The new postoffice fixtures arrived here from the factory Saturday, and were installed next day. The fixtures are all of steel, and are in sections so that additions can be made when necessary. There are more lock and call boxes than there were in the fixtures that were destroyed by fire. In addition to the delivery section, which occupies all of the front of the office except a gated entrance at one end the fixtures include a large steel working table with adjustable pouch hangers at the end, and a steel make-up cabinet. There is a money order window, delivery window, money tills and drawers for stamps and the various forms used. There was a big demand for lock boxes during the week.—Deary Press.

On January 12, Juliaetta school district will vote to change from a common to an independent school district. This change is part of the move here for a better school and merits a favorable vote. By changing to an independent district several things are accomplished: (1) There will be six on the school board instead of three. (2) The directors can vote only eight mills instead of ten as at present. (3) To maintain the school a total of sixteen can be raised. Eight of the sixteen mills can be voted by the directors and any more must be voted at a special election.—Juliaetta Record.

G. P. Mix, well known local farmer was selected Monday at a mass meeting of farmers held in the auditorium at the Farmers' Union store, to go to Washington, D. C., to appear before the agricultural committee of the United States senate, in behalf of proposed legislation in the interest of the wheat grower. The action on the part of the farmers was taken in response to a telegram from Senator Frank R. Gooding, stating that the committee hearings would begin next week, and that it was desirable that representatives from the northwest agricultural districts be present to appear before the committee.

Mr. Mix left for Washington, Wednesday and will be fortified with the endorsement of farm organizations throughout north Idaho, wires being received from several counties to that effect. Both the Moscow farmers' union and the chamber of commerce, have endorsed the Gooding price stabilization bill, and Mr. Mix goes to Washington with that as his first choice. He is firm in the belief that some legislation favorable to the farmer will be enacted. It was expressed at the meeting that the several bills passed by the last congress, in the interest of the farmers, have failed of their purpose entirely, and that direct statements before the agricultural committee by farmers from the northwest will bring to the committee a clearer view of conditions as they really exist with the wheat farmers.—Star-Mirror.

Bank Statements Better

The bank statements in this issue of the Gazette show the two local banks to be gaining over a year ago. Their increased deposits ought to indicate to some extent an improved condition all over the Potlatch country. The gain this year over a year ago in the total deposits of the two institutions is approximately $60,000. It is safe to say that there is a much larger percentage of wheat and beans left in the country at this time than over a corresponding period last year, the value of which added to the present deposits in the local banks, would show a substantially increased amount of liquid assets at the end of the year 1922.

What Really Mattered

He was a very small boy. Paddy was his dog, and Paddy was nearer to his heart than anything on earth. When Paddy met swift and hideous death on the turnpike road the boy's mother trembled to break the news. But it had to be, and when he came home from school she told him simply: "Paddy has been run over and killed."

He took it very quietly. All day it was the same. But five minutes after he had gone to bed there echoed through the house a shrill and sudden lamentation. His mother rushed up-stairs with solicitude and pity.

"Nurse says," he sobbed, "that Paddy has been run over and killed."

"But, dear, I told you that at dinner, and you didn't seem to be troubled at all."

"No; but—but I didn't know you said Paddy. I—I thought you said daddy!"

J. A. Freeborn Injured

J. A. Freeborn, popular traveling salesman who makes this territory for the Lewiston Mercantile Co., was quite badly injured Thursday evening of last week when his Dodge coupe struck a spot of ice on the Lewiston-Pomeroy highway, about 4 miles west of Clarkston, and went over the bank. The car turned over three times in its descent. The accident occurred directly across the river from Wilma and persons who witnessed it immediately notified the dispatchers office at union station. A physician was called and rushed to the place, where Mr. Freeborn was found near the car, severely cut and bruised. Examination disclosed a severed artery in the wrist and other bad cuts and numerous bruises. His condition was not considered serious although he was very weak from loss of blood.

Larcher-Smith Entertainers

There is something about the music of an accordion, when well played, that is extremely fascinating, and when it is combined with drums, one seems to hear a whole orchestra. The Larcher-Smith Entertainers, who will give a program here on Monday evening, Jan. 14, at the New Kendrick, are recognized as one of the best Lyceum companies of today who use these instruments.

