The yearly sales of talcum powder, cold cream, rouge, lipstick and toilet powders amount to $15, for ever woman in America. And why couldn't the ladies repair the ravages of time? When time and weather make a house unsightly, don't we paint it? "Save the surface, and you save all."—Genesee News.

Grandma Fix died last Tuesday, April 28, at the home of her son S. S. Tabor on Fix ridge at ripe age of 86 years 7 months. Funeral services were held in the U. B. church in Juliaetta, Thursday by Rev. G. W. Benjamin of Potlatch. Interment was in Fix ridge cemetery. A very large crowd of relatives and friends were present to pay their last respects. "Grandma" crossed the plains with an ox team in 1864, settling in Walla Walla county Washington, on the Touchet river. This train encountered many dangers from the Indians. She finally settled on Fix ridge in 1878, where she resided until her death. She was the first white woman to settle on the ridge, there being months she would not see a woman at all. I. W. Fix, her son, was the first white child born on the ridge.—Juliaetta Record.

Tuesdays bond election was not very exciting, but when the votes were counted it was found that the bonds were defeated. Twenty nine votes registered their disapproval of the question by voting "no". Thirty-five voted for the bonds, but this was short of the necessary two-thirds majority.—Deary Press.

NEW LAW CUTS FEES

Fees collected for the registration of automobiles in 1925 will be several hundred thousand dollars less than in 1924 in spite of the fact that total registration will be several thousand and heavier this year, it was learned at the office of the secretary of state Friday following a study of the operation of the new registration law for the first four months of 1925.

The drop in receipts is due to a falling off of the average license fee of from $5 to $6 under the $18 fee paid by the average car in 1924.

Legislators, in adjusting the motor vehicle registration law, anticipated making about a $3 reduction in the average fee by cutting the basic charge $15 to $12 but they also made another reduction allowance for the age of cars and this is what is cutting down the total fees, especially with reference to large cars. Cars of the Cadillac class which paid a $45 fee in 1924, are receiving a license this year for approximately $28 to $30, depending on the age of the vehicle.

So that, instead of the average fee being cut $3, it is estimated that it is cut from $5 to $6, and this will keep total receipts for the year at less than one million, when in 1924 they reached $1,300,000.

Total registrations of passenger cars up to May 1 of this year are approximately 51,200, or about 4000 more than were registered at the same time in 1924. Included in the 51,200 are 900 cars which are exempt from the payment of a license fee.

Up to the same time, the state has licensed 4343 trucks, a slight reduction under 1924 because of the change in the law removing some cars from the truck class.

The state's share of registration fees was cut down by the legislature from 25 per cent of the total to 10 per cent, so that

Kendrick Defeats Reubens Team

Heavy Batting by the Locals Runs Up Score

Last Sunday's baseball game, played on the local grounds between Reubens and Kendrick, was rather a one-sided affair but it was not devoid of thrills. The score was 19 to 3 in favor of Kendrick and indicates to some extent the heavy batting of the locals. Just about every man on the Kendrick team had his batting eye in focus, and three Reubens pitchers were used up in a vain attempt to stem the slaughter.

Bill McCall Kendrick's big first baseman, probably established a record for this neck of the woods by clouting out two home runs in one inning. One ball was hit so hard that if it had not been stopped by a tree top on the lee side of the house located west of center field, it would probably be going yet. Walt Thomas, one of the veteran players of the Kendrick team, says it was the hardest hit ball ever knocked over the Kendrick ball grounds.

Glenn Flesman, Kendrick's fast mound artist, also made a record for a pitcher that stands unique in local baseball history, by getting 6 hits out of 6 times at bat.

Heres made a three-base hit that he stretched to four bases on an over throw.

Gus Blum has played at three different positions in the three games played this season—first base, field and second base. He gets away with all of them equally well and plays a consistent game.

Harry Flaig, Kendrick's midget shortstop took everything in sight from his position and also knocked enough fouls to ruin several pitchers.

The playing of the locals last Sunday demonstrated that Kendrick has the making of a fast ball team and with a little practice to iron out the rough places, a good record may be expected for the balance of the season.

Car Turned Turtle

Last Saturday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. Dave Schoeffler and family were driving in their Dodge sedan about a quarter of a mile below the Spalding bridge on the Lewiston road, the car went over the embankment and rolled over four times, landing at the edge of the Clearwater river about 40 feet below. Mrs. Schoeffler was driving and lost control of the car in the loose gravel.

