Not a Volcano; Forest Fire

THIS isn't a volcano in eruption. It's a forest fire, working its way up a mountainside. Such fires destroy, on an average, from seven to ten million acres of timber in the United States every year. The money loss is enormous. The lower picture was taken in the wake of the recent fire in the Cloquet district, which, besides the damage it did to timber, cost a considerable number of lives.

WILL CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

Program Starts Tomorrow at 2 O'clock.

Arrangements have been made to celebrate Armistice Day in Kendrick in a manner befitting the occasion. The dance tonight will be the beginning of the festivities. Then Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock a patriotic program will be held at the New Kendrick Theater, under the direction of Prof. A. L. Daniel. The program will consist of a song, "The Star Spangled Banner" by the audience, and it has been suggested that everyone become familiar with words, even though he may be "dead on the tune". The next number will be flag drill by members of the Kendrick School. This will be followed by a selection from the orchestra. Prof. A. B. Cunningham of the Washington State College will deliver the address of the day and the program will then be closed by the audience singing "America." The program is free to all.

At 3 o'clock there will be a free picture show and everyone is most cordially invited to see this attraction, at the New Kendrick.

At 4 o'clock there will be a big bonfire and a free lunch with hot coffee for everybody.

Stores will close from 2 to 3 during the progress of the program.

It is hoped that everyone will come in and make this good old-fashioned celebration a success. It will be a success if everyone will catch the spirit of the day and assist in making it a memorable occasion. Everything is wide open and free to all.

Legion Dance Tonight

An Amistice dance will be held at the Fraternal Temple tonight, given by Canyon Post No. 66 of the American Legion. Edward's orchestra of Lewiston will furnish music for the occasion. The orchestra consists of piano, drums, violin, and saxophone. The usual lunch will be served at midnight.

Nab Orofino Bootleggers

Fred C. Choate, Leonard Proffit and Theodore Peterson, all of the Orofino section, were brot to Lewiston Saturday morning by Special U. S. Officer J. F. Rice on a charge of having in their possession and disposing of liquor in violation of section 3 and 25 of the federal prohibition act. The men were taken to the county jail from the train and will be arraigned today before Commissioner E. O'Neill.

Mr. Rice went to Orofino Friday on information coming from Sheriff Jewell of Clearwater county, and he and Sheriff Jewell made the arrest of the men Saturday. They were held in the county jail at Orofino, Saturday night.—Tribune.

Phillips-Thomas

Grace Phillips of Lewiston and Harold Thomas of Kendrick were married last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Phillips. Rev. Koper, Presbyterian minister of Lewiston, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, the ring service being used. After the wedding a dainty breakfast was served.

Mrs. Thomas is a most charming young lady and has already made many friends here. She is also an accomplished pianist.

The happy marriage of these two young people is the culmination of a friendship formed a year ago at Lewiston, where Mr. Thomas was attending high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will make their home in one of the Collins' brick bungalows west of the park.

