

NEWS NOTES FROM KENDRICK SCHOOLS

Events of Interest to School Patrons

The physical examinations have been completed and the results will be discussed at the Parent-Teachers meeting which will be held Friday, November 3. This meeting has been postponed owing to institute week.

Don't forget that tonight is "School Night" at the show. The 7th grade has a very pleasing play-lette which they will present.

The story is a simple tale of court life, and it pictures to us the grief that befalls a princess because of her refusal to obey her father's wishes. She learns a lesson and becomes a happy princess again as a result of it. The characters in "King Rough Beard" are as follows: King Rough Beard, Wilson Rogers Father to the princess, Ellis Carlile The princess, Ruby May Ladies in waiting, Thelma Perryman, Murrelye Onstott. Gentlemen in waiting, Delbert Turner, Manning Onstott.

The following students received these exceedingly high grades in the last seventh grade history examination: Ellis Carlile 99; Hester Knepper 98; Shirley Clem 97; Rush Chamberlain 95; Pearl Johnson 95. These grades show the kind of work that the seventh graders are capable of doing.

The first of a series of Mental Ability Tests was given in the upper grades of the school this week. This particular test was Terman's Group Test of Mental Ability.

The pupils of the fourth grade who have stood at the head of their class in geography, in their recitation work for the week are as follows: Lillian Long, twice; Billy Wilmot, once; Josephine Strauch, once; Helen Clem, once; Viola Schneider, once.

Those in history who won credits in their recitation work for the week are: Helen Clem, Archie Candler, Juanita Stanton, Lillian Long.

Those receiving the highest percent in both subjects in written work, were: Helen Clem and Josephine Strauch.

We are all getting ready for Halloween. Black cats and witches are prowling about.

The pupils of the third grade who have won class honors for the week are as follows: Edna Bolon, Hazel Reid, May Sturdevant, Jack Plummer, Gladys Reece, Bonnie Candler, Wayne Lewis, Donald Candler, William Holt.

The local school library received a gift of six interesting books from Mrs. E. W. Lutz this week. Her kind interest is much appreciated by the students and faculty.

Cameron Star Club

A number of the young men of Cameron met Wednesday evening to form a social club. Considerable enthusiasm was shown in favor of the idea so preliminary work of organization was completed. The name "Cameron Star Club" was chosen, but the club will be known as the C. S. C. It is proposed to purchase the old school building, remodel it and make a club room of it, the floor to be prepared for dancing. A dance will be held at Cameron a week from tonight, October 27, and the proceeds turned into the club treasury.

Kendrick Needs a Dentist

Dr. Veon closed his dental office here last week to accept a position in Seattle. This leaves a splendid opening for a dentist who likes a small town and is willing to work up a good business. There is more work in this territory than one man can take care of—if he gets the business. From a business standpoint there are few better locations in this part of the country.

Game Wardens in Bad

M. B. Dallas, deputy game warden and Jos Meek, inadvertently ran into a bunch of pheasants and fell from grace. Both were called on the carpet, Tuesday morning, by Deputy Game Warden L. E. Brooks, and appeared before Justice of the Peace, Max Griffith where they were assessed $25 fine each. The two men, accompanied by their wives, were out for a pleasure trip Sunday, and ran into a bunch of the pheasants, which proved too much of a temptation. Meek was charged with violating the China pheasant law and Dallas, as deputy, for permitting him to do so.—Star-Mirror.

Always Got a Good Seat

"Sir," said a poor woman to a minister in the south who was by no means a popular preacher, "well do I like the day when you give us the sermon." "Indeed," said the minister, flushing with pleasure. "I wish there were more like you, my good woman; it is seldom I hear such words from any one." "Maybe their hearing's better than mine, sir," said the woman promptly; "but when you preach I can always get a good seat."

Death of W. D. Smith

W. D. Smith, age 65, veteran Northwestern newspaper man, died recently at Spokane. Mr. Smith was born in Illinois and moved to Minnesota in 1872. Twenty years ago he moved to Moscow and was editor of the Moscow Mirror for a number of years, following which he was interested in a newspaper at Spirit Lake and then at Ritzville, where he was postmaster for four years. His last newspaper work was as city editor of the Kallispell Bee.

Mrs. Henry Hill

Word was received here Thursday morning that Mrs. Henry Hill died, Wednesday of this week, at her home in St. Maries. No details of her death were available. The funeral arrangements are in charge of the local Woodmen Lodge. It is understood that the body will arrive on the afternoon train Saturday and the funeral procession will go direct from the train to the cemetery, where the burial service will be held.

Mrs. Hill was a resident of this locality for many years and had host of friends here and in the surrounding country. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. S. Baird, three sons, Andrew, Charlie and John, and her husband.

Big Bear Ridge

Halvor Lien purchased a new 1923 model Buick touring car last week. The car was delivered by W. L. Hedge of the Hugo Motor Co., of Moscow.

Tony Eichner of American ridge spent the week end with Dwight Ingle.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jones and family have moved into the Amos Moore house.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dalberg and children of Avon were visiting at the J. J. Slind and Halvor Lien homes the first of the week.

Miss Esther Kluth spent last week in Lewiston with her sister, Mrs. Dewitt Penland.

The Girls' Sewing Club was entertained by Miss Johanna Hesby at her home in Deary, Saturday afternoon. The annual business meeting and election of officers was held with the following results: Bertina Forest, chairman; Helen Slind, vice-chairman; Johanna Hooker, secretary; Anna Lien, treasurer.