Mr. Schoeffler was the only occupant of the car who was seriously injured. He suffered a dislocated left shoulder and a fracture of the arm. One of the three children was cut on the head by the broken glass, but the injury was not a serious one.

Mr. Schoeffler was taken to White's hospital by two Lewiston men who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident.

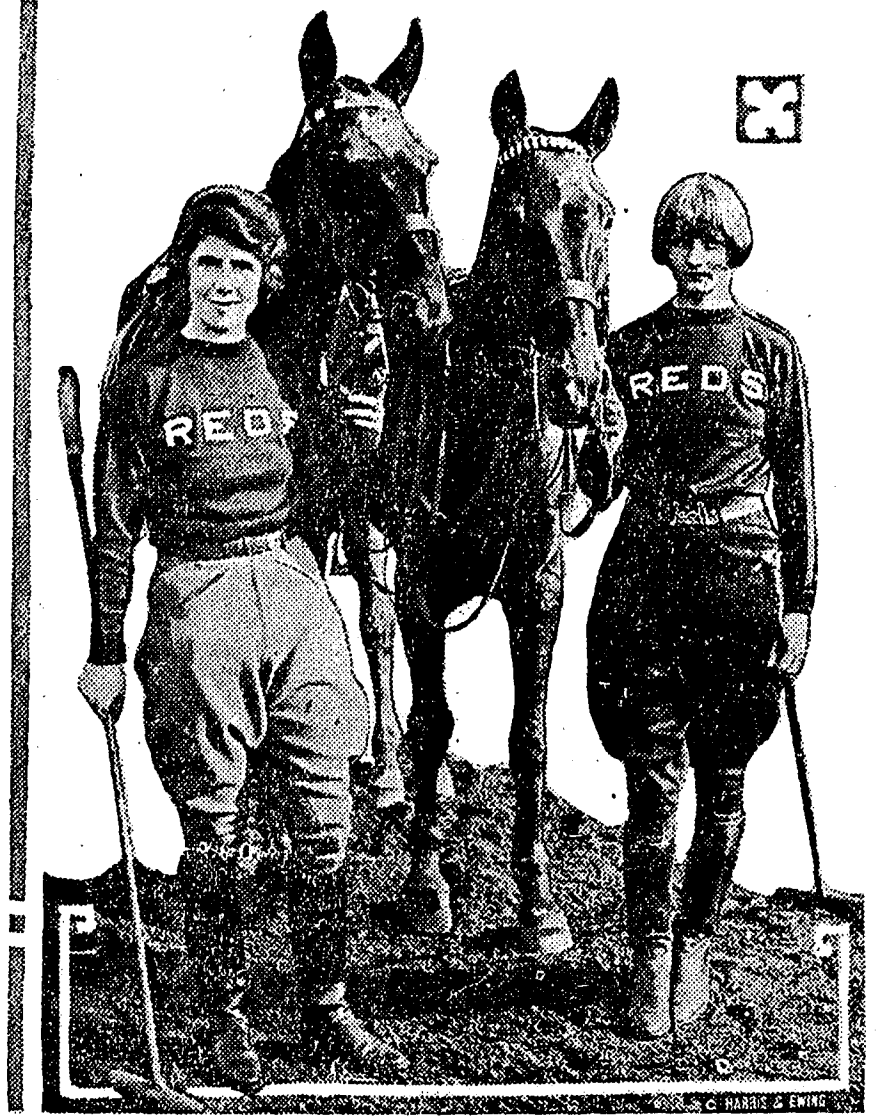

"The car was practically a wreck, the body being badly damaged."

Soon Call for Road Bids

Word comes from Lewiston that a call for bids will be made for the construction of the highway from Arrow to the Latah county line, about June 1. One of the engineers in charge of the preliminary survey stated that the estimated cost of construction is $45,000. The early completion of this road is one of the most necessary road projects to the development of highways in the Potlatch country. It is the main trunk line that will tap the entire Potlatch section.

if $900,000 is collected this year by the county assessors for license fees, 90,000 of this amount will come into the state highway fund and the remainder will stay in the counties where it is collected.—Star-Mirror.

