The "Swan Song" of the Juliaetta Cherry Grower's Association was sung last Friday at a very lively meeting held at the Bank of Juliaetta.

The price received for this year's crop netted the growers only about 2 cents per lb. The charge was made that other buyers were here and offered from 10c to 12c f.o.b. packing house, but the association had entered into a contract with W. A. White & Son and could not sell in the open market.

We have heard a number of expressions of dissatisfaction of entering into a contract with any one firm for the handling of the entire crop. The plan that is being talked now, is for the association to pack the cherries and let the different dealers bid on the car load, at a cash price f.o.b. packing house.—Julietta Record.

While the threshing season has only just begun, considerable grain is being brought to the warehouses, the major portion of which is in bulk. The prevailing variety received so far at the warehouses is of the red variety, Red Bobs, Red Russian, and Jenkins Club, with the quality reported as good and the yield running from 25 to 45 bushels per acre.

The fall grain yield is reported as good while that of the spring grain is not so good, presumably having been cut short by the extremely hot weather. All fall grain is reported as having very little smut.

The barley yield is splendid, averaging around 75 to 80 bushels.

All fall grain is reported as having very little smut.—Genee News.

The first threshing machine fire of the season in this district occurred Friday evening, just before quitting time, on the Byrns farm, four miles southeast of Moscow, which is operated by Harry Forrest. The separator belonging to the William Butler outfit was completely destroyed.

The fire was due to a smut explosion, according to Mr. Butler. In addition to the separator, 100 sacks of wheat and 50 sacks of oats were destroyed. The separator was valued at about $1000 and no insurance was carried. Mr. Butler, who is a veteran threshing machine man of the district, states that he will not buy another machine and is through with the game. He lost an outfit by fire two years ago. He had threshed less than two days this season when the fire occurred.

The machine was threshing oats when the fire occurred. Mr. Butler states that the oats were running about 60 bushels to the acre.—Star-Mirror.

For a million years, more or less the theory has been that it is not necessary to be educated to be a farmer. To a certain extent this has been true enough. There are a good many branches in college courses that young men who expect to be farmers do not need to learn, for they would be of no use to them. But there is a college course—sound, practical—that every prospective farmer would find invaluable. It isn't Latin, painting or music, though he can get these if he wants them. A knowledge of soils, courses in animal husbandry, poultry keeping, dairying and the like, constitute the farmer's education. The time is at hand right now when the young farmer who expects to succeed in his business must know these things to begin with. There should be as great a percentage of educated farmers—educated in their particular line

Opens New Store

The new furniture store opened up in the Fraternal Temple building this week. The firm's announcement is in a display space in this issue of the Gazette. The new store will handle house furnishing, new and second hand. Shipments of new furniture have been unloaded here for the past week or ten days and Mr. Pettet, the proprietor, is getting his stock arranged ready for business.

In addition to the regular furniture line he will carry a stock of sewing machine repairs and supplies. Mr. Pettet has had a wide experience in this line of work and can give expert service.

Raising Beans Near Anatone

Former Potlatch Resident is Experimenting

The upper levels of the Anatone and Cloverland ridges are capable of growing as good beans as are produced anywhere in central Idaho or on the Potlatch ridge, in the opinion of William Hollingsworth, who farms 1600 acres near Anatone and has in 90 acres of beans this year as a trial, says the Tribune.

Mr. Hollingsworth raised beans for 15 years on Potlatch ridge, and he says he knows that this crop, which is such a good one to produce on summerfallow can be successfully and profitably grown on any of the Asotin county ridges where the soil is heavy. In discussing his crop, Mr. Hollingsworth said:

"We had never thought much about planting beans on the Anatone ridge until this year and we decided to give them a try and see how they would work out on the summerfallow. We planted some early ones and some late ones. The early beans were caught in the heat, just like they have been in other bean areas of this region, but the late ones are fine. We only cultivated our beans once, but they certainly have produced a crop. If we had taken care of them like they do on Potlatch ridge, I am sure our crop would have been better than any raised in central Idaho this year."

Found 16 to 1 Dollar

W. T. Wright dug up an interesting souvenir in his yard in Kendrick. It was an old "dollar" made for use in the campaign when Bryan was advocating his famous 16 to 1 idea. The dollar is 3 1-2 inches in diameter. On one side it has a Liberty head and the words "Bryan's Money" and is dated 1896. On the other side is the spread eagle and the words "Bryan's idea of Coinage." Mr. Wright says he can remember when these big dollars were quite plentiful during the campaign.

