

School Expenses Will be Reduced

Board Plans to Keep Within Estimated Budget

The following article relative to the finances of the local schools was made available to the Gazette through the courtesy of E. W. Lutz, who is a member of the school board.

Operating and financing a school the size of the Kendrick district has been a very difficult problem for the past few years. Prior to the war it took the maximum levy of ten mills to provide sufficient funds for the running expenses of the school. Salaries and all other expenses increased at the beginning of the war as in all other lines of business but without a corresponding rise in income. The slight increase in the assessed valuation helped but very little.

It can readily be seen that it was absolutely impossible to maintain the efficiency of the school without creating a deficit. Some special aid was received from the County Superintendent during 1920 which helped to down the deficit. On account of other districts being in similar circumstances the fund used for that purpose was soon exhausted and the district has received no further aid from that source. The high school tuition was increased by law in 1921 so that the district now receives the actual cost for the students from outside districts. This has helped considerably, but not enough to cover the increased cost of operation. It was thought that the estimated income for each of the last two years would take care of the budgets as planned but during each year, emergencies arose which absolutely had to be provided for in order to keep the building in a sanitary condition and maintain school and consequently the deficit was slightly increased each year. The school board has been successful in keeping the high school on the accredited list and has kept the entire school up to a high standard of efficiency. Although the deficit is not large compared with some other districts, the utmost economy is being practiced in order to bring the finances back in balance. The expenses for this year as planned in the budget are considerably less than the estimated income and it is expected that the deficit will be materially reduced.

The bond interest and sinking fund is entirely separate from the general funds and cannot be used for any other than for the redemption of bonds and the payment of bond interest. $5,000 of the original bonds issued have been paid during the last year and the interest has been correspondingly reduced. The board plans to refund the remaining outstanding bonds into new 20 year bonds bearing a lower rate of interest and payable in equal annual installments, and in addition issue new bonds for $2,000, as provided in the recent election, to make the necessary repairs to the building and equipment. The Department of Public Investment of the State of Idaho agreed to take the entire issue at 5 percent. On account of a provision in the law which will not permit a district to issue new bonds increasing its total indebtedness in excess of six percent of the assessed value of the taxable property of the district the new bonds cannot be legally issued at the present time and the badly needed repairs and improvements will have to be postponed for another year. It is expected that a further reduction of the outstanding bonds and the saving in this years operations will permit the issuance of the new bonds early next year.

Kendrick to Have Lyceum

Kendrick will have a lyceum course this fall and winter. Ten citizens of the town entered into a contract with Ellison-White last spring for a lyceum course containing four numbers and a fifth number to be supplied by local talent. Following is a list of those who signed the contract: A. L. Daniel, Mrs. F. E. Erickson, A. E. Wilcox, A. Wilmot, John Kite, Frank Chamberlain, E. P. Atchison, Kendrick Hardware Co., E. H. Dammarell and Theo. Hanson. The first three signers have left town so the course is now guaranteed by seven signers.

The entertainments as listed on the contract are: the Buckeye Male Trio; a lecture by Mattison Wilbur Chase; Leaks Orchestral Entertainers with a personnel of four musicians; the Lauher-Smith Entertainers with three talented artists. The fifth number will probably be a home talent production of some kind.

The four numbers will cost $345 which does not include any of the incidental expenses or hall rent. An average sale of season tickets should make up a greater part of this expense.

Dates for the coming entertainments have not yet been received, but are expected daily.

The local school board has signed up a complete corps of teachers for the coming school year. Slight reductions in salaries in some cases were made to conform to the program of rigid economy which the board has outlined for the future. It was found necessary to dispense with one grade teacher and while this will require heavier work on the part of the grade teachers left, it is not thought that the standard of work will be lowered by this action.

Splendid Teaching Force

Prof. A. O. Strauch, who last year made a splendid record as principal is now superintendent. Under his direction it is believed the school will have a most successful year. He is a thorough instructor and is familiar with all branches of school management. He specializes on discipline, which is one of the most important requirements of public school work.