Bean Prices Are Too Low Here

Growers Receive More in South Idaho

An interesting communication was received by the Gazette this week from the field representative of the Idaho Farmer, at Boise, concerning a startling difference in contract price offered the bean growers of the Potlatch over that being offered to the growers in South Idaho. This price difference would certainly be worth investigating as there is a big profit represented in the higher price offered to the growers in the south end of the state.

Following is the communication which was received yesterday:

"I read, with much interest, in the last issue of The Gazette, the offer of a Spokane firm to contract 100 Northern beans for $3.75 per 100 pounds. As beans have been contracted in southern Idaho at six cents a pound for next fall's delivery I am at a loss to understand why there should be so much difference in prices at Kendrick and Twin Falls. The Southern Idaho Bean Growers association, which produced and sold more than 15,000,000 pounds of beans in 1924, closed its accounts for last year with a final payment of 1 1/2 cents, which brings the total net payment to members of the association to $5.25 for the entire crop of 1924. The growers are expecting about one cent more for beans in 1925 than was paid last year. It looks like your bean growers in Latah county should organize and handle their crop cooperatively if they can make 1 1/2 cents a pound, net, by so doing. There should be a lesson for Latah county bean growers in the success of the Southern Idaho Bean Growers association."

Sincerely yours,
J. E. Nessly,
Field Representative, The Idaho Farmer."

"George, I'd love to have that bracelet."

The Husband—"I can't afford to buy it for you dear."

The Bride—"But if you could, you would, wouldn't you?"

The Husband—"I'm afraid not."

The Bride—"Why?"

The Husband—"It isn't good enough, dear."

The Bride—"Oh, you darling!"

School Election Held Tuesday

Walter Housley Wins First Place by 7 Votes

The school election, held April 28, was declared illegal by the county superintendent, Miss Peterson. The vote stood 15 each; for Joday Long, Walter Housley and N. E. Walker. After the ballot had been counted and the results known, two others were allowed to vote and Mr. Housley then led by two votes. On account of this irregularity Miss Peterson declared it no election.

In order to allow the people an opportunity to signify their choice at a representative election, Miss Peterson advised that an unofficial election be held and she would appoint the high man among the three candidates. This election was held last Tuesday afternoon with the following result: Walter Housley 67, Joday Long 60, N. E. Walker 9. Walter Housley, being high man, will no doubt be appointed as a member of the board.

Joday Long, the retiring member, has served as trustee for three years in a most efficient manner. He deserves his share of the credit of putting the school in better financial condition than it has been for the past 10 years.

There was considerable interest in the result of the election, there being a total of 139 votes cast. An equal amount of interest on the part of the patrons in the school itself might prove beneficial.

Band Concert Next Saturday

The Kendrick band will make its first public appearance next Saturday evening, May 16, in the park. A free, open air concert will be given to which the public is cordially invited.

While the band is made up largely of young musicians whose first experience in band work began last fall, splendid progress has been made under the direction of Walter Thomas and a very creditable concert may be expected.

The band stand in the park has a seating capacity of 25, but as the local band numbers about 40 pieces, it will be necessary to remodel the stand to fit the band.

The eighth grade examinations started in this district, Wednesday, under the direction of Mrs. M. B. McConnell.

New Council is Now Organized

Elect Tom Long Chairman of the Board

The meeting of the town council last Tuesday evening found all members present as follows: E. H. Dammarell, R. D. Newton, E. T. Long, Frank Chamberlain and E. A. Deobald. After disposing of the regular routine business the matter of fixing the appropriation for the ensuing year was taken up. The appropriation will be $2108, which will require a 10 mill levy, the same as last year. This was the lowest tax levy of any town in the county last year.

The vote of the village election was canvassed and found correct as reported by the judges. E. H. Dammarell and R. D. Newton were the newly elected members. The board proceeded to organize and elected E. T. Long as chairman. Mayor Long then appointed the following standing committees:

Water: Dammarell and Deobald.

Street and Alley: Newton and Chamberlain.

Fire and Building: Chamberlain and Deobald.

Cemetery and Park: Deobald and Newton.

Sewer: Newton and Dammarell.

Sewer: Deobald and Chamberlain.

Finance: Newton and Dammarell.

Harry G. Stanton was appointed treasurer; Ralph Knepper, clerk and J. G. Gardner, marshal.

According to an established custom of alternating between the two local banks every two years, the Kendrick State Bank was designated to handle the village funds for the ensuing two years.

The matter of the tourist park was discussed and referred to the park committee, with the recommendation that work be started at once to convert a small section of the town park into a tourist park with all necessary conveniences.