Knows His Capacity

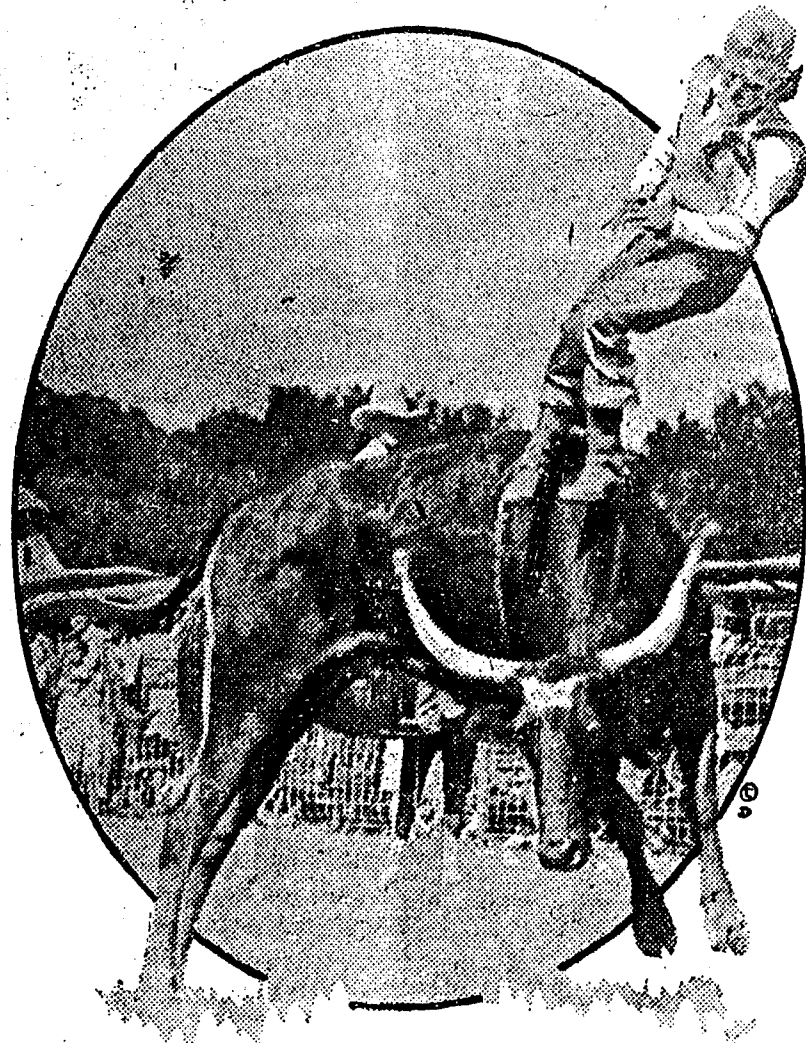

A Scotchman had been invited to a dinner party, and late in the evening was discovered by the hostess in a room all by himself and looking at the picture of misery.

On being asked what troubled him, he turned to the hostess and remarked solemnly, "Do ye realise, wumman that I've lost 30 shillings at cards wi' some of your veesitors?"

"Indeed I am sorry to hear that, Mr. McGregor, but the loss is not deadly. Come into the buffet and have a drink. And we have some fine cold ham there."

"Na, na," said McGregor, despairingly. "I 'canna eat 30 shillings worth o' cauld ham!"

Manhattan's to Be Entertained by Stunts Like This

A REGULAR "wild western" rodeo's to be staged soon in Madison Square Garden, New York. What'll the blasé residents of Manhattan think when they gaze on stunts like this! The cowboy in the picture evidently started out to have fun with a loco long-horn, but it looks a little as if, when the photograph was snapped, the long-horn was having some fun with him. There'll be bronco-busting, too, and branding (unless the S. P. C. A. interferences) and all sorts of hair-raising tricks like that.

State Ticket Republican

The entire state ticket in Idaho went republican with pluralities ranging from 6,000 to 9,000. Moore for governor led with a majority of 9,000 or more with Samuels second and Alexander third.

Dry Weather Injures Range

The Oregon State Humane Society has had surveys made of range conditions in that state and authorizes the statement that there will be heavy losses of cattle and sheep this winter on the ranges from starvation. A report to the Chicago Drovers Journal says: "There are bone-dry conditions over large areas of the western range states. Livestock is going into winter quarters with famine staring it in the face and prices of hay advancing rapidly. Credit has been largely exhausted and advances by the war Finance Corporation to banks and cattle loan companies have relieved the banking situation but will not save the stock. Cowmen are mortgaging their ranches to buy hay. Losses from the slump in prices of cattle are heavy, and individual herders and cattle firms will be helpless to save their stock. Losses of half a million head in eastern Oregon last winter will reach into millions if the coming winter is not mild and open." Col. Hofer appeared before the national Humane convention in St. Paul with a plea for the range stock and advocates state and national action to save the industry from terrible losses, if the coming winter is a hard one.

What's What

There is no statute law against smoking cigarettes and reading trash, as the young woman pictured is doing. But she is infringing on the right of others, as well as breaking a law which is older than legal ruling, when she robs her mother of well-earned rest by refusing to take a fair share in the labors of the household.

