A new headlight law, has been put into effect in Idaho and it might be well for motorists to look after their lights as the law enforcement branch of the state government states that it will be rigidly enforced. The law was passed by the last session of the legislature and is now operative. That section pertain to lights follows:

"It shall be unlawful to use on a motor vehicle of any kind operated on the public highways of this state any lighting device with a beam of light the center of which shall strike at a height in excess of 42 inches above the ground and at a distance of six feet in front of said motor vehicle or shall strike the road at a distance in excess of 200 feet in front of said motor vehicle when standing on a level road.

"The term 'beam of light' shall be construed to mean the reflected rays of light which are projected approximately parallel to the optical axis of the reflector (in other words this means the glare of any headlight shall not extend over 200 feet ahead of the automobile when on level ground.)

"The provisions of this act shall not apply to spot lights, but all spot lights shall, while in use upon the highways of this state, be so directed that the beam of light therefrom shall strike the roadway at a point at least six feet to the right and not more than 75 feet in front thereof when approaching a vehicle."—Genesee News.

For the past week nearly every farmer we see leaving town has a bunch of cherry trees in his wagon, some small and some very large bundles. Nearly all are planting a few and in the aggregate there is going to be many acres of new plantings.

After the above item was in type we were talking with tree agents and they informed us that more than 10,000 cherry and apricot trees had been delivered at Juliaetta last fall and this spring—Juliaetta Record.

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Village of Deary held March 23, 1925, the board signed all papers connected with proposed $30,000 bond issue for the purpose of improving certain streets of the village. At this meeting also the board passed and adopted Ordinance No. 67, which authorized the bond election, sets April 28, as the date for the same, and fully sets forth the work which will be undertaken should the bonds carry, as well as naming the streets that are to be graded and surfaced. The ordinance is printed in full in this issue of the Press, and the voters should peruse it carefully.—Deary Press.

Officers Found 15 Gallons

W. G. Danforth, who is farming near Cameron, was arrested last Monday afternoon by Latah county and federal officers. A search of the place revealed two kegs containing 15 gallons of moonshine. The kegs were buried near the house on the place which Danforth is farming.

The arrest was made by Sheriff Charles Summerfield and Deputy Sheriff R. E. Garrison in company with federal officers James Rice and Edgar Marston.

Authorities state that Danforth admitted possessing the liquor and will probably plead guilty at his trial. He was taken to Moscow and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Warren Truitt, where he waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the federal court under $500 bond.

Alfred LaBolle, one of the first settlers of Texas ridge passed away Friday morning, March 27, at the age of 64 years. Mr. LaBolle had been failing for some time and death was due to heart complications followed by pneumonia.

Creative Chemistry by H. S. Student

Interesting Article Written by Miss Alberta Walker

In reading the story of Robinson Crusoe, we find that it is an allegory of human history. Man is a castaway upon a desert planet isolated from other inhabited worlds by millions of miles of intraversable space. He is absolutely dependent upon his own exertions, for this world of his, as Wells says, has no imports except meteorites and no exports of any kind.

In this conquest of nature by man, there are three stages distinguishable:

1. The Appropriative Period.
2. The Adaptive Period.
3. The Creative Period.

These eras overlap, and the human race, or rather the civilized man, may be passing into the third stage while lingering in the second or first in some other respect. The primitive man picks up whatever he can find available for his use. His successor, in the next stage of culture, shapes and develops this crude instrument until it becomes more suitable for his purpose. But in the course of time, man finds that he can make something new which is better than anything in nature or naturally produced. The savage discovers. The barbarian improves. The civilized man invents. The first finds. The second fashions. The third fabricates.

The primitive man sought shelter in any cave or crevice he could find. He kept advancing until he learned to build homes composed of steel, brick, terracotta, glass, concrete, and plaster, none of which materials are to be found in nature.

In the latter creative stages, we enter the domain of chemistry, for it is the chemist alone who possesses the power of producing a substance entirely new. The famous French chemist, Lavoisier, in 1793, defined chemistry as the "science of analysis." The German chemist, Gerhardt, in 1844 said: "I have demonstrated that the chemist works in opposition to living nature; that he burns, destroys, analyzes; that the vital force alone operates by synthesis; that it reconstructs the edifice, torn down by the chemical forces."

In the eyes of the chemist, the Great War was essentially a series of explosive reactions, resulting in the liberation of nitrogen. The important thing to note is, that all the explosives from gun-powder down, contain nitrogen as the essential element. It is customary to call nitrogen "an inert element," because it is hard to get it into combination with other elements. It might, on the other hand, be looked upon as an active element, because it acts so energetically in getting out of its compounds. We have learned that the fixation of nitrogen is very important, when nitrates cannot be obtained from Chile. The soil must be supplied with nitrogen in order to make a good yield, therefore, they used nitrates as fertilizers, and also, plant leguminous plants to supply the soil with nitrogen.