Mr. Daniel McLain of Pullman, Wash., has been elected principal of the high school. He is a graduate of Washington State College and has the degree of Bachelor of Arts from that institution. He comes here most highly recommended by the faculty of W. S. C.

Miss Loree Whitney, who was a member of the faculty last year, will have charge of domestic science. She was a popular teacher among the high school students last year. She is a talented musician and was of material assistance to the students in their music outside of the regular routine of the class room.

Mrs. Katherine Kelly and Miss Grace Dawson, both exceptionally successful grade teachers, will have the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades. It has not been definitely decided which teacher will have the two higher grades or the two lower. Their work last year in the grades was highly satisfactory.

Miss Marie Gilson of Lewiston, a graduate of the Lewiston Normal, will teach the 3rd and 4th grades. Her teaching has been limited to training center work, but her recommendations from the Normal are very strong.

Mrs. A. O. Strauch will have charge of the primary rooms, which is the same position she held last year. She has had a wide experience in primary work and the progress made by her pupils last year was very pleasing to the patrons of the school. Her two grades will be well cared for.

School will open Monday, September 10.

Kendrick is Now 34 Years Old

Town Has Survived Three Disastrous Fires, a Flood and the Low Price of Wheat

The town of Kendrick is now in its thirty-fourth year. It was started by Thos. Kirby, father of Mrs. L. J. Herres, in 1889. Mr. Kirby moved with his family from Juliaetta and opened a general store here, having purchased the farm, which is now the townsite of Kendrick, from Raleigh Nickols. His was the first store and he carried groceries, drygoods, shoes and drugs and also opened up a grain business here. At that time the railroad was just being finished through Kendrick to Juliaetta. The town was named after Mr. Kendrick who was at that time second vice president of the Northern Pacific railroad. The end of the line was at Juliaetta but the yards were put in at Kendrick so that the trains ran to Juliaetta and then came back to Kendrick where they laid over.

There are now four residents of Kendrick who were all here prior to 1892. They are named in the order of their coming: Mrs. L. J. Herres, Dr. W. A. Rothwell, Wm. Meyer and H. P. Hull.

Mrs. Herres came here when she was (?) years of age. Her father's store was the only building in town. A year later the town was incorporated with the following board of trustees: Mayor J. M. Walker, Councilmen, Thos. Kirby, M. C. Normyle, Mr. Wright and G. E. Potter.

Mr. Kirby, during his early residence here, got up an exhibit of agricultural products which was shown at the first Kendrick fair. It was so remarkable that it was exhibited at the Spokane fair and took first prize and from there was taken to Portland where it also took first. A great deal of favorable advertising was thus given to the Potlatch country.

Dr. Rothwell arrived here June 17, 1890. The town had just been incorporated and was beginning to flourish. At this time the roads were even worse than they are now, which gives a general idea of what the Doctor had to contend with when making professional calls in the country. His territory at that time extended as far back as Pierce City, all of which territory had to be covered with team and buggy or by horseback. Dr. Rothwell has suffered several broken ribs, a broken shoulder and a broken leg at various times, in runaways, smash-ups etc., while making his calls over the bad roads which he had to travel. He helped to get out the first issue of the Kendrick Gazette, which made its bow to the public July 4, 1890. The paper was printed on a Washington hand press under the shade of a big pine tree under the editorial direction of a man named Frost. Dr. Rothwell had his office on a lot now used as a part of the town park.

Wm. Meyer arrived in the fall of 1890. He started a blacksmith shop across the Bear Creek bridge, now in Addison's Addition to Kendrick. He had a competitor by the name of Stone who had a shop on the lot now occupied by the Emulus Brown residence. Billy still has the same anvil and vice which he used here over thirty years ago. He has been in business continuously here since he opened his shop in 1890. They were building Sperry grade on the Potlatch and finishing up a good grade on Bear ridge the year he came. These roads opened up considerable territory for the town. At this time there was nothing but a trail to Cedar Creek ridge, but very few people living there. All supplies had to be taken to the ridge by means of pack horses. Six-horse freight wagons left Kendrick almost daily hauling supplies to the mining districts in the Pierce City country and to the homesteaders on Nez Perce prairie.

