Mail order houses are collecting data on agriculture for the benefit of the farmers, but what the farmers would appreciate more than this is to have them help pay the taxes.

The average school teacher earns his money because in addition to the regular subjects of the school course, he has to teach the children so many things that should have been taught at home.

A criticism has often been advanced that newspapers by giving publicity to some of the exceptionally large yields of grain, beans etc. in an agricultural community, give a false impression of the average crops that might be raised. But after all, the man who raises the average crop does nothing that has any element of news in it. The man who has achieved success beyond the ordinary has done something that the public likes to read about. The intelligent reader understands that the yields are above the ordinary, otherwise the story would not have been published.

The band boys, on account of insufficient finances, will have to give up holding their rehearsals in the Temple. They plan to practice in the basement of the Methodist church, but on account of the low ceiling this room is not considered suitable for band work. The band is developing into a splendid organization and the members are keenly interested in its development. It is up to the town to see that the organization is financed.

Some of the members of the local Legion post have suggested a proposition that, if carried out, would be a fine thing for the town, the Legion and the band. The proposition is for the local Legion post and the town council to go in together on the construction of a new hall which could be used for a town hall, a place to hold Legion meetings and a room for holding band rehearsals. The suggestion was made to have this hall built on Main Street in a convenient location. To have it built substantially and furnished comfortably. There has been a demand for a building of this nature. There is money enough available in the combined treasuries of the town and Legion to build a hall that would satisfy this demand. It could be built without bonding or without borrowing a cent. The proposition is worthy of very careful consideration.

STONY POINT

Bean threshing was resumed in our locality the middle of last week and nearly all the beans that were stacked last fall are now threshed. The Kentucky wonder bean grown by A. Heimgartner and Frank Hoisington have been threshed and we understand that the 10 acres belonging to A. Heimgartner made a yield of more than 8 sacks per acre. About half of those grown by Hoisington were spoiled in the stack which greatly reduced the yield, but had this not occurred the yield would have been equally as good as those grown by Mr. Heimgartner.

Mr. Hayton of Lewiston is spending a few days at the Cherry Lane Ranch.

Several of the people of the Clearwater vicinity are putting up ice this week.

Mrs. George Dygert has been quite sick this week from an attack of the flu.

Lloyd Eckman hauled beans to town this week for Frank Hoisington.

Mrs. Leonard Fairfield helped Mrs. Zumbote cook for bean threshers Monday and Tuesday.

Lillie Heimgartner has been on the sick list the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletis Hoisington were Sunday visitors at the Fairfield home.

Ike Steensma and family took supper Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Alvy Hall who have recently purchased the Jim Barnett place in Hubbard Gutch.

You Get The Goods and More Besides

We Are Interested in Our Implements After You Buy Them.

If you were to buy an implement from a peddler, here today and gone tomorrow, you would get only the implement.

The peddler wouldn't be interested in whether or not the implement would give you satisfaction afterwards.

The immediate sale—getting your money—would be his only concern.

If the implement proved a disappointment, you would have no recourse—the peddler and your money are far away.

We couldn't afford to sell implements in that way, no more than you can afford to buy them on that basis.

Because our store is established in this community, instead of being a transient or far-away concern, we are vitally concerned in the satisfaction that our implements give after they leave our store.

We know that we can't make future sales by selling unreliable goods. We do business over and over with the same people, and the extent of our business depends upon how well we serve, again and again, the people of this community.

To make it as easy as possible to meet this obligation, we handle the highest grade of implements. But, if anything proves wrong in the use of any of these implements, we take steps to find and remedy the trouble.

The confidence of the people of this community, built on good goods and good service, means more to us than anything else.

STUDY OF WARSHIP HULL FOUND HELP Valuable Data Obtained for Designing New Craft. Washington.—With a six or seven-year period ahead before the United States may lay down its first replacement battleship under the Washington naval treaty, navy experts will have ample time to make the utmost use of data obtained from experiments on the hull of what was to have been the superdreadnaught Washington and on other scrapped vessels in preparing designs for new ships. They are expected to achieve a decided advance in warship construction as a result of their prolonged studies.

prepared in the Navy department while the European war was in progress, but before the United States entered the conflict. The submarine menace had almost reached its climax in threatening allied defeat before the plans were completed, and there are many things in the hull construction of the ships which grew out of war experience of the allies as observed by American experts. These have to do for the most part with better protection against torpedoes and mines and the experiments with the Washington hull afforded the only chance naval engineers of any nationality have had to test the methods of protection adopted on a scale that would furnish reliable data.