Gets Big Pea Yield

An average of 14 1-4 sacks of peas to the acre for two patches is reported by Clifford Ott, a farmer living just south of Moscow, says the Star-Mirror. One patch, containing 38 acres, yielded 15 1-5 sacks and the other patch, 37 acres, averaged 13 1-2 sacks. This is one of the largest yields reported around here for some time. Mr. Ott, it is understood, received 3 1-2 cents a pound for his crop.

The MacPhersons wrote from New Westminster, B. C., that they are having a fine trip, no car trouble. They planned to leave for Portland Monday and will return home over the Columbia highway.

Kendrick Mill Is Destroyed

Three Residences Were Also Burned to Ground

Two hours after the Gazette went to press last week a fire started in the grain elevator of the Vellmer-Clearwater Co. The blaze was first seen in the cupola and the fire alarm soon had the citizens of the town on the scene of action. Little could be done to hold the fire in check as it was beyond the reach of the fire hose. It soon spread to the mill, a frame structure, which developed a furnace-like heat that made it difficult to save nearby residences.

By extremely good work on the part of a volunteer fire company the residences of James Emmett, John Waide and Jess Collins were saved and it was thought the flames were under control, but the barn at the rear of the Frank Byrne property started to burn from the heat of the mill fire. This fire spread to the Byrne residence, the blaze starting in the attic from a hole burned in the roof. The Ed Long and R. D. Newton houses were so close that it was impossible to save them.

During the fire there were four big hoses in use—one at the mill, one at the Rockdale Warehouse and two at the city fire hydrants. The mains were not large enough to supply the four hoses and the pressure was cut down accordingly. There was considerable uneasiness felt that the supply of water would be exhausted but after the fire, measurements at the reservoir showed there would have been sufficient water to supply the hoses until morning.

Most of the property destroyed was fairly well covered by insurance. The Vellmer-Clearwater carried $50,000 on its mill, warehouse and elevators. The mill and warehouse were a complete loss while the concrete elevator tubes were damaged to some extent. The Frank Byrne residence carried $2,000, which covered the loss. R. D. Newton carried $1,500 on his residence and garage. Ed Long carried the same amount on his residence and barn. The three residences with the barns and other buildings on the lots were entirely destroyed by the fire. All the furniture was moved out of the houses with very little damage to it. A number of citizens living near the fire area moved their household goods out of the danger zone until after the fire was out.

People from Juliaetta, Leland, Southwick, Cameron, and all parts of the Potlatch country came in and assisted greatly to get the fire under control and move house furnishings from the residences. The Moscow fire department also sent a chemical engine under its own power and Carl Smith, Moscow fire chief came down by auto to render assistance. They made the trip in 52 minutes with the fire truck. Lewiston had a chemical engine mounted on a flat car ready to send here in case of necessity. The citizens of Kendrick greatly appreciate this assistance from the neighboring towns and from the people of the Potlatch country.

No definite decision has been reached by the property owners who suffered a loss by the fire, as to whether they will rebuild or not. Mr. Long will very likely build but Mr. Newton is undecided, while Mr. Byrne will probably not build. E. W. Eaves stated the company might put in a small flour and feed mill and new warehouse, but he made no definite statement. The cause of the fire Mr. Eaves attributed to either a short circuit in the electric wiring or to a hot box in the elevator machinery, which may have started a smoldering fire that later flared up and set the elevator on fire. The elevator had not been used since 2 o'clock in the afternoon nearly 7 hours

Growers Thresh Good Wheat

1850 Sacks Produced on 90 Acres

Wheat yields in the Potlatch country are averaging better than expected, but there is a big variation in the yields secured. The heavy returns are all made on land that has recently been growing alfalfa or clover.

Carroll Cox, who is renting one of Martin Thomas' ranches, has a splendid crop which was threshed last week. On 90 acres of land he got 1850 sacks that weighed 137 pounds to the sack, or nearly 47 bushels to the acre. The remarkable feature of this yield is that it is the third successive grain crop raised on the land since it was in alfalfa. It rather proves that the Potlatch country is as good as it ever was and that with proper farming methods bumper crops may be produced here. Mr. Cox has not threshed his spring grain but it is said that he and his father, Wm. Cox, both have spring wheat that will yield over 30 bushels to the acre.

Jim Cain of American ridge threshed his grain this week. It is reported that he had both winter and spring wheat that returned a yield of close to 40 bushels to the acre.

In the Cameron section the best crop so far heard from is that of John Schwarz, who had a 12 acre field of winter wheat that made 44 bushels to the acre. This was on old clover ground.

The past few years have demonstrated beyond question that the only hope in the future for the wheat grower is for him to alternate his grain crops with alfalfa or clover. Constant cropping with wheat and beans has come to be a thing of the past for the man who expects to raise a profitable crop.

