

Palouse Country Products

While the Palouse country farmer will not become wealthy through the growing of wheat this year, and probably will never receive a price for that product in keeping with the cost of production and the cost of the manufactured articles which the farmer must buy, there are growing indications, as the close of harvest nears, that the aggregate of Palouse country products this year will bring a very fair measure of prosperity. There is a heavy yield of every product of the farm and the diversity of products seems to be greater than for many years past, if not greater than at any previous time, practically everything but the wheat bringing a price which will leave a fair margin of profit.

Starting with the forage crops, which yielded an unusually heavy tonnage, and affords the farmer an unlimited quantity of feed for his livestock, every product of the farm has turned out well. The pea and bean crop will be a substantial factor in increasing the income of the farmer in some sections of Latah county, and the oat crop, of which there is an unusually large acreage, is showing an almost phenomenal yield according to reports from all parts of the Palouse country. Yields running as high as 80 bushels are not uncommon, and the prevailing price is from $1.35 to $1.40 per hundred.

Carl Grendahl, who grows a variety of products on his farm near Moscow, reports a yield of a little more than 80 bushels to the acre from 35 acres, and other farmers in the Moscow territory report 70 bushels and more.

Chris Tenwick who returned Sunday from a trip through the farming district, reports an exceptionally large acreage of oats in that territory, with many yields reported at 75 bushels and better, while the wheat in that section is not yielding so well, running only from 22 to 30 bushels. The pea crop, on both sides of the state line, about Farmington, is heavy, but the weevil has raised havoc with this product. There is still considerable threshing to do in the district.—Star Mirror.

Entertain Honor of Teachers

Last Monday evening the patrons of the local schools entertained at the Methodist church in honor of the teachers. It was a very pleasant gathering and was enjoyed greatly by both patrons and teachers. A particularly pleasing musical program was rendered and musical games furnished amusement for the evening.

The church was tastefully decorated and presented a very bright appearance. Dainty refreshments were served.

A. E. Moretz left Monday evening for his home near Richland, Wash., after looking after farming interests near Southwick.

Latah County News Paragraphs

Items of Interest Taken From Neighboring Papers

P. L. Chaney was taken to Spokane Thursday forenoon, suffering with eye trouble. While with his threshing machine he got a grain beard in his eye which caused him some trouble, and it is thought the smut dust has poisoned his eyes so that he has no control of the eyelids, thereby rendering him sightless. He was at once taken to a specialist at Spokane. At this writing no word has been received as to his condition, but it is hoped the case will not be serious.—Troy News.

The fields of corn on American Ridge receive the highest praise from travelers who pass through Juliaetta and have made the trip over the roads adjacent to this luxuriant growth of corn. Landlord Hamil of The Grand Central Hotel made a trip last week over the road above referred to and says that upon the farms near the William Cox place the most luxuriant growth exists and is a very pleasing sight.—Juliaetta Record.

Last week while threshing grain in his neighborhood, Isaak Isaksen had two small fires in his separator during the same morning. He has a steel machine and by use of fire extinguishers there was little damage done. The grain was from along the road and Mr. Isaksen said the odor of matches was very noticeable in the machine in at least one of the two occasions, showing that they had been "planted" for the purpose of causing trouble to the thresherman. However, the number of machine fires have been few in this section as compared to some other places, especially around Palouse, Washington, where many machines are said to have been destroyed.

No fewer than five farmers of this vicinity have told the editor of this paper that they are going to quit raising wheat for market and work into dairying and hogs as fast as they can get their farms in shape to do so. This involves seeding to grass, which some of these men are doing. All these farmers are gradually getting together good milk cows, and it is their intention to increase and improve their herds as fast as they are assured sufficient feed from their grass crops.

Hogs and poultry will be raised in connection by some of these farmers.

N. P. Johnson, who has raised grain during most of the years of his residence here, is now one of our foremost advocates of dairying. Mr. Johnson has equipped his fine farm for the purpose, having built a large modern barn, a silo, and seeded considerable acreage to pasture. He has become thoroughly convinced that the way to prosperity in this section lies in the direction of dairying. During the past week Mr. Johnson has been filling his silo with sunflowers and corn.

L. O. Grimes is preparing to get into the dairy business. He has given the question much study and, like Mr. Johnson, has come to the conclusion that dairying is the only way for the farmers of the out-over sections to prosper. The land is natural grass land. Several Avon farmers, of whom Mr. Grimes is one, belong to a Jersey Bull Club and are raising a Jersey bull from the Graves farm near Spokane.

When one half of the farmers of this section get to dairying right, they will be in a position to loan the wheat growers money to do them until their checks come in, which is once a year. The dairyman's checks come in once a month or oftener, with always a margin of profit.—Dairy Press.

