

NEWS NOTES FROM KENDRICK SCHOOLS

Events of Interest to School Patrons

The evening of the 20th is to be school night at the show. Arrangements have been made with Mr. Oldfield, the manager of the New Kendrick, which give the school the privilege of staging a short vaudeville feat during show night. The students will also have charge of the ticket window, and will act as ushers. This will occur one Friday out of each month and the different grades will alternately take part, the 20th being the selected date for the 7th grade. They will present the playette "King Rough Beard." A certain percent of the proceeds derived will be given to the room in charge. The room staging the best entertainment during the year will receive a reward from Mr. Oldfield.

The following rules and regulations have been adopted by the high school faculty governing the social functions for the coming year:

1. Each class will be allowed two class functions per year plus one each year in high school; thus: Freshmen 3, Sophomores 4, Juniors 5, Seniors 6.

2. All class functions must be scheduled with the Superintendent at least one week before they may be held.

3. No class function may be held on any school night or on nights for school affairs.

4. All class functions must be attended by the class advisor and one other teacher. The superintendent will invite the parents of at least to students of the class. These parents will be the special guests of the class and it is the duty of the class to see that they are properly entertained.

5. All class functions must break up by 11:30 p. m.

6. Class dues must not exceed one dollar per year.

7. No class shall start or keep a charge or open account with any of the merchants.

8. Any class breaking any of these rules will forfeit any or all of its class functions and privileges for the remainder of the year.

Any person desiring cupcakes, muffins, gems, etc. may have their orders filled by the domestic science class if they will notify the instructor, Miss Whitney, a day before the order is needed.

Dr. Otteraaen spent a part of the week at the school giving each student a physical examination including the eyes, ears, nose and throat.

The fifth and sixth grades are beginning their first six weeks tests.

The sixth grade went out to the woods Monday, after school, to look for the White Pine Blister Rust on gooseberry and current bushes. They did not find this fungus on any of the bushes they examined.

The sixth grades original poems for language were very good, the following ones being the best:

The Brook

Happy, happy, little brook,
Oh! so happy you do look,
People call you little stream,
But I know you are a dream,
We will have you in a book,
Oh! so happy little brook.
Down the mountains side you roar,
Like the billows on the shore,
Into the ocean you go tumbling,
Like the roaring sea a-rumbling.
—Robert Dammarell, Age 12,
October 10, 1922.

The Brook

Down the hillside the brook comes tumbling,
Into the ocean it goes a-rumbling;
Laughing and singing along the way,
Passing through meadows and fields of hay.
Over and over the same old trail,
Pushing and rocking the boats so frail;
Birds sing above it as it flows,

Jewell Freng a Suicide

Jewell Freng, life term, sentenced in May 1917 for murdering Lester Gifford, at Lewiston, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor in the prison barber shop, Wednesday morning. Death followed almost instantaneously. Freng was 23 years of age. He applied for a pardon in 1920 but this was denied him.

SPRAYS CONTROL THE LEAF ROLLER

Experimental Work Shows Pest Can Be Controlled.

Attacks of the apple tree leaf roller have been reported from many widely separated sections of the state during the past summer. During 1922 the departments of horticulture, agricultural chemistry and the extension division have co-operated in an experiment in Kootenai county to determine the degree of control of the leaf roller that can be obtained by use of various arsenicals.

Several very definite things have been brought out by this experiment. It has been shown in case of a heavy infection of leaf roller that the larva can be controlled to such an extent that not only the foliage of the tree can be saved but also a fair set of fruit can be obtained. For example, where no special spray was applied for leaf roller, a tree would rarely bear over a dozen apples, while in adjoining rows trees properly sprayed for leaf roller have from 300 to 700 apples. This was a fair yield for trees of the size under observation. To obtain good results two sprays were found necessary, one just as the worms were hatching, which is about the time the Wagener's are in the full pink stage, and another at the time of the calyx spray. It was also found that to be efficient these sprays must be triple the strength of the regular codling moth sprays; that is, 12 pounds of powdered arsenate of lead to 200 gallons. Very good results were obtained with paris green, 6 pounds to 200 gallons, with some lime added to prevent burning. It was apparent that a very strong active poison is necessary to control this pest since the paris green and the acid arsenates of lead gave the best control. One very striking fact brought out was in the use of lime sulfur with the arsenical. In every case where this combined spray was used the value of the spray against leaf roller was almost totally destroyed. For this reason in sections where it is necessary to give a "pink" spray of lime sulfur for scab, it will be necessary to apply a separate spray of lead arsenate for leaf roller. There will be required two separate sprays at calyx spray time, since the sprays can not be satisfactorily combined.