The board decided that plans made at the previous meeting for grading the alleys in the business section should be carried out.

There being nothing further to bring before the board the meeting adjourned.

Winners of Typing Contest

Six contestants were sent from the Kendrick High School to the annual state typists contest at the university of Idaho last Saturday, as follows:

Novice class: Grace Plummer, Allie Moore and Hester Knepper; Amateur class: Alberta Walker, Maude Compton and Hazel Stanton.

Representatives from high schools in various parts of the state took part in the contest and some from the university of Idaho. In the novice class the winners were: Dana White, Bonners Ferry, first; Charlotte McHose, Nampa, second; Hester Knepper, Kendrick, third, Carl Ekholm, Sandpoint, fourth.

Amateur class: Laura Yorgason, Neva Rice, Lillian Yorgason, all of Nampa, third.

Best scores for the various classes: novice, 52 5-15 words per minute, for 15 minutes. Amateur, 63 words per minute for 15 minutes.

The Hazelwood Company has established a creamery route radiating from Juliaetta and will be in active operation very shortly. The route embraces Fix ridge, part of the Little Potlatch and point of American ridge.

Word reached here yesterday of the burning of Schofield's store at Southwick. The blaze apparently started about midnight and in a short time the building and contents were simply ashes.

H. E. Wessels on a trip to Dent this week ran across a couple of cub bears and taking a fancy to the little animals, bought them. He brought them home and put them in a room by themselves, but the next morning the state of the wall paper meant out doors for the cubs, where they are now confined to the limits of the yard by a stout chain. The animals are about 18 inches long and 8 inches high and are a source of attraction to many.

George Barnum was out to his homestead on Elk Creek this week.

Ed W. Evans of the Vollmer Clearwater Co. was in Kendrick this week looking after the interests of his company.

It seems that the assessed value of the town has fallen off one third since last year.

George B. Banta of Clarkston was in town Monday at which time he closed the lease of the store room of the Fraternal Temple building and made arrangements for the installing of the fixtures for his department store. It will be similar to the Bee Hive store of Lewiston, the proprietor of which (R. C. Beach) is interested in the one to start here under the management of Mr. Banta.

E. Clem has the contract for varnishing the interior of the Fraternal Temple and also for the gilding of the letters on the front of the temple.

The Kettenbach warehouse is being cleaned and will be highly decorated for the commencement exercises of our public schools, the company having given Prof. Barackman, the use of same without cost.

Alfred Crow is now engaged in the Hull Co's. store and is training for an up-to-date clerk.

Congressman French has named Wade Keene, son of Lafayette Keene, as alternate to Corwin Cornwall for a cadetship to the naval academy at Annapolis. Wade is a young man who meets all the requirements of the situation.

S. T. Dunlap has started the brickyard at Juliaetta and is now preparing for a kiln of 100,000.

A complaint was made by the night watchman at a regular meeting of the town board relative to too much shooting going on in the town limits at night.

Lecture, Wednesday, May 13

On Wednesday, May 13, at 3:00 p. m. in Epworth Hall at the Methodist church, will be held a Women's Foreign Missionary meeting with Miss Ruth Warner as the principal speaker. Miss Warner is a returned missionary from South America, having spent five years in active work among high school girls. She is the oldest daughter of Rev. Dr. Warner, superintendent of the Deaconess hospital in Spokane, a graduate of the U. of I. and C. E. I. of Chicago. Kendrick is indeed very fortunate in being privileged to secure Miss Warner.

On Wednesday evening at 8 p. m. Miss Warner will occupy the pulpit and give to those unable to attend in the afternoon, the benefit of her message. Cordial invitation to all.

Claud Stanton returned home the first of the week from Elk River where he has been working this spring. He expects to go out on the fire patrol the first of next week.

Back in Wisconsin a farmer has been convicted of attempting to trade one of his children to a lawyer in exchange for legal services in connection with a liquor case. That farmer may have been a good judge of liquor but a poor judge of lawyers—or he would have offered a quart instead of a kid.—Caldwell News

You hear more people kick on high taxes for schools than on the tax on gasoline, and yet the two forms of taxes probably total about the same. People seldom complain of high prices when they are spending money for pleasure.

A good business man always pays his bills cheerfully—why shouldn't he?