Miss Beatrice Smith possesses a beautiful Italian accordion, valued at $600, which she handles with true musicianship and it becomes an instrument of unusual warmth and brilliance, with lovely tonal quality.

Miss Bessie Irene Larcher is one of the most adept drummers before the public, an accomplishment which is unusual for one of her sex. Her clarinet work has likewise received most favorable comment. When she combines either of these instruments with the accordion in accompaniment with Miss Smith, the effect is at once delightful and remarkable.

Their program is "musically unique" and is sure to prove one of the most entertaining on the Lyceum series this season.

Miss Larcher, in addition to her musical accomplishments is a reader of ability, and her costumed character sketches are an added feature of the evening, particularly her comedy numbers. A short one-act play of real dramatic and literary worth is admirably given by these young women as a pleasing climax to the program.

May Change Rural Route

Petitions are being circulated on American ridge to have the present rural route out of Kendrick changed. The change will lengthen the route and make it standard. The proposed change will put the route up Brady gulch and from there will cover the same territory as now covered as far as the Chris Maier place; from there back past the Wm. Cox place and down the Juliaetta grade; then follows the Potlatch creek road back to Kendrick.

The proposed change will inconvenience four families that are now served and will add approximately 22 families to the route. The principal reason for making the change is to throw the route over better roads.

Sometime ago the post office department sent notice that the present route would be abandoned unless better roads might be provided.

Lenore Bridge Saved

Fred W. Straw, contractor on the Lenore wagon bridge, had a narrow escape from a heavy loss Tuesday when his crew swung the steel on two spans from the false work but a few hours before the latter was carried out.

Sudden rises in the river are not expected at this season of the year and the bridge crew had set the false work and run two spans of steel across the river. The false work had been frozen in for the past two weeks and there was no thought of any trouble when the last of the steel was swung clear of the false work at noon Tuesday. An ice jam in the river below the bridge caused the water to rise and the false timbers were carried out with the ice at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The bridge, however, escaped any damage, but Mr. Straw has sustained the loss of his timbers.—Tribune.

A North Idaho White Pine

The "king" of the white pines recently cut near Bovill is believed to be the largest white pine tree of which there is any record. It was 207 feet high and had a diameter of 8 1/2 feet at the base. It produced 29,800 feet of lumber. It was computed to be 42 years old, according to the annual rings at the butt. If its lumber had been cut into boards one inch thick and the boards placed end to end, they would have had a walk 11 miles long.—Elk River News.

Killed Eight Coyotes

Billy Kiele of Kidder Ridge enjoyed the holiday season doing good for the whole Kidder community. During the week he caught 8 coyotes in his neighborhood. Because he had only small traps five of the animals that had their feet entrapped escaped but eight others didn't get away. Billy has the prime pelts to show for that many.

Besides the domestic animals and towns saved from the marauding coyotes through the skill of the young trapper, it is safe to say that many deer and game birds were also preserved for better use than predatory food.—Koskia Mountaineer.

It matters not on what plane of life one labors, nor how large or small the number of his acquaintances, the man who toils, and yet knows that in the circle of his influence there is at least one life in which there is sunshine where, but for him, there would have been shadow; that there is at least one home in which there is cheer where, but for him, there would have been gloom; that there is at least one heart in which there is hope where, but for him, there would have been despair—that man carries with him, as he goes, one of the richest treasures on this earth.—Justice Stacy, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Pure Bred Live Stock in Kentucky Is Progressing

Kentucky, long famous for its fine horses and blue-grass pastures, is not content with past laurels, but is making rapid strides in improving the quality of its food animals as well. According to Wayland Rhoads, field agent in animal husbandry of the Kentucky extension service, who recently visited the United States Department of Agriculture, scrub sires are being replaced rapidly with pure bred. According to best estimates 16 per cent of the dairy bulls and 20 per cent of the beef bulls in the state are now pure bred and the proportion is increasing. A few years ago one-half of the east Kentucky mountain counties had no pure bred at all, and the state was losing $15,000,000 a year due to scrub bulls and boars alone.

The reports of Mr. Rhoads are supported by figures obtained in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" movement, in which Kentucky now ranks third among all the states. A total of 1,508 farmers in Kentucky have signed written agreements that they will use pure bred sires exclusively for all classes of live stock kept and will follow methods leading to further improvement.