Down to the ocean it always goes;
It goes on forever o'er field and plain,
It sparkles in the sunshine,
It dances in the rain.

Football Season Now With Us; In Action

FOOTBALL'S among us again. From now until Thanksgiving it's the sport we shall here most about! It so happens that this picture is of Captain Charley Buell of Harvard, but it might just as well be taken as symbolical of the grid-iron game which so many college athletes are playing or in training for throughout the country just now

Notes By The Way

Observer has again, during the past week, been observing the farmers in their heroic attempts to stem the tide of the financial crisis that has been threatening to engulf them. The consensus of opinion obtained among farmers is that if prosperity is to come to the country by way of the farmers, which our stump speakers boldly assert, then prosperity is surely postponed another year.

This year's crops are not sufficient to do more than to maintain present conditions which seem far from satisfactory. The farmer must wait another year before he can find relief in the proceeds of another crop. Two crop failures rarely follow each other so it may safely be assumed that there will be a bumper crop a year hence. Then with reasonable prices, which is also a reasonable prediction, the farmer will again stand on both feet.

The conclusion follows as a corollary that the farmer faces another lean year, and with him the merchant and professional man must necessarily share in a year of little promise. Forewarned is forearmed. There remains one rational course to pursue. The word economy, writ large, must be placed over the doorway of every house.

When grim war confronted us, it was rigid economy that tided us over and brought desired results. There never was a period in the history of this country when the careful husbanding of all resources was more necessary than it is in the year before us.

But some one says that such a course carried to its conclusion spells disaster to the merchant, but the farmer is also confronted with the fact that self-preservation is the first law of nature, and that law should be applied in the present day.

Statistics tell us that 95 per cent of the business men of the country fail. Then at this time it becomes the business man, so-called, to interpret the hand writing on the wall. Overhead expenses must be cut to the quick and every form of economy practiced while waiting for the dawn of a better day—for the year of jubilee.

Observer is not a knocker but a booster. He recognizes that better times will not come through inflation. When the cyclone threatens, an orderly retreat into the storm cellar is always the part of wisdom.

Death and taxes are sure but interest payments can be held at the minimum by the application of right business principles. The man who conducts a pay-as-you-go business rarely becomes a bankrupt.

—Observer.

Silflow-Kruger Wedding

A very pretty, tho quiet wedding was solemnized at the Emanuel Lutheran church of Cameron, on October 4th at 2 o'clock, when Miss Martha Silflow and Mr. Gustav Kruger were united in marriage, Rev. E. A. Rein, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, in the presence of friends and relatives.

Both of the young people are active members of the church and Luther League.

The bridal party entered the church and proceeded to the altar, thru three lovely arches, made of evergreens and flowers tied with bows. The altar was banked with evergreens and many colored asters.

Rev. Croneck of Lewiston played Lohengrin's wedding march as a processional and Mendelsohn's bridal march as a recessional with an interlude immediately after the wedding vows were exchanged.

The bride was attended by her older sister, Mrs. A. O. Wegner, as the matron of honor, and her younger sister, Ida Silflow, as maid of honor, and Miss Henrietta Blum, as bride's maid, with little Erna Wegner, as flower girl.

The sheer organdie dresses of the attendants were all made alike in very simple lines. They carried arm bouquets of white asters and tiny white daisies. The little flower girl also wore a dainty dress of white organdie and carried a French basket filled with roses and white daisies.

The groom, attended by the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. A. O. Wegner, approached the altar from the sacristy. The other attendants of the groom were: Henry Wendt and Otto Silflow. Little Harry Wegner, acted as ring-bearer.

