

THE THREE WINNING ESSAYS ON THRIFT

Result of Contest Put on by Kendrick State Bank

Following are the three prize essays on "Thrift", written for the contest put on by the Kendrick State Bank:

By Marjan Pickering, 10th Grade
First Prize $5.

Webster defines thrift as care and wisdom in the management of one's resources. This means that one should be shrewd and intelligent in obtaining wealth and honest and careful in its use.

There are three principal essentials to thrift: be industrious, apply yourself to the task in hand, don't play while you are trying to work. Utilize spare time in such manner as will help you do better work. Work brings money: good work brings more money, therefore attempt to do the best work possible.

A second essential of thrift is economy. To be economical is to be careful, not of our money only, but of all our resources. You can be economical in the use of food. Don't waste what you cannot use at one meal. If it is possible save it and serve again, or if it is impossible to use again on the table feed it to the chickens or pigs. Do not buy bacon for breakfast when eggs are just as good and are cheaper. Economy of this sort is thrift.

Again, saving is another essential to thrift. Save your time. Don't go coasting when you have a lesson to get. Learn to do things when you have time and not put them off, and waste your time, for then they may never get done. Don't go to the movies just to be doing something. Don't buy a silk shirt just because it looks nice when a cheaper one will serve better. Don't buy a thing just because you like, when you do not need it.

Thrift has its results. Save your money little by little and you find, as it accumulates, that you rise gradually in the esteem of your associates. Money gives a man power which is not to be had otherwise. Money and power go hand in hand. One loses all fear of future if he has been thrifty and has learned to use wisely all his resources. He can always turn them to his advantage. If he has saved money poverty has no fears for him.

Therefore thrift means the making of those qualities of character which makes a happy, contented, peaceful people or home.

By Herbert Goudzward, Leland 9th

Thriftiness is just the opposite of wastefulness. Not only can one be thrifty financially, but also with other material things. One is thrifty many times to save money, but in order to save money one must conserve other material resources.

Why is one thrifty? One is thrifty because he desires to save for future investment, to give him a start in some profession, for one knows that when he starts in business or farming, he needs money to back him. Then one is thrifty so as to obtain a comfortable living when he advances in age.

To save this money it is a great help to place one's savings in some depository or savings bank; carrying it in the pocket, or leaving it about the home there is danger of losing it; these savings, added to regularly will in a few years, with semi-annual interest added, amount to a tidy sum. This habit, started in youth, will prove to be the foundation stone of future success.