A town that never has anything to do in a public way is on the way to the cemetery asserts the Pocatello Tribune. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man who curses the towns furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business to give to city affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is always howling hard times, preaches the funeral and sings the doxology. And that town lies buried from all sorrow and care.

There is more painting going on in Kendrick this spring than for many years. Maybe the intensive advertising done by local dealers had something to do with it.

If rich men received as much advice about spending their money as poor men do about saving theirs, maybe there would be more money in circulation.

Death of Fred Allen

Frederick Ray Allen was born in Carrol County, Mo., December 30, 1897 and met his death April 17, 1925 at Gard, California. He came to Idaho with his parents in 1904 and went to California in 1916.

Gard is a new town being built about thirty miles from Los Angeles and Fred was painting the school building and had come down for dinner, when the contractor asked him if he would take another man's place, who was laying brick in a well, to prevent the rapidly raising water from covering the work already done while he went to dinner. Fred consented and took the other man's place.

The bucket in which they were lowering the brick for some unforeseen or unknown cause, broke loose and in falling struck Fred on the back of the head killing him instantly.

The funeral services were held in the Adventist church at Redlands, California. Services were conducted by Elder Owens and a male quartet from the sanitorium of Loma Linda, sang. He was laid to rest in Redlands cemetery.

He leaves to mourn his departure, a father, mother, one brother and sister, an aunt and a host of friends. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

FARM STOCK

INSPECTION SHOWS HEALTH OF STOCK

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Of approximately 80,000,000 meat animals passing under the scrutiny of federal inspectors, during the last fiscal year, the vast majority proved to be healthy and went into the various channels of the meat trade. But the fact that slightly more than a third of a million carcasses and nearly 1,600,000 parts of carcasses were condemned at slaughter indicates the searching character of the inspection. The report of the chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, recently issued, gives the latest comprehensive information on the health condition of cattle, sheep and hogs.

Though designed primarily to safeguard the wholesomeness of meat offered to the public, meat inspection renders a valuable service to live stock producers also in keeping them informed of the health of their animals at time of slaughter.

Of the 35 principal diseases and ailments that affect live stock, tuberculosis is by far the most serious. It was responsible for about two-thirds of the condemnations of cattle carcasses and near half those of swine. Tuberculous conditions were found also among a few sheep, though these animals rarely are affected. The next most serious disease, according to meat-inspection records, is hog cholera. Actual losses are considerably heavier than those records show, since hogs affected with that disease usually die on the farms.

Pneumonia, peritonitis, and a group of similar ailments rank next in the damage they cause, followed by septicaemia. In the case of calves, immaturity is an important reason that many fail to pass inspection. Among the figures for cattle, injuries and bruises rank high, causing the condemnation of the meat of more than 4,000 entire carcasses.

Sheep Shearing Clipper Does Its Work Rapidly

When the cold spring rains have gone and the warm weather comes on, flock owners should give attention to shearing their sheep. Shearing is best accomplished by the use of machines rather than hand shears. By investing a few dollars, it is possible to get a machine which has one attachment for shearing sheep and another for clipping horses and mules. The machine clipper does work more rapidly, the fleece is cut closer, and the sheep are not injured so frequently.

In doing good shearing, the livestock specialists say, it is necessary to get the fleece without tearing it apart. After setting a sheep on its rump, an experienced shearer will hold it comfortably and there will be very little struggling. The sheep's body should be tilted toward the operator so that it cannot get a footing and thus attempt to rise. It is customary to shear first the head and neck, then down the belly, then the sides and back, and last the rump.

After shearing the fleece should be carefully arranged with the inside out and tied into a neat pack. This adds much to the appearance and thus makes a better market.

The use of the wrong kind of tying twine causes more trouble than any other one thing. Binder twine or any other twine which sheds its fibers should not be used. Hard glazed twines, or paper twine should be used.

Profits Are Increased by Using Better Sires

"So much is heard nowadays regarding agricultural depression, that it is interesting to note how profits in dairying can be augmented by using only herd sires of high-producing ancestors," says W. R. Robbins, New Jersey state superintendent of advanced registry.

"The official records of the offspring of the Guernsey bull, Ne Plus Ultra, show that 34 daughters are each averaging 500 quarts more of milk a year than their mothers. At 20 cents a quart this means an increase of $100 a year. Many of the daughters are only two-year-olds and can be expected to increase this margin as they grow older.