The bride was attired in a lovely gown of ivory satin trimmed with silk spanish lace. Her tulle veil was held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms, and fell to the hem of her skirt. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses with a shower of fern and Cecial Brunner rose buds.

After the ceremony, the bridal party, and the immediate family and relatives with all the members of the Luther League proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, where fifty guests were served to a most sumptuous dinner.

The dining room was decorated in

Alexander Spoke Here

Moses Alexander, candidate for governor of Idaho on the democratic ticket was greeted by a crowd of interested taxpayers here last Saturday morning. His entire speech, covering a period of an hour and fifteen minutes, was directed along the line of what is being done with the tax money in the State of Idaho. He quoted figures taken from the books of the state auditor showing the per centage of increase in taxes during the past four years. It was quite evident that his talk made a decided impression on the audience. He talked rapidly and covered his subject amazingly well considering the brief time which he devoted to it. He stated most emphatically that he would be the next governor of Idaho.

THE NEW COPPER CARBONATE METHOD

Treatment of Wheat for Stinking Smut

Many farmers of Latah County and other grain growing counties of Idaho are interested in the new copper carbonate method of treating seed wheat for the prevention of stinking smut. County agents of Idaho are co-operating with Prof. C. W. Hungerford, of the Department of Plant Pathology of the Idaho Experiment Station, in testing this new method thoroly in comparison with the bluestone and formaldehyde methods of seed treatment. Extensive tests will be carried on in Latah County. County Agent O. S. Fletcher reports that demonstrations have been started on 64 farms in 20 communities on 10 different varieties of wheat. On a number of farms two or more varieties of wheat have been treated and on three other farms different brands of copper carbonate are being tried.

When the wheat is headed out next summer, smut counts and stand counts will be made on all of the plots and comparative yields will be determined or estimated. On 20 of the 64 farms on which copper carbonate will be tried, the bluestone and salt, and the bluestone-salt and lime dip treatments will be compared with the copper carbonate. This will make at least three treatment plots on each of the 20 farms.

Each farmer co-operating in these tests keeps a record of the date of seeding; how the wheat not treated with copper carbonate was treated; strength of solution of the treatment for main field; whether the wheat is seeded on summer fallow, and if not, what crop was grown on the land this year; condition of soil at seeding time; and whether or not it rained before or just after seeding.

The standard bluestone method of treatment, which consists in dipping the wheat in a solution made up in the proportion of one pound of bluestone to five gallons of water, has given better smut control than the copper carbonate dust treatment in preliminary tests carried on by the Idaho Experiment Station during the last two years. This has been also true of a limited number of tests carried on in co-operation with farmers in north Idaho. The copper carbonate treatment gave partial control but in general was not so effective as the bluestone.

Mrs. A. W. Ahl spent the week end with Mrs. A. Hooker on Big Bear ridge.

red and white with a protusion of red asters and tiny red hearts. The living room was also decorated in red and white with a huge wedding bell fashioned of Idaho snow-berries and zinnias hung in the center of the room.

The happy couple will make their home on one of the Silflow farms near Cameron. We all join in wishing them a long and happy life.

John Collins has a full grown tobacco plant on exhibition at the pool hall. This plant is one of a number grown on his tract in Deary this year, and if anything in old Virginia has it beaten we'd like to see it.

The plant is perfect in every way with broad finely formed leaves, and was in full bloom when taken up. John expects to mature these plants and then there will be some tall "chawin and spitten" of the genuine article around his place—or does John smoke?—Deary Press.

A change in the ownership of the Troy Garage became effective the first of the month when Dick Condell and J. S. Rogers sold their interests to Johnson, Hildahl & Co. Connected with this firm are Swante Johnson, N. Hildahl, Alfred Sundell and Victor Ruberg, all of whom are well known to our readers. The former owners have been in business here about four years, and have enjoyed a good patronage. After the first of the year Mr. Hildahl, who is an expert mechanic, will have charge of the mechanical end of the business. Mr. Rogers will continue his duties on the ranch while Dick will engage in livery and trucking.—Troy News.

What might have proven a very costly fire to the Farmers union was narrowly averted Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock when an alarm was turned in announcing a fire at the East End elevator. Within a few minutes a large crowd gathered and the incipient blaze was extinguished.