Commissioner Haynes was heckled in a recent prohibition speech in Chicago.

"Suppose, friends," he said, "that I had here a bucket of water and a bucket of beer, and suppose I brought a donkey on, which bucket do you think he would drink?"

"He'd drink the water," said a voice from the gallery.

"Precisely," said Commissioner Haynes, "He'd drink the water. And why would he drink the water, friends?"

"Because," said the voice, "he's an ass."

Opposing Commanders in Fight For Baseball Championship

THESE are the opposing leaders in the contest for the baseball championship of the world—John J. McGraw, veteran manager of the New York Giants, and Miller Huggins, standard-bearer of the Yankees, of the same city, as the McGraw team. The two are pictured in uniform, just as they appeared on the field of combat, in the recent world series of games.

Big Hunt at Three Links Creek

Party of Three Hunters Bring Back Limit of Elk From the Heart of the Bitterroot Mountains

Martin Thomas returned last Sunday from his annual big hunt and, as usual, got his elk. He kept a diary which he has kindly allowed us to use for an account of the trip. Three men made up the party: John Stevens and Jim Langdon of Juliaetta and Martin Thomas of Kendrick. Mr. Langdon and Mr. Thomas are seasoned sour dough hunters with years of experience in the woods, back of them, but for Mr. Stevens, it was his first big hunt.

The party left Kendrick September 24 with a hack and 7 pack horses. At the John Thomas place near Peck, they picked up two more horses so that each of the party might have a saddle horse and two pack horses. The first stop was made at the John Thomas place. The second day camp was pitched 6 miles beyond Kamiah. That night a train stampeded 6 of the horses and it required the better part of the following day to get them together again. On the 27th it was decided to remain in camp as it was raining, which would make travel disagreeable. The next day packs were put on the horses and the journey resumed as far as the Ross Hoffman place at the forks of the Lochsa and Selway. Mr. Hoffman is carrying the mail from Kooskia to Lowell. He is also quite a hunter, so it is safe to say there were some great yarns told around the fire that night.

On the 29th the party crossed the river, taking the trail over the divide between the Lochsa and Selway. This was a hard day as the trail was an up-hill climb for 12 miles over a very rough country. Camp was made beyond Cool Water Station. The next day found them at Three Links Creek, which is the place where Al Roberts, Jim Langdon, Frank Lyons and Wesley Thomas were snowed in two years ago and had to wade snow 3 feet deep for 13 days before reaching the river again. That was a harrowing experience, but is another story.

At Three Links creek it was decided to stop for a while and explore the country, so on October 1, the opening of the big game season, the party started south over the mountain for a day's hunt. A coyote and deer were seen and the whistle of an elk heard, but no meat to show for the day. Next day two hunters covered the same territory, while Martin Thomas went down the creek to hunt a more favorable camping place on lower ground. He found good camp and plenty of elk sign but on his discovered found that the mighty hunters had bagged two elk, so it was unanimously decided to leave well enough alone and establish camp permanently.

On the 3rd all members of the party started after the elk meat, which is usually the hardest work of a big hunt. After skinning the two elk and packing the meat, the hunters began the return journey and before they reached camp, Martin Thomas shot his elk.

The next few days were devoted to the work of salting and smoking the meat. This required the building of a smoke house, which was soon accomplished.

On the night of the 5th camp was raided by a party of game wardens and two Moscow hunters, who were out for a tour of inspection and incidentally a hunting trip as a side issue. The party was composed of the U. S. Deputy Game Warden of New York, the state game warden of Kansas, State Game Warden Jones of Idaho, Deputy State Game Warden Kjort of Kooskia; C. J. Hugo and Mr. Renfrew of Moscow and a Mr. Wagner, who was horse wrangler and cook. The party had a movie camera and took a number of reels of the pack train, which consisted of 20 horses and mules, as it was climbing over the rough and rugged trail which wound around over the crags and the Devil's Ladder.

On the 6th Messrs. Langdon and Stevens went goat hunting but had no luck. On the following day the creek was whipped for trout, but no fish. On the 8th the goat hunters again tried their luck but didn't get their goat. That evening three Indians, Tom Hill and his son-in-law, both of Kooskia, and Henry Elk of Lapwai, made camp across the creek. Shortly after their arrival they shot a black bear in plain sight of the camp.

On the 9th Jim went after his goat, Martin remained to smoke meat and John stayed in camp, slightly under the weather.

On the 10th packs were put on and the pack train headed for home. Louise Lake was reached after 4 1/2 hours hard travel. A stop was made for a day to hunt deer, but it proved a fruitless hunt. The following day Hoffman's place was reached, then to Kooskia on the 13th, where the meat was sent home by express, and to Kamiah that evening where the hack was made ready and the journey resumed the next morning, the arrival home being on the 15th.

Mr. Thomas, who knows the mountains of the upper Clearwater country probably as well as any man in the state, says that the country covered by this trip is the

Money in Clover Seed

E. C. Gertje, of Southwick, has demonstrated over a period of years that clover seed can be profitably grown in the Potlatch. He has been producing seed for market for a good many years and has found that it pays him a very good profit. This year from 43 acres he threshed an average of 115 pounds to the acre. This was a light crop as his average is about 300 pounds. A sack weighs about 130 pounds and he sold his surplus seed to Washburn & Wilson at Moscow for $23.50 per sack, in the dirt.