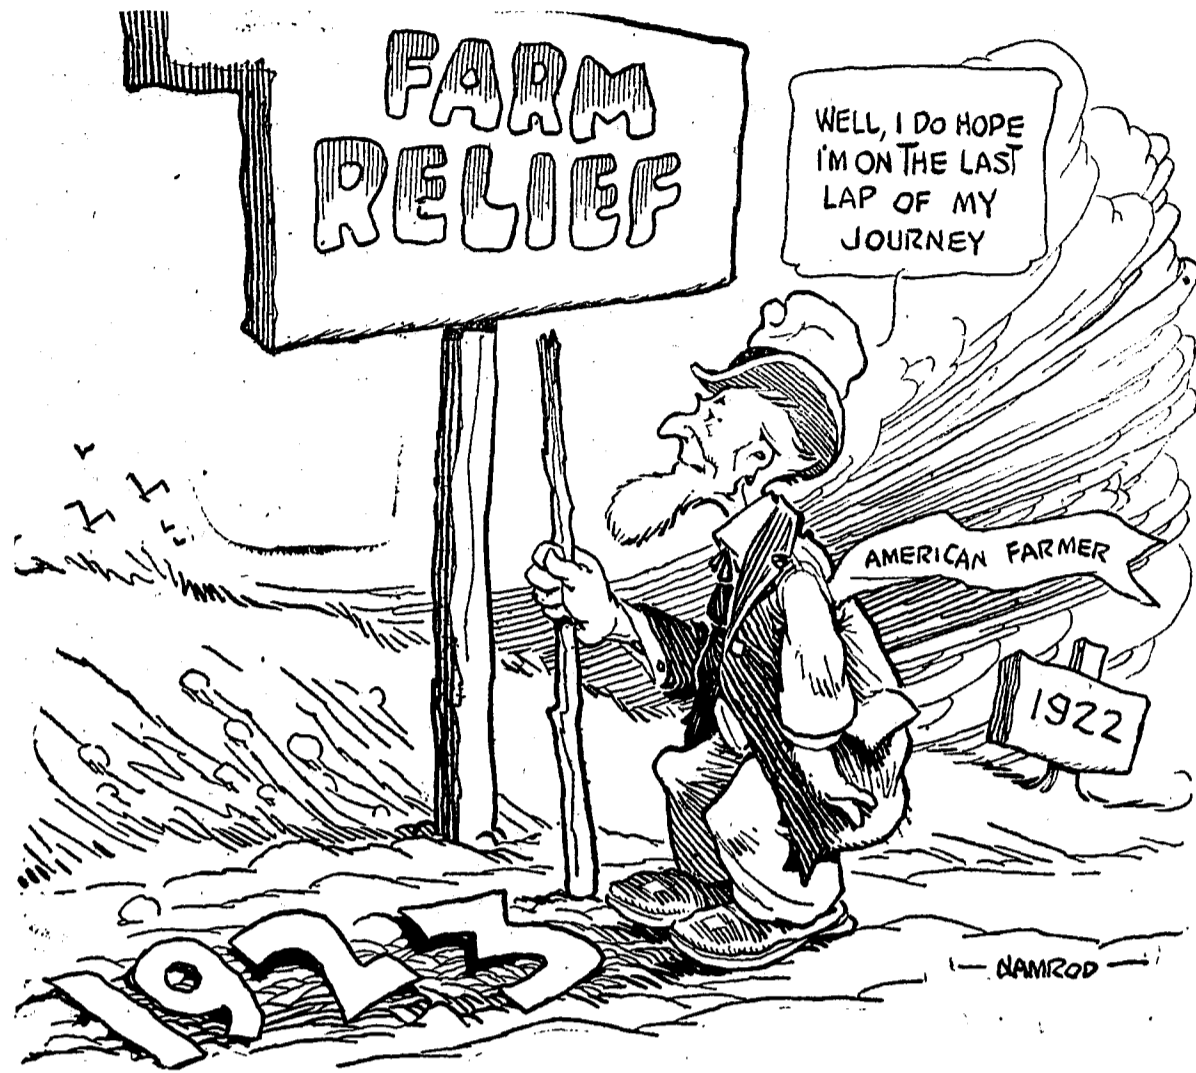

There is also pleasure in thriftiness for a boy or girl; the average boy or girl is proud of his bank account, especially where he or she has by their own efforts accumulated part or all of the amount.

Keep in mind this little epithet, "You have not made it until you have saved it."

By Hester Knepper, 7th Grade
Third Prize $2.

Thrift is economical management. Thrift is not just hoarding money, but saving it until you need it for useful purposes. The difference between hoarding and thriftiness is; hoarding is just putting your money away some place for the sake of having it, while if you are thrifty you

A Pleasing Social Event

One of the pleasant social affairs of the holidays was the party given by Prof. and Mrs. A. L. Daniel in honor of the teachers, the members of the school board and their wives, and a number of young people. The house was beautifully decorated with cedar boughs and a Christmas tree. One of the features of the evening was a sewing contest. Each guest was given a bottle, a needle and thread and dress material. The one making the most beautiful dress for the doll bottle was awarded a prize, Mrs. McConnell being the successful seamstress. Various games were enjoyed during the evening after which the hostess served dainty refreshments.

W. O. W. Elects Officers

The following officers were elected recently at a meeting of the local Woodmen Lodge, to serve for the ensuing term: Past C. C., Thos. McDowell; Counsel Commander, Marvin Long; Adviser Lieutenant, John Kite; Banker, Frank Ellis; Escort, John Hill; Watchman, Harry Fowler; Sentry, Wayne Candler; Clerk, Edgar Long. At the installation of these officers next Wednesday evening, L. C. Dirks, District Manager, will be present.