Coast Railway Explains Significance of Toots

Los Angeles.—The mysteries of the language of railroad engines, as spoken through the engineer's whistle, have been revealed by the Southern Pacific company in an announcement for the benefit of the general public. The significance of his whistle is explained as follows: Four blasts, two of medium length and two short, are a warning that a locomotive is approaching a grade crossing. A succession of short blasts tells trespassers to get off the track. One long blast, followed by three short ones, sends the rear flagman back to protect against a following train. Four or five blasts of medium duration recall the flagman. Four short whistles is the engineer's way of asking for train order signal. Two short whistles mean "Thank you" or "I get you." One whistle of medium duration, followed by two short blasts, calls attention to signals displayed for a following section. One long blast is given when train is approaching a station, drawbridge or junction. Two short blasts given three times are a signal to the trainmen that the air brakes are sticking.

Survey Shows Saturday Night Bath Is No Myth

New York.—About 1,000,000 new bathtubs were made in the year 1924. Since for the average bath in a tub between 40 and 60 gallons of water are used, the tide of soapuds rises high. And it is at its flood on Saturday nights. This is proven by accurate measure of the additional amount of gas consumed in the cities to heat the water to between 140 to 150 degrees. It requires from two to three cubic feet of gas to raise a gallon of water 100 degrees. The per capita consumption of water in American cities is 200 to 300 per cent greater than in European cities, and on Saturday nights this percentage is doubled. The ordinary householder in this country uses about 7,500 gallons of water a month. Representatives of the largest soap producers in this country assert that every family (averaging 4.4 persons) in the United States consumes at least 80 pounds of soaps during the year.

Fish Are Shoveled From River During Smelt Run

Kelso, Wash.—Smelt started running into the Cowlitz river from the Columbia recently. Catching these miniature fish is now the event of the winter, farmers shoveling them up by the scooped, filling barrels and boxes; women using lace curtain nets at the end of portiere poles; boys and girls with father's auto cover for a seine and the professional fisher with his linen thread nets. These fish, about seven to nine inches long, run in schools, often filling the river from bank to bank. They are en route upstream to spawn after which the smelt return to the ocean and, like the fur seal, spend a long period far from human eyes. The food value of the smelt is what makes it so attractive, being canned in glass jars, pickled in spices, salted and dried.

BELIEVES MOUND BUILDERS INDIANS

Appleton, Wis.—To the art of the mound builders, whose work is rapidly passing into oblivion in the wake of the man with the plow, Prof. John B. MacHarg, head of the department of American history at Lawrence college here, has devoted a mythical volume of almost forgotten lore. After a personal trip of exploration made this summer to the prominent mounds of these primitive builders, Professor MacHarg concluded that nearly all of these structures were the work of Indians who lived during the last thousand years, although just when the Indian started his fashion of mound building, no one could definitely say. "From articles of European origin found in some of these mounds, however, it has been established that for a time, at least, mounds were built after the advent of the white man," said Professor MacHarg. "Art forms found in them also connected the latter-day mound builder with present-day Indians." As to inclosures, used for defense or ceremonial purposes, the most spectacular are those near Newark, Ohio, extending over hundreds of acres. Ranamanga, Thompson et al.

In extent, ten to thirty in height, outlining avenues, circles and other geometrical figures, were constructed and still are memorials of a considerable civilization. Boggy mounds, or great animal pictures ranging in height from a few inches to a few feet, are most numerous in Wisconsin, but the most striking is in Adams county, Ohio, where one extends for a thousand feet in the shape of a serpent. The snake mounds near Appleton, Wis.; the elephant mound of Grant county, Wisconsin; the man mound and the lynx mounds near Baraboo, Wis., are examples of boggy mounds known best to the initiated.