It is a very encouraging symptom that this summer he sold a large amount of seed to his neighbors, so it is safe to say that the clover acreage around Southwick will be largely increased next year.

Mr. Gertje harvests three crops of seed from a field and then plows it up, as the ground gets too foul if left to the same crop longer than that length of time. The land after a rest of several years and, having a renewed stock of humus, is in condition to raise splendid grain crops. The clover straw is good winter feed for stock and is a valuable by-product.

Mr. Gertje says that because of the fact for three successive crops it is not necessary to plow or seed the ground, the amount received for a clover seed crop represents practically clear profit, after deducting the cost of harvesting and threshing. He has been at the business for the past seven years and after trying out this crop over that period of time, he is in a position to know that it can be made to pay.

Ernest Schmidt, of Leland, seeded 24 acres to clover several years ago. Last year he got 55 sacks, and this year 53 sacks from the patch. This year he cleared $960 on the crop.

The railroad strike hampered lumber shipments but still the industry makes a record movement of products.

In April, 1922, building contracts awarded in the 27 Northeastern states reached the unprecedented sum of $353,192,000. The April record was 20% higher than that of the preceding month, and 60% ahead of April, 1921.

Contracts for first four months of year amounted to slightly less than a billion dollars.

May and June of this year carried the building boom even higher, and led to the expectation that the total for 1922 will be far greater than that of any other year.

About 40% of all building is for residential purposes. About 15% is for business, and about 8% is for industrial purposes.

Lumber is the great American building material for the man of moderate means and is indispensable in our great industrial building programs which require lumber in making forms for concrete, etc.

Helton Has Fox Farm

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Helton, and Mrs. Helton's mother, Mrs. Zigler, of the Potlatch ridge near Juliaetta, were visitors here this week says the Lewiston Tribune. They have sold their ranch in that section and are preparing to start a fox farm at Pierce City. The arrangements for the project, to be located on the farm of Frank Eller, have been made, and Mr. Helton will be caretaker. It is said that enough stock has been taken to launch the work in good style, and that they will start with about nine or ten pair of the valuable animals. The location of the farm adjoining Pierce City is considered to be ideal, a fine hill being on the farm and the best of spring water.

roughest that he has ever seen in the Bitterroot Mountains. From the high points in the Crags lakes can be seen in all directions. He traveled thru the same country 18 years ago and on other occasions since.

There was good horse feed all through the mountains and the horses came through the trip in fine shape.

It was a lucky trip as the party only saw three elk, all told, and got them all. One was a 6 point bull, one a spike horn bull and the other a young bull elk with stub horns.

It was a quick trip for big game, requiring 5 days travel going in and 4 1/2 coming out.

LATAH COUNTY NEWS PARAGRAPHS

Clipped From The Columns of Neighboring Papers.

W. F. Albright is a candidate for sheriff of Nez Perce county on the Progressive ticket. Mr. Albright made this fact known last week after his friends had persuaded him to make the race against the republican and democratic nominees. Mr. Albright is an energetic and enterprising citizen and no doubt would fill the position most satisfactory if elected. He is well known over Nez Perce county and the prospects are good that he will have liberal support from the voters in his candidacy. —Juliaetta Record.

Miss Edna Clark of Moscow addressed a meeting of mothers and school teachers at the High School Tuesday afternoon. Miss Clark was accompanied by Mrs. Frances M. Wann, of Boise, Staff Nurse of Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis Association, who also addressed the meeting. Nutrition classes were proposed by Miss Clark and enthusiastically voted on by those present. It was also suggested that hot lunches be served to the school children. An inspection committee was formed. Mrs. McComb was chosen leader with Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Bodin as assistants. The work of inspection by Miss Clark of the Troy public schools will begin Monday morning.—Troy News.

If a merchant or a banker, or a farmer, or an editor, for that matter, becomes involved in a row with his employees and has to close down his place of business for weeks or months he accepts his loss as a man should.

The coal operators, however, are not of this class. They are saddling their loss onto the public in the shape of enormously increased prices of coal, and are profiteering in a conscienceless and shameless manner. And since Washington appears unwilling to perform its duty, the public becomes the goat and pays its pound of flesh.—Genesee News.

Next week will mark the beginning of actual construction work on that portion of the Moscow-Bovill state highway lying within Highway District No. 3. The highway board, at a special meeting held last Monday, cleaned up some matters regarding the right-of-way east of Deary, which gives them an opportunity to begin work. It is the intention of the board to complete the road from Helmer to Deary this fall. Mrs. Olive St. Michel, whose opposition to the right-of-way across her farm, has been the source of considerable discussion, met with the board Monday and closed up a compromise arrangement. She accepted $200 as liquidated damages and signed a right-of-way deed.

This week the Commissioners made some improvements on the Pine Creek road near the Harlan place, using the tractor and grader.

The work had been left uncompleted last spring.—Deary Press.

George Moody of Potlatch has been appointed deputy in the Latah county sheriff's office by John L. Woody, according to an announcement made Tuesday. Mr. Moody succeeds L. G. Peterson, who resigned to accept the position of Moscow city clerk, left vacant by the death of Judge J. K. Strong.

Mr. Moody is thoroughly competent to handle the deputyship and the appointment has met with general approval. For the past year he has been an automobile salesman at Potlatch and for a number of years previous he has been employed by the Potlatch Lumber company.

Since Mr. Peterson's resignation, Chief Deputy Charles Summerheld has been acting as office deputy.—Star-Mirror.