Miss Trull of Pullman arrived Wednesday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Long. Mrs. F. A. Varo returned home with her Thursday afternoon for a visit.

would be apt to put it in some safe place such as a bank. There it will increase in value. The Bible says, "The love of money is the root of all evil." And anything that causes people to hoard money is therefore evil.

By putting your money in a bank you help everybody, by getting money into circulation, but when you hoard it you help no one and harm yourself.

Often people try to be too saving and they go without many of the things they need, comfort, health and pleasure. This is not thrift but miserliness.

There is, too, a great difference between thrift and stinginess. Stinginess is keeping every thing for yourself and not giving anybody else anything. Comfort, health and happiness should not be sacrificed for the sake of merely saving money, but one should not spend money foolishly. Thrift applies not only to money, but to other things as well. Time, health and every thing that helps to make a well-rounded life.

Therefore, thrift is not hoarding money, being miserly or stingy but in spending money for useful and necessary things.

Splendid Seed Corn

E. L. Whisler of Cedar Creek went to Moscow, Tuesday, to deliver a package of certified seed corn to County Agent Fletcher, who will send it to the seed show at Twin Falls. Mr. Whisler has raised some wonderful corn this year, of the Rustlers White Dent variety; also some very good sweet corn. He took several prizes this fall at the Boise State Fair. On a 5 acre patch he harvested an average of 75 bushels of Rustlers White Dent to the acre. It was well matured and the ears nicely filled to the tips. This is the variety of field corn that is highly recommended by the University of Idaho to be particularly well adapted to the soil and climate of North Idaho.

LATAH COUNTY NEWS PARAGRAPHS

Clipped From The Columns of Neighboring Papers.

Grant Robbins, Moscow chief of police, will become chief deputy sheriff, of Latah County, under sheriff James J. Keane. Will T. Morgarcidge former Moscow postmaster and probate judge, will become Sheriff Keane's office deputy.

Mr. Robbins has been chief of police in Moscow for a number of years and has served as deputy sheriff of Latah county before. No indication of who his successor as chief of police has been made as yet but it is understood that there are six or seven applicants.

D. C. Burr, present chief deputy treasurer, will continue in his present position under Mrs. Audrey Herrington, recently elected county treasurer. Mr. Burr due to his efficiency, has been deputy county treasurer for a number of years.

There will be no other changes in the personell of the county offices. George Vennigerholz will continue as chief deputy assessor. He is the oldest deputy in the court house in point of service, having been chief deputy assessor for a number of years and he was one of the earliest deputy sheriffs in the county.

Mrs. Emma J. Sales and Mrs. Bessie Babcock will be deputies under Harry Thatcher, Latah county auditor and recorder. Both Mrs. Sales and Mrs. Babcock have served under Homer E. Estes for from four to six years. Judge Adrian Nelson as probate judge is deputy clerk of the district court.—Star-Mirror.

The closing down of the camps is throwing several hundred men out of work, many of whom must go elsewhere to find jobs in order to support their families during the winter. The shut down is not expected to last longer than March 1 and may end sooner if cars in which to ship lumber become more plentiful. It is reported that there are 150,000,000 feet of lumber in the Potlatch yards and, while there is an increasing demand for lumber, it cannot be supplied for want of cars. —Deary Press

Some men think that there are too many women's clubs. We think there are not enough.

There was a time when women were expected to sit demurely in the home and keep the cat company during the absence of her "lord and master." But happily that day has passed into history.

Woman, by her own efforts has emancipated herself. She is a property holder, a rapidly increasing power in the business world, and is entitled to her proper sphere in life.

She can not determine the proper duties and responsibilities of her sphere by remaining at home or by discussing current topics over the back yard fence.

Healthy club life cultivates the mind and brings to the surface the best that is in both man and women.

At the club she meets her friends, learns their views, hears all sides of questions that are before the public, and it is therefore better able to determine the proper course to pursue.

The Genesee Improvement Society was once functioning in our little city and accomplished a world of good. It should be rejuvenated for it seems impossible that men are able to hold together and accomplish anything worth while only for a short time.

It is up to the women to do something.—Genesee News

Road Work Progressing

The mile of road northeast of town, being surfaced by Campbell & Barr, will soon be finished. The first coat of crushed rock has been finished to the Wandehar gulch bridge and most of the top coat has been put on. Trucks have been putting in two 8 hour shifts a day on the job and no time wasted.