"The significance of these facts is apparent when it is considered that the number of dairy cows in New Jersey might be cut in half if better bulls were used by all farmers instead of by only a few. The average production of milk in the state is 2,280 quarts per cow. The average of Ne Plus Ultra's 34 daughters is 5,459 quarts each. In other words, many farmers are using twice as much barn space, pasture, and labor, and nearly twice as much feed as they ought to for the amount of milk they have to sell.

"This condition can be remedied by using bulls of proved ability to beget offspring of high productive capacity."

Get After Old Pastures

This is the time, the place, and the job. Let's go after these old makeshift pastures, get out the brush and trees, except an occasional tree for shade, get off the surplus water, weeds, etc., and put in real nutritious, palatable grasses and cultivate and fertilize these until at least two blades of grass grow where one grew before. Pasture for three and two to eat it is a mighty good old slogan. Let's try and make it a reality.

Save Resistant Chestnut Trees

Blight Is Steadily Spreading Over Country, Killing Many.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The chestnut blight is steadily spreading over the country, exterminating the American chestnut as it moves. The financial loss has been very heavy for owners who failed to cut their dead chestnut before it deteriorated, and the United States Department of Agriculture and state forestry departments have been active in advocating timely utilization.

Resistant Tree.
However, a few chestnut trees have appeared to show a marked degree of resistance to the blight, and it is desirable that the more resistant trees be located and preserved. Some of these may prove to be the starting point for a new growth of chestnut. A tree should have resisted the blight under natural conditions for at least ten years before it can be regarded as worthy of consideration as a resistant tree. Many trees will throw off blight cankers and apparently be doing well for a few years and then quickly succumb to the disease. The office of forest pathology, in the bureau of plant industry of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, is interested in receiving reports of exceptionally resistant American chestnuts, that is, trees which survive after nearly all of the chestnuts in the vicinity have been killed. Unusually resistant trees are recorded and examined at some later date. Nuts and grafted trees from the most promising are planted in an experimental orchard at Bell, Md., for further testing.

Interested in Trees.
This office is also interested in reports of Japanese and European chestnuts which have survived the attacks of the blight. The removal of infected limbs and the cutting out of trunk cankers on these foreign chestnuts, will materially assist them in throwing off the disease. The office of forest pathology is, however, primarily interested in trees which are naturally resistant.

Different Varieties of Common Vetch Compared

Common vetch and its varieties is the subject of a new publication just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture as Department Bulletin 1289. The bulletin discusses and compares the different varieties as to seed and straw yield, rate and time of seeding, method and depth of seeding, viability of seed, winter hardiness and numbers of other factors.

Common vetch is a native agricultural crop of the Mediterranean region but was introduced into the United States as early as the Eighteenth century. It is rather exacting as to temperature and soil conditions and the portions of the United States to which it is particularly adapted are limited. As a commercial crop it is confined to the region in Washington, Oregon, and California having mild winter temperatures. Only the most hardy varieties will survive the average winter of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast states. Not enough experimental work has been done to determine the limitations of the several varieties in the last-named region, but it seems probable that when properly handled the most winter-hardy strains can be grown in limited areas at least.

A copy of the bulletin may be secured upon request, as long as the supply lasts, from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Ventilation Important in Keeping Apple Crop

Fruit must be considered for storage long before the harvest, according to Prof. D. B. Carrick, New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, in calling attention to the condition of some fruit now being taken from storage. Insects and diseases must be eliminated by correct spraying and care.

The fruit should be mature when picked, but not overripe. Of the two it is better to have the fruit slightly underripe, as it ripens slightly after picking. Fruit must be carefully handled, for, when the skin is broken, the decay organisms may enter. The fruit should not be allowed to stand in the sun after picking, but should be cooked as soon as possible.

It is important to select keeping varieties, such as Baldwin, Ben Davis, and Russets. Any room with good ventilation and a low temperature will do for storing fruit. Ventilation is important in getting a low temperature as soon as possible. A temperature of 30 degrees with 80 per cent relative humidity, is the best for storage.

Have Tools Ready

The degree of success in home gardening and also the amount of pleasure derived from working in the garden is largely determined by the kind of tools used. The variety of labor-saving hand tools is large and they are inexpensive. Look over the equipment of tools on hand and repair them if necessary. In selecting new tools particular soil conditions should be kept in mind, as all tools will not work under all conditions. If your garden is one-fifth of an acre or larger in size you should have a hand wheel hoe.