During the day those in charge of the warehouse had been burning an accumulation of trash and while the fire was thought to be out, or nearly so, no fear was felt of the result, but in the meantime the wind came up and fanned the dying embers, blowing the loose ashes from the top. A pile of grain doors had been unloaded near the elevator and the embers were blown onto the pile of doors, which became ignited—and which, had not the blaze been discovered in time would have caused one of the most costly fires Genesee has ever had.—Genesee News.

Ray Whitted and wife, of Orofino passed through town Wednesday on their way to Spokane, and dropped a letter to Mr. and Mrs. F. D. White from the train which stated that the object of their trip was to obtain a settlement with the railroad company for Mr. Whitted's injuries. They thought they might possibly have to go on to St. Paul, unless satisfactory adjustments should be made through the Spokane office. It is understood the railroad company has offered to settle for $1500, but this is not satisfactory to Mr. Whitted.—Julietta Record.

Off the Throne Second Time

KING CONSTANTINE of Greece was forced to abdicate the first time by the allies, because of his policy during the World War. When the war ended, the Greeks put him back on the throne. Then he engaged in a conflict with Turkey, concerning the Greeks' and Turks' conflicting territorial claims. The Turks won. This has compelled him to get off the throne a second time, on this occasion at the demand of the people themselves.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.—Adv.

As is generally the case, the political campaign now upon us, is being waged along the lines of "reducing taxes". It is the same old story, but with this difference, that the voters have never had more cause than now to demand an administration that will bring relief from the excessive burden of taxes that are being levied from year to year in increasingly large doses. Governor Davis' "taxless state" that was to be accomplished under the cabinet form of government (or so the voters were lead to believe) has become a source of ridicule. It may not be the fault of the present administration that these excessive taxes exist; it may even be true that Moses Alexander can't make good when he says that state expenditures will be greatly curtailed as soon as he takes his chair in the state house, but it is a clear case that a continuation of pyramiding taxes every year will eventually bankrupt the state. A relief must be forthcoming.

The article in this issue of the Gazette, written by "Observer" does not apply to condition in the Potlatch country as largely as it does to the Palouse country, which inspired it. Probably there is no other agricultural section of the state that is coming through the period of depression in better shape than the Potlatch. While crop conditions this season were below normal, they were many times better than a failure, and in small localities tributary to Kendrick, were almost in the bumper class. The situation here is not essentially one of economy so much as it is a putting forth of greater effort to pay back bills. There are some who can't pay, but on the other hand there are many who can—but don't. Those who can pay ought to do so, even if it requires a sacrifice to some extent on their part to do so. It would materially boost the credit possibilities of those who need to be carried for another year.

M. E. Church Notes

The revival to increase interest in the religious side of life, and to impress on this community that "Godliness is profitable at all times" is in progress in the M. E. church. The Evangelist, D. L. Clark is broad minded, the past several years he has been engaged in Community church work. He expects and desires that all, Christians, no matter what the brand, will co-operate in lifting Kendrick to a higher standard of social and Christian living. A man's health may fail at any moment, then what has he in his sickness? His wealth may vanish, then what has he in his poverty? His fame may vanish, then what has he in his obscurity? His learning may not turn to any account, then what has he to supply his lack of knowledge? There is one thing needful to arm man for every emergency, that is: "Godliness" which "is profitable at all times." Godliness is a bar to sinful disorders, which even in moderation, keep one in perpetual agitation, deprive one of peace, rob one of sleep and make man as fiendish as a devil and brutal as a beast. The end of these things is endless death. The wise man writes: "The fear of the Lord prolongeth days. "Godliness is a fountain of life to guard us from the snares of death. I commend godliness as the best mental discipline, better than etiquette to purify the taste, better than mathematics to harness the mind, better than logic to marshal the intellectual forces. It will go with Hugh Miller and show him the footprints of the Creator in the red sandstone; it will go with the botanist and show him celestial glories encamped under the curtain of the water lily, it will go with the astronomer on the great heights where God shepherds the great flock of worlds that wander on the hill of heaven.