H. P. Hull came here in July 1891. At that time the local depot was in course of construction. He bought the lot where Kendrick Store is now located, made arrangements for the construction of a store building and then went east to purchase stock. He returned August 1 and on the night of his arrival the lumber mill, situated on the banks of the Potlatch in the West end of town where the bridge crosses the Potlatch, was burned together with the stock of lumber, a part of which had been bought for the building of his store.

Kendrick Galley —7

At the close of the year 1891 the buildings were all frame structures and were situated somewhat as follows: the Kendrick Hotel stood on the lot just west of the city hall; M. C. Normyle had a hotel on the west lot of the park; the newspaper office was on the lot where the city hall now is; Lincoln Bros. had a hardware store on the lots now used for the Red Cross Pharmacy; Mr. Kirby, who was also postmaster, had his store on the Farmers Hardware lots; a saloon belonging to Charles Hamlin was located on the Hotel Kendrick lot; where McDowell's pool hall is there was a law office occupied by Potter and Couts and there was a hardware on the Carlson Hardware lots; on the corner where the postoffice stands there was a two story building with the first floor used for a furniture store and the upstairs for the I. O. O. F. hall. Where Perryman's house now stands there was a general merchandise store belonging to Durham & Kaufman and on the Raby lots there was a small drug store. In Addison's Addition John P. Vollmer had a general merchandise store managed by Math Jacobs and A. W. Gordon. J. M. Walker had a bank on the Kendrick Hardware lots and Capt. J. F. Carlton had a small grocery on the lots now occupied by Perryman's confectionery. There were a number of saloons in town and but few dwellings as the business men, to a large extent, had rooms in the rear of their places of business.

Where the Presbyterian manse now stands there was a rough board shanty with neither floor nor windows. This was the home of Rev. Allen, the first Kendrick preacher. He held services in an old saloon building in the lower end of town.

In the summer of 1892 the first great fire destroyed practically the entire town with the exception of the depot. It was an exceedingly hot day and everything as dry as tinder so that the frame buildings went up in smoke within a few hours. The town was rebuilt as fast as possible and was soon doing business as usual.

Two years later another fire started in a woodpile adjoining Hull's store which completely destroyed the store and contents and the household goods of Mr. Hull. Other buildings burned to the ground were the school house, law office, furniture store, Gazette office and several smaller buildings.

Another disaster occurred in 1899 when a freight train loaded with steel rails jumped the track and piled the heavily loaded cars in the middle of the Potlatch. This turned the waters of the creek into the main street of the town. Great damage was done to the streets and sidewalks, the latter being built on stilts from two to six feet from the ground. Some buildings were damaged, others washed

Endorsed Gooding Bill

The wheat meeting called at Moscow last Saturday was attended by approximately 800 people, who gathered in the university auditorium to listen to a discussion of ways and means of stabilizing the price of wheat. Prominent men were present from Oregon, Washington and Idaho. The meeting resulted in the passage of a resolution addressed to President Coolidge. It calls for a special session of congress to consider the plan that is set forth in the gooding bill and the resolution. The proposed plan calls for a federal corporation, with a capitalization of $500,000,000 which has the power to purchase and sell wheat in any quantity, at any time, at the basic price of $1.75 a bushel. Another resolution addressed to the meeting asks that a referendum of wheat growers be taken this fall to determine if it will be possible to set a stabilized price for the coming crop through unions and distributing agencies.

The meeting was presided over by Dean E. J. Iddings. President A. H. Upham gave the address of welcome and talks were made by Senator Gooding and Congressman French.

In spite of the Gooding bill and the big wheat meeting, a bushel of wheat brings considerably less than a dollar.

Never Saw a Movie

The Grangeville Free Press last week contained an interesting article concerning an aged Chinese woman who has spent 51 years in the mountains of Idaho county and during all of this time she had been at only three places, at Warren, at her home for 28 years on Salmon River and once at Slate Creek. Until her trip to Grangeville last week she had never ridden in an automobile, had never seen a picture show or a locomotive. Her name is Polly Bemis. Years ago she married a white man named Bemis who died about a year ago.