The Charles Graham Flour mill at Peck, Idaho, will have milled 2600 barrels of flour by the end of the season, according to reports received at Spokane. The mill began the season's run two months ago and has been running night and day. The run will be finished in a few weeks.

How the Victorious Turks Entered Vanquished City of Smyrna

THIS is the first authentic picture taken in Smyrna after its capture from the Greeks by Kemal Pascha's Turkish forces. It shows an armed band of Turkish irregulars marching through the streets, which are lined with terror-stricken Greek and Armenian refugees, their belongings piled beside them. Within a short time after the photograph was taken a large part of the city was in flames. Of the refugees, great numbers lost their lives.

Life Lines

A PERSON likely grows real tired of eating, every day, the same old things for breakfast, so it seems. It's scrambled eggs, or soft boiled eggs, or fixed some other way, until you fairly eat them in your dreams.

Then breakfast foods are always there to test the appetite. The same old stories, served in usual style. No wonder palates fairly about such treatment isn't right—won't some one change the menu for a while?

It's frazzled ham and hashed up spuds and this and that and those, until the morning food does not appeal. A little touch of newness and a changing, goodness knows, would add a touch of taste to such a meal.

And, yet, on second thinking we must openly admit that one dish all this line of chatter breaks. It's just the good old-fashioned food that always makes a hit—now who on earth will turn down buckwheat cakes?

MALES FAVOR SCRATCH FEED

Better Plan to Have Medium Sized Fowls Than Too Large, Especially for Breeding.

Cockerels, usually eat more scratch feed and less mash than the pullets do. Feeds which develop a medium sized bird are better than to have the cockerels develop into too large roosters, especially those to be saved for breeding purposes.

BATTLE AGAINST BARBERRY PLANT

Digging Must Be Complete and Thorough in Order Not to Leave Pieces of Roots.

BUSHES DIFFICULT TO KILL

Large Number of Seedlings Sometimes Are Found Growing Under Dead Plants That Were Dug When in Fruitage Stage.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In carrying on the fight against the common barberry, the plant that harbors stem rust of wheat, the United States Department of Agriculture has found that it is very important to do the job of digging thoroughly and to destroy plants having berries, even though they are only partly matured. The bushes are hard to kill, and seeds from plants that were dug August 1 produced a high percentage of seedlings.

The proper way to remove barberry bushes is to dig deep enough to remove all the roots.

After the bushes are taken out the tops should be separated from the crown and balls of earth shaken from the roots. Grubbed bushes, lying on the ground, have been found producing green leaves. In such cases one or more roots were in contact with the soil. Some of the grubbed bushes were completely severed from the soil, but there was enough earth left on the roots to hold moisture until secondary roots were formed. This condition happens most frequently in wet weather or in moist woodlands.

Seedlings Under Dead Bushes.

Great numbers of seedlings sometimes are found growing under dead bushes that were dug when in fruit. The last of September berries were collected from bushes dug August 1, and 1,000 of them (about 2,000 seeds) were scattered on loose earth and lightly covered with dirt and leaves. The following June there were 282 seedlings on this area. The same number of berries were collected from standing bushes at the same time and sown under similar conditions. The following June there were 307 seedlings on the area, showing that the immature seeds were almost as viable as the matured ones. It is probable that seeds from bushes grubbed out even before August will grow, and for this reason it is important, says the department, to destroy them.

Advisable to Watch Sprouts.

It also is advisable to watch the sprouts that may come up where old barberry plants have been taken out. These sprouts produce seed much earlier than bushes that grow directly from seeds. Bushes were dug in the fall of 1920. That same fall sprouts were produced, and during the following year they grew vigorously. By 1922 these plants were bearing flowers in abundance. This summer, therefore, special attention must be given to places where bushes were dug in 1920 or earlier, says the department.

KEEN INTEREST IN POULTRY

Between 50 and 75 Letters Seeking Information Received by Animal Industry Bureau.

Many requests for information on poultry raising—averaging between 50 and 75 letters a day since early in the year—are reported by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. In addition the supply of poultry literature distributed by the division of publications has surpassed the records of all previous years.

The department's literature on poultry raising is unusually complete, ranging from discussions of the principal breeds of poultry to management, housing, incubation, brooding and culling. The department's poultry publications include more than thirty bulletins for general distribution and many others of technical character on special phases of poultry work.

MATURE CHICKENS ON RANGE

Good Summer Ration for Hens Is Mixture of Wheat, Oats and Corn, One Part Each.

Encourage mature chickens to range by feeding them sparingly. A good summer ration for hens consists of 1 part wheat, 1 part oats, and 1 part corn, by weight. More eggs are obtained where the birds are fed a little grain than when forced to depend upon "pickings" about the farm.

WHITE HOLLAND IS POPULAR

White Not So Common as Bronze It Is Widely Raised—Has Many Excellent Qualities.

The white Holland turkey, while not so common as the bronze variety, is nevertheless widely raised and exceedingly popular. People who keep them long enough to get familiar with their qualities and characteristics generally prefer them to any other breed.

The origin of the white Holland is not known, according to writers on poultry, but it is believed to have been developed by breeding white birds selected from other breeds, which appear occasionally as "sports." It seems quite certain that they did not come from Holland or the Netherlands. It has come to the front as a distinct breed since about 1890. The standard weights are, 28 lbs. for a cock; 16 lbs. for a cockerel; 10 for a hen and 10 for a pullet. At the same time any of these classes may be fattened to from three to six pounds above the weight quoted. Six months old gobblers, or cockerels, have been known to weigh 16 pounds dressed for market. The flesh is white and makes fine eating.

