fit before drinking.—Ex.

PHASES OF POULTRY RAISING

Poultryman Can Save Himself Time and Money by Applying to Government for Information.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Poultry raisers, whether engaging in the business on a large scale or owning only a small flock, will find it to their interest to get in touch with the United States Department of Agriculture when in doubt about the best methods to follow.

Visitors in Washington wishing to consult the department's poultry specialists are invited to call at their office and also to visit their experimental farm. The work in poultry feeding and breeding is conducted by the animal husbandry division and that relating to diseases by the pathological division of the bureau of animal industry.

Many bulletins are available dealing with various phases of poultry raising, any of which may be had free upon application to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture. In addition to the regular bulletins there are a number prepared especially for boys' and girls' clubs and for persons beginning the poultry business without much knowledge of its requirements. A list of these may be had upon application to the same division.

At the department's experiment farm at Beltsville, Md., various rations are being fed to hens to study their effect. For example, in one experiment the hen balances her own ration; in another fish meal is included; in another no wheat or wheat products are used; while cotton-seed meal replaces a part of the beef scrap in another. Comparisons are also made of the effect of the same rations on hens of the egg breeds as compared with those of the general-purpose breeds. Only simple rations of widely available feeds are used.

Hens in considerable numbers are being trap-nested, and matings made to determine the possibilities of different methods of breeding in increasing or fixing egg production. Matings to fix certain types or characters desired in the flocks also are made. No birds are retained in the flock which have a disqualification that would bar them under the rules of the American Standard of Perfection. The results being obtained indicate that it is possible to combine utility and standard breeding to a practical degree. Any of this information is available for the persons requesting it, and the department is eager to have it used widely.

Boys' and girls' poultry clubs have a wide influence in interesting the children in raising chickens, and in teaching them and their parents the best methods of handling poultry for the production of eggs and meat.

The department is giving special attention to improving the quality of market eggs with a view to overcoming losses estimated at many millions of dollars annually. These studies cover the production of eggs on the farm, and their handling from the farm to the country store. The production of infertile eggs, which are far superior in keeping qualities to fertile eggs, is being advocated.

Wedding announcements printed at the Gazette office.

A Judicious Inquiry

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists ask a customer, who wished to buy a cough medicine, whether it was for a child or an adult and if for a child, they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for colds, croup and whooping cough it is unsurpassed.—Adv.

CHAPTER XI.—Webster secretly visits "Andrew Rowley" at Mother Jenks'. He learns that "Rowley" is Ricardo Rues, son of the assassinated president, brother of Dolores (whom he believes dead), and that a revolution is contemplated. Next morning he tells Dolores that her brother, of whom she has no recollection, is in the country, projecting the overthrow of the President Sarros. Very much in love with the girl, but believing that her affection has been bestowed on Geary, Webster leaves to investigate the mine which he has come to finance.

CHAPTER XII.—Webster, after looking it over decides to put his whole fortune into the mine. He sends Billy Geary to the United States to purchase the necessary equipment, advising him to marry Dolores in Buenaventura before he leaves. Knowing that unless Geary can overthrow Sarros his mine will be confiscated, Webster agrees to finance the venture. Returning to Buenaventura, he is astonished to find Dolores still there and Geary on his way to the United States.

"You bet."

"What did you find?"

"A couple of millions in sight."

Ricardo shook his head slowly. "It is not in sight, old man," he reminded Webster. "Without our aid—and you cannot have our aid unless our revolution is successful, when you shall have it freely—your millions are, most positively, not in sight. If you want those millions, friend Webster, there is but one way to get them—and that is to close your eyes and play our game to the limit. I wonder if you'd go further—about $40,000 further, to be exact."

"I might, but I never go it blind for a wad like that. What's your trouble?"

"The individual in charge of the funds of the revolutionary junta in New Orleans was murdered last night; the funds were deposited to his credit as agent in a certain bank, and before the junta can obtain legal possession of them again the psychological time for their use will have passed. We have a steamer chartered, and 200 men, whose business it is to fight under any flag at $5 gold per day and no questions asked, are now making time on the Isle of Pines, off the coast of Cuba, waiting for our steamers to call for them and land them, with their rifles and ammunition and six 75-millimeter field guns and some rapid-fire Maxims, at San Bruno, some 18 miles up the coast from here.

"The guns and munitions are now in Tampa, having been shipped to our agent there on sight draft, with bill of lading attached; the steamer is chartered and en route to Tampa from Norfolk, Va., and we must pay the owners $10,000 the day she begins taking on her cargo, and $10,000 before she unloads it on lighters at San Bruno.