A cement block, fire-proof building will be put up at Cavendish in the near future, according to a report issued last week from Cavendish. The building will be a two-story structure and will accommodate the I. O. O. F. Lodge upstairs and the Tarry store on the first floor.

away. Store buildings had several feet of mud in them and merchandise was badly damaged. Charles Hamlin lost three children in the flood.

In 1904 a general fire occurred which wiped out practically the entire business section. Very little merchandise was saved as the fire burned rapidly on account of the dry weather and intensely hot day.

Having gone through several disastrous fires the trustees of the town established fire limits and required the erection of fire proof buildings within these limits. It is owing to the good judgment of these trustees that Kendrick's business section is now composed entirely of fire proof buildings.

H. P. Hull went through four fires and a flood but continued in business until a few years ago when he sold his store to C. G. Compton who later sold out to Stanton Bros.

A town that has been practically wiped out on three different occasions and then is immediately rebuilt, has some reason for its existence. Ever since its foundation by Thos. Kirby Kendrick has been the principal business center of the Potlatch country. It will continue to be the main business point because of its logical location and in spite of the fact that the low price of wheat has caused a slump in business activity. Kendrick's future is brighter than its past.

Latah County News Paragraphs

Items of interest Taken From Neighboring Papers

Mr. John Moore, who has conducted the Juliaetta Picture Hall decided to suspend business at this place indefinitely, and on last Tuesday shipped his outfit to White Bird, Idaho. Mr. Moore gave our citizens a well conducted exhibition hall which was highly appreciated by its patrons. Our citizens cordially wish Mr. Moore a profitable business in White Bird. —Juliaetta Record.

The assessment roll just made up shows that there are in Latah county only 5,715 head of cattle all told and of that number 2,743 are milk cows. The assessed valuation of the cattle is $149,044.

The figures show that this county lacks a whole lot of being in the dairy business though the number of milk cows has increased during the past year. The cows are scattered all over the county. Few farmers have more than five, most having one, two or three. A good many cows are owned by town people for family purposes, and do not contribute to the dairy industry.

The figures show that notwithstanding the attempts of the past ten years to create an interest in dairying, not much headway has been made. It is being proved in some localities that dairying is far more profitable than wheat growing; but in its relation to the dairy industry, the county as a whole is about where it was 20 years ago.

The cow population of Latah county will have to triple or quadruple before the county can hope to become much of a factor in the dairy industry. When the cows number ten thousand or more, and are chosen for their worth as dairy cows, then look out. This will be a real honest to gosh dairy county.

The county has 4,239 horses and mules, 652 head of sheep and 1,967 head of hogs. The rolls show 45 head of goats.

The resurfacing of the state highway from Genesee to the north has been progressing in good shape and from reports the road is in better condition than it has been for a long time. It is only hoped that the filling in of the deep ruts will be as good as said to be—and if so, the people of this section will have nothing to complain of. Upkeep work is being carried on in good shape, and it is the intention of the state to keep it from getting in the condition it was last year—and here's hopin' they succeed.

The Sweet Shop changed ownership this week when A. G. Mayer of Genesee purchased the interests of Henry Kaen. The new owner took possession at once.

Mr. Mayer appears to be a wide awake young man and one of business integrity, and is very favorably impressed with the locality. His family will arrive here next week.

The Kaen family are undecided as to where they will go or what they will do. At present they are living in the house formerly occupied by Leo Vance. Mr. Kaen's suffering with sciatic rheumatism was his reason for disposing of his business. —Troy News.

Deficit Was $27,186.97

The deficit caused by the default of George Baskett at the Empire National Bank of Lewiston, is now placed at $27,186.97. Baskett committed suicide by jumping into Snake river July 26. An assessment of $50 a share was made upon the stockholders of the bank which, it is stated, will bring in an excess over the deficit of more than $25,000.