Plan for Farm Storage

Inquiries have been made from time to time at the office of County Agent O. S. Fletcher, with regard to whether or not Federal Warehouse receipts could be issued for grain in farm storage.

The County Agent received a letter from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, stating that the conclusion arrived at by that Department is as follows:

"A plan for farm storage within the law is along the following lines. A number of farmers in a community might form a corporate organization. The various farm storages might then be leased or sold to the corporation. The corporation could then operate the various units as a public warehousing system. When the corporation meets all the requirements of the Act and the regulations, and when it is determined that the various units are suitable for the purposes of the Act, a license will be issued to the corporation to operate the different plants. The corporation, however, would be obliged to operate the different units as public storage places."

May Finish State Highway

The speedy completion of the north and south highway is desirable, according to all reports received from Idaho cities. Governor C. C. Moore, speaking at the Lewiston-Clarkston fair, said: "the south wants the north and south highway completed. Commissioner Hall is giving this road every attention, and it is known that it can be finished at comparatively small additional cost. The commissioner wants this road to be one of the state's greatest assets, and he is leaving nothing undone. The uncompleted 23 miles above and below Riggins will receive immediate attention, and trucks have left Boise to clear away the high center and to make turnouts on the old road. This work will cost about $20,000, to be paid from the state gasoline tax fund."

Back from Fishing Trip

M. V. Thomas, George Daugherty and Charles Jessup returned Tuesday from a ten days' fishing trip to the Kelley Creek country above the Bungalow. They went as far as the Bungalow by auto and packed the rest of the journey. Fish were quite plentiful and the party got all they wanted. Mr. Thomas stated that the country tributary to Kelley Creek is desolate because of the big forest fires that burned over there about 6 years ago. No feed left for game of any kind.

Latah County was represented by Virgil Thompson, Elmer Sawyer and Homer Sawyer, all of the Latah-Palouse pig club. The score of the Latah team was 1870, that of Idaho county, 1725 and that of the Lewis County team, 1695.

Boys and girls who were not members of the various county teams were encouraged to compete in this contest so that the four best club-member stock judges in Northern Idaho might be selected to represent this section in a judging contest for teams from districts of the Northwest to be held at the Pacific International Livestock Show in Portland in November. In this free-for-all contest, Felix Papineau, of Moscow, won first place. Virgil Thompson and El-

Entertain Okoke Klotchman

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lutz entertained the members of the Okoke Klotchman Club and their husbands at a most enjoyable card party Wednesday evening. It was the first meeting of the Club since early in the summer and was an auspicious beginning to the usual round of social affairs undertaken by the Club.

Bridge served to pass several pleasant hours after which dainty refreshments consisting of tomato salad, molded salmon, potato chips, cheese sandwiches, assorted cakes and coffee were served, the ladies being seated at one table and the men at another, an arrangement that proved popular with both husbands and wives.

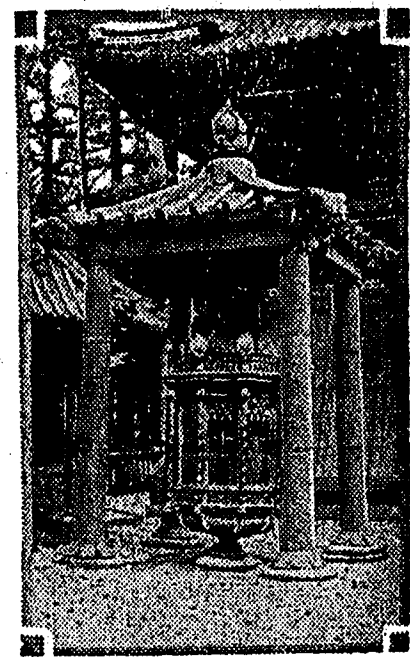

A dainty prize of a hand painted china sugar and creamer was awarded to Mrs. McConnell for the high bridge score.

Sales Going Good

Public sales are starting off well in this locality. Leo Grau's sale on Potlatch ridge and the Jack Bailey sale on Texas ridge were both satisfactory. Because of the rush of work in the head fields the crowds were not large at either sale but prices were good, except for horses which are not selling well. Cows brought good prices and good farm machinery sold well. It is believed that the sales for the balance of the fall will draw larger crowds as the rush of work will be over.

Mrs. R. D. Newton and two children returned home the first of the week from a visit with home folks in Wisconsin.