White Holland turkeys are said to be the best layers, as a rule, among the turkey family. In some flocks the hens will not go broody or hatch; or, if they do, it will be only after the season is far advanced. Other specimens will want to sit before laying a dozen eggs and some have raised two broods in a season. One man is reported to have owned four turkey hens which laid 264 eggs during the season, while one of them raised a brood in July. Like all other breeds the white birds must have proper care and proper feed to be profitable. Colds, lice and filth and general neglect will be fatal.

The Evangelistic Meetings

At the M. E. church is increasing interest and attendance. Are we all interested in building into the community life, stability of character and social solidarity? Have we shown our interest by attendance and co-operation? Christianity in its fulness is "Life", it is the religion of hope; it touches the hard rock of human nature as it were, with a magic wand, and immediately there breaks forth the fresh bubbling water of a regenerate life. It increases confidence, faith and trust, the lack of which, is the most expensive thing in the world. Some may say the revival is allright for others colossal failure in that it awakens the soul in less than five percent of its students. The reason is that we are trying to operate our schools without religion—The school of the future will take for its task the arousing of the souls of its students, rating as secondary the mathematics, sciences and foreign languages, now thought to be important." Industry, science, commerce, agriculture, invention, the arts and cultures all await the development of this inner man—the fuel of the soul machine, the one thing necessary." Jesus was stating a great psychological truth when He told but I don't believe in it. Then you don't believe in a commercial revival. Are we right in asking ourselves, 'Is the culture which I have and to which I aspire strengthening my devotion to those things which are pure and lovely and of good report? Are the most cultured men I know the most devoted to the highest interest of humanity and the most uncalculating and unselfish in the measure of their service?' Germany was unequalled in her intellectual attainments of a certain kind, but the effect of it all on her scholars in the atrophy of spiritual vision and power will ever remain as an indictment of a godless culture that cannot be overlooked or explained away.

Like wealth and power of any sort, culture has its insidious temptations. First of all, it is compelled to be analytical and critical. It takes things to pieces, its flowers lose their perfume in the study of calyx and sepal. Babson, president of the Statistical Society says: "The facts are before us from a statistical standpoint, education today is a

His hearers that "thru faith they could secure health, happiness and prosperity." The Holy Spirit is the great source of supply, the invisible, but living substance. Man is the motor that can use this great invisible, and untried power. To know Jesus as a vital living reality, a positive molding influence, the life quickened and living in constant companionship with Him. One of the great philosophers recently said, "The only two provinces of absolute sure knowledge—One is pure mathematics, the other the experience of the soul. Thus to increase trust, faith, we need a religious consciousness."

SCRUBS BRING MUCH REGRET

Aged Live Stock Owner Sorry He Did Not Begin With Purebred Cows Years Ago.

"If I had started with a few purebred cows 30 years ago I would have something that I would be proud of now rather than a lot of nondescript animals." This remark was made to a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture by a live stock owner seventy-five years old. That even this age is not too late to make a beginning is shown by the fact that he is a believer in purebred sires and his herd, though not purebred, contains some grade Holstein cows.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.—Adv.

SEASONS CHANGE?

THE first snow of the season has fallen, says a newspaper dispatch from a city far up in Canada. King Winter is coming to life in the northland, getting ready to creep south. Old-timers soon will be saying, "The seasons are changing. We don't have the cold weather we had when I was a boy."

Not so, say the Weather Bureau experts in Washington. Their records show no radical changes in the seasons.

Weather runs in cycles. It may be exceptionally hot or cool or rainy for several years, but nature soon steps in and evens things up. Over long periods the average is about the same.

For instance, accurate weather records have been kept since 1780 at New Haven, Conn. These records show that a mild winter is counterbalanced later by a cool summer or a severe winter.

Striking an average over 10-year periods, the records show that the yearly temperature has hovered around 50 degrees since 1780.

The warmest July was in 1780, but the thermometer then registered almost exactly the same as in July, 1876.

The coldest January, in the 142 years recorded, occurred as late as 1857. The coldest February occurred years after the warmest one.

Back in 1770, Dr. Hugh Williamson wrote that the winters of the preceding half century had been much milder than "in the old days." That is much the same story that the old-timers tell now.

It probably has been so since the days of the cave man, people imagining that seasons are changing. They got their idea from the fact that severe weather occurs only in intermittent cycles. And severe weather sticks in the memory, while exceptionally mild-weather that pulls the long-range average to normal is forgotten.

Bill Green was seen with his car at the mercy of a little truck, towing him into the jitney hospital at Orofino for repairs. Evidently the car was curable for he made a dashing trip home from Lewiston by way of Orofino and reached home just in time for the Sunday school rally.

The parties given at two school houses at Teakean and South Teakean were well attended and everyone enjoyed them very much. The teachers are the Misses Mary Perry, Ena Perry and Irene Johnston.

A rag ball social will be given at the Jack creek school next Friday, October 27. Everybody welcome.

A Sunday school rally was given Sunday at the Lenore school. They had Sunday school and a sermon by Rev. Pain of Gifford. A big dinner was served out on the lawn and everyone reports a dandy time.

CONTROL OF CHICKEN PESTS

Application of Blue Ointment Will Prove Efficacious, as Will Sodium Fluorid.

