

STREET WORK IS PROGRESSING

Weather Conditions Greatly Favor Grading

Observer has had a week off but is back on the job again. For the past week he has been observing Kendrick from the viewpoint of a number of towns in the Clearwater country. It is needless to say that comparisons were all in favor of the little city on the Potlatch.

For some time Kendrick has been noted for its fine sidewalks. This is in striking contrast to many towns, where life and limb are seriously endangered by missing and broken planks in what passes for sidewalks. But the culmination of Kendrick's forward movement now lies in the work in rapid progress in her long and picturesque thoroughfare. We have watched the progress of this work under the energetic direction of Campbell and Barr, who appear to be no novices in the matter of street paving. Day after day the work is vigorously pushed and each day shows marked progress. From the man that rides the plow to the one who handles the pick and shovel—each workman appears to know his business and attends to it. The result will soon be that the one main street through the city of Kendrick will become a joy and pleasure to the automobile driver, now and henceforth.

What of business conditions when this much needed and long neglected improvement is finished? It may not make the merchants rich, but it will prove a source of comfort to the surrounding country whose trade centers here, and a source of pleasure to every citizen who can and will take a just pride in their home town. These things will prove an aid to business in no small proportions.

We can, in imagination, see many and greatly needed improvements that lie back of the sidewalks. This new thoroughfare will prove an incentive and even an inspiration to every property owner to brush up. No longer confronted with a sea of mud, the city will take on new life and a just pride in all local conditions, and many needed improvements will surely follow. Kendrick is to be commended for its enterprise in bringing this mile long highway right up to date. It will prove to be time and money well spent.

—OBSERVER.

Wreckers of Prosperity

As industrial activity increases and demand for labor grows, the blighting hand of the radical labor agitator of the I. W. W. stripe is again seen trying to create dissatisfaction among the workers.

In quoting from the I. W. W. revolutionary edict, we find the following: "We are not satisfied with the fair day's wage for a fair day's work. Such a thing is impossible. Labor produces all wealth. We are going to do away with capitalism by taking possession of the land and the machinery of production. We don't intend to buy them either."

Commenting on such a statement, the Wyoming State Tribune says, "The question would naturally arise in the mind of the professional man, the merchant and the teacher, the clerks and more particularly fifteen or twenty million farmers, by what right does the I. W. W. group or any other group of men claim a full and exclusive right to all wealth and to all land?"

"It behooves every good citizen who values his country, his home and family, to stand firm against the propagation of such doctrines. There is a persistent insidious movement in this country not only to destroy property rights but the authority of the courts."

The witness had just been severely reprimanded by the court for having called the officer a jackass.

"You mean to say that it is a misdemeanor to call a policeman a jackass?" asked the witness.

"It certainly is," was the answer. "Is it any arm to call a jackass a policeman?" queried the witness again.

As the witness left, he turned and said to the policeman: "Goodbye, policeman!"—Trumbull Cheer.

Mrs. Martha J. Hill

Mrs. Martha J. Hill, who resided in St. Maries for the past year, died at the family home in Townsite at an early hour on Thursday morning, October 19, at the age of 44 years.

Martha J. Robnett was born July 30, 1878, at Pittsburg, Kansas. At the age of seven or eight years she moved with her parents to Eureka Springs, Arkansas, where, on December 23, 1895, she was united in marriage to Henry M. Hill. To this union five children were born four of whom, together with her husband, survive her. All were present at the family home in St. Maries, at the time of her death. Mrs. Hill's father and mother are both dead, but she had one brother living whose home is in Wisconsin.

In March, 1901, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, and family, moved west and settled in Kendrick where they resided until 1921. While living in this city, one daughter Margaret, died. In the fall of 1921 the family moved to St. Maries and have since made their home in that city. During her comparatively brief residence there, Mrs. Hill made numerous friends who knew her as a splendid neighbor as well as a charming and devoted wife and mother.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon under direction of the Ladies of the Macabees of which organization she was an ardent and loyal member. Following the funeral services the body was brought to Kendrick, and laid beside her daughter, Margaret. Interment took place last Saturday.