These meetings if attended will produce in every life, sociability, friendliness, good will, the co-operative spirit and above all, if you are open to the leading of the Divine

THE GREAT CHANGE

HOW time flies! Soon it will be Nov. 11—and the World War will have been over for four years. It seems like yesterday.

Trouble has followed trouble in the wake of the war. And these troubles probably will be followed by similar troubles for many generations. The war was a great surgical operation in which various diseased organs of civilization were removed. Now the patient is convalescing. In adapting itself to the changes, it has occasional relapses, known as crises.

Some of the permanent changes, born of the war, already are in evidence. Russia, having thrown off czarism, gropes its way toward true democracy, which will come.

Germany, the same. Either of these countries might suddenly have a return to monarchical form of government, but that would be short-lived, as the history of France demonstrates. People who have once tasted the sweets of democracy do not for long return to the sour of king-rule.

A brotherhood of man, a sense of obligation to our fellows, has come from the war and is growing steadily. It will lead to a "live and let live" policy toward foreign nations by all countries.

A reader with vision suggests that eventually the war will doom the ruling of any people against their will.

Another reader, contemplating the upset condition of the world's system of economics, suggests that we may be headed for the day when the man who doesn't work will not eat.

Terrible as the war was, it will lead to incalculably great good of many kinds, principally in the form of an international determination that "it must not happen again."

THE algerettes and bird of paradise plumes in this case are a few among thousands confiscated by the government. To get such feathers, the hunter must kill mother birds. This slaughter is bad enough, but what's worse, it leaves the young to starve. So the government prohibits it within the United States. It can't prohibit it in foreign lands, but it can and does forbid importation of the feathers. They're seized when the attempt is made. In the picture, Miss Evelyn Wilson of the Department of Agriculture is seen examining some beautiful specimens acquired thus.

INDICATION OF LAYING HENS

Spread of Distance Apart of Pelvic Bones is Valuable Sign of Fowl's Condition.

As a hen stops laying there is a tendency for her to take on fat. This is noticeable in examining the pelvic bones, the two bones which can be felt as points on either side of the vent. When the hen is laying these bones become comparatively thin and flexible. When she is not laying they feel thicker and less flexible, due to the fat which has accumulated there. The spread of distance apart of these pelvic bones is also a valuable indication of whether or not the hen is laying. When laying they are wider apart than when not laying.

EARLY HATCHED FOWLS BEST

Pullets Mature So That They Begin to Lay in Fall When Fresh Egg Supply is Low.

Every fall hens take a vacation. In doing so they have very important business on hand. Typically feminine by nature, they insist upon having a new dress each fall. During their vacation they are engaged in shedding their old plumage and in growing new, and their energy is so occupied in this way that they lay few or no eggs. The process of molt or changing their plumage takes at least three months on the average, and it is due to this three months' vacation that the supply of fresh eggs is so scarce during the fall and winter. Early hatched pullets mature so that they begin to lay in the fall and early winter, and it is upon these early hatched pullets that the poultry keeper must depend for his supply of eggs during the time the old hens are molting and resting from their labors as egg producers. So if you want eggs when the old hens have quit laying, be sure that you hatch early and have a nice bunch of early hatched pullets coming along to supply the eggs at that time.

Ranchers in West Study Result of Breeding Work.

Particularly Interested in Noted Sire, Prince of Parowan—Uniformity and Good Type Produced Are Exhibited.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Ranchers from Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, and Montana, about 200 persons in all, recently attended a field day at the government sheep farm in eastern Idaho, where they studied the results of the breeding work done by the department, particularly that with Rambouillets. The famous Rambouillet ram, Prince of Parowan, attracted much attention from these range sheepmen. This ram, a particularly high-class sire, produced nearly 120 sons and daughters on the ranch last year. Of these, 28 selected rams and 58 ewes were exhibited in pens to show the uniformity and good type produced by the sire. Some of his grandsons were so much like his sons that it was difficult to pick them out. Stockmen consider that this ram is a "find" and equal to the best of the breed.

In addition to the breeding work on this range station studies are being made of various methods of year-round management and the effects on yields of wool and lambs, range improvement by grazing studies and re-seeding of abandoned areas of the range, shed lambing, and methods of watering sheep on parts of the range distant from water. Fences are now built so that it will be possible to carry out experiments on the use of range to the full capacity.