Much tar that has been thrown away and wasted, has been found to be one of the most useful things in the world. It is one of the strategic points in war and commerce. It wounds and heals. It supplies munitions and medicines. The chemist puts his hand into the black mass and draws out all the colors of the rainbow. This evil-smelling substance exceeds the rose in production of perfume and surpasses the honey-comb in sweetness.

Of the five senses, three are physical and two chemical. By touch, we discern pressures and surface textures. By hearing we receive impressions of certain air waves; and by sight, of certain ether waves. But smell and taste lead us to the heart of the molecule and enable us to tell how the atoms are put together. There are only four tastes of importance, acid, alkaline, bitter and sweet. The acid, or sour taste, is the perception of hydrogen atoms charged with positive electricity. The bitter and sweet taste, and all the odors, depend upon the constitution of the compound, but the laws of the relation have not yet been worked out.

Chemists have learned that it is much easier to tear anything down, than it is to build it up—that is why chemists discovered how to take rubber apart, sixty years before they could find out how to put it together. They found that analysis is easier than synthesis and that creative chemistry is the highest branch of his art.

Synthetic rubber has not proved capable of displacing natural rubber by under-bidding it, nor even of replacing natural rubber, when this is shut out. The problem of synthetic rubber has been solved scientifically but not industrially. We can make rubber out of potatoes—but potatoes have other uses. Rubber is used in the form of pads, springs and tires to render noiseless traffic; rubber soles and heels; and in electrical appliances.

In ancient times, sugar was unknown to most people; only kings and queens could afford to use sugar, and they even thought it a luxury. Fortunately, in the course of time, the Arabs invaded Spain and forced upon the unwilling inhabitants of Europe, such instrumentalities of higher civilization, as arithmetic, and algebra; soap and sugar. Later the Spaniards carried the sugar cane to the Carribean, where it thrived amazingly.

In spite of the ridicule showered upon it, the despised beet and cane sugar, year by year, gained in sweetness of heart, and up to this day, sugar is a very common food, and has become essential to the keeping up of good health.

The corn kernel is made up of three parts: (1) a hard and horny hull on the outside, (2) a small oily and nitrogenous germ at the point, and (3) a white body, consisting mostly of starch. The products from the germ are: corn-oil, oil cake, oil meal, cattle food, etc. From the body of the kernel: starches hydrolyzed foods, and gluten. Bran is made from the hull.

The control of the man over the materials of nature has been vastly enhanced by the recent extensions of the range of temperature at his command. When Fahrenheit stuck the bulb of his thermometer into a mixture of snow and salt, he thought he had reached the lowest point of temperature, so he scratched a mark on tube where the mercury stood and called it zero; but we know that absolute zero, or the total absence of heat, is 459 of Fahrenheit's degrees lower than his zero point. The early metallurgist had no hotter a fire than he could make by blowing charcoal with a bellows. This was barely enough for smelting iron; but by the bringing of two carbon rods together, as in the electric arc light, we can get enough heat to volatilize the carbon at the tips, and this means, over 7000 degrees Fahrenheit. By other methods, we can raise it to about 14,500 degrees, so it is no wonder that the modern man can perform miracles.

The primitive metallurgist could only make use of such metals as he found free in nature such as had not been attacked and corroded by oxygen. These were, primarily, gold or copper, though possibly some original genius may have happened upon a bit of meteoric iron and pounded it into a sword. But when man found that the red ochre, he had hitherto used only as a cosmetic, could be made to yield iron by melting it with charcoal, he opened a new era in civilization. Iron is one of the most timi-

What this country needs is not a new birth of freedom, but the old fashioned $2 lower birth. What this country needs isn't liberty, but less people who take liberties without liberty. What this country needs isn't a job for every man, but a real man for every job. What this country needs isn't to get more taxes from the people, but for the people to get more from the taxes. What this country needs is not more miles of territory, but more miles to the gallon. What this country needs is more paint on the old place, less paint on the young face. What this country needs isn't a lower rate of interest on money, but a higher interest in work.—Selected.

Relatives in Tornado

The destructive tornado at Murphysboro, Illinois, with its death toll has reached and saddened hearts in our community. A. E. Another aunt, Mrs. Minnie Woodside, injured and home a wreck, and her daughters home also destroyed and occupants injured. His sister, Mrs. Edna Porter and husband badly injured and home a mass of burning embers, and their daughters, Evelyn and Dialtha escaping without a scratch.

of metals. It has an especial affection for oxygen, and, since this is in both air and water, and these are everywhere, iron is not long without a mate. The results of this union, going by various names in the mineralogical and chemical worlds, is called rust.