Wins $2,000 Damage Suit

Mrs. Ella G. Freeborn, 703 Eighth street, wife of J. A. Freeborn of the Lewiston Mercantile company, on last Saturday was awarded $2,000 damages against the Union News Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, by Judge Alvin J. Pearson, in the common pleas court, for physical injuries sustained on May 18, 1918.

On the day and date in question Mrs. Freeborn, who was visiting in Cleveland, was in the news company's restaurant in the union station at Cleveland and stepped on a cake of soap while passing over a freshly scrubbed floor. She fell and injured her back and hand, the injury to Mrs. Freeborn's back being of a permanent nature.

The case went to trial and Mrs. Freeborn was awarded damages to the extent of $10,000, this being about one year ago. The news company secured an appeal on the ground that the damage awarded was excessive and the new trial resulted in the plaintiff being given a verdict for $2,000.

Mrs. Freeborn is at present in Cleveland. She was represented there by counsel and locally her case was handled by the law firm of Butler & Butler.—Tribune.

David Lloyd George

Lloyd George is down and out. He is no longer the biggest factor in English politics. But the retiring premier can safely rest on laurels already won, for it is generally conceded that he has been by far and away the most brilliant popular leader in the world. His services in the late war can not be fully estimated at this time. While he has his critics and many short sighted policies are pointed out, yet his place as the greatest of all living Britons is secure.

Racing at Hawthorne Revived— A Hot Finish

A LONG, long time ago, Hawthorne was one of the world's racing centers. Then it lapsed. Now the great Illinois track has been reopened and thrilling speed events there are again the order of the day. The picture shows the ponies massed at the turn, just opening out for the stretch. Platoon is winning, with Deland second and Bill McCloy showing.

Osteopath Locates Here

Dr. S. I. Ringsage, osteopathic physician of Seattle, Wash., arrived in Kendrick the first of the week and has rented the office rooms in the Floyd Walker building. He is busy getting his office equipment in shape and expects to begin active practice at once. He has also rented the Elmer Bechtol residence and expects to move in as soon as his household effects arrive. Mrs. Ringsage and children are expected here the last of the week.

Idaho Industrial Progress

State elections are but a few days away. Whether we will have tax reduction or increasing tax burdens, rests largely with the votes. It is safe to say that western taxes generally could easily be raised another twenty per cent if the people should cast favorably for the many tax-raising schemes on the ballots. "Will it raise tax" should be the consideration before voting for any measure. Don't kick about your tax bill if you vote for tax raising schemes or new forms of taxation.

Don't Mix Them

Mr. Volstead, father of the Volstead Act, is now turning his attention to the oil and gas industries and proposing a constitutional amendment by which Congress would assume control of these lines of business.

It is reported that when the next Congress meets he will ask it to submit to the separate states "Article 20" of the Constitution, which provides that "Congress may regulate production of and commerce in coal, oil and gas from which interstate and foreign commerce are supplied."

Just why such agitation should be started it is hard to understand. Private initiative in the oil industry has given us the greatest supply of oil today that we have ever had, in spite of record breaking demands.

Twenty years of political regulation of our railroads has brought development to an absolute standstill and every western state today feels the effect of restricted railroad construction and the need for new lines to open up new territory. There seems to be absolutely no hope of getting such development with a policy of regulation that fails to recognize the risk attached to the business and the necessity of encouraging rather than discouraging the investors in such enterprises. If the same paralyzing policy of repression had control of our oil industry what would have happened to our motoring public which has been doubling, trebling and quadrupling its demand for gasoline, fuel oils and lubricating oils during the past few years? If Volstead regulation of the oil industry, for the "benefit of the people", should be as successful in curtailing development as has been our policy of national regulation of the railroads, there would be thousands of us who would not get gas for the week-end trip and what we did get would be at prices such as we have not dreamed of today.