Some time the latter part of the winter it is expected that work will be started below town and the 2 1/2 mile strip finished toward Juliaetta in the early spring. It is believed that the road will be graded and surfaced all the way from Kendrick to Juliaetta during the coming spring.

U. OF I. STUDENTS PICK 10 STATESMEN

Woodrow Wilson Heads List With Hughes Second

Who are the ten foremost present day American statesmen? Here is the answer of the American history students of the University of Idaho: Woodrow Wilson, 96; Hughes, 94; Borah, 87; Hoover, 84; Harding, 80; Bryan, 78; Taft, 74; Root, 71; and McAdoo, 60.

To heighten interest in current history as well as to direct the conversation of his students away from campus "small talk," Professor C. J. Brosnan, of the American History department of the University, recently asked the students to list the ten foremost present day American statesmen and to give reasons in support of the selections.

The canvass indicated that the student voters are inclined to be non-partisan, having accorded places in their "hall of fame" for five conservative republicans, three democrats, and two progressive republicans.

True to the reputation attributed to young people for idealism and "a sublime audacity of faith," the referendum revealed that collegians admire in public men qualities like idealism, pronounced individuality, and boldness.

Woodrow Wilson won first place because he took the question of a League of Nations "out of the realm of dreams and made it a question of practical politics."

Borah was heaped with laudation for his willingness to "play a lone hand" and for his "eight cylindereu independence."

"Fightin' Bob" La Follette was also given his niche in the "Big Ten," although criticized freely, he was admired for having showed "Big Business" for 25 years that there were blows to give as well as to take.

Fine administrative ability won places for World War Food Administrator Hoover and Director of Railroads McAdoo.

Taft, Root and Hughes were almost unanimously labeled as "brains."

Harding was credited with "intellectual patience," "the capacity to listen" and with "surrounding himself with able advisors." The general verdict was that he had "acquitted himself with wisdom in a period of readjustment."

The fact that "Grape Juice" Bryan had lived to see his nation go "dry" reflected the quality that won an award for the "Great Commoner." That "his thinking has been 30 years in advance of his time," and that of any other public man, "were favoring claims made by the University voters.

"Prominent mention" was given to Henry Ford, Hiram Johnson and Samuel Gompers, whose votes, however, fell just below the "Big Ten" line.—StarMirror.

Poultry Show Postponed

The Eighth Annual Pan-Handle Poultry show scheduled at Moscow for January 25-26-27 has been postponed until January 30, 31 and February first because of the conflict with the poultry show at Spokane, according to announcement made Wednesday afternoon by H. W. Hulbert, secretary of the association.

Premium lists for the show will be out by the first of January and may be secured from Secretary Hulbert at the University of Idaho. Already several requests for premium lists have come in, states Mr. Hulbert, many more are expected as soon as the premiums are available. Plans for the show have been advancing rapidly since the re-election of officers two weeks ago and from the interest manifested over the Inland Empire section and throughout the Pan-Handle region. An attractive list of premiums have been arranged and the competition is expected to be keen.

Tree Commandments

1. Do not allow roots to be exposed to the sun, drying winds or frosts.
2. Prune with a sharp, clean cut any broken or injured roots.
3. Have the holes large enough to admit all the roots without cramping.
4. Plant in fine loam, enriched with thoroughly decomposed manure.
5. Do not allow any green, unfermented manure to come in contact with roots.
6. Spread out the roots in their natural position and work fine loam among them, making it firm and compact.
7. Do not plant too deep. Let upper roots be set an inch lower than before.
8. Remove all broken branches and cut back at least one-half of the previous year's growth of wood.
9. If the season lacks the usual rainfall, water thoroughly twice a week.
10. After-Culture—Keep soil in a good degree of fertility. Mulching the trees in autumn with manure is beneficial.—Draper.

PREVENTING CHOLERA IN VARIOUS STATES

Department of Agriculture Is Extending Control Work.