Says No Wheat Surplus

Director E. L. French of the Washington state division of agriculture is continuing his fight against what he terms a "bear" campaign to force down the price of wheat, says the Star Mirror. Director French's views coincide with those of Eugene Meyers, director of the war finance board, also with one of the greatest flour manufacturers in this country, a former secretary of agriculture and many others. Director French maintains so-called "friends" of the farmer have destroyed his confidence by "bear" attacks to gain political advantage and the grain producers may have to lose heavily because too many "fool friends" wished to run for office.

In an epitome of facts on which he based his contention the state department of agriculture has issued the following letter:

"The acreage in wheat in 1903 was 49,465,000. This year it is 58,253,000. The increase in acreage in 20 years has been about 16 per cent. Population increase during the same period has been considerably greater than 20 per cent. The acreage in wheat in 1913, before the outbreak of the war, was 50,184,000. It rose to 73,156,967 in 1919, the year it might be remembered when wheat commanded the highest price in this country; shrunk to 61,143,000 in 1920; rose again in 1921 to 62,408,000; dropped to 56,770,000 in 1922 and this year it is, as stated above, 58,253,000. Can you see any justification in these figures for the statement that there has been from 11 to 13 millions increase in wheat acreage this year?"

"The wheat crop to be harvested this year, according to present estimates is 61,000,000 bushels less than the crop of last year, and 34,000,000 bushels short of the average crop of the year 1917-1921. What foundation does this give for the present talk of enormous over-production, the talk which has done so much to force down the wheat price?"

"Our average exports of wheat for the past three years have been considerably in excess of 200,000,000 bushels a year. In the calendar year 1922 there were 208,321,091 bushels. The normal consumption of wheat in the United States is six bushels per capita or 660,000,000 bushels. This leaves us with a possible surplus to export but little over half as great as the amount of our average wheat exports for the last three years.

"All authorities agree that the stocks of wheat in Europe are abnormally low. Why, therefore, do professed and professional friends of the wheat farmer deliberately spread all of this wild talk about an enormous surplus of wheat. As a matter of fact, there is not the slightest justification on earth for the present low price of wheat."

Governor Writes of Idaho

In response to a request from the New York Herald for an article descriptive of Idaho, Governor C. C. Moore mailed its editor this week, the following paragraphs extolling the state and its potential wealth.

Idaho is quite properly called the Gem of the Mountains. Its natural resources are unlimited; its mountain air and climate are healthful; its landscapes and scenic beauties are unexcelled; its people are prosperous, healthy and happy and contented.

Idaho contains 83,354 square miles, equal to the combined acres of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maryland, New York and New Jersey.

Idaho has four and one half million acres of land in intensive cultivation of which three million acres are irrigated.

Idaho's elements of soil fertility, favorable climate and sunshine produce greater agricultural returns per acre than any other state.

Idaho is especially famous for its potatoes, sugar beets, alfalfa, corn, wheat, Italian prunes, apples, beans, oats and barley.

Idaho's pure, fertile and fully developed seeds are in demand in all agricultural sections. The state is particularly adapted to the production of clover, alfalfa and other grass seeds, seed peas, sugar beet seeds, beans, etc.

Idaho's revenue from twenty-one of its crops for 1922 was $70,591,000.00.

Idaho is the third sheep and wool-producing state in the United States.

Idaho's undeveloped resources are enormous, in unreclaimed desert land, timber, minerals and water power. It boasts the largest and best virgin white pine forest in the world. It markets 800,000,000 feet of lumber annually.

Idaho produced the following mineral values in 1922: Gold, $532,000; silver, $6,185,000; lead, $9,560,000; copper $173,000; zinc, $94,000 and quicksilver, $200,000. (approximately)

Idaho's abundant supply of water power available for electrical development, together with its raw materials, affords great opportunities for manufacturing.

Idaho offers the greatest possibility in dairying of any state in the Union.

Idaho's wonderful climate, wholesome mountain air and varying altitude are conducive to good health. Its mortality rate is lower than any other state.