An unfilial girl of this type often imagines that she is "lady-like" when she lounges about in silk attire, allowing her servant-mother to do all the hard tasks. As a matter of fact, she is doing what no well-bred girl will do, when she is showing disrespect not only for an older woman, but for her own mother. Lack of riches does not make a girl unladylike, but lack of filial respect stamps her at once as ill-mannered and "common." No finery will make up for underbred manners. (Handed-in.)

LATAH REPUBLICANS HAVE A MAJORITY

CAPTAIN GORDON LOCKE of the Iowa State University football team is the back-field star of Coach Howard Jones' gridiron organization. He is considered one of the best players of the mid-west, and he needs to be, for the company he keeps, considering that Iowa State won over as formidable an eleven as that of Yale earlier in the season.

It is not "warty" in any sense of the word and it's weight indicates that it is solid.

Joe says that if anybody has a real "spud" they wish to put against it to trot it out.

The harvesting of the potato crop is resulting in the making and breaking of records almost daily in the Palouse country, the yield being, it is generally conceded, one of the best, if not the best, in the history of the country. Julius Cherpiiloid, well-known pioneer, who lives just west of Moscow, believes that he has secured returns from 100 pounds of seed that will be difficult to equal.

Mr. Cherpiiloid last spring bought 100 pounds of certified, of the Carmen variety, from the Washburn & Wilson Seed Company of this city, and has harvested from this seed 4,400 and some odd pounds of No. 1 commercial potatoes, or 44 pounds for each pound of seed. Fourteen of these potatoes, weighing 2½ pounds and seven ounces, are on display at the Cash Grocery, on Third Street, and are samples of what the Moscow district can grow in the way of real potatoes.—Star-Mirror.

It does seem as though the farmer is bucking an up-hill proposition. This year when a big potato crop was raised all over the state, the bottom dropped out of the market. When a farmer has a chance on a big crop to make a good margin of profit the market is usually off. Probably there are many sections of the United States where potatoes are scarce but the freight rate is too high to ship them from Idaho and as they are a perishable product there is nothing to be done but to take the loss and hope for something better next time. In south Idaho where potato raising is a business, conditions are more serious than they are in this section, as there will be thousands of acres of splendid potatoes that will be left in the ground, simply because there is no market within reasonable shipping distance.

It's a comfort to know that we will now be almost free from political bunk for the next two years.

In the average town about 98 per cent of the people are kept worrying by the trouble raised by the other two per cent.

A radio story tells of a lazy man who got up at three o'clock in the morning so he would have more time to loaf. We've got 'em in Kendrick.

We are forced to believe that Mose is a back number. When a man runs third in a three-cornered race, it's time to quit.

It has just come out that a medical college at Des Moines was robbed of nearly 2,000 gallons of alcohol which was drained from the cadaver vats. Also the University of Minnesota lost 450 gallons, the containers being emptied after the human bodies had been taken to the dissecting rooms. It is claimed that it was sold principally to Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas bootleggers. Next time someone offers you a drink of "white mule", think of it.

That mother who tries to prove the innocence of her accused son, despite his confession of larceny, by saying that while he was a child he never was permitted to play with other boys, because they were "too rut," may not be aware of it, but perhaps she is explaining more than she would like to explain. Bad companionship in youth has led many young persons astray, but no companionship is scarcely better. The parents who consider their children too good to associate with all other children are themselves of neurotic temperament, and it is not surprising if their children are subnormal.—Ex.

"I don't like this town." It is only occasionally that we hear such a remark, but when we do we wonder how much the people of this town like the person who makes it. Most of us like this town because we know and like each other. We enjoy our daily interchanges of views. But we feel sorry for the poor fellow who is "out of tune." He reminds us of a fiddle with a busted string.—Nezperce Herald.

SELF-HYPNOTISM

ALFRED MANNING decided to commit suicide. He was 64, discouraged, tired of life. Friends found him dead, on his knees by the bed. One end of a handkerchief was looped loosely about his neck. The other end was tied to a bedpost.

This happened in London, England.