While the average family can get along very well without liquor there would be a revolution if any law attempted to curtail or take away their supply of gas.

The local teachers left Sunday afternoon for Moscow to attend the Institute.

Bought Wilcox Ranch

F. A. Sparber closed a deal this week through G. F. Walker for the purchase of the L. M. Wilcox place, located south west of Kendrick. It is a well improved ranch consisting of 20 acres and contains some valuable fruit and garden ground. The consideration is understood to be $2,000.

Carlson For Assessor

George L. Carlson, the only county candidate on either ticket who hails from the Kendrick community, has a right to expect a rousing big vote from his home precinct. The nearer it is to 100 per cent for him, the better it will look for the community. There is no reason why politics should enter into the matter. He is a home man, amply qualified in every respect to handle the office of assessor and if elected he will make the county a very efficient, conservative officer. He is a good business man, an experienced accountant and has a splendid past record in this community. Why shouldn't we back him up strong on election day?

News Notes of Interest

Arrests of men arriving in Portland and suspected of affiliation with the I. W. W. and the marine transport workers' association continued throughout Saturday. Today's arrests numbered about 80, according to the police and sheriff's offices. Most of the men were taken from incoming trains as soon as they reached the city limits, and some were taken by the sheriff's office before arriving in the city.

The population of the city jail, which at one time Wednesday night of last week, numbered more than 300 men, was reduced to about 200 Saturday. A considerable number had been released during the night, or as fast as they established to the satisfaction of the police that they had no connection with the present strike on the waterfront or the I. W. W. In police court today some forty men were given choice by Judge E. K. Well of taking a 90 day stretch on the rock pile or leaving town. Unanimously they chose to leave town. They will be escorted to the southern city limits by police details early tomorrow and started on their way according to chief of Police Jenkins.

Effective September 9, 1922, sales of every kind of fireworks goes under a legal ban in Seattle. After that date it will be unlawful for any merchant in the city to keep fireworks in stock, sell or offer them for sale, or for any person to use them within the city limits.

Twenty-six persons, including bankers, bond salesmen and three or four newspapermen, were indicted by the federal grand jury, charged with implication in nation-wide bond thefts, United States District Attorney French announced Tuesday.

Fifteen persons, most of them children, lost their lives early Sunday in a fire believed by city officials to be the work of a pyromaniac.

Archie May of Leland, was a passenger to Troy Monday morning on business.

Parent-Teachers Meeting

An excellent program has been planned for the Parent-Teachers' Association which will meet at two o'clock, Friday afternoon, November third, at the school house. The principle speakers will be Dr. J. W. Stevenson of Moscow, who will talk on "Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat Defects, Results and Remedies." Miss Morsching, the Nez Perce County nurse from Lewiston, will discuss "Causes and Effects of Under-nourishment"; Miss Clara E. Cowgill, the District Home Demonstration Agent of the University of Idaho, will talk on "School Hot Lunches"; Dr. A. Otteraaen will give a short talk on "The Care of The Teeth." There will be other things of interest that the patrons of the school can not afford to miss. Arrangements are being made to provide free transportation up the hill. Those desiring such transportation will please notify the Superintendent, Mr. Daniel, before Friday noon, November third. After the program, a light lunch will be served by the domestic science department. Following this, the regular business will be transacted.

Farm Bureau Active

County Agent W. W. Skuse has just returned from a three days' session of county agents at Moscow, there being representatives present from six counties, Idaho, Nez Perce, Latah, Kootenai, Bonner and Boundary. Many matters connected with the work were discussed.

It is probable that the farm bureau institutes will not be held in this county until the latter part of January or the first part of February, when meetings will be arranged in the various communities, with extension lectures.

Miss Clara E. Cowgill, of the university extension service, district home demonstration agent with headquarters at Moscow, for the ten northern counties of the state, has just held three full-course millinery classes at Gifford, Leland and Southwick, showing the ladies of those communities how to make their own fall hats.—Tribune.