Idaho has unrivaled scenery, accessible by modern highways, and is one of the nation's greatest playgrounds.

Idaho's educational development is second to none in the Union, its illiteracy being less than 1 1/2 percent.

Idaho has all of these and more; what else is there to live for?

Trout Bit Its Own Eye

W. M. McCrea, Sam Callison and Clarence Fry were telling fish stories last week. Walt told of an experience he had several years ago of catching a trout that already had two fish hooks in its mouth. Which reminded Sam of an incident that happened at the Bungalow recently. He baited his hook with a small frog and dropped it in a promising hole in the Orogrand. A huge trout grabbed the frog and swallowed it, hook and all. Unfortunately the leader broke and the trout escaped. C. B. Green of Moscow was fishing nearby so he threw another hook baited with a frog in the same hole. A big trout grabbed it immediately and after a hard fought battle the trout was landed. Sam claimed a half interest in the fish, said it was the same one that took his frog. To prove the claim the fish was cut open and Sam's frog and hook were found in its tummy. Clarence broke up the meeting by telling of the time when he was trout fishing back in the mountains where the fish really bit. In trying to hook a fish he snagged its eye out. Using the eye for bait he threw in again and caught a one-eyed fish, undoubtedly the same one that had just had its eye hooked out.

SECTION 1019, C. S. In all districts of this state, all parents, guardians, and other persons having care of children shall instruct them, or cause them to be instructed, in reading, writing, spelling, English, grammar, geography and arithmetic. In such districts, every parent, guardian, or other person having charge of any child between the ages of eight (8) and eighteen (18) years, shall send such child to a public private or parochial school for the entire school year during which the public schools are in session in such district; Provided, however: That this Article shall not apply to children over fifteen (15) years of age, where such child shall have completed the eighth (8) grade, or may be eligible to enter any high school in such district, or where its help is necessary for its own use or its parents support, or where for good cause it would be for the best interest of such child to be relieved from the provisions of this Article.

Provided, further, that if a reputable physician within the district shall certify in writing that the child's bodily or mental condition does not permit its attendance at school such child shall be exempt during such period of disability from the requirements of this Article. It shall be the duty of the superintendent of the school district, if there be such superintendent, and if not, then the county superintendent of schools, to hear and determine all applications of children desiring, for any of the causes mentioned here, to be exempted from the provisions of this Article and if upon such application such superintendent, hearing the same, shall be of the opinion that such child for any reason is entitled to be exempted as aforesaid, then such superintendent shall issue a written permit to such child, stating therein his reason for such exemption. An appeal may be taken from the decision of such superintendent by passing upon such application, to the probate court of the county in which such district lies upon such child making such application and filing the same with the clerk or judge of said court, within ten days after it refused by such superintendent, for which no fee to exceed the sum of One Dollar ($1.00) shall be charged, and the decision of the probate court shall be final. An application for release from the provisions of this chapter shall not be renewed oftener than once in three months.

Juvenile Disorderly Persons Defined.

SECTION 1019, C. S. Every child within the provisions of this Article, who does not attend school, as provided in the preceding section, or who is in attendance at any public, private or parochial school, and is vicious, incorrigible, or immoral in conduct, or who is an habitual truant from school, or who habitually wanders about the streets and public places during school hours without lawful occupation or employment, or who habitually wanders about the streets in the night time, having no employment or lawful occupation, shall be deemed a juvenile disorderly person, and be subject to the provisions of this Article.

Same, Complaint: Hearing And Commitment.

SECTION 1020, C. S. When a child shall be a juvenile disorderly person within the meaning of this chapter, the truant officer, or any school teacher, or other reputable person, may take complaint in the probate court of the county in which such child resides. The probate court shall hear and determine such complaint, and if it is determined that such child is a juvenile disorderly person within the meaning of this chapter, he or she shall be committed to a children's home, if eligible, or to the Idaho Industrial Training School, or to some other training school, taking into account the years of the child with reference to the institution selected. Any child committed to a children's home, on its being shown to the judge of said court that it is incorrigible and vicious, may be transferred to the Industrial School or other proper institution. No child committed to any reformatory shall be detained beyond his majority, and may be discharged sooner, or paroled by the trustees or board of control under rules and restrictions applicable to other inmates. Any order of commitment may be suspended by the judge of the probate court during such time as the child may regularly attend school and properly conduct itself. The expense of the transportation of the child to the juvenile reformatory shall be paid by the county from which the child is committed.