"We must also pay 200 men one month's pay in advance—that is, $30,000; we cannot meet this expense and still take up that sight draft now awaiting our attention in the bank at Tampa.

"In return for this favor to the provisional government of Sobrante, you shall have the note of the provisional government, signed by the provisional president, myself, and the provisional cabinet, Dr. Pacheco, Colonel Carneveo, and two other gentlemen whom you will meet in due course unless in the interim they should be killed. And as a bonus for saving this country from a brutal dictator, who is pillaging its resources for his personal profit, you shall have a deed of gift to that mining concession you and your friend, Geary, are so desirous of working; also the title shall be certified by the government and the Supreme court of Sobrante and absolutely secured to you against future aggression in the event that the new regime date. Also you have my profound gratitude and that of my people."

"Tell me your plan of campaign," Webster suggested.

"In a secret rendezvous in the mountains I have 1,000 picked men—my father's veterans. They are armed with modern rifles and machetes. The nitrate company, which has been suffering from heavy export duties imposed by Sarros, has loaned me all the rolling stock of the railroad for one night. It will be mobilized at San Miguel de Padua by next Saturday night; my troops will arrive late the same afternoon and entrain at once.

"Old sport," John Stuart Webster answered, "you went overboard in Buenaventura harbor and took a chance among those big, liver-colored, hammer-headed sharks. And you did that because you had a cause you thought worth dying for. I never knew a man who had a cause that was worth dying for who would even espouse a cause worth swindling for. You win—only I want you to understand one thing, Ricardo: I'm not doing this for the sake of saving that mining concession the Sarros government gave my friend, Geary. I'm above doing a thing like this for money—for myself. It seems to me I must do it to guarantee the happiness of two people I love: My friend, Geary, and the girl he's going to marry. I reject your promissory note and your promise of a deed of gift for that concession, and accept only your gratitude. There are no strings to this loan, because it isn't a loan at all. It's a bet. If you lose, I'll help you get out of the country and absolve you of any indebtedness to me. However, if you should win, I know you'll reimburse me from the national treasury."

"And you do not desire a bonus?"

"Nothing that will cost the citizens of this country one penny of their heritage. I'm going to bet this money—bet it, understand, not loan it. However, if you want to be a sport and grant me a little favor in return, you can."

"Fire away."

"After I give you this money, I don't want the doctor and the colonel to kiss me to show how grateful they are."

"You wonderful fellow! Jack Webster, if I had a sister I should want her to marry you."

"Show how little you'd think of your sister—stating her to a sentimental jackass. Shall I cable the money to New Orleans in the morning?"

"That will do very nicely."

"To whom shall I cable the money?"

"Send it to the Pelayune National bank of New Orleans, with instructions to credit account No. 246, J. E. P., trustee. In this little game we are playing, my friend, it is safer to deal in numbers and initials rather than names. The local cable office leaks quite regularly."

"Very well, Ricardo, I'll attend to it first thing in the morning. Go to it and win, or there'll be several new faces whirling around the devil, not the least of which will be mine. When you charge, remember you're charging for my $40,000—and go through with it. I worked rather hard for that $40,000, and if I must lose it, I do not want to do it in a half-hearted fight. Give me, at least, a bloody run for my money. I'll have a reserved seat somewhere watching the game."

"If you'll take my advice, you'll go aboard La Estrellita and stay there until the issue is decided. When the first gun is fired, it signals the open season on mining engineers who butt in on affairs of state."

"What! And me with a healthy bet down on the result! I hope I'm a better sport than that."

"You're incorrigible. Be careful, then, and don't get yourself potted by a stray bullet."

"Shall I see you fellows before the blow-off?"

"I scarcely think so."

"Then if you're through with me, I'll bid you all good-by and good luck. I'll have dinner with you in the palace Sunday evening."

"Taken."

"May I bring a guest?"

"By all means."

Webster shook hands with the trio and departed for his hotel. For the first time in many years he was heavy of heart, crushed. "Neddy Jerome was right," he soliloquized. "This is the last place on earth for me to have come to. I've made Neddy sure on me, and he's lost patience and put another man in the job he promised me; I've raised Billy's hopes sky-high and had to bet $40,000 to keep them there; I've been fool enough to fall in love with my friend's fiancée; I'm a human cat's paw, and the finest thing I can do now is to go out next Sunday morning with that machine gun company from Leber's warehouse and get killed."

CHAPTER XIV.