TEMPLE LANTERN, NIKKO

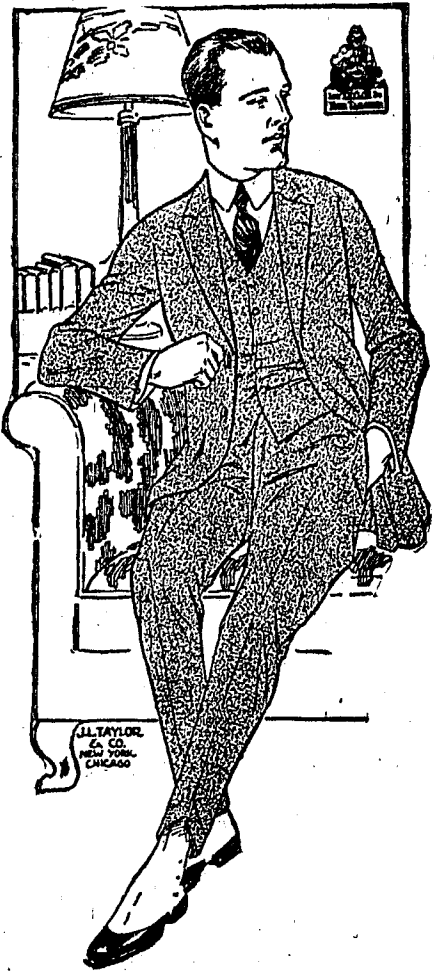

Harold Stapleton of Nez Perce, and Homer Sawyer won fifth. Since Harold Stapleton cannot meet with the other members of the team for special training before the Portland Show, Northern Idaho will be represented by Felix Papineau, Elmer Sawyer and Virgil Thompson, with Homer Sawyer as alternate.

Fitting and Showing Livestock
In a special contest on the fitting and showing of livestock, Elmer Sawyer won first and Homer Sawyer took second.

Win Large Sum
Latah County boys and girls won a grand total of $283.25 in the various classes, and contests.

Club Members Live in Dormitory
The club members of Northern Idaho who took their stock to the Lewiston Fair or who went to take part in special contests were the guests of the Fair Association. They were housed in Lewis Hall, the girl's dormitory of the Lewiston Normal School. The boys were in one wing of the building and in charge of Charles Sawyer, local leader of the Latah-Palouse Pig Club, while the girls were in another wing and in charge of Miss Clara Cowgill, district home demonstration agent, of the University Extension Division.

The entire Junior department was under the supervision of H. A. Stone, district club agent.

OIL - OIL - OIL

Mr. Man anywhere in the State of Idaho, The Stapleton Oil Co. Inc., wishes to announce to the Public, that it is now ready to do business, at the offices in the Gyde-Taylor Building, Wallace, Idaho.

You ask yourself the question, What have they to sell? Where is it and What is it?

First point to bring to your attention is location of the property this company owns under lease, so that you may have an intelligent idea, why we are asking your financial help and co-operation in the development of said holdings.

All of the following properties lie in what is known as the Kevin Sunburst field in Northern Montana, 80 acres in Sec. 11, T. 35, N. R.2, West M. M. in the heart of the producing area, with one well down to a depth of 1622 feet at which point a flow of oil was struck, the well is now standing full of oil to the surface, on the strength of this 80 acres of proven oil land, the present Company was formed.

Judging that with proper management such as we now have, success would surely be ours, outside of this to further strengthen the company, we hold a number of leases in the Kevin Sunburst field that may prove very valuable to our Company one 320 acre lease in the Salt Creek field, Wyoming, in a splendid location which may prove very valuable also.

This comprises our holdings at the present time, the 80 acres of proven land will first be developed, the balance of holdings are held as an asset for speculation.

Show me the man whose blood does not quicken with the thought of oil, from which so many fortunes have been realized in the last few years.

Millions of dollars are being put into wildcatting, they may come back or they may not, it is a hazardous business, no assurance of success.

That is why we are confining our efforts to proven oil land, in a very short time we will have our second well going down, and pump on the first one.

The largest wells in the field surround us, at the present time there being 115 wells, with the field a little over a year old.

We believe we have a safe bet and there cannot be a better location in the field.

In all fields there is bound to be some dry holes, but so far every well adjoining us that means on all sides have come in oil (and we have one good one) can you beat it?

It is now up to us to drill another well so that we will be self supporting, the more wells we put down the greater will be our income, it is not known at the present time just what our present well will make, but generally believed better than 100 barrels.

Arrangements are now completed for the placing of a pump on this well, and for marketing the oil, its production may surprise us all.

This field is known as poor man's field, because of the small amount of money required to reach the oil sands. Our arrangements for the next well calls for $13,500.

This means well drilled, 8 inch casing in and placed on the pump, handed over ready for commercial use, this is why we are soliciting your help and co-operation.

Only a small block of stock for sale. Send in your order, or call the office for further information.

Remember this land is in the very heart of oil producers, with one well full of oil.