Farmers Will Save More Hogs and Avoid Disastrous Losses if They Do Not Delay in Reporting Suspicious Cases.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States Department of Agriculture this year extended its cooperative hog-cholera control work to South Dakota, Washington, New Mexico and West Virginia, making a total of 34 states in which work is being done in co-operation with state authorities. Co-operation among the different agencies is now at its best, and is therefore more effective than ever. The object of the work with the various states is to prevent and control outbreaks of hog cholera and to prevent the spread of the infection and to reduce losses.

During the year, hog cholera has been kept well under control, but special care must be taken when there is an increase in its prevalence. Farmers will save more hogs and prevent disastrous losses if they do not delay reporting immediately to the state veterinarian, the county agricultural agent, the representative of the bureau of animal industry, or local veterinary practitioner any suspicious cases of sickness among their hogs. Hog-cholera serum is not a cure, but a preventive treatment, and should be applied as soon as possible when the disease appears in the herd or in the neighborhood. The preventive treatment is a good insurance against losses from hog cholera.

GREEN MANURING AIDS SOIL

Organic Matter Is Added, as Is Nitrogen—On Poor Land Turn Under an Entire Crop.

Green manuring means turning under suitable crops to enrich the soil. Such crops may be turned under green or when ripe.

Green manuring adds organic matter and, directly or indirectly, nitrogen to the soil.

Leguminous crops are most desirable for green manuring, since they add to the soil nitrogen gathered from the air in addition to the organic matter which they carry.

Besides the nitrogen in the legumes turned under, an additional supply of nitrogen is fixed in the soil by the action of bacteria, using the carbon in the organic matter as a source of energy.

Turning under an entire crop is advised only when the soil is poor and for the purpose of starting a rotation.

Turning under catch crops or winter-growing green crops is an economical and successful method of supplying nitrogen.

A little girl from the city had been visiting the country, and was being questioned as to what kind of a time she had. Finally someone said, "I bet you don't even know how to milk a cow."

"Bet I do," she said. "You take the cow into the barn and give her some breakfast food and water and then you drain her crankcase."—Prairie Farmer.

COMING IN 1923

ANOTHER year totters on crutches into eternity. Once more we stand on the threshold of the unknown. In greeting the stranger, 1923, it is good to know that better things probably are in store for us.

The business outlook generally is much brighter than it was at the beginning of 1922. Uncertainty, bewilderment and fear have nearly run their course. Our goal is plainly in sight—we are headed upward to safe and sane prosperity. There may be reactions, but they will be temporary. The long-swing trend is upward.

Prosperity in 1922 was rather lop-sided. The year 1923 should do much to restore the normal balance, the eventual and inevitable equilibrium, with the purchasing power of farmers and small towns more on a level with cities.

A year ago every other person was muttering some reason why business revival could only be temporary. Today the crape-hanger is a rare specimen. Best of all, no one will listen to him. That reveals a national spirit of confidence, the surest breeder of prosperity.

All around, we are a saner people than when we ventured timidly into 1922. Home is coming to have more of its old meaning. So-called "jazz life" is gradually departing. Men are working harder. There's a general revival of the old-time, genuinely American spirit that made our country what it is.

As Coue, the French auto-suggestionist, would put it, "Every day, and in every way, things are getting better and better."

We wish our readers the best of good fortune and happiness in 1923 and the years to follow.

POULTRY

Proper Care is of Big Importance in Arranging and Handling Exhibition Coops.
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Not infrequently improperly built and unsuitable coops have resulted in accidents and damage to the fowl in transit, or have presented the birds in such objectionable surroundings that they have been neither pleasing to the general spectator nor to the judge.

Where fowls are shipped by express, in order to have them reach their destination in the best possible condition, they should be transported in special shipping coops, which should be substantially built and able to withstand rough handling. Such a coop may be made from waste lumber salvaged from dry-goods boxes or second-hand half-inch material. Boards more than one-half inch thick should not be used, as they make the coop too heavy and the express charges excessive. The coop should be nailed together with the supports of the slats or cover on the top, which should be put on with screws or hinges and hooks, so that it may be easily opened. This is important, as the top or cover must be opened each time the coop is used, and if put on with nails it is soon broken and the coop spoiled.

