Tributes Are Due to Fallen Heroes

Observance of Memorial Day Is Duty and Privilege of Americans.

MEMORIAL Day, originated as a tribute to the fallen heroes of the Civil war, has come in these later years to mean much more than that, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press. The dwindling lines of the Old Guard, representing the Grand Army of the Republic, will soon pass in last review before the inspector general, and the heroes of other, later wars will take their places.

It is well that we Americans keep in memory all our men who struggled in battle to keep Old Glory flying in the heavens. These men, heroes of the Spanish-American war and those of the World war conflict, now loom large on the national horizon, and to them, as well as to the remnant of the Old Guard that kept watch and ward along the Potomac and in the Mississippi valley during the dark days of the Civil war, our solemn gratefulness is due.

We can never do enough to show our appreciation of what they did in time of trial, and it is meet that we assemble each Memorial Day and give thanks to Almighty God for the victories won by these sons of the republic on so many ensanguined fields of war.

The blue-clad armies that met and conquered the hosts of Lee in the sixties have their counterparts in the lads in khaki who stemmed the German flood of frightfulness in the Argonne, Belleau and on other fields of gore, teaching the hitherto conquering hordes of the kaiser that the despised Yankee from across the brine was not visiting the Rhineland for picnic sport, but to terminate once for all the claims of an absolute monarchy that it ruled the world.

Memorial Day is the one day in all the year when the men and women of America can show more reverently, more sympathetically, more heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for our boys who in the World war as in all other conflicts in which the republic has been engaged, led the van, causing victory to perch upon the banners of righteousness.

Bring flowers to garland the graves of America's soldier dead. What more appropriate? Tears for the dead, help for the living. We must not forget the maimed and suffering, that legacy left by the frightfulness of the most ferocious and heartless war in the history of the world. Kaiser Wilhelm sits in the shadow of Dutch hospitality and broods over the fall of the Hohenzollern dynasty. His punishment is small compared to the suffering his guilty reign inflicted on his fellow beings. Doubtless he is now counting the cost when it is too late to save him from the just condemnation of mankind.

Many thousands of graves will this year be decorated in France, graves of American soldiers who paid with their lives for their patriotic stand for God and country when the bugle sounded for the march across the ocean.

FARM FACTS

Poultry records pay. So do dairy records.

White arsenic is good for reducing rats, but barium carbonate is said to be better.

Tuberculosis is one of the most important contagious diseases of cattle, swine and poultry.

There is still another advantage besides low cost in buying cheap seed. It won't take as much labor to harvest the crop.

Five dollars per acre for spraying brings 40 per cent increase in yields on melons and cucumbers. That is good profit.

Warm hard floors have a tendency to produce leg weakness. If the chicks can be let out of doors for a little while on bright sunny days, leg weakness will be greatly helped.

Sprinkle wood ashes over the garden just before a rain. This is a great potash fertilizer and potash does not leach out of the soil. Potash is a necessary fertilizer for fruits and flowers.

Mammoth clover sown on land suitable for growing clover, should give a fair crop of hay by August. Unless it makes good growth, however, the weeds are likely to interfere and only a small crop of hay will result.

A building 10 by 12 feet is quite satisfactory for a brooding house and will handle 350 chicks. A building for this purpose should have a wooden floor and should be built on skids so that it can readily be moved to clean ground.

Pure bred dairy cows do not guarantee success, not even pure bred cows from high-producing ancestry.

Tuberculosis can be detected with a high degree of accuracy by the use of the tuberculin test.

There is no higher type of farming than that of keeping good dairy cows, selling the butterfat, and feeding the skim milk to good hogs, calves and chickens.

THROUGHOUT the land on May 30th, in every city, town and hamlet, the streets resound to the tread of America's veteran warriors.

It is Memorial Day, consecrated to the memory of the thousands of young manhood who answered their country's call and died; men whose blood is mixed in the mortar that cements the foundation of our great country.

Veterans of three great wars march together to the cemeteries to lay a token of remembrance on the green graves. The faded and depleted ranks of blue and gray lead the way, the men who fought the fight they believed to be right. The slouch hats of the Spanish war veterans, themselves smaller in number as the years roll by, come next. And last, the sturdy manhood of the twentieth century, the millions of veterans who went forth at democracy's call.

To those millions of World war veterans I say: All honor and respect to the elder veterans of past conflicts. Let us co-operate in all manners possible with the men whose deeds are written with sword and musket on the pages of American history. Let us honor them now while they are here to know and understand, for time, the great unconquerable enemy, will soon leave us nothing but the unforgettable memory of their accomplishments.

The Grand Army, whose efforts have made Memorial Day one of the greatest of our national ceremonies, is being depleted in ranks. The battalions are smaller, the step feeblers:

and soon from their shaking hand will fall the torch kept burning for sixty years with undiminished light. It is the duty of the American Legion to take the torch of Liberty and hold it up that its light may dispel the shadows of discontent and restlessness.

And if, at the end of its span in life, the American Legion can point to accomplishments as great as those of the G. A. R., the American Legion will not have to justify its existence; its existence will have justified itself.

Flag as Reminder at Little Mounds

Wind-Whipped Standard Tells Story of Strife for Peace of Today.

THE richest memory of May is our great Memorial Day, writes Samuel S. Drury, in Youth's Companion. Though a holiday not yet threescore years old, it has won its way into every state in the Union and carries its message of hope and resolution to the heart of every true American. Hark! Can you not hear the bands clashing through our leafy streets all the way across the continent? Can you not see the veterans in their faded uniforms marching or being reverently drawn to the solemn observances? Can you not picture great bouquets of lilacs and daisies generously provided from nature's greenhouse for every soldier's grave? Now what is this all about? If only we could have a quiet time to consider, if only we might take a day off to think things over! Such a day we have. On the holiday the community takes a day off. One purpose of a holiday is by rest and refreshment to put first things first. What then shall good Americans think and do and resolve on Memorial Day?