 It is further ordered that the fol-

 Eradication—In cases of small take two seasons to complete the work, but if properly done there will be little further trouble.

NOTICE TO ALL PEACE OFFICERS

We wish to call attention to Section 1597 of the Idaho Compiled Statute of 1919 relative to Motor Vehicle Licenses.
 We wish to ask the co-operation of all Peace Officers within Latah County to assist us in the enforcement of this law, as all motor licenses are now past due.
 CHARLIE SUMMERFIELD
 Sheriff
 C. J. ORLUND
 Pros. Attorney.

His Name Unhonored
 Herman Blennerhasset was born in England the 8th of October, 1764. He married his own niece and was socially ostracized. He came to America and settled near the Ohio river, where he developed a princely estate. He was involved in the scheme of Aaron Burr to form a Southwestern empire and was arrested and tried on the charge of conspiracy.

Cut off all shoots under the ground.
 3. Smother by placing good, strong tar-paper over them. In using this method the paper should overlap well and be held down by stones, dry soil, or pieces of timber.

In cases where whole fields are infested, the above mentioned methods are impracticable. The eradication of this weed then means that its underground roots must either be grubbed out and gathered, or such surface cultivation employed as will result in the starvation of the roots.
 With this object in view the following method is given: Patches of this weed should be plowed shallow early in the spring.
 Work with the knife cultivator or some cultivator that will cut off the shoots under the ground as often as may be necessary to keep the new shoots from appearing above ground.
 Continue this until late fall, then plow deep, turning up as many of the roots up as possible. The roots should be left in this state over winter, when many of them will be killed by the hard frosts. In the spring continue clean cultivation as before until late in the fall, when the ground may be seeded to winter wheat, or this ground may be left until the second spring and planted to oats or alfalfa. If this system of cultivation is carried out thoroughly for the two years, it will practically eliminate wild morning glory. It must be kept in mind that shoots are to be prevented from appearing above ground if this system is to be effective.

CANADIAN THISTLE—Eradication—Same as recommended for Wild Morning Glory.

FAN WEED—Eradication—In cases where the weed is only growing by stray plants over the farm hand-pulling, gathering and burning is most effective, and the most sure way of keeping it in check. Where it is found in small patches as the case generally is, some hoe crops should be grown, such as corn, turnips, or potatoes. This means the continuous cultivation of the soil, besides producing reasonable returns from the work.

On land that is so badly infested that hand-pulling is impossible, one of the following methods of cultivation may be employed:

- (a) Cultivate immediately after harvest, so that the surface seed may germinate. In wet seasons it may be necessary to cultivate again before winter sets in. The following spring plow shallow and work down each day that which is plowed. Let this stand until more seeds germinate, then cultivate well and seed thickly to oats or barley. Harrow the grain when two inches high, from one to three times at intervals. This will destroy the young weeds and also reduce the grain crop to a proper stand. Barley in this instance is much preferred, as the broad leaf of the barley has greater effect in smothering than oats have.

 If there is still considerable stink-weed in the crop it can be cut early for green feed. This system of cultivation can be carried out for three years, except that the land should be seeded to oats the second year, and to spring wheat the third. When seeding the wheat sow reasonably thin and seed down to red clover and timothy or alfalfa. Leave in hay or pasture for a period of years.

(b) Start cultivation early as above mentioned, but plow shallow late in the fall if possible and work down.
 The following spring after weeds are well started, plow slightly deeper than at the previous plowing, work to a fine surface, allow it to remain until more weeds germinate, then plow again, still deeper, bringing up more seeds to be germinated and destroyed by surface cultivation.
 Work should be completed by the latter part of July, when the land should be seeded to fall rye, which can be pastured that fall and during the following spring and summer.

(c) Summer-fallow for one year; this should consist of at least two plowings, three will give better results.

Following this year's summer-fallow it should be worked the next spring, then seeded reasonably thin to oats, harrowed when the grain is up two inches, and then seeded to red clover and timothy or alfalfa.
 Cut this crop for green feed if there are any matured stink-weeds.

By order of the Board of County Commissioners this 5th day of March, 1925.

ELMER L. PAULSON,
 JOHN LONE,
 G. F. WALKER, County Commissioners in and for Latah County, Idaho. 12-3t.

If you don't watch them, dollars have a way of flying over the fence and getting lost in the thicket of needless spending.

The best way to clip the wings of a dollar and make it impossible for it to get away, is to save the dimes, quarters and halves and put them safely away in a savings account.

If you do not have a savings account, start one