Probation Officers: Appointment And Duties.

SECTION 1021, C. S. The Probate Courts of the several counties in this State shall have authority to appoint or designate one or more discreet persons of good moral character to serve as probation officers during the pleasure of the court; said probation officers having authority to act only upon the request and under the direction of the Probate Court; and to receive such compensation for services actually performed as the Probate Court shall deem just and proper. The number of paid probation officers appointed and designated by the court shall be as follows: In counties in which the last school census shows a school population of over Five Thousand (5,000) not to exceed two (2) probation officers; in all other counties not to exceed one (1) probation officer. Provided, however, That, in Independent School Districts, and school districts having graded schools, of three or more teachers, the probate court, upon the request of the board of trustees of said district, shall appoint a probation officer living within such district; said probation officer having authority to act upon the request and under the direction of the probate court or board of trustees of said districts. Said probation officer to be paid by said school district such compensation for services actually performed as the probate court shall deem just and proper: In case a probation officer shall be appointed, it shall be the duty of the judge of the court, if practicable, to notify said probation officer when any child is to be brought before the court; it shall be the duty of said probation officer to make investigation of such cases; the interests of the child when the case is heard; to furnish to the court such information and assistance as the court or judge may require; and to take charge of any child before and after the trial as may be directed by the court or judge. Probation officers provided for by this Article are hereby vested with all the power and authority of sheriffs, constables and police officers to make arrests and perform such other duties incident to their offices as probation officers.

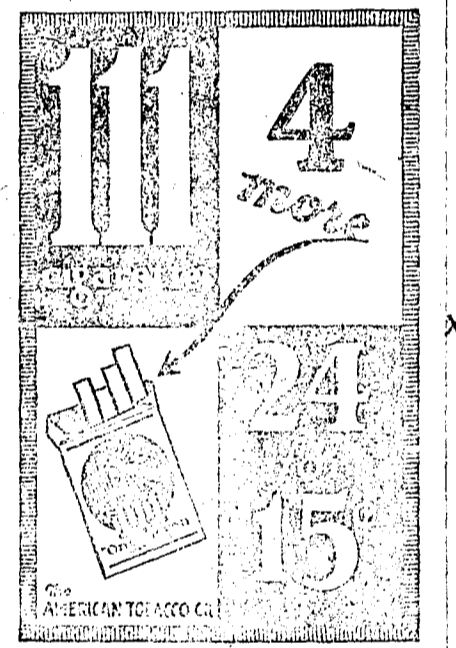

School Trustees to Report Delinquents
SECTION 1022, C. S. It shall be the duty of the board of trustees of each school district to report to the county school superintendent all cases of truancy, delinquency, and incorrigibility which arise within their respective districts, and such county school superintendent shall immediately report such cases to the judge of the probate court.

CAUSE OF APPENDICITIS.

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you will have little to fear from appendicitis.

This competitive test proved Double Dyed Denim fast color.

If only every overall wearer might have seen this test made! The superiority of Double Dyed Denim was proven in a most startling manner.

Samples of denim woven at different mills were sewed together. One of these samples was the Double Dyed Denim. The entire strip was soured with dirt and grease. Then it was sent to the laundry.

Powerful chemicals were used to take out the dirt and grease. Again and again this process was repeated. Illustrated at the left you see the result.

Some of the pieces were almost black; others a dark blue. Standing out in striking contrast was the Double Dyed Denim. It came through tough and strong as ever and a wonderful bright blue.

Double Dyed Denim is made only into Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls. It was originated and is controlled by the Oshkosh Overall Company. Try a pair. That's all we ask. They must make good or we will.