High Roosts Are Cause of Sore Feet of Fowls

The main cause of bumblefoot is the high roost. None of the large breeds should have to jump from roosts over two feet above the floor. Hens will always climb to the high roosts if they can, but they will invariably jump down if it is not extremely high.

Lighting on a hard floor, it is no wonder that their feet are bruised. The bruise can very easily be cured if the cause is removed, usually without any extra doctoring, but if the cause is not removed, the hens will be rendered permanently lame. Treat the injured hens with witchhazel and place them in a henhouse where they cannot fly down from high roosting places.

$100,000 PEACE PLAN PRIZE AWARDED

Advocates Entering World Court and Cooperation With League Without Full Membership at Present—Suggests League Membership Be Opened to All Nations and Provides for Development of International Law.

The American Peace Award brought forth 22,165 plans and many thousands of letters. Since many of the plans were the composite work of organizations, universities, etc., a single plan often represented the views of hundreds or thousands of individuals. The content of these plans is therefore an index of the true feeling and judgment of hundreds of thousands of American citizens.

These plans come from every group in American life. Some are obviously from lifelong students of history and international law. Some are from persons who have studied little, but who have themselves seen and felt the horror of war—or who are even now living out its tragedy.

But among them all are these dominant currents: that, if war is honestly to be prevented, there must be a face-about on the part of the nations in their attitude toward it; that by some progressive agreement the manufacture and purchase of the munitions of war must be limited or stopped; that while no political mechanism alone will insure cooperation among the nations, there must be some machinery of cooperation if the will to cooperate is to be made effective; that mutual counsel among the nations is the real hope for bringing about the disavowal of war by the open avowal of its real causes and open discussion of them; and finally that there must be some means of defining, recording, interpreting and developing the law of nations.

The only possible pathway to international agreement with reference to these complicated and difficult factors is through mutual counsel and cooperation which the plan selected contemplates. It is therefore the unanimous opinion of the Jury that of the 22,165 plans submitted, Plan Number 1469 is "the best practicable plan by which the United States may cooperate with other nations to achieve and preserve the peace of the world."

It is the unanimous hope of the Jury that the first fruit of the mutual counsel and cooperation among the nations which will result from the adoption of the plan selected will be a general prohibition of the manufacture and sale of all materials of war.

The Question to Be Voted Upon
The substantial provisions which constitute the plan selected by the Jury of Award, and upon which the vote of the American people is asked, are hereby submitted by the Policy Committee as follows:

- I. ENTER THE PERMANENT COURT
That the United States adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice for the reasons and under the conditions stated by Secretary Hughes and President Harding in February, 1923.
- II. COOPERATE WITH THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS, WITHOUT FULL MEMBERSHIP AT PRESENT
That without becoming a member of the League of Nations as at present constituted, the United States Government should extend its present cooperation with the League and propose participation in the work of its Assembly and Council under the following conditions and reservations:
Safeguarding of Monroe Doctrine
1. The United States accepts the League of Nations as an instrument of mutual counsel, but it will assume no obligation to interfere with political questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state.
In uniting its efforts with those of other States for the preservation of peace and the promotion of the common welfare, the United States insists upon the safeguarding of the Monroe Doctrine and does not abandon its traditional attitude concerning American independence of the Old World and does not consent to submit its long established policy concerning questions regarded by it as purely American to the recommendation or decision of other Powers.
No Military or Economic Force
2. That the only kind of compulsion which nations can freely engage to apply to each other in the name of Peace is that which arises from conference, from moral judgment, from full publicity, and from the power of public opinion.
The United States would assume no obligations under Article X in its present form, or under Article XVI in its present form in the Covenant, or in its amended form as now proposed, unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.
The United States proposes that Articles X and XVI be either dropped altogether or so amended and changed as to eliminate any suggestion of a general agreement to use coercion for obtaining conformity to the pledges of the Covenant.
No Obligations Under Versailles Treaty
3. That the United States will accept no responsibilities under the Treaty of Versailles unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.
League Open to All Nations
4. The United States Government proposes that Article I of the Covenant be construed and applied, or, if necessary, re-drafted, so that admission to the League shall be assured to any self-governing State that wishes to join and that receives the favorable vote of two-thirds of the Assembly.
Development of International Law
5. As a condition of its participation in the work and counsels of the League, the United States asks that the Assembly and Council consent—or obtain authority—to begin collaboration for the revision and development of international law, employing for this purpose the aid of a commission of jurists. This Commission would be directed to formulate anew existing rules of the law of nations, to reconcile divergent opinions, to consider points hitherto inadequately provided for but vital to the maintenance of international justice, and in general to define the social rights and duties of States. The recommendations of the Commission would be presented from time to time, in proper form for consideration, to the Assembly as to a recommending if not a law-making body.