Agriculture Coming Back

Agriculture is coming back fast. College men will make money in farming in Idaho and will furnish the leaders for Idaho agriculture. The public work by the colleges, experiment stations, extension divisions, the federal government, state departments of agriculture, Smith-Hughes high schools, and other public and private agencies will demand a large number of trained men.

The lessened enrollment in agriculture and great increases in other divisions of colleges and universities forecasts a shortage of trained leaders for agriculture enterprises. Now is the time, therefore, to choose agriculture as a major. The College of Agriculture of the University of Idaho is organized to train students in agriculture and related sciences, and agriculture as a business. The College ranks with the strongest agriculture college of America. It has well equipped laboratories, famous livestock herds and all the facilities of a great university are open to students of the College of Agriculture.

The next term opens September 20. The illustrated catalog will be sent upon request to the Dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Idaho, Moscow.

SOME "FEAT"

Colored Lady—"Fo' de lawd sake. Mistah Conductor, dat ain't no valise. Dat's mah foot."

before the fire was discovered. There was a comparatively small amount of grain in the warehouse and elevator and this was nearly all covered by insurance. If the fire had occurred two weeks later, after the grain hauling was well along, the farmers in the surrounding country would have suffered a heavy loss.

Install Big Phone Line

Work was recently started by the Pacific Telegraph & Telephone company on long distance wire construction and improvements on the Pullman-Kendrick toll lead between Pullman and Troy.

From Pullman to Moscow, a distance of approximately ten miles, an additional copper wire circuit will be placed, while between Pullman and Troy, for a distance of 18 miles, the pole line will be strengthened by resetting reinforcing and replacing defective poles.

This project will represent an expenditure of about $10,000. It involves the placing of 19 miles of copper wire and 214 poles and the resetting of 151 poles.

Make Drive Against T. B.

Will Eradicate Disease From Dairy Herds

Boise—Another intensive area drive for the eradication of tuberculosis in the livestock of the state will be commenced August 17, this time in three northern counties, according to Dr. W. A. Sullivan, federal veterinarian in charge of the department of agriculture bureau of animal industry. The state and federal agricultural departments will conduct the tuberculin tests in Kootenai, Bonner and Boundary counties.

In each of these counties, the commissioners have taken action which guarantees the tuberculin testing at no cost to the farmers. Through R. Neil Irving, former Idaho grid star, now Kootenai county agent, a series of lectures has been arranged for Dr. Sullivan. These along with several motion picture reels will show the effects of tuberculosis on the animal and the process of eradication, Doctor Sullivan said Saturday. When testing in the three northern counties is finished that section will become a modified accredited area, if the plans of the testers are carried through.

Doctor Sullivan also held a conference in Spokane with Walter Roberts, president of the Spokane Stockyards association, and will take up with him the advisability of offering premiums for livestock from the accredited area. This practice is common in the east and mid-west, especially at Omaha and Chicago markets. The usual premium for tuberculin tested stock is up to ten cents per hundred.

Death of Mrs. Lemons

The funeral of Mrs. S. J. Lemons, mother of Mrs. M. V. Thomas, will be held at Clarkston today at 2 o'clock. She died in a Moscow hospital Wednesday after a brief illness, at the age of 80 years. Her husband preceded her in death about 5 years ago. Two of her sisters, living in Moscow, are both very ill. One is past 80 years and the other nearly 100 years old. Mrs. Lemons home was in Lewiston Orchards.

John Lind Injured

John Lind, a resident of the Lenore community, suffered a fractured rib and a punctured lung the first of the week. He was engineer on the Cox thresher on American ridge when the accident occurred. While attempting to stop a runaway team he was run over by the team and wagon and quite seriously injured. He was taken to a Lewiston hospital where it is reported his condition is considered favorable.

Bought Ford Trucks

The Kendrick Garage delivered Ford trucks Tuesday to Jake Beriman and E. C. Gertje, both of the Southwick community. The trucks were put into immediate use to haul off the grain crops of Messrs. Beriman and Gertje.

Kendrick News 20 Years Ago

Items Taken from Gazette Published in 1905

Prof. Barackman leaves for Portland where he will enjoy the sights prior to opening school for the winter term.

Under the direction of street commissioner C. Hamlin the town jail is being completed. It is in the rear of the hall and is a decidedly strong building, fitted with the most modern improvements.

C. G. Compton received last Friday two thoroughbred Duroc hogs. Mr. Compton has made a specialty of this breed and keeps the finest of registered stock.

Prof. Barackman has completed the rearrangement of Dr. Moser's home and office, which will equip the latter with comfortable office quarters for this winter.

Mr. Smith of the Spokesman-Review paid H. P. Hull and wife a brief visit Sunday, returning with his daughter on the Owl train.