Pure Bred Live Stock in Favor

Experience of Owners Who Are in Position to Make Comparison.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A report just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture on the progress of the better stock campaign for the improvement of domestic animals states briefly why pure bred animals excel other kinds. The information is based on the average experience of hundreds of stock owners who have been in a position to make comparisons. It thus points to the results which other farmers who are considering the improvement of their live stock may expect from pure bred sires and also from the combined use of pure bred sires and pure bred dams.

Summary of Points.

Following is a summary of the points in which pure bred excel: Based on utility alone, pure bred live stock has an earning power from a third to one-half greater than scrub stock. Pure bred excel other stock in: Superiority and uniformity in conformation and type, greater sale value, early maturity and economy in the conversion of feed into meat, milk, wool and work.

Surplus pure bred are salable at satisfactory prices in a majority of cases.

The progeny of pure bred sires has practically a 50 per cent greater sale value than the progeny of sires not pure bred. Better breeding, combined with proper and adequate feed, practically prevents runty live stock, of which the average farm has about 7 per cent.

Well-bred beef cattle, sheep and swine yield from 5 to 10 per cent more meat than inferior animals of the same live weight, and the meat is of better quality.

Profitable Use of Feed.

Improved live stock makes about 40 per cent more profitable use of feed than common stock. Pure bred excel grades, and grades excel scrubs. The use of pure bred sires leads to the ownership and use of fully six times as many pure bred female animals.

The foregoing brief conclusions are based on thorough analyses of large numbers of reports. The movement for better live stock which the department is conducting, in co-operation with the various states, has resulted in a gradually increasing recognition of the many points in which well-bred animals are superior to ordinary live stock. The study and control of animal breeding are among the most important and practical means of making live stock enterprises more profitable to farmers and also of improving the quality of meats.

Barley Is Superior for Fattening Farm Stock

Barley is unsurpassed as a nurse crop for clovers and alfalfa; it is a better feed than oats for fattening hogs, sheep and cattle; and since it is one of the best substitutes for corn, its early maturing quality will make this grain doubly valuable in a short-corn summer. The early maturing quality of barley gives it a distinct advantage over oats. This is especially true during the present corn shortage. The grain can be threshed about the same time as wheat, eliminating two threshings and making available a midsummer grain feed. Barley is decidedly superior to late oats as a nurse crop for clovers and alfalfa because it shades the ground less, and, by its early maturity, leaves more moisture in the ground for the young clover.

Chiefly because of its lower percentage of hulls, barley is a better feed than oats for fattening hogs, sheep and cattle. Barley contains more carbohydrates than either wheat or oats, has less fat, and contains only one-third as much crude fiber as oats.

Most Effective Method for Treating Potatoes

The most effective method of treating potatoes for scab is to dip the potatoes in a solution of corrosive sublimate, prepared by dissolving 4 ounces of corrosive sublimate in several quarts of hot water in a 50-gallon barrel and adding enough cold water to make 30 gallons. Place the potatoes in this solution and allow to stand for one hour. Potatoes may remain in the sack when being dipped, but it is better to place them in loose or in a crate that does not absorb the solution. After every six bushels about one-quarter ounce of corrosive sublimate should be added to the solution to preserve its strength. Potatoes should be clean and all rotten or damaged potatoes removed before dipping. Only earthenware or wooden containers should be used for the solution as it corrodes metals.

Utilizing Wheat Straw

Wheat straw can be used as feed, bedding, and as a fertilizing material for the soil. It will be of greatest value when used as feed and bedding and returned to the soil as manure. Fresh straw may be used as a fertilizer when it can be plowed under or worked into the soil in small amounts. It should be used sparingly as a top dressing on growing wheat except on areas that are inclined to blow.

Purest Grade of Clover Seed Always Cheapest

The best grade of clover seed sells at a higher rate than the poorer grades, but one pays less for each pound of viable seed when the best is bought.

"The term, a bushel of clover seed, is very indefinite unless you know the percentage of purity, the percentage of germination, the kind of weed seeds it contains and where it was grown," says E. C. Blair, extension agronomist for the North Carolina State College of Agriculture. "The purest sample of clover seed ever grown is no good if it will not germinate; seed that will germinate 100 per cent are costly if they are trashy and full of troublesome weed seeds. Field tests have shown that clover seed grown in the United States will survive our winters better than those grown in foreign countries."