Physicians, called to examine the dead man, said there were no signs of strangulation—on the outside of his neck or otherwise.

The coroner's jury, after hearing the doctors, returned a verdict that Manning, while attempting to strangle himself, died by autosuggestion.

In other words, he hypnotized himself into believing that he was dead. His heart, responding to his brain, stopped beating.

There seems to be an epidemic of such cases lately in the news—illustrating the power of mind over matter, and especially the control of the body by imagination.

A person goes to a doctor, feeling out of sorts or with a peculiar pain. If the doctor finds a fatal malady, the patient often begins to get worse, rapidly. A great feeling of relief and a rapid recovery often follow when the doctor says: "Nothing to be alarmed about. I've treated lots of similar cases. They respond quickly to treatment, are easily cured."

When we are ill, gloomy, in trouble or generally out of sorts, it is well to remember this terrific power of the imagination, which unquestionably has curative powers as well as the power of self-destruction.

Troubles are more easily met and conquered when we "keep our heads"—check our imaginative forebodings and rally our will power to a conviction that all will come out well in the end.

POULTRY

CULLING FOWLS FOR MARKET
To Make Best Possible Returns Every Hen in Flock Should Be Layer—Weed Out Culls.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every boy or girl having poultry naturally wishes to earn as much money as possible. To do this every hen should be a good layer. All cockerels, except those kept for breeding purposes, as well as pullets that lack vigor and vitality, should be eaten, canned for home use, or sold as soon as they are large enough, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Selecting or "weeding out" the hens that are poor layers and picking out for market the cockerels least likely to develop into good breeders is commonly called "culling" or culling for eggs and for market.

The best time to cull the hens is during August and September, usually from August 15 to September 15, for at that season it is easier to determine which are the good layers and which are boarders. At that time of year hens which show signs of laying or are laying and have not molted usually are the ones that have been the better layers during the entire season, and the hen that lays best during her first year usually will lay best during her second and third years. She is, therefore, the one to keep. It is not often advisable, however, to keep hens of the heavier breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Brahmas beyond their second year, or the smaller breeds, such as the Leghorns and Anconas beyond the third year, as they seldom prove profitable. You can learn all about the various tests necessary to pick out the good and the poor layers by reading Farmers' Bulletin 1112, which can be obtained by writing to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Strange to say, the fine grapes are grown on the eastern slopes of the Rhine and the choicest varieties, as Johannisburger and Steinberger, are produced higher up the river, south of the Rhine province. It is, nevertheless, the land of the vine, especially the Moselle valley. The substantial claim of the province is its mineral wealth.

"RIDERS OF THE DAWN"

"Riders of the Dawn," the Benjamin B. Hampton picturization of Zane Grey's gripping novel of the Northwest "The Desert of Wheat," is the feature attraction at the New Kendrick Theater, Friday and Saturday, November 10 and 11. It is a worthy successor to "Desert Gold," and like it a vehicle to which the famous novelist gave detailed assistance all during the course of production.

Zane Grey says: "The same characters, the same locale, the same background of limitless deserts of wheat, that greatest of foods, appear in my sequel, with some plot events, which, so closely related to the original novel, would not be found in any published sequel. I am sure that my readers will appreciate seeing the characters of 'The Desert of Wheat' brought to life as I have seen them in this picture, and I heartily recommend it to them as the finest picturization ever made from one of my stories."

FEEDING PIGEONS IN LOFTS

Most Popular Method is to Have Stated Hours for Placing Grain Supply in Troughs.

Self-feeding hoppers are seldom found nowadays in the lofts of veteran pigeon breeders. Their argument is that they have not found it profitable to have several days' supply of grain within reach so the birds may help themselves at will. There are two reasons for this: First, inferior squabs are raised in lofts where feed is constantly before the birds, as there is no regularity among the breeding pigeons in feeding their young; second, this continual picking at the grain eventually leads to poor appetites, resulting in the squabs suffering.

Another disadvantage in having feed lying around, is that it attracts mice and even rats, and when once these enemies get in a loft there is great loss of young birds.