The New Touring Car $295 F.O.B. DETROIT

A Striking Value—at $295

Considering the improved appearance of the new Ford Touring Car, one would naturally expect a proportionate advance in price.

Larger scale production, however, has made it possible to incorporate in this new type touring car a number of decided improvements without increasing its cost to the purchaser.

A comparison extending over a long period of years will reveal the fact that the present price is actually the lowest at which the five-passenger open car has ever been sold.

The Ford Touring Car stands today, as it always has, a most remarkable value in the motor car field.

This Car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

GLEANINGS

Mrs. A. H. Daubenberg, wife of the cashier of the Kendrick State Bank, arrived last Saturday from Arlington, Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Daubenberg will make their home in the residence formerly occupied by the Lutz family. They bought the property from Mr. and Mrs. Lutz.

Buster Brown returned Monday afternoon from a visit at Moscow.

The Kendrick Garage Co. is making some improvements in the work shop at the rear of the garage building. It is said that some time ago when Leslie Roberts was a radio nut he tried to pry the galvanized roof off the concrete walls so that it wouldn't touch at any point, and thus form an aerial for his receiving set. Deobald Bros. are now ceiling the work shop to keep out some of the surplus cold air.

Local business houses started to fill their ice houses the first of the week. Ice was nearly 12 inches thick and fairly good quality. There should be plenty of ice for local use next summer.

Dr. W. A. Rothwell went to Spokane Sunday for medical treatment. He hasn't been well for some time and was very weak when he left.

Mrs. F. A. Rowe arrived the first of the week from Olympia, Wash., to visit her father, George Wright. Mrs. Rowe has spent the past two years in Olympia where her husband was in the garage business. He sold the garage recently and is now traveling for a company handling road machinery.

The Kendrick Rochdale Co. held its semi-annual stockholders meeting at the local office, Thursday of this week.

Miss Cordelia Emmett, who is teaching at Edmonds, Wash., spent the holidays at the James Emmett home.

Send the Gazette to your friends. They will think of you at least 52 times a year.

Dr. A. Otteraaen, who went from here to Shelby, Montana, early last spring, is now located at Cashmere, Wash., where he is practicing medicine.

Mrs. James West, who underwent an operation at a Lewiston hospital some time ago, arrived Monday and will remain with her mother, Mrs. N. C. Thomas, for some time.

In Oregon the license fee is based on weight as it is in Idaho. For cars weighing 1700 or less the fee is $15. From 1700 to 2100, $22; 2100 to 2500, $28; 2500 to 2900, $34; 2900 to 3300, $40 and so on up to cars weighing 5700 pounds or less which are licensed at $38.

At this time of year the papers in this neck of the woods are full of accounts of "lutefisk" dinners. We have always been curious to know what this lutefisk tastes like. Some say it is like cheese and others that it is like fish but doesn't taste like either. We have also heard that it smells awful but tastes very good—similar to limburger in that respect. The dried fish from which it is made must taste better than they look or we don't care for some, thank you.

Mrs. Robert Spencer came over from Orofino, Wednesday, to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Leith.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo Riley drove down from Spokane this week and will probably remain here for a month or more. Mr. Riley said Thursday that he would farm his Texas ridge place himself this year.

Byron Tupper of Clarkston arrived yesterday morning to look after business affairs here.

Julietta is also putting the dog tax ordinance into effect, beginning January 18. Kendrick dogs will begin wearing tax tags as soon as the shipment of new tags has been received, there having been a delay in shipment somewhere along the line.

Jesse Hoffman of Leland went to Lewiston on business, Wednesday afternoon.

N. B. Long has been quite ill for the past three weeks but was able to be out again Wednesday for a short time.

Kendrick coyote hunters have been meeting with considerable success in securing from one to two coyotes every Sunday. Judging by the price of furs quoted in an advertisement in this issue of the Gazette, there should be a margin of profit in a good pelt.