The reflective patriot first of all on this day will grow in gratitude. A moment's quiet thought convinces us that we are inheritors of valorous sacrifice. That single wind-whipped flag by a single soldier's grave is ample reminder to a sensitive patriot that our peaceful today springs from stressful and sacrificial yesterdays. In 1861 young men loved life as intensely as we do now. Homes meant quite as much then as they do today. To enlist, to fight, to die—those steps in the patriot's pilgrimage involved the dedication of self to greater than personal causes. War ever means love of a cause. Every boy and girl who knows a soldier of the Civil war (how swiftly these venerable men are passing from us!) may develop this sense of gratitude on Memorial Day by talking with such a veteran. On a national day like this we realize that the good event never just happens, that all our developments, be they personal, domestic or national, cost in human energy and sacrifice. The first emotion on Memorial Day is this pulsating sense of gratitude, which memory, that blessed moral power, can awaken in the heart of every patriot. As we think of what our plenty and prosperity have cost, we love our country more.

Vital patriots, moreover, desire to do as well as to think. Thus our holiday must be in part a holy day. We thoughtful Americans may devote some time to the active commemoration of our valiant dead. Surely for many years the American people have been honoring the Unknown Soldier. They have not limited their praise or their floral offerings to men they knew. No one need scan the name beneath the flag before bestowing a grateful benediction.

Patriotism is a living thing. The waves of history reach to our very shores. In our own time how multitudinous are the causes for this reflective gratitude! Since the Civil war and the Spanish-American war our sons and brothers and very companions have joined that Choir Invisible, that Sacrificial Throng which loved unto the death. The countries where they fell are not alien lands; the soil wherein they lie is not foreign soil.

To stand in an American cemetery in France is to feel yourself intensely an American; yes, that hallowed place seems peculiarly a part of America. That spot is home where loving thoughts of home or thoughts from home have dominated. Let not loving survivors mourn at the spatial separation from the young veteran's grave. With martial tokens are they surrounded, and with gentle hands are their crosses tended. Over it all the spirit of America, our great home, unfolds them as completely there as here.

The meaning of this national day of memory and grateful praise a true American interprets in personal resolutions. What shall ours be? No flag will mark the commonplace activities of our trivial round, no music may accompany our humdrum routine; but even so Memorial Day should rouse in us the resolution to be patriots of peace. We must believe that peace hath her victories no less renowned than war. To be a good patriot in May, 1924, is harder but no less necessary than in April, 1917. A country that is worth dying for is worth living for. Today and always we are bound to participate in the battles of peace—battles that mean courage and patience and chivalry on our part if we are going to leave this good world better than we found it. Every Christian American must be marching as to war. We do wrong to denature our routine life of this necessary martial element. At many points, without as well as within, no matter how obscure our lot, we have to fight. We must be "good haters," plain-speaking denouncers, not mealy-mouthed agreeers with every second-rate project or person. With charity for all persons, let us be declared foes of all those evils that menace personality.

The world is ever calling for heroes and heroines. Today promises you a battle for some cause or person worthy of your mettle. On Memorial Day every eye should be bright with brave resolution. With flags and flowers and music we honor all the brave youth of yesterday, who loved great causes and ideals more than life.

It is the duty of the youth of today and tomorrow to serve the country those heroes loved and to make it a land whose mountains speak peace, whose hills proclaim righteousness and whose breezes are clean with equal opportunity and vital with fair play.

A Woman on Decoration Day

By Mary Blake Woodson
in the Country Gentleman

I STAND in the crowd and I watch them,
As the wounded in battle go by—
How little they know as they pass me
That none are as wounded as I!

I have tears for what they have given—
Their youth, their Dawn of the Day—
But I'm hungry for all they have left them,
Who gave in a bitter way.

The eyes that are blinded, the wound
is deep,
The limps, the wheel chair and
crutch,
Catch at my heart with the sorrow
That bodily blemishes clutch.

And I love them with terrible pity—
I, whose body is whole—
But what if they saw my shattered faith
Or looked at my wounded soul?

Would they know me at once for a comrade
In pain, in courage more sad?
I, without glory of battle,
Who sent away all that I had?

Would they see how my whole life was crippled?
Perhaps if these boys understood
It would humble those scars they are proud of
As only such deeper scars could.

And perhaps I'd go limping out yonder,
Ahead of them all, at the start—
I, with my poor, maimed spirit—
I, with my broken heart!

COST LESS than "cheaper" overalls because they give more wear

You're willing and glad to buy an overall that will give you longer wear. Yet it's hard to tell the difference between overalls, as they're all blue and look about alike. But here's a test that will settle the point of longer wear for you.

That's the story! Heavier denim has larger, stronger threads and more of them to the inch, hence it wears longer and gives you more for your money.

Toss the ordinary overall on the scales and read the weight. Then place the same size in an Oshkosh B'Gosh Overall on the same scale. Watch the indicator go past the previous mark, one—two—three—four—five—yes, sometimes six or seven ounces!

There is no other overall that will weigh as much as Oshkosh B'Gosh! There is no other overall that will wear as long or actually cost as little. These are not idle statements. We will gladly prove the former to you in our store. You can prove the latter by trying an Oshkosh B'Gosh in actual service. That's the final test. Remember, "they must make good or we will."