Enters U. of I.

Miss Florence Hollada, who has a position as book-keeper at the First Bank of Moscow, has enrolled in the University of Idaho. She will devote her time to music, studying vocal under the direction of Miss Adair of the Boston Conservatory of Music. Miss Hollada is a graduate of Kendrick high school. She will still retain her position in the bank.

Senator W. E. Borah

Senator Borah is creating much anxiety among politicians. What his influence will be in the coming election is a question that is widely discussed. Whatever that influence will be for the general welfare of the state depends entirely on the political bias of the individual. But in the discussion of this momentous question the Democrats seem to have the better of the argument while the Progressives are not without hope. It is a rare thing to find a red-blooded Republican who can see any real value to his party in Senator Borah's addresses.

E. H. Dammarell was a passenger to Moscow, Tuesday, to visit his son, Kester, who is attending the U. of I. He also visited his daughter, Ruth, who is attending teachers' institute there this week.

LATAH COUNTY NEWS PARAGRAPHS

Clipped From The Columns of Neighboring Papers.

Speaking of hard roads—there are quite a few stretches of what might easily be termed as "hard" roads in more ways than one. For instance, the short piece of road just this side of Unlontown is a "hardboiled" affair in every sense of the word and it is worth a good deal to have to travel over it. Most everybody that has a Rolls-Ruff have to use springs. But time was when that would have been considered a "good" road, especially when the traveler was headed this way after having spent a few hours in that thriving little village, for in those days it was very easy to get the necessary "shock absorber" in liquid form and it was easily applied—but now it is different and a fellow feels every one of the "shocks."

The "missing link" has also been a piece of "hard" road for the past two or more months and it might be easy to believe that some of the powers-that-be in Whitman county have been standing-in with the auto tire men. This piece of road has been an eye-sore and a liver-pogger for years and it doesn't seem to be getting any better fast. It would probably have been a wise idea for the state of Idaho to have built the road up the canyon—and they may do it yet.—Genesee News.

The last regular meeting of the commissioners of Highway District No. 3 marked the final action of the board in adjusting matters pertaining to the right of way for the Moscow-Bovill state highway, and was followed by an order to begin actual construction work. The district's road building machinery was moved to the ground this week and the work is now well started.

In all cases where land owners object to the decision of the viewers and appraisers, a certified check for the damages allowed has been deposited with the court. The non-consenting land owner has the right to appeal from the decision of the appraisers, but it is explained that by depositing the certified check the work may go on pending the final disposition of the case. Should the court, after considering the evidence on appeal, increase damage award, the commissioners will have to pay such increase. On the other hand, should the board be sustained the land owner must accept the board's decision.—Deary Press.

Dr. J. W. Stevenson, oculist of Moscow, spent Thursday in Troy assisting Miss Clarke, the nurse, in completing examinations at the school. Although engaged in eye and throat work, Dr. Stevenson is not in favor of the removal of every tonsil he inspects. However there are some who ought to have this care and the same will be brought to the attention of parents whose children need such work. Those requiring such can be taken care of for a small charge and those who can not pay even a small fee must have it done for nothing. This is only fair to the child who is handicapped by physical conditions, but who can not pay for surgical work.—Troy News.

Suit for damages totaling $3785 has been filed in the district court for Latah county by Donald Jain against the Idaho Fire Brick company of Troy. The suit by the plaintiff, a minor, is being instituted by his father, Walter Jain.

The complaint alleges that on July 10, 1922, the plaintiff suffered a fractured and broken right forearm, a severely sprained wrist and minor injuries in a runaway caused by the careless driving of an auto truck operated by the defendant corporation. The complaint further alleges that he lost a $25 watch and a mule worth $200, and loss of time from employment.—Moscow Star-Mirror.