The most popular method for feeding is to have stated hours for placing the grain in the troughs. These troughs are placed in the center of the floor, so that there will be plenty of room for all the birds to gather around it. Galvanized iron drinking vessels are preferred to stone fountains.

There are three open boxes in each loft, measuring 12 inches in length, three inches in width, and three inches in depth, and these boxes contain oyster-shell, grit and charcoal.

A bathtub is placed in the aviary of each pen. These are made of galvanized iron and of convenient size for handling. During the winter the birds are given a bath about once a week, but only on bright clear days. In summer it may be given twice a week. These pans are filled about eleven o'clock in the morning and allowed to remain for about two hours, when they are emptied and turned upside down. If the water is not emptied shortly after the birds are through bathing, they may drink of it and become sick.

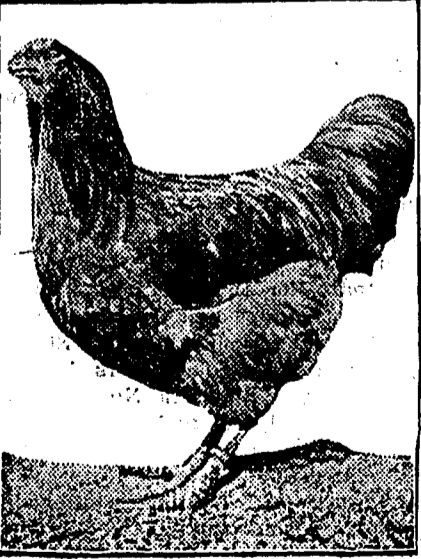

CORRECT TIME TO CAPONIZE

Impossible to Determine by Age as All Breeds Do Not Develop Alike—Watch Comb.

This is a question asked more frequently than any other by novices. It is a very important question, and the answer should be so simple that anyone could understand.

It is impossible to tell the best time for caponizing by the age, because all breeds do not develop alike; neither do birds of the same breed and hatch; some will be small of body with large comb and wattle developments, while others will show very little comb and be large and vigorous.

With any breed when the comb and wattles begin to grow you may know that the reproductive organs are growing correspondingly; when the little comb begins to redden you may know

A Well-Developed Capon. that the organs are receiving more blood for their very rapid growth; as they receive more blood the danger of an operation is greater, for the artery carrying the blood to the testicle is larger and in more danger of being ruptured.

Therefore, if you wish to operate at the perfect time watch the growth of the comb and wattles; when they are just "showing red" is the best and proper time; then there will be little danger to the life of the bird, less pain and no "setback" to speak of; while if you wait until the comb is bright red and the wattles hang considerably there will be more danger of death and more "slips."

HOW NOT TO TAKE COLD

Some Persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, avoid over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

EMPHASIS ON FIELD SELECTION OF SEED CORN IN ALL STATES

Selecting Corn for Seed in the Field.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Seed corn for next season's planting should be selected in the field from the standing stalks in September. The disappointing search for good seed corn every spring should be a sufficient reason for following this practice, strongly advocated by the United States Department of Agriculture. Any intelligent farmer can go into his own cornfield when the corn is mature and select high-grade seed if he has planted suitable types of corn and cultivated properly. If he has joined a county movement to develop certain standard varieties of corn which grow in that locality, and if he has raised these strains on his own land, he may reasonably expect a market for any surplus seed.

County Agents Report Progress.

Various methods were followed last fall by the county agents of the Northern and Western states in their efforts to convince the farmers that field selection of corn was a good thing which would amply pay for any trouble involved. Similar tactics may well be used this season where for one reason or another the local people are not in the habit of field-selecting their seed corn.

In Steele county, Minnesota, selection between September 10 and September 20 was urged. The week of September 24 was chosen as "good seed corn week" in Nance county, Nebraska. It seems likely that the corresponding dates this year will be the best time to go out into the field and choose the most promising ears, noting the character of the plants on which they grow and the details which indicate a vigorous and healthy condition.