BABY BEEF VERY PROFITABLE

Production Can Be Made on Land Worth Not More Than $150 Per Acre—Always "Toppers."

Baby beef production can be made most profitable on land worth not more than $150 an acre, of which at least 50 per cent is easily cultivated, says W. H. Peters, acting chief of the animal husbandry division of the University of Minnesota. By baby beef production, he says, is meant the growing, fattening and marketing of beef calves at ages ranging from 12 to 24 months, 18 to 24 months being the most economical at which to sell. "With sufficient fat on them when placed on the market, baby beefs are always market toppers," Professor Peters says. "Baby beef production allows raising of more calves on the same amount of land than does production of stock or feeder cattle. Each good baby beef steer should sell for $30 to $50 more when one and one-half years old than the average feeder steer will bring at two and one-half years of age."

British Troops Ready for Battle With Turks Near Constantinople

BRITISH troops are pictured here, prepared to resist an advance by Kemal Pasha's Turkish forces upon Constantinople. This city, once the Turks' capital, was internationalized by the allies after the war. But after Kemal had beaten the Greeks in Asia Minor, he demanded Constantinople back, too. France and Italy inclined to sympathize with his demand, but the English declared they would fight first. The scene is near the city.

STATES GETTING WAR MATERIAL FOR ROADS

All Sorts of Supplies and Equipment Delivered.

Texas and New York Lead With Nearly $8,000,000 Worth and Other States Go Over Million Dollar Mark—Lots Left.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Surplus war material valued at $130,773,986 was delivered to the states for use in road construction up to July 1, reports the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. The material, which consisted of all sorts of supplies and equipment suitable for road building for which the War department had no further need, was distributed on the same basis as monetary federal aid.

In value of material delivered, Texas and New York lead with nearly $8,000,000 worth of material, and every state with the exception of five of the smaller ones received supplies valued at over $1,000,000.

This material has been of great value in road construction, and there is hardly a county in the United States in which some of it has not been used.

Probably of greatest value has been the 29,325 motor vehicles distributed, consisting of 24,752 trucks and 4,573 automobiles, and in addition a large number of tractors.

The system of distribution has been so arranged that the states requisition only material useful to them. In some cases they fall behind in allotments in order to wait for material particularly desired. Many of the states have shown great ingenuity in conditioning worn equipment, using war material to equip shops in which other war material is made suitable for use.

There is still a large quantity of material in this country for distribution. This will be further increased by material used by the army of occupation in Germany soon to be brought back.

NEED PERMITS FOR BANDING

Biological Survey Is Anxious to Have as Many Collaborators as Possible for Success.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Federal permits are necessary in all cases for bird-banding work, says the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. The survey is anxious to have as many collaborators as possible, but success depends largely on complete co-operation between officials and collaborators.

State permits also are required in many cases. Some states issue them without charge to collaborators, when notified by the biological survey that the applicant has a federal permit. Others have taken the position that the federal permit is sufficient authority. Each operator should be informed as to the attitude of his state game officials and be prepared to co-operate with them at all times.

USE DISINFECTANTS TO PREVENT LOSSES

Sanitary Terms Are Explained for Benefit of Laymen.

Condensed Information Prepared by Department of Agriculture for Those Farmers Who Misunderstand Correct Use.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Pointing out that an insecticide is not a dependable disinfectant and that there is a wide difference between an antiseptic and a deodorant, the United States Department of Agriculture emphasizes the use of the right preparation in disinfecting premises. Sanitation is especially important in preventing losses from animal diseases, and, along with attention to cleanliness, disinfectants are frequently necessary, especially after an outbreak of a contagious disease. Here is condensed information on the subject, prepared as a result of the department's experience in advising persons who misunderstand the purpose and correct use of disinfectants.

The word "infected" means contaminated with or affected by disease germs; "disinfected" means freed of disease germs. A "disinfectant" is a product that destroys disease germs or renders them harmless. An "antiseptic" is a substance that prevents the development and growth of disease germs, but an antiseptic is not a disinfectant unless it is capable of destroying disease germs in addition to preventing their growth.