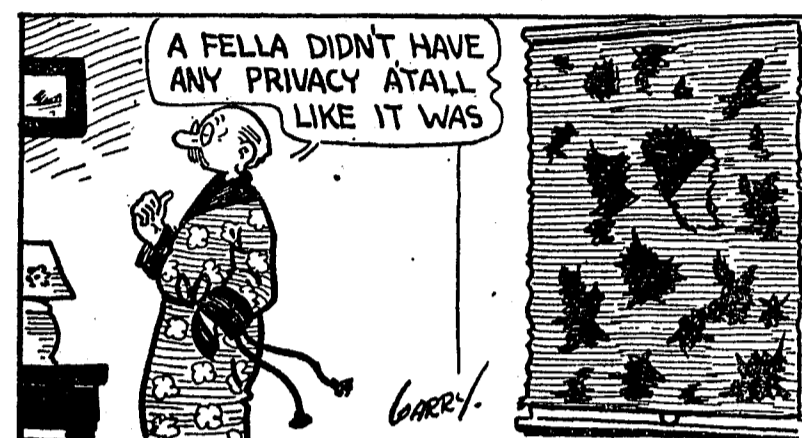

A study of the life of chicken lice shows that there are a dozen different kinds infesting the same bird. Most of them, however, frequent the rear part of the body at least once in every twenty-four hours where they obtain the necessary moisture for their life and growth. This moisture is obtained from around the vent. This habit of lice would answer one method of treatment, the use of blue ointment.

Blue ointment applied around the vent and under the wing of each fowl affected seems to get rid of the lice in a very short time. A piece the size of a good sized pea is plenty for one bird. If the blue ointment is thick and heavy it should be melted so that it can be applied in a very thin layer. It is well to make a second application two weeks after the first, especially if the birds are badly affected.

Any of the advertised lice powders and many of the home-made powders seem to work very well. Good dust wallows handy to the poultry house also aid considerably in controlling this pest.

Sodium florid can also be used to control lice. This is a common preparation which can be obtained at any drug store. It is applied by what is known as the pinch method. A pinch should be worked into the fluff of the tail, a pinch under each wing, a pinch on the back, and a pinch worked into the neck feathers.

POULTRY NOTES

If your chicks are not doing well something is wrong. Look out for lice and for worms in the intestines.

All cockerels that are not to be used as breeders should be marketed as soon as they weigh about two pounds.

A two-pound bird will sell for as much now as a four-pound bird two months later.

The sex of geese is best distinguished by size and voice. Ganders are somewhat heavier and have harsher voices. It is the ganders that hiss when they are attacked or annoyed.

Ever hear of cholla cactus?

No, it's not the name of a new breakfast food or an ice cream sundae.

It's a torture—a method devised by Indians and Mexicans for putting an end to malefactors many years ago and still being practiced in remote

This horrible punishment is meted out to a U. S. army captain for rescuing a beautiful American girl from the clutches of a bandit chief. CHEAP POWDER FOR POULTRY Mixture of Gasoline, Carbolic Acid and Plaster of Paris Will Eradicate Insects.

A cheap lice powder for poultry may be made by mixing three parts of gasoline and one part of crude carbolic acid with as much plaster of paris as the liquid will moisten. This is the suggestion of the Ohio station. The powder is allowed to dry before using. It may be kept in an air-tight container where it retains its strength for a long period. The powder is inflammable and must be kept away from fire.

Infested fowls when thoroughly dusted are soon relieved from the attacks of lice. About 125 birds may be dusted in an hour, one pound of the mixture being needed to dust ten mature fowls. For head lice on chickens, the use of blue ointment or mercurial ointment has been found effective. One part of the ointment is mixed with two parts of vaseline and a lump of the mixture about the size of a pea is rubbed thoroughly at the base of the feathers about the head.

POULTRY NOTES

Regularity in feeding is one of the secrets of success with fowls.

The tamer the flocks the more valuable and profitable they usually are.

Separate the sexes at eight weeks old, or as soon as sex can be determined.

Do not expect to hatch more than 75 per cent of the total eggs incubated, either in machines or under hens.

The hen and the caretaker are partners in the poultry business. If either one is lazy the profits are less.

An incubator often gets lots of blame that should be attached to the operator. When a machine is operated wrong the hatches will go wrong.

How Better Than Pills?

The question has been asked: In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. —Adv.

AUTUMN IS ALWAYS BEST TIME TO SELECT HENS FOR BREEDING

Pullets That Begin Laying Early in Fall Mature Quickest and Will Make Desirable Additions to Breeding Flock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The improvident man who sold his heating stove in July because the circus was near and the winter far off differs only in the degree of his shortsightedness from the poultry raiser, who waits until spring to select the breeding stock that is to be used to replenish his flock. This important work of picking out the superior birds must be done in the fall to get the best results, says the United States Department of Agriculture, for it is then that the greatest contrast between the profitable birds and the poor ones shows up. Of course the culling out of the poor layers should go on all through the summer and fall, but at last the top-notchers should be selected as foundation for the coming flock, which ought to be better each year.

Never Use Immature Pullets.

One good rule to follow is to keep the pullets out of the breeding flock until they are fully matured. An immature bird may be a good layer and may be from the best stock, but still it is undesirable. Eggs from pullets not yet fully developed will not produce as large or as strong chicks as those from older hens or fully grown pullets. There is no difficulty in knowing when a bird is mature enough to be used as a breeder, as at that time the eggs laid will have reached the size of the average produced by the general run of hens in the flock.