Word comes from Texas ridge that New Heath lost his grain and granary early Thursday morning by fire. The granary was in the field and no cause can be given for the origin of the fire. The wheat was covered by insurance but oats and beans were a total loss.

BETTER PROGENY BY CULLING

Wise Plan to Discard All Fowls in Flock Except Most Vigorous and Prolific Layers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That culling the poultry flock to get rid of all those birds except the vigorous, prolific layers results in noticeable improvement in the progeny is shown by recent investigations at the United States experiment farm, Beltsville, Md. The late moulters selected from a flock of 100 Rhode Island Reds in the fall of 1920 laid seven more eggs per bird during their second year than the original flock of pullets. They were used as breeders the following spring, and the first Red pullets to commence laying in the fall of 1921 were found to be the offspring of these late-moulting hens. Their pullets in a period of seven months have already averaged about two dozen eggs per bird more than the original flock.

But it is not alone in number of eggs that the late-moulter's progeny excel, but also in the value of the product, as the distribution was more even, a much larger proportion of the eggs being laid during the winter months. In the last seven months the daughters of the late moulters not only averaged two dozen eggs per bird more than the original flock, but the value of their product was, figuring at the same prices, about $1.04 per bird more during the same period. It is expected that this margin will increase during the next five months.

An Exceptionally Keen Sense of Taste Would Be Required to Note Any Difference.

It would take an exceptionally keen sense of taste to distinguish any difference between white and brown eggs at breakfast, but human beings are such faddists that, in the opinion of some, the difference is there just the same. In New York the demand is for white shells, while in Boston the brown egg is just as popular.

"Some men will have only Dutch Belted cattle or Mammoth hogs," said one of the poultry specialists in the Department of Agriculture. "They are color enthusiasts. The liking for white-shelled eggs may have grown from associating the egg with the white poultry, an agreeable picture suggesting cleanliness. Actually, however, the brown-shell egg is every bit as good as the white until you arrive at the price in New York. The difference there sometimes is considerably in favor of the white."

At present all the general purpose breeds of chickens are layers of brown eggs. Some of the leading markets demand the white egg, however, and as the price favors the white product it is important to supply it if possible and at the same time produce a fowl having weight in meat.

LIVING LONGER

WELL, folks, our chances of living to a ripe old age are getting stronger. Uncle Sam officially announces that the death rate for the nation in 1921 was only 117 for each 10,000 population. The year before, 131 out of each 10,000 died.

On this basis, about 1,260,000 Americans are dying each year. That's 3462 a day.

MORE babies are being born, too. For each 10,000 population 243 babies arrived last year, against 237 in 1920. That's about 2,625,000 births a year.

A little subtraction shows that population is gaining 1,365,000 a year, exclusive of immigration, for that number is the excess of births over deaths.

WITH 2,625,000 babies arriving each year, it is easy to understand why death is a natural and necessary process in the great scheme of creation.

If babies kept on coming at that rate, and none of us died, the earth would become so densely populated that there would not be any room for moving about. We have to die, to make room for the new arrivals.

AS for people living longer: The death rate is dropping, but it is all figured on the average, and most of the drop is due to prolonging infant lives. Fewer die in babyhood. That is the reason, not that the average adult is lasting longer. The gain in the battle against death is being made in cradle years, not in maturity.

Waist Entirely Out of Style

THIS afternoon gown is one of the latest Paris creations. As will be seen, the dressmakers are paying no attention to protests against the lengthening of the skirt. It is noticeable also that the gown is quite without the suggestion of a waistline. It isn't alone that the waist isn't tight—there's none at all.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The evangelistic services at the M. E. Church are growing in spirit and conviction. Those who have neglected these ministrations of grace are missing opportunities which they can ill afford. When any community forgets their dependence upon Jesus Christ as their hope and salvation, and their personal allegiance is lightly held, and the individual conscience is benumbed, when forms triumph over spirit, and worship degenerates into heartless ceremonials, God sends his messengers. He opens the gates and pours in through the flood-gates of His infinite mercy, showers of blessings.