The following morning Webster informed Dolores fully of his interview with her brother and his conferees the night before, concealing from her only the fact that he was financing the revolution and his reasons for financing it. He was still depressed, and Dolores, observing his mood, forbore to intrude upon it. Accordingly she claimed the prerogative of her sex—a slight headache—and retreated to her room, in the privacy of which she was suddenly very much surprised to find herself weeping softly because John Stuart Webster was unhappy and didn't deserve to be.

GLEANINGS

Little Miss Lillian Long underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils, at Lewiston last Friday. She returned home Saturday, accompanied by her father and mother. She stood the operation very well and has entirely recovered.

A. J. Aas of Bear ridge was passing the cigars around to his friends in Kendrick, Monday, as his seventy-second birthday was scheduled for Tuesday, just one day before George Washington's birthday.

Rev. Matney, who a number of years ago was pastor of the Methodist church, arrived Wednesday afternoon to assist in the revival meetings being conducted in the Methodist church here.

The local J. O. O. F. Lodge will initiate four candidates at their regular meeting tomorrow night.

Mrs. DeBolt of Lewiston arrived Wednesday afternoon to visit her mother, Mrs. Wm. Cain, on American ridge.

Rev. E. A. Rein of Cameron went to Spokane last Saturday to attend a church conference.

A. V. Dunkle is constructing a wireless telephone, which he will install in his house. He is making a greater part of the equipment here, but will have to send for a few of the standard parts. He expects to have it in operation in about two weeks.

Ben Callison served a scrumptious dinner last Sunday to the following friends and relatives: Mrs. John Roberts, the Frank Roberts family and the Martin Thomas family. Ben prepared the entire meal and after interviewing some of his guests concerning the quality of his cooking, we are prepared to say that he could take first prize in most any domestic science class.

Herman Wilken, who is attending the normal at Lewiston, spent the week end at Cameron with relatives.

Mr. Kavanaugh of Lewiston was a week end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Raaberg. Mr. Kavanaugh is a brother of Mrs. Raaberg.

According to crop reports for 1921, nearly five million pounds of red clover seed were produced in Idaho during the year, from 18,000 acres. It was valued at $48.88 per acre. Practically all of it was shipped out of the state.

Donald Douglas of Drumheller, Alberta, was married the fifteenth of this month to Miss Bernice Loucks of Calgary. Mr. Douglas is well known here, where he attended high school and graduated several years ago. His parents formerly had their home here. The bride and groom will make their home at Drumheller.

The pupils of the high school attended a session of the Farmers' Institute, Thursday afternoon.

The revival meetings which are being carried on in Kendrick have created a great deal of interest on the part of church people of the community. Rev. Forsyth assisted last week and delivered a number of splendid sermons. His place was taken Wednesday evening by Rev. Matney, who will continue to assist Rev. Pickering during the meetings.

Mr. Hamil says money conditions in the middle states are not as good as they are here on account of the greatly inflated land values that took place there several years ago. He thinks the Potlatch country is riding along about as comfortably as any of them.

METHODIST CHURCH.

C. A. Pickering, Minister.

Dr. Forsyth went home Wednesday morning. His preaching was very effective and we regretted seeing him leave. However we had the good fortune to procure the services of Rev. Jas. Matney to continue the meetings. Rev. Matney is well known here because of having filled the pulpit as pastor of this church for about two years. We hope every one will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing the message he has for us.

Preaching services will be held at American Ridge Sunday, February 26.

SMALL FLOCK IN BACK YARD

Two Hens for Each Member of Family Are Recommended as Best by Poultry Specialists.

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least 10 dozen eggs per hen per year from his small flock in the back yard. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about halfway between the average of farm and city consumption. No backyard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Every backyard poultry keeper should try to get as much more as possible. To provide an egg a day for each person, two hens would have to lay 183 eggs each a year.

RUNTY ANIMAL UNPROFITABLE

Undersized and Undeveloped Animals Usually Caused by Improper Care and Poor Feed.

Niggardly methods of feeding and caring for farm live stock are unprofitable. This is one conclusion resulting from an inquiry conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture into the causes and prevention of runtiness among farm animals. Seventy-five per cent of undersized and undeveloped animals, according to a summary of more than 700 opinions advanced by live-stock owners, are due to inferior breeding, inadequate or unsuitable feed, and pests, such as parasites and insects.

The remedy is the better care of better stock, and the cost of this remedy, in the opinion of practical farmers, is much cheaper than the expense of continuing to raise undersized and slow-maturing domestic animals. "Better raise one good cow than two poor ones—a runt is nothing but expense all its life." This opinion, which is typical of many others, is from a Michigan dairyman. A thrifty New Englander sums up sentiment on this topic with the remark, "I find I cannot cheat the animal without cheating myself."