Young pullets always lay a rather small egg, sometimes very small at the start. Those that mature early may be picked out by keeping track of the birds that start laying first in the fall. These birds may be marked with leg bands, so that they will not become mixed during the winter with those that start their work later.

The late molters are the birds that stick to the job longer, and consequently they make up another group that should be used in forming the breeding flock next spring. Leg bands may be used to distinguish these profitable birds, or, better, the early molters may be marketed so that they will no longer have an opportunity to keep down the average egg production of the flock.

The general-purpose breeds, which include the Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and Wyandottes, as a rule are not profitable after the second year. It is therefore advisable to cull out all of the older birds of this class. Of these, the late molters are the ones to select for breeders, just as in the case of fowls of any other breed.

But the selection of birds on the basis of age and time of molting is not all the preparation that need be made for raising the foundation for the new flock. The health and thrift of the fowls must be looked after carefully during the winter. After selecting the breeding birds the poultry house needs close attention. Keeping it in sanitary condition is one of the important points; also the comfort of the house, which is closely connected with the health of the birds.

Fowls are very sensitive to moisture conditions, and these should be controlled carefully by ventilation. When moisture from the fowls gathers on the ceiling and walls there is apt to be trouble soon. In cold weather this moisture may collect in the form of frost, but the heat from the sun in the middle of the day will melt the frost, and the water, dripping down, will make the litter wet. Hens are a good deal like sheep in their sensitiveness to wet feet, either in the house or when outside, and they cannot be kept in good health on damp litter.

A sick hen is a hard proposition to deal with if you expect to get out with a profit on her. It is a lot cheaper to depend on dry litter than on medicines to cure colds and roup. Roup is the sequel of colds, and when it gets into a flock, as one poultryman puts it, you are on the rocks.

Plenty of fresh air in the house is a well-recognized preventive of colds in humans, and it is just as efficacious in the case of poultry. The open front house with cloth curtains is the most practical means for the average flock owner to keep the house thoroughly aired, and the fowls will not suffer from the cold if the building has been properly planned; also the egg production will keep up. By going into the house frequently in changing winter weather it will be easy to judge of the condition of the atmosphere and bring it to normal by adjustments of curtains and windows. Moisture can be kept from accumulating by opening up the house for a thorough ventilation on sunny days.

The most successful houses, as found by the experiences of hundreds of poultry raisers and by experiments of the Department of Agriculture and State experiment stations, are from 16 to 20 feet deep if the open-front plan is followed. From this point the nearer toward the front the fowls are moved the fewer eggs are produced. In smaller houses the relative proportion of openings in the front of the house must be reduced during the winter months in order to keep the fowls comfortable. Open fronts or openings covered with cotton cloth are most practical in deep houses.

GET DATA FOR FIGHT ON WHEAT STEM RUST

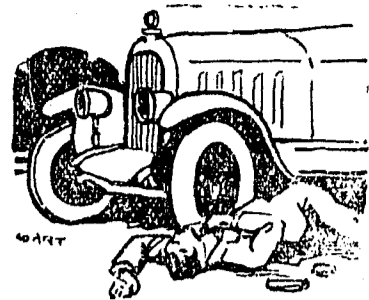

Government Expert in Europe Searching for Information.

Doctor Stakman, Minnesota Pathologist, Visiting Various European Countries, Making Detailed Study of the Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the hope of finding facts that will be of value in fighting the stem rust of wheat in this country, Dr. C. E. Stakman, agent of the United States Department of Agriculture and pathologist of the Minnesota Agricultural experiment station, is spending the summer in various countries of Europe making detailed studies of the occurrence and severity of the disease, especially with reference to its appearance on barberry bushes. He is also collecting much information on rusts in general.

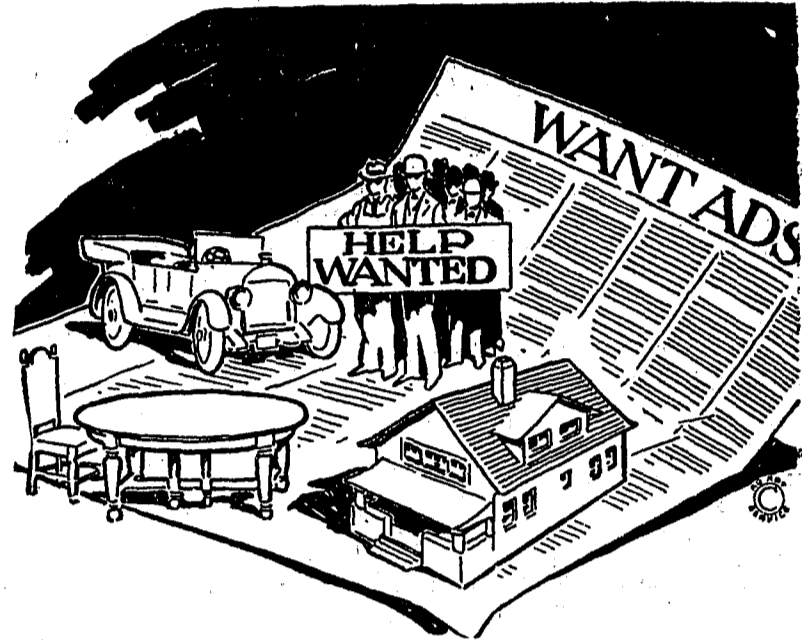

In France and Spain, where he visited the principal wheat-growing regions, he found no stem rust on wheat, oats, barley or rye. Although there were many barberries, few of them showed any signs of this rust, but in Spain plant pathologists informed him

PICTURED here is the waterfront at Smyrna, after the city's capture by the Turks. Heaped along the harbor edge is the little property the fleeing Greeks and Armenians were able to take with them. The boats off shore are taking refugees on board. The mounted man is a Turkish irregular soldier, hastening embarkation. A Turkish official is seen on foot, on the same business.