A disinfectant is not necessarily an "insecticide," for some powerful disinfectants are relatively harmless for insects and the best insecticides may be of little value as disinfectants.

Formaldehyde is one of the most powerful disinfectants known, but it is a very weak insecticide; and, conversely, hydrocyanic acid is deadly for insects and all forms of animal life, while it has little power as a germicide or disinfectant. It is well to remember also that "deodorants" are not necessarily disinfectants—one destroyer odors, the other destroys germs.

No single disinfectant is appropriate in all cases. Select the proper substance, apply liberally, allow ample time for the disinfectant to do its work, and remember that success depends in large part upon the care and exactness of the person who prepares and applies the disinfectant.

KEEP YOUNG STOCK GROWING

Succulent Green Feed, Variety of Grain, Fresh Water and Shade Are of Importance.

So long as the young stock have plenty of succulent green food, a variety of grain, fresh water, shade and exercise, together with well-ventilated sleeping quarters, they will grow like the proverbial weed, but if the growth is stunted by the lack of any one of these essentials, gain is slower even when conditions become normal than it would have been. The poultry grower gets tired; surely the chickens ought to be all right for one night—but that very night is the night the chickens take to pile up. Morning finds the half-grown stock gaunted; a day or so shows them with the dirty nostrils that come when the catarrhal discharge has filled with dust.

A cold from crowding soon becomes a roopy cold unless prompt action heads it off, and one night's neglect has cost dearly.

Keep them growing by giving more room through culling market stock as fast as it develops, and by providing shade.

Life Lines BY HMC

PERHAPS my older sister's right to paint and powder up; perhaps her lips should have their touch of red. No doubt she aims to look her best before it's time to sup and keep that way until she goes to bed.

Why, all the older sisters in the nation do the same. It's just a touch the ladies all demand. And one might say it's simply putting faces in a frame—a frame that's sure to crumple, understand.

The little dabs of color that are blotted here and there, may hide a run of wrinkles on the face. But quicker still, enough of sleep and proper open air, will bring plump cheeks to take the wrinkles' place.

It seems that Mother Nature surely knows the worldly part, that ever and anon she has to play. And yet the paint and powder make a mixup of her chart. Her chance of showing much is small today.

Yet, I have seen my sister when she's just her own sweet self, when all the works of nature have the call. At early morn, her paint and powder still upon the shelf, well—honestly, she looks the best of all.

STANTON BROS.

"Where the New Things Are Newest"

DRIVEN ONTO DESERT WITH HER BABY SON

"If a stick or stone strikes this child I'll kill the person that throws it!"

All her protective maternal instinct had been aroused by the narrow-minded women composing the "Home Purity League," who drove her and her baby out of the village. It was sixty miles across the desert to the nearest town, and she was on foot, without food and with no protection against coyotes or marauding Indians.

"The Sage Hen" they called her, that being a name the old West gave to women of doubtful character. Because she lived alone with her son and held her peace, she was an object of suspicion, but, had they known all, perhaps their hearts would have been moved to pity.

"The Sage Hen" is the title of Edgar Lewis' newest production for Pathe and showing at the New Kendrick Theatre Friday and Saturday. It is an outdoor drama and forcefully visualizes the power of mother love. The action transpires in a small Arizona town during the gold rush days.

Gladys Brockwell plays the title role. Charming Lillian Rich and handsome Wallace McDonald play the romantic leads. Others in important parts are Helen Case, Arthur Morrison, James Mason, Alfred Allen and three-year-old Richard Headrick.

POULTRY NOTES

As the chicks grow they need more room. It does not pay to let them crowd.

Beware of musty, mouldy, sour, or decayed food. It is sure to cause trouble.

Tough grass is of no value as a green food. Better sow some quick growing crop.

Feed hoppers greatly reduce the work. If they are kept filled, the chicks will never get hungry.

Two-year-old hens had better be sent to the market. They seldom pay for their feed if kept over the third season.

Grit and oyster shell should be included in the ration for both young and old. To neglect this would be poor economy.

Do not make the mistake of feeding too much in the early days of the fattening process. It should ever be kept in mind that the appetite must be preserved unimpaired.