Are we ready to prepare the way? Spurgeon says, "prayer and means must go together. Means without prayer is presumption; prayer without means is hypocrisy." I believe profoundly in the doctrine of the importance of human co-operation in divine regeneration. Bishop Oldham once said, "God for his own wise end has conditioned the regeneration of mankind upon man's co-operation." Many vases of life are broken; but through the grace of God these vases may be mended so that they may hold the water of life. I don't want the fair vase to be broken. In the life of the child or young man or young woman are vast possibilities for service when once those dormant faculties are aroused and moved to action.

Services every night at 7:45. Next Sunday there will be the usual services. The Sunday School is growing—help it grow. Come at 10 A. M. for study. Morning worship at 11 A. M. Afternoon song and praise service at 2:30; young people's meeting at 7 P. M., and the evening services at 7:45 P. M.

To Gain a Good Reputation
"The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you appear." That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturer has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take.—Adv.

The question has been asked: In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. TERM STANDARD-BRED FOWLS

Means That Bird Referred to Conforms to Standards of Color, Markings and Weight.

A purebred, whether it is a hen or a cow, means that the animal comes from a definitely recognized breed and that the parents were purebred animals of the same breed. If an animal has lineage of pure breeding, which can be definitely proved, and thus makes the animal eligible for registration, it is then a purebred animal. There is the added stipulation that an animal must be healthy, vigorous and a creditable specimen of its breed in order to be purebred.

In reference to poultry breeding, perhaps the best terms of all to indicate 100 per cent blood is the expression "standard-bred." This means that the fowl referred to as standard-bred is one which conforms to the standards of form, color, markings, weight, etc., for the various breeds under the standard of perfection of the American Poultry association. Standard-bred is a term which is growing in popularity among those doing business in the purebred poultry field, and is perhaps a more distinctive expression than any other which might be used with reference to poultry. Of course, there are standard-bred horses which refer to a distinct breed of light horses, including both trotters and pacers eligible to registration in the trotting registry.

DUCKS FOR MEAT AND EGGS

Pekin Breed Is Kept Almost Exclusively for Green Ducks—Runner Is Good Layer.

"The Pekin breed is kept almost exclusively by producers of green ducks, and also on many farms where they are grown for meat," says H. W. Sanborn, extension poultry husbandman, United States Department of Agriculture. "They fatten rapidly and may be fed on rations recommended for chickens, but better results are usually secured by feeding more green and vegetable feeds and a larger proportion of mash.

"For the general farmer who is more interested in obtaining eggs than producing meat, the Runner is a good breed. This duck holds the same relative position in the duck family that the Leghorn does in the chicken family. It lays a good-sized white egg considerably larger than a hen's egg, and is declared to be a small eater, a good forager, and hardy. The introduction of this breed is helping to build up a trade of first-class duck eggs. These eggs should be marketed frequently, as they depreciate in quality more rapidly than hen's eggs."

HEN NEEDS SHELL MATERIAL

Tests Show Decrease in Number of Eggs Where Oyster Shell and Grit Are Lacking.

Tests made at the University of Wisconsin experiment station, where the feeding of hens could be watched closely, show that hens have a tendency to cut down on the number of eggs they lay when they run short of material which goes into the egg shell. Some believe that soft shells come as a result of not having sufficient oyster shells or ground bone material, but tests do not bear it out. So, for keeping up the number of eggs, it is essential that hens running free on the farm have a supply of oyster shells, ground bone or some other mineral grit, near where the flock is fed.

Where Market Is Available for Spring Chickens Plan to Feed Green Stuff Liberally.

If there is a market available for spring chickens, it is a good investment and time well spent in building a little enclosure where green stuff is available to feed the young cockerels all they can eat for a couple of weeks before selling them.