GLEANINGS

The new bungalow being put up by Emulus Brown on the old Sterling lots, is beginning to present most imposing proportions. It will be one of the best houses in town when completed. This is a decided improvement over the old building which Mr. Brown tore down.

Mr. and Mr. H. P. Hull were Lewiston visitors the first of the week.

Mrs. Stewart Compton and children arrived Wednesday morning from Orofino to visit her sister, Mrs. O. E. MacPherson.

Democratic rallies were held at Bear ridge hall Tuesday night, Linden hall Wednesday night and Elwood school house Thursday night of this week. County candidates spoke on political questions of the day.

Fred Bolon underwent an operation for ruptured appendix at a Lewiston hospital Sunday morning. It is reported that he is doing as well as could be expected considering the seriousness of the case.

Mrs. E. A. Deobald was called to California, Thursday of last week on account of the death of her mother. Her mother was riding in a taxi and the gasoline caught fire. She received terrible burns which caused her death soon after.

A special train will leave Moscow carrying routers to the big Armistice Day football game to be held in Boise. Special rates of one and a third fare to anyone who wishes to go, providing reservations are made with the agent at Moscow.

There are a number of Gazette subscribers who are neglecting to make their annual deposit of $1.50. It's a good time to do it now.

Andrew Baker of Southwick was a Gazette visitor yesterday afternoon and while here advanced his subscription to the Gazette another year. He has taken this paper continuously ever since it started, so is one of our oldest subscribers.

Mrs. Peter Spekter of Asotin spent Friday and Saturday last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rogers.

Mrs. A. E. Wilcox returned Thursday afternoon from a visit at Kansas City.

Mrs. Wm. Rogers was a Moscow visitor yesterday morning.

Ernest Roberts drove to Moscow Thursday afternoon. His mother and sister accompanied him.

Mrs. Olga Brash of Spokane is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wodeman on Potlatch ridge.

C. G. Compton and son, Stewart, left Orofino last week for the wilds beyond Elk City on a hunting trip.

A few days after they left a telegram was received here by Mrs. Compton, from Nebraska, stating that Mr. Compton's father was critically ill. A message was sent to the hunting party at once, but owing to the fact that the country is so far away from phones or fast mail service, it was believed it would take a week or more before Mr. Compton might return.

Bankers have made a check up, find that 26,637,831 Americans have savings accounts and that the total savings aggregate over $17,000,000,000. This means that an average of 1 person for each family has an average of $650 stowed away for a rainy day. While the amount, to the individual, doesn't seem much, yet in the aggregate it is a tidy sum. But the encouraging thing about it is, it indicates that we Americans are getting the thrift habit, something very much desired.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness, and for their assistance during the burial of our little sweetheart.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester McGraw and family.

Sweet milk in abundance is highly desirable. Milk-fed fowls usually bring a premium on the markets and have a better flavor than those fed on fattening rations moistened with water.

Move colony house or brooder coop to fresh ground before chicks are turned out.

The incubator is not only a necessity but an economy where early chicks are wanted.

MATCHED LUMBER FOR NESTS

Plan to Have as Few Cracks and Crevices as Possible, Built in Portable Sections.

When first in the poultry business we thought that nests made of scrap lumber or small boxes were satisfactory. Now we believe that the nests should be of smooth matched lumber with as few cracks and crevices as possible, says a writer in an exchange. They must never be nailed to the sides of the wall or beneath the dropping boards, but built in portable sections, so they can be easily carried from the house for sunning and spraying.

The secret of such high-quality in the Brunswick Phonograph

The Brunswick is a 100 per cent Brunswick product, not assembled. Parts are not bought here and there. Cabinets are not picked up from different builders. Brunswick controls every process, every detail. From the raw wood to the final finishing, Brunswick decides the standards. This accounts for the all-around goodness of The Brunswick—the freedom from flaws, the everlasting uniformity. Brunswick is not dependent on fluctuating conditions outside. And need not make compromises. This is not a new policy. But it has been one of the old-time ideals of the House of Brunswick. Since 1845 Brunswick has been building to meet the highest standards—no woodcrafting organization in the world is more famous. In every Brunswick Phonograph we include the Brunswick idea of high quality. No instrument goes out without complete inspection.

When we used open nests in some of the houses the birds were constantly roosting on them or bothering the hens while they were laying. After several eggs had been laid in a nest another hen might decide to scratch around in the litter in that nest. This resulted in broken eggs and then it was only a short step to the egg eating habit.

The best nests are built with a small track at the rear where the hens can enter. The eggs are removed by lowering a hinged door in front. These nests are slightly darkened and the hens hardly see the eggs that are laid. There is not much scratching in the litter in a darkened nest. If a soft-shelled egg is laid and broken the danger of the hen eating it is reduced.

The egg-eating habit probably causes as much loss and discouragement as any habit or disease which troubles poultry keepers. The remedy is largely in prevention and this consists in building the right kind of nests.