There are standard sizes of coops which commonly are used for shipping poultry, the dimensions of these containers varying according to the number of fowl to be transported. The following dimensions should be used in constructing the coop: For one hen or cock, 12 inches wide, 18 inches long, and 24 inches high; for two hens or one hen and cock, 12 inches wide, 24 inches long, and 24 inches high. In preparing for shipment, a small quantity of hay, straw, or dry shavings should be placed in the bottom of the coop to absorb moisture, and two cups or cans should be provided—one for feed and one for water. The cups should be fastened securely to the side walls in opposite corners.

Special exhibition coops should be used by poultry-club members in exhibiting fowls at county and school fairs or other exhibitions, or by adult showmen in displaying their champion poultry. Such coops should not be used for shipping poultry, but may be employed to take the birds to the show, if carried by wagon or motor car. The floor should be solid and the framework of wooden strips, 2 inches wide and 1 1/2 inches thick. The top, back and sides may be covered with lath, wire netting, or any kind of thin, strong cloth. The front should be of 2-inch wire netting. If it is impossible to obtain netting, however, laths may be used, but the strips should be placed about 2 1/2 inches apart, to afford as much opportunity as possible to see the birds. The coop should be made in the form of a 2-foot cube, and will accommodate one mature bird or a pair of chickens. If more than this are to be exhibited together the coop should be made larger in proportion to the number of fowls it is to accommodate.

Every poultry-club member or other fowl fancier, who intends to exhibit birds, should construct one or more exhibition coops of this type, according to the number of specimens he intends to exhibit. Birds can be trained and conditioned in these coops before the exhibition, and after becoming accustomed to them they will appear to better advantage when being judged. Furthermore, when birds are shown in coops of this kind that are uniform in size and type, not only is the appearance of the showroom improved, but the individual exhibit is more attractive. Training and exhibiting some of the best specimens of both old and young birds every fall is an interesting and important part of boys' poultry-club work.

GRIT IS MOST ESSENTIAL
Many poultry raisers gradually begin to slight the importance of grit. Lack of grit means poor digestion and impaired health. Regular poultry grit should be kept before the fowls in boxes or hoppers at all times. In addition, a load of gravel near the chickens' home would improve the health and increase the egg yield on many a farm.

DO NOT OVERFEED CHICKENS

Great Secret Is Never to Allow Laying Hens to Get Overfat—Fat Fowl Is Lazy.

Do not go on the supposition that the more feed you give your hens and pullets, the more eggs they will produce. This is a waste of words to the average poultry keeper, but there are thousands of beginners who are over-feeding their fowls and wondering why they are not gathering a plentiful supply of eggs. The great secret of feeding is never to allow your laying hens to get overfat. It is much better to have the birds go away from the trough somewhat hungry than to have a portion left over from the meal. The surest way to tell if a hen is too fat is to lift her, examine the rear of her body and you can easily detect if there is an excess of fat by the color of the skin. A fat hen is lazy, cares nothing for work, cannot easily fly and soon becomes tired when chased.

Addition of Alfalfa to Ration for Cattle Gives Better and More Profitable Gains.

Experiments of the United States Department of Agriculture have shown that alfalfa added to a ration for fattening cattle or young growing stock gives better and more profitable gains. Compared with hay from sorghum and the grasses, alfalfa has consistently given the best gains. There seems to be little difference in the results given by the alfalfa or clover and other legumes, but alfalfa is more palatable and is more readily and completely consumed.

ESTIMATE MARKETING COST

Whether Sold Through Commission Man or Growers' Association There Is Expense.

Do not forget that it costs something to sell farm products. Whether you sell or your merchant, commission man or growers' association sells, there will be cost. You can't get service for nothing. Whatever your plan may be, estimate the cost and pay what is necessary for economical marketing.

Mrs. Charles Thornton and son, Doyle, arrived last Saturday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. M. Bleck.

R. Haizlip of Hillyard, Wash., spent Christmas with friends in Kendrick.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brooks of Lewiston visited a short time Monday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. W. Lutz.

The local W. O. W. Lodge has issued invitation this week to its members for a grand installation ceremony and banquet for Jan. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Newton and family went to Clarkston Monday for a brief visit with friends.