In '59, two thousand barrels of oil were produced. Today that amount of crude is consumed in the United States alone every 96 seconds, counting the whole day, twice around the clock.

We guarantee that one well is down and full of oil, further we guarantee you a square deal in drilling for more. If oil is found underlying this entire 80 acres, which is reasonable to expect, what more should we want. From wells already in the field surrounding us, this would seem to be an assured fact.

Tomatoes Rank Third Among Truck Crops

Need Improvement in Growing, Grading and Packing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The tomato now ranks third in importance among our truck crops, and, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, the demand for high-quality or slicing tomatoes is increasing. Because there is need for improvement in the cultural methods and quality of the tomatoes grown for the early market, the department has published Farmers' Bulletin 1338, which is largely a summary of the methods and results of tomato growers who have been especially successful. The present need of the early and truck-crop tomato industry is not increased acreage but a general improvement in the growing, grading and marketing of the crop.

Suitable soil, good seed, and well-grown plants are the foundation for the production of early tomatoes of high quality, and a number of seed firms are now making a specialty of strains and varieties that are adapted to the work. Marked progress has also been made in the development of strains that are resistant to disease. Eight or ten varieties of tomatoes are included in the list for early growing, but the bulk of the southern crop grown for shipment consists of Globe, Acme, Beauty and Early Detroit. In the North Central and Eastern states the Bonny Best, John Baer, Earlana, Greater Baltimore, Acme and Stone are leaders. In California the Stone is most generally grown.

The bulletin discusses in detail the culture of tomatoes as a market-garden crop and will be found of value to those interested in the production end of the industry and may be secured free of charge from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., as long as the supply lasts.

Top Price Always Paid for First-Class Eggs

Here are some suggestions for the production of good eggs, and for marketing them to get top prices:

Keep hens that produce, not only a goodly number of eggs, but eggs of moderately large size, averaging two ounces.

Be sure the laying flocks are well housed, are fed and watered regularly and, above all, have clean, dry nests. Gather the eggs every day and, when the temperature is very hot or very cold, gather them twice a day.

Pen up all broody hens as soon as discovered, and keep them off the laying hens' nests.

Place all summer eggs, as soon as gathered, in the coolest place available.

Get rid of young cockerels before they begin to annoy the hens. Also sell or confine old male birds from the time spring hatching is over until cool weather in the fall.

Bacteria Necessary for Good Crop of Soy Beans

Soy beans will make an indifferent growth in most soils unless the bacteria necessary for their nitrogen supply are present. If soy beans have not been grown in the soil before, it is wise to inoculate. Lack of inoculation is indicated by a pale greenish-yellow color of the plant. If the soil is rich the beans will grow well without the bacteria, but in such cases are taking their nitrogen from the soil and not from the air.

Veterinarians Fight Cattle Tuberculosis

Unanimous in Report That Work Is Good Thing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Practicing veterinarians in regions where the United States Department of Agriculture, the states and counties are carrying on campaigns against cattle tuberculosis report almost unanimously that the work is a good thing and should be encouraged and increased. These facts were brought out through letters sent out by the Department of Agriculture to a large number of veterinarians. Four hundred and ten replies were received. Out of this large number only 27 spoke unfavorably of the work and 369 were definitely in favor of carrying it on according to present plans. Sixty-five veterinarians said that their practice had been reduced as a result of the campaign, but, nevertheless, more than half of them, in spite of this loss, gave their approval.

Many of the veterinarians say that cleaning out tuberculosis from the herds in their communities has been a good thing for their business, and scores of them mention the general improvement in live stock which has resulted, the reduction of losses and the increasing prosperity of farmers.

It is apparent from this investigation that the co-operating agencies' policy in the fight against cattle tuberculosis has not been a detriment to the local veterinarian.

This Picture Wins First Prize in Northwest Children's Contest

This picture of little Louise May Pankey, of Selah, Washington, wins a prize of one hundred dollars, because it ranked highest among three thousand amateur photographs submitted in a Northern Pacific Railway contest.

So many fine photographs of healthy, happy children outdoors in the Pacific Northwest were entered in the contest that the judges had a hard time picking the winner. But little Louise May and her friend the fawn made such an appealing picture that they won the award for the child's mother, Mrs. Geo. Pankey, who took the picture.

Some of the selected contest photos will be used in advertising the Pacific Northwest as a wonderful place in which to live. Amateur photographers from Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon submitted pictures for the Northern Pacific prize.

Mulch Orchard Trees to Conserve Soil Moisture

The grass and weeds in the orchard should be cut and left around the trees for a mulch to hold the soil moisture. For the larger trees the grass may be left where it falls, but with the younger trees it is best piled in a circle around the tree leaving a little space around the trunk, the other edge of the circle extending well out beyond the spread of the limbs.