Mr. Oldfield has had several years' experience in the banking business, so the work is not new to him. He sold his watch repair business to C. B. James J. Keane, candidate on the democratic ticket for the office of sheriff of Latah county, and Will F. Morgareidge, candidate for auditor were in Kendrick last Saturday to hear Moses Alexander. They have a wide acquaintance in this part of the county as they are both seasoned campaigners. Mr. Keane filled the office of sheriff of this county for several terms before there were such conveniences thru the rural districts as telephones and automobiles. He can tell some interesting stories concerning some of the happenings during his term of office. Mr. Morgareidge was probate judge for many years and was postmaster of Moscow for four years.

RED CLOVER MILDEW SERIOUS THIS YEAR

Severe Infestation Has Appeared in Several States.

Department of Agriculture Anxious to Secure Reports From Various Sections, Particularly as Affecting Horses.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The first severe infestation of mildew on red clover in this country has appeared east of the Mississippi from Wisconsin to Georgia this year. This mildew makes the plants look white. Last fall it was quite prevalent in the South and is worse there this summer. The amount of harm it does is a question yet unanswered. Some reduction in the yield of hay is due to it.

Turning Under Red Clover to Improve the Soil.

but this is not great. There are rumors, however, that the eating of mildewed hay causes inflammation in horses' mouths. The Ohio experiment station reports a quotation from a German writer stating that mildewed clover hay causes stomatitis in horses.

Unfortunately the exact identity of the mildew on American red clover has not yet been determined. When American seed is planted side by side with European seed, the mildew appears on the plants from American seed while only a trace of mildew appears on those from European seed.

The United States Department of Agriculture would be glad to get reports regarding the mildew in different parts of the country. It is particularly interested in learning if horses eating the mildewed red clover hay are affected.

EFFICIENT THRESHING HINTS

Uniform, but Not Too Rapid Feeding. Constant Speed of Machine and Adjustment.

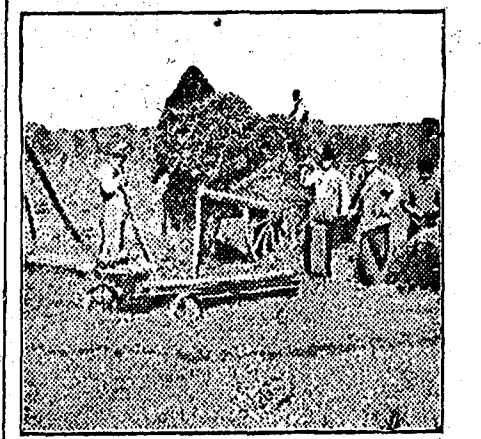

A few points to keep in mind for efficient threshing are: uniform feeding, not too rapid feeding, constant speed of the machine, and proper adjustment. Many times when a thresherman is anxious to complete his job, the work is rushed through at considerable loss to the owner of the grain. Greater personal interest in each job usually makes the small threshing outfit more desirable than the large one. With the large outfit a part of the crew is usually a long distance from home and they do not have the same interest in the work as when the engine crew is made up of men on adjacent farms.

BALED HAY EASILY HANDLED

Space Required for Given Amount is Greatly Reduced and Can Be Shipped More Readily.

Loose hay is a bulky product and extremely difficult to handle in large quantities. Before the practice of pressing hay into bales became common it was difficult and expensive to transport this feed except to the extent of loading it on wagons and hauling it to a nearby town or city. As a result, the matter of supply and demand was quite largely local, and frequently there was wide variation in prices offered in different localities.

With the coming of the hay press, it was possible to put hay into bales, which were easily handled, greatly reducing the space required for a given amount of hay, and making it possible to transport hay for long distances at costs which were not prohibitive.

A recent investigation shows that in some states as many as ten per cent, or more, of the farms are equipped with hay-balers and in many cases the hay that is stored and used on the farm is baled because of the increased economy in storage and the convenience in handling.

DOULTRY NOTES

Cockerels to be kept for breeding purposes should be handled in a similar manner to pullets.

Young stock will do better if not compelled to pick their living with the old. There will also be less trouble from lice.

Misshappen eggs are always penalized by the market and bring an inferior price to smooth, even, perfectly shaped eggs.