The Misses Agnes and Margaret Cox, who are students at the University of Idaho, are spending their vacation at the home of their parents on American ridge.

As a general thing the week between Christmas and New Year's Day is one of the quiet weeks of the year from a business standpoint and this week has proved no exception to the rule. Merchants have been invoicing this week and will soon know whether to figure their profits on the credit or debit side of the ledger.

Chauncey Compton, Gilbert and Violet Riley went to Cavendish last Friday where they played for a dance.

Al McKee of Lapwai was transacting business here Wednesday. He stated that weather was so mild there the first of the week that farmers were considering the idea of plowing.

The American Legion gave a banquet in the dining room of the Commercial Hotel, last night, at which time officers for the ensuing year were nominated.

Miss Olga Wolff arrived last Saturday from Spokane to visit her parents near Leland.

Walter Thomas was in Moscow Thursday on business.

Rev. Wm. T. Russell will preach at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning at the usual hour. His theme will be "The Prince of Peace." Sunday school at 10 a. m.

The surface of crushed rock being put on the road northeast of town is seven inches thick—four inches of coarse rock base and three inches of fine top coat with clay binder.

Kester Dammarull, Rex Pickering and Norla Callison came down from Moscow Friday evening of last week to spend the holiday vacation with home folks.

The Epworth League basketball team, composed of members of the Kendrick High School alumni, played the regular high school lineup at the gym Wednesday evening. It was a hard fought battle but the high school boys carried off the honors by a score of 39 to 22. The game was very close the first half, but the League boys couldn't stand the pace in the second half. The lineup of the Leaguers follows: John and Kester Dammarull, Cecil Chamberlain, Rex Pickering and Norla Callison. A very enjoyable social was held in the church basement after the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas spent Christmas in Lewiston at the home of Mrs. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dirks.

Miss Manila and Harold Hanson are spending their Christmas vacation at the home of their parents.

The Okoke Klootchman Club spent a very enjoyable evening at the Commercial Hotel. Mrs. Erickson served a splendid dinner at 7 p. m. bridge being the principal topic of conversation the rest of the evening. Those at the three card tables were Messrs. and Mesdames Oldfield, McConnell, Knepper, Dunkle, Erickson and Lutz.

The members of the Rebekah lodge held a cooked food sale at the Midget Cafe last Saturday. The proceeds were used for lodge purposes.

George Davidson was in Moscow on business Thursday.

Arthur Wegner arrived last Saturday to spend Christmas with his folks here. He expects to return to Portland Sunday, where he will resume his work at dental college.

Joe Gardner was called to Clarkston on the afternoon train Wednesday, on account of the serious illness of his brother, who was suffering with a severe attack of pneumonia.

Entertainments were held at both local churches Christmas eve. The Methodist church had a Christmas tree and program and the Presbyterians a 6 o'clock luncheon and afterward a program. There was a good attendance at both affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. MacPherson and son, Donald, spent Christmas eve at the N. E. Ware home on Bear ridge.

Miss Edith Compton, teacher in the Boise city schools, arrived Saturday to spend her vacation at the home of her parents.

Owing to the busy time and unfavorable weather last week the attendance at the high school play was not as large as expected. Saturday night the crowd was very small, due largely to the heavy downpour of rain. The members of the cast acquitted themselves very well indeed, although handicapped by having to play to so many empty seats. It has been suggested that the same play given at a more favorable time would draw a good house.

R. D. Newton is enjoying a visit with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Newton of Farley, Iowa, who arrived Wednesday afternoon. It is the first time they have all been together for ten years. W. D. McGregor of Moscow, father of Mrs. Newton, is also visiting at the Newton home.

R. B. Parks of Leland went to Spokane, Thursday, on business.

My little girl asked me something the other day that I haven't been able to figure out yet. She goes to church and it seems that away back in Bible times when they wasn't only four people on earth yet, some man called Kane got sore and killed a fellow by the name of Able, and when he saw what he'd done it scared him. My little girl says: "Daddy, if nobody had ever been dead yet, how did he know he had killed him?" And darned if I know what to tell her.—"Salome Sun."

Legion Dance Next Friday