HIGHEST PRICES FOR MARKET HAY

Farmers' Bulletin Discusses Merits of Consignment and Straight-Sales Methods.

MANY DETAILS ARE EXPLAINED

Shipper Must Consider Conditions and Determine Which Course is Most Advantageous—Simple Rules to Keep in Mind.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The merits of the consignment method and the straight-sales method of marketing hay are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1285, Business Methods of Marketing Hay, by G. A. Collier, recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. In addition, chapters are devoted to trade rules, when and where to sell hay, billing and invoicing shipments, and loss and damage claims. Explanations are given therein for some of the principal trade terms and suggestions are offered as to how the various aids to marketing may be applied by the producer or shipper.

Two Methods Explained.

The consignment method consists in shipping to brokers or commission merchants, who act as the shipper's representative in selling his hay on the market. By the straight-sales method the shipper sells his hay at a fixed price, either at the point of shipment or point of destination at a certain specified time. The shipper must consider conditions and decide which method is the more advantageous to use, for the method that may be advantageous one week may be not at all profitable the next.

It is important to know the preferences of the various markets, for it is the buyer's preference that prevails. In general, New England and Eastern markets prefer large five or six-wire bales weighing from 175 to 215 pounds. Southeastern, Southern, and Southwestern markets prefer small two or by the department and tabulated in this publication show that for a period of ten years ending in 1921 the highest average prices at two large markets were reached in April for prairie and alfalfa hay, and in May for timothy. The months of highest price are just before the new crop begins to come on the market.

Hay producers and shippers, says the bulletin, should secure all the information possible bearing on the marketing of hay. They may keep well informed by watching the reports prepared periodically by the Department of Agriculture. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained by addressing the department at Washington, D. C.

BEET TOP SILAGE FOR EWES

Material Will Increase Flow of Milk at Lambing Time—Gradually Increase Feeding.

Beet top silage will increase the flow of milk of ewes at lambing time. It is best to start feeding only about one pound per head daily and gradually to increase the quantity to three pounds per day. The udder may become feverish if this caution is not observed.

FEED AND CARE FOR PULLETS

Most Common Mistake to Give Fowls Free Range and Compel Them to Hustle for Living.

When should an April pullet begin laying? Generally the statement is made that Leghorn pullets should begin when five to five and one-half months old; Rhode Island Reds and Wyandotte pullets take a month longer and Plymouth Rocks still another month.

An investigation made by Purdue university developed the fact that many flocks are not doing as well as they could if the young pullets were properly fed and cared for. They are often crowded in the coops at night for the little brood coop that is big enough in the spring is crowded by late fall and the chicks sweat.

The most common mistake is poor feeding. The pullets are allowed free range over the farm and compelled three-wire bales weighing from 75 to 100 pounds, and ranging in size from 14 by 16 inches to 17 by 22 inches by about 30 to 48 inches in length. In the Central Western markets the 17 by 22-inch bale is probably the most generally used, and on the Pacific Coast both this size and the large bale prevail almost exclusively.

To avoid differences between buyer and seller it is suggested that a few simple rules be kept in mind. The seller should state clearly all necessary factors, including quality and quantity of hay, time at or within which shipment can be made, routing, rates, price, and terms of payment. All sales should be confirmed by letter, stating all terms included in the original offer. When confirmation is received from the buyer any items that appear incorrect should be corrected immediately. Since much of such business is transacted by telephone or telegraph brevity is necessary, but a few extra words will often save much trouble and money. Sample telegrams covering various conditions are given in the bulletin.

Best Time to Market.

The time of marketing makes a great deal of difference in the price received for hay. Statistics compiled to gather most of their living. They may grow, but it is a slow growth. To hurry this growth, plenty of mash should be kept before them at all times. A very simple mash for the older pullets can be made by taking 50 pounds bran, 50 pounds shorts, and 80 pounds of high-grade tankage. This should be placed dry in a self-feeder, or trough, and the pullets induced to eat all they will of it. Some grain should be fed in addition, that the pullets may be in good flesh when ready to start laying.