A. Wilmut made a trip to Spokane, Thursday, on business.

John Brown and little granddaughter were Moscow visitors, Thursday afternoon.

Walter Thomas was a Lewiston visitor Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Snyder have moved from the Kelly residence to one of James Emmett's houses near the Joe Gardner place.

BIG BEAR RIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. John Siind returned to their home at Portland, Oregon, Wednesday, having visited at the home of Mr. Siind's father, J. J. Siind.

The Lutheran Laides Aid held their annual business meeting and election of officers at the home of Mrs. O. H. Forest, Monday afternoon.

Miss Frances Hoffman is staying with Mrs. A. Kleth, and Mrs. M. Hendren is with Mrs. Zack Aas.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Field of Moscow are spending the week at the Anton Nelson and Hooker homes.

Miss Flora Nelson entertained a number of friends at dinner New Year's eve.

Remember the date of the Big Bear Ridge Red Cross branch annual business meeting and election of officers at the Taney school house, Saturday evening, January 12th at 7:00 p. m. Important business matters will be decided upon and the annual membership drive will close that evening. A social get-together meeting will be held in connection with this when a lunch will be served by the laides. You are urged to be present.

Wintering of Pullets Requires Great Care

Culls Should Be Disposed of for Meat Purposes.

A poultryman must think about many things if he wishes to get his pullets in condition for a good total year's lay.

First, the pullets should be handled and graded into four classes—good, medium, poor and culls. The culls and poor birds should be sold for meat purposes. A pullet five months old, weighing less than three pounds, loose feathered and weak, is considered poor or a cull.

The next step is to grade and house the good and medium classes according to size and maturity rather than age. This will prevent a molt and will make feeding more efficient. Every bird should be treated with a good lice killer. A thorough cleaning and whitewashing should be given to all the pens. All leaks in the roof should be mended and the floors made dry. Straw should cover the floors to a depth of six inches. After the pullets are penned they should not be allowed out of doors until late in the spring.

Do not put more pullets in a pen than the roost and floor space can accommodate. Keep the house well open on the front, but have the sides and back tight against drafts. Use curtains on the windows when freezing weather begins.

Pullets require 12 pounds of scratch feed a day per hundred birds. This should be made of equal parts of cracked corn and wheat. If artificial lights are used, then 14 pounds of scratch feed should be fed each day. Mash should be available to the birds at all times. Do not allow the pullets to lay more than 50 per cent of normal production for the next few months.

Large Cows Are Better

Producers of Butterfat

The old question: "Are large cows better producers than small cows?" was recently investigated in Missouri. Results show plainly that size influences fat production very decidedly, another reason for growing heifers to their full inherited size.

In the test, Jerseys weighing from 825 to 1,125 pounds were used. Those whose average weight was 825 pounds produced an average of 340 pounds of fat. Those averaging 1,125 pounds produced 471 pounds. It was found that after a Jersey has reached 1,000 pounds in weight there is very little increase in production for corresponding increases in weight.

Compactly Built Lambs

Command Highest Price

A prime fat lamb weighing 85 pounds commands the highest market price. The blocky, compactly built lamb is the one that will make the most desirable finished lamb in the shortest time. Whole barley, kafir, milo, feterita, and shelled corn have practically the same feeding value pound for pound for fattening.

Incriminating Evidence.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE consists of an Ointment which Quickly Relieves by local application, and the Internal Medicine, a Tonic, which assists in improving the General Health. Soy Beans Will Improve Protein Silage Content

Soy beans make an excellent quality of silage and improve the protein content of corn silage. Corn silage contains 1.1 per cent protein while silage made from soy beans contains 2.8 per cent. In 30 lbs. of corn silage there is .33 lb. digestible protein, while in 30 lbs. of soy bean silage there is .84 lb., or there is a half pound more protein in 30 lbs. of soy bean silage than there is in 30 lbs. of corn silage. In one pound of oil meal there is .38 lb. of digestible protein. If the silage were made entirely from soy beans, the extra amount of protein in 80 lbs., as compared with 20 lbs. of corn silage, would be equivalent to about 1 1/2 lbs. of oil meal.

Good Company.

If a man is good company he is welcome to take up as much time as a bore would and more, too.