The county agent for Dakota county, Minnesota, reports that a permanent and reliable source of seed corn is being developed by getting certain farmers in the county to specialize in seed corn week. They are asked to produce a dependable type of improved corn and to put in facilities for drying and storing it properly. The average farmers are also encouraged to select their own seed, but the definite work of safeguarding the seed corn supply of the county is being carried on with a few men who are really competent to produce certified seed corn and equipped to handle it. Eventually it is hoped that there will be a man in every township doing this seed corn work and, where possible, having seed corn houses in which to dry it.

In Scott county, Minnesota, last year, 4,300 acres of selected seed were planted. For their 1921 planting 32 farmers field-selected their seed corn, and all had a surplus to sell. Stearns county has 31 co-operators in seed corn work. Minnesota No. 13, Rustless White Dent, and Northwestern Dent were the varieties used. Some of this certified seed was awarded to 30 farmers with their farm bureau renewal, thus insuring a good distribution for this year. The boys and girls of the county include field selection of seed corn in their club work.

Indiana Has School-Children's Contest. Indiana has been especially active in emphasizing the importance of having every farmer field-select his seed corn from the standing stalks. A report of the county agent leader for Indiana states that in White county a unique proposition was placed before the children in six rural township schools. The pupil and father were to pick out the best bushel of seed corn to be found in the seed at home. This was to be planted on one side of a field, for identification. Then in the fall the pupil is to pick out 30 or 40 ears from the standing stalks for seed, and later the method to the individual farmer were considered paramount, and the improvement of seed corn in the county was also stressed. The demonstrations showed also how field selection would help to eliminate corn-root rot, if ears were selected from stalks that were vigorous and not ripening prematurely and on shanks that showed no evidence of decay.

Co-Operation by Written Agreement. The county agent for Huerfano county, Colorado, visited 20 farmers last year who were among the foremost corn growers, and made written agreements with each, whereby they promised to raise their corn according to the usual method of cultivation, select seed corn in the field and store it in a dry place where the air would circulate. These fields were all visited by the county agent during the summer and an accurate estimate made of the percentage of stand each had, thus showing the men of what importance it was to plant seed corn that germinates 100 per cent.

Emphasis on field selection of seed corn has been general in all the states where corn is an important crop, and many interesting notes on the progress and reception of the work are found in the reports from Ohio, Nevada, New Mexico, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Utah and Washington. Many germination tests have been made, and there are frequent school contests to bring to the attention of boys and girls in city work the need for good seed corn.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug. —Adv.

"That," said the city man, "is what I call downright brutality. That man ought to be reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

"Why? What's he doing?" "What's he doing? Can't you see how fast that mule has to walk to keep out of his way when he's pushing the plow?"—Ex.

It was in one of the "ten, twenty, thirty" vaudeville houses where moving pictures are shown. An oriental act had been concluded and incense filled the house.

"Usher," complained a pompous man in an aisle seat, "I smell punk."

"That's all right," whispered the usher confidentially, "just sit where you are and I won't put anyone near you."—Ex.

Ship's Company Offers Thanks After Rescue at Sea

CHAPLAIN F. J. QUINN of the United States transport Thomas is pictured here leading the company, passengers and crew, of the Pacific Ocean liner City of Honolulu, burned at sea, in a service of thanks for their rescue. PERRYMAN'S

A Truce Declared for Two Years

Giving Her Away.

The giving away of the bride by some man, generally her father, is a relic of the time when woman was "a thing," a chattel without rights, and unable to hold property. In such circumstances, she could not, of course, choose her own husband, and was given away to the man who wanted her in exchange for a substantial present.

Opportunity.

A missed opportunity is like the sun in the heavens. At midday, when it is nearest us, we cannot perceive it sufficiently clearly; the white glare is too much for our eyes. It is only when it is passed, when it is already sinking, that it looms large, its details magnified and the whole suffused in golden splendor.

Sound Travels Fast.

The velocity of sound varies exceedingly with the medium through which it travels. In dry air at a temperature of 32 degrees Fahrenheit, it is about 1,087 feet a second; in glass, 13,000 feet a second; in steel, 16,400; in water, 4,708 (at 8 degrees centigrade).