JUST two little shoes that are rugged and torn. They're held as a memory sweet. Of many black buttons these objects are shorn. From age they no longer are neat.

And yet, as I see them, I drift to the past—some twenty-odd long years ago. These shoes are an echo that always will last—that means a lot more than you know. Back there in the days when the shoe soles were bright, a little tot walked them around. And all of the buttons were fastened on tight—some lost, never slow to be found. These two little shoes taught my son his first step; they taught him to toddle and creep. But now, in a closet, for years have they slept—to me, in a memory sleep. For son has grown up and he's taken more strides. He's learned to walk better, I guess. And sentiment says that his tiny tot shoes really started him out to success.

POULTRY

FOWLS NEED OYSTER SHELLS

Failure to Provide Laying Hens With Proper Materials Is Sure to Cause Disaster.

"Laying hens require oyster shells and limestone grit at all times as well as mash containing animal feed," said Prof. J. G. Halpin in an address to the poultry school at the Ohio experiment station.

This statement was based on an array of valuable data gleaned from years of experimental work at the Wisconsin experiment station. The data showed conclusively that failure to provide shells and grit for the laying hens is disastrous to profitable egg production, though, contrary to popular belief, this failure does not appear to cause soft-shelled eggs.

In order to get pullets in the habit of eating oyster shells and grit at an early age, it is the practice of the experiment station to keep these essentials before the birds during the brooder stage. When the pullets are out on range a quantity of the shells and grit are put on the ground near the colony.

BIG VALUE OF ANIMAL FEED

Experiments Made at Purdue University Showed Great Increase in Egg Production.

Animal feeds have a decided value in the ration of laying hens and pullets. Experiments made by the Purdue University showed an average egg record of 140.2 eggs in a year from a pen of pullets fed skim milk; 135.9 eggs from those fed meat scrap; and 61.2 eggs from those that received no animal feed of any kind.

Sweet milk in abundance is highly desirable. Milk-fed fowls usually bring a premium on the markets and have a better flavor than those fed on fattening rations moistened with water.

THREE MUSKETEERS MADE ON WORLD'S BIGGEST STAGE

On the biggest motion picture stage ever constructed, Douglas Fairbanks made his celluloid version of Dumas' immortal story, "The Three Musketeers".

To meet the requirements of this story, three acres of exterior sets and one acre of interiors were built, all duplicated from ancient engravings of historical buildings of that time.

It is believed by the management of the New Kendrick Theatre, where this stupendous film spectacle will be shown for Friday and Saturday, October 27-28, that "The Three Musketeers" will not only represent an overwhelming photographic drama, but that it will also afford a golden opportunity to review the early history of France.

Provision for an adequate supply of lime in the ration should be made by poultry raisers, for if this important mineral element is lacking in the food a drain is made on the reserve supply in the bones and soft tissues of the animals which interferes materially with egg production in mature hens and in the proper development of the growing chicks.

PLAN TO PREVENT MOULTING

Natural for Very Early Hatched Pullets to Go Through Partial Molt in Fall.

Every fall we hear a number of reports of pullet-egg production being cut down by fall moulting. This is perhaps only natural when we consider that every one is working toward early maturity and production by means of better breeding early hatching and heavy feeding. It is natural for very early hatched pullets to stop laying and go through a partial-molt before cold weather. In addition to this natural tendency, the molt may be hastened by any sudden change of feed, care or environment. The following simple rules, if followed, will be helpful to prevent this fall molt:

1. Avoid hatching out of season;

1. March, April and May are best, the exact time depending on the breed.
2. Provide free range during the entire season.
3. Avoid rations containing an excess of protein.
4. Do not attempt to hold pullets back, let them mature normally.
5. Have the pullets in their winter quarters before production starts.
6. Avoid any sudden change in feed, care or management after production begins.—Connecticut Experiment Station.