Mr. Blair states that the North Carolina seed laboratory has set 98 per cent as the standard of purity and 90 per cent as the standard of germination. Samples received at this laboratory last year ranged from 45.80 to 99.04 per cent in purity, and from 6 to 98 per cent in germination. "A comparison was recently made of six good samples of American-grown red clover seed," says Mr. Blair. "The results of the tests showed that the best seed was the cheapest because the purchaser secured a larger number of viable seed for his money as compared to cheaper seeds which were low in germination, trashy and full of weed seeds."

Diarrhea Dreaded Disease in Chicks
Prevention Is Best Control Measure, Says Expert.
White diarrhea or the bacillus type is a disease that is dreaded in the poultry business. With the baby chick season here it is a good idea to look the breed flock over before hatching from them. This form of diarrhea is inherited from the hen. When it appears, separate the affected chicks from the flock and feed plenty of sour milk, as this is one of the best preventives for this disease. There are also preparations on the market that will do good, but remember that in poultry disease work, it's always better to prevent a disease than cure it, advises D. H. Hall, extension poultry husbandman, at Clemson college.
Another form of diarrhea is caused by allowing the brooder to become too hot, thus overheating the baby chicks. Diarrhea is followed by a pasting up of the vent and the baby chicks becoming weak, lifeless, droopy and finally death occurs.
Chilling will also cause baby chicks to have this trouble. If the brooder stove is allowed to go out and remain out for any length of time, the result is usually bad cases of diarrhea and heavy losses.
Overfeeding is the most frequent cause of diarrhea. The baby chicks do not need food until after 56 or 72 hours have passed. The first feed should be soft and easily digested. Feed small amounts but feed often. It is always better to underfeed rather than overfeed.
We can eliminate these troubles which cause a loss of 50 per cent of our baby chicks by adhering to the following rules:
Breed from fowls free from white diarrhea.
Keep brooders at right temperature at all times.
Give plenty of buttermilk each day.
Do not overfeed baby chicks.

Tuberculosis Being Eradicated Rapidly
Country-Wide Plan Known as "Area Work."
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Eradicating bovine tuberculosis not only from individual herds but also from entire counties, is gaining favor among live stock owners, according to a recent announcement of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The country-wide plan is known as "area work." On January 1 of this year, approximately 485 counties in the United States were engaged in some form of area work. Of these, 55 counties had reduced the extent of infection to less than half of 1 per cent, and are officially designated as modified accredited areas. One hundred others had completed one or more tests of all the cattle within their borders and were approaching the disease-free goal.
These 485 counties constitute about 10 per cent of the total number of counties in the country and contain nearly eleven million cattle. The activity is going on in all portions of the country. Following the suppression of foot-and-mouth disease in California, that state, along with the others, is now showing renewed activity in banishing tuberculosis.
The cattle in Freborn county, Minnesota, were tested under severe difficulties because of below-zero weather. Forty-two veterinarians started work December 8, using teams instead of automobiles. They tested more than 50,000 cattle on 900 farms, finding about 3,100 reactors. Federal officials have classed this activity as "a good piece of work."
Good Summer Pasture
Sow oats or barley, or a good mixture of the two, and sow with it some good grass mixture as timothy and alsike. If sweet clover does well, that would be good to sow either with the other grass seeds or alone with the grain. The oats and barley will furnish considerable feed early in the summer. The grass will, if the season is favorable, make considerable feed in the late summer and fall and should be ready to make good pasture next year.
A satisfactory ration for 1,000-pound steers consists of all the ground ear corn, silage, and hay they will eat, and 2.5 pounds of cottonseed meal per head per day.

Care for Sow and Litter
The sow and litter can be left in the small pen until the pigs are five to eight days old, after which both sow and pigs should get a little exercise. Care must be taken not to feed the sow too heavily on rich feed or she will produce so much milk that the pigs will very quickly become too fat and some will be lost simply because they get too fat. Once a litter of pigs has reached two weeks of age, losses should be very small.

Healthy Hogs Best
"The three first principles for healthy hogs are segregation, sanitation and vaccination," said L. E. Drury, a farmer of Morgan county, Ill., who markets about 1,000 head yearly. Cleanliness, sunlight, and plenty of commercial disinfectant he cited as necessities in sanitation. He regards it of importance to have the farm fenced in small well-watered fields with portable hog houses, and also to keep the herd assorted according to size.