So far this season there has been a decided scarcity of fresh fruits and vegetables.

T. B. West still has a force of men on the North Fork and at Swamp creek fighting forest fires.

Hill & Stanton have stored in their livery barn something over 130 tons of good hay.

It seems as though the average of 30 bushels predicted by the Gazette, will be very close to the mark for the Potlatch section. We understand the Byrne brothers are harvesting a thousand acres which will run 30 bushels and possibly better.

While there are some fields of spring grain as low as 18 bushels to the acre, the fall sown wheat is yielding heavy returns.

S. A. Sutton left yesterday on a six weeks' business trip to the East. While absent Mr. Sutton will visit his former home at Grainfields and it is more than likely will induce several to invest in this section. Time and observation has more than convinced him that this country can not be equalled for climate and crops and he is going to tell the same to his eastern friends.

Active work has been prosecuted the past week on the various shacks and frames fronting Main Street and the result is a much improved appearance of the town. Shanty town has practically disappeared.

R. F. Bigham announces that after the first of September he will no longer handle the dairy business and to this end has advertised the sale of his milk cows, which will occur September 4th at the home farm on American ridge.

There are eight threshing machines on the Potlatch, three on American ridge, four on Big Bear ridge and two on Little Bear ridge, all running as steadily as possible. About all of the farmers are interchanging work, shocking, stacking and heading for each other, that the grain may be safely sacked and covered ere rain falls.

Taking Up Mill Options

The Clearwater Timber Co. and the Inland Light & Power Co. announced the first of the week that it was their intention to take up the options secured for the Lewiston dam and mill sites, at once and to proceed with actual construction work as rapidly as possible. The people of Lewiston are planning a jubilee to be held there in the near future to celebrate the big event.

Bees in School House

A swarm of bees made their headquarters under the floor of the balcony of the school house this summer. Ed Long and Joe Gardner robbed the bees Wednesday evening and disbanded the swarm so that the children would not get stung when school starts in the fall.

We ran across a comment on Chautauquas that rather coincides with ye editors ideas. From expressions heard here this summer it is also in line with opinions held by nearly every business man in Kendrick. This is it "The Chautauqua belongs to a hick picnic grove. The place for a successful Chautauqua is where there is nothing else going on."

Recently compiled statistics show that the total number of students enrolled in the 48 Laid-Grant Colleges of the United States has increased 112 percent during the past 10 years. During the same period the number of students enrolled in agricultural courses in the same colleges decreased 3 per cent. The decrease in agricultural college enrollments in recent years apparently has reflected the economic depression which agriculture has experienced.

At a recent session of the Idaho Bankers Association formal action was taken to discourage the granting of additional bank charters in communities which already have sufficient banking facilities. The association adopted resolutions setting forth the facts relative to the consequences of over-crowding the banking business. The following paragraph was taken from the resolutions:

"A bank to be a strong institution and to best serve the community must be one with a reasonable earning capacity. All experience shows that fewer and stronger banks better serve the community." The resolutions state that bank failures would have been few in number had it not been for over-competition leading to speculative and unsound banking practices.

Without consulting any of the authorities on etiquette, we will answer the question, "When is the proper time for a man to lift or remove his hat?" for the benefit of our readers. At the following times and on the following occasions, respectfully, the hat should be removed or lifted as the circumstances in-brow: when taking a bath; when eating; when going to bed; when taking up a collection; when having the hair trimmed; when being shampooed, and when standing on the head.—Dodo.

Two on the Scotts

Now that Mr. MacPherson is away on his vacation it is safe to tell a couple on the Scotch. The last one we heard is about a Scotchman who went out to play golf. "Are you a good caddy?" he asked a boy. The boy said he was. Can you find balls?" he then asked. "You bet I can," replied the caddy. "Then go out and find a couple and we'll start the game," said the Scotchman.

A Scotchman was found dead in front of a one-cent punching machine. The coroner found that death had been caused by over-exertion. Investigation disclosed a sign reading: "Your penny returned if you hit hard enough."

A man was mad because his wife hadn't mended his pants. "I was sick," said the wife. "Which is more important—your wife or your pants?" "Well, there are a few places I could go without my wife," said hubby.

Newspaper reports are sometimes slightly exaggerated. Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Weeks of Moscow, had a narrow escape from serious injury when the car they were driving turned turtle on the fix ridge grade last Sunday evening. Absent Minded

An absent-minded professor from Harvard stood at New York waving a farewell to his friends while the ship he supposed he was aboard sailed majestically, leaving him on the pier. Which is the first authentic appearance of the absent-minded professor since the one at Seattle, last winter, laid the soiled clothing carefully in the cradle and tossed the baby down the laundry chute.—Tacoma New Herald.
