Last Thursday evening about S o'clock the fire department was called to the Methodist parsonage where a blaze was coming out through the upstairs windows and was just breaking through the roof. Everything was hurridly removed from the rooms down stairs but the furniture, books, clothing etc., in the upper rooms was badly damaged by smoke and water. The Fire boys soon had control of the situation but the damage to ter, Mrs. Benjamin, returning home the upper part of the building is | Monday. quite extensive. It is persumed the fire originated from defective wiring as the lights had been on the blink for some time. It is understood there was some insurance on the building. The furniture was carried to the basement of the church where Rev Hodnett and family are comfortably located until such time as the parsonage can be repaired—Troy

ARREST THAT MAN

The law gives a man considerable liberty in regard to his acts that concern only himself. When his acts infringe on his fellow man, then the cops come around. But sometimes one might argue that the law ought to step in and block a man when he is blocking his own progress.

There was a soap a few years ago—we can only speak of it as a past tense soap now-that was a household word. It's name was frequently used facetiously with a good morning greeting. It's off the market now. The business of its makers, tremendous as it was, is gone! They stopped advertising. Another soap slipped into its place in the public eye and in the public hand. Advertising did it!

These are solid facts. You strike something hard. The business man may cut out his advertising, and figure that he's cutting down his "over-head," but he is really cutting the ground from under his own feet. He's going off the market. He ought to arrest himself if there is nobody else that wil do it.-Garfield Enterprise.

profit be increased? To know the latter, one must find out the former; and to find out about profits requires the keeping of books. It is not necessary for a farmer to have a course in bookkeeping. Almost every agricultural college in the country has issued a simplified farm accounting book which it sells at cost, and only a few minutes are required each day to jot down the day's happenings. Accounts Increase Profits

Instances number a thousandfold where farmers have profited by knowing their business. Accounts kept by nineteen farmers in Illinois led them to improve the organization and operation of their farms in ways that add ed approximately $650 to their aver-

the first year he kept books that crops fed to livestock brought more money than when sold outright. His figures showed that his cows were poor; compared with other farms in the state, he found the number of acres cultivated per man on his farm, as well as the number of acres per horse, were below average. He rented more land and replanned his fields, so that the crop areas per man and horse were increased. He sold some of his scrubs and bought good cows. The second year his income from the farm, after paying all expenses and interest on the money invested, had

Costs Can Be Regulated "I have discovered," says one farm bookkeeper, "that the kind of man you have on a job, as well as the particular team, often makes quite a variation in the cost of performing certain tasks. I have learned from the pages of my book that if I could have increased the yield of my wheat field by two bushels and my corn by five bushels I would have realized a substantial profit from them." While the farmers may not be able to fix prices on their products, they do have a voice in determining the costs of production. To reduce this cost they must first know what the costs are.

The number of farmers who are keeping books on their business has increased remarkably in recent years. but the number of businesslike farmers is woefully small when listed alongside the sum total of the farmers in the country.

Inventory is indispensable The basis of any system of farm accounting is the annual property list or inventory. It is the starting point of the farm records. One must take into consideration decreases or increases in the value of all property owned to gauge the progress of the business. Lacking facts as to the value of his property, no business man can form an accurate estimate of how he stands financially. Increased cash may be due to property which was sold, or increased debts may be due to improvements made. If a farmer is falling behind, the inventory will emphasize this fact. Often when a man is discouraged making no progress, his inventories will tell him that he is better off than he thought.

At the end of each year a financial statement is drawn off. This is the farmer's rating and no farmer with a good financial statement need fear walking into a bank and asking for a

BANKERS HELP

A bank in Monrovia, Ind., tests seed corn for farmers. A basement room was fitted out last season for the purpose and 25,000 ears were tested for fifty-six farmers. One-fourth of the seed tested last year was unfit for seed. This year the percentage will run even higher. The work is done under the supervision of the highschool agricultural teacher. He reports that the community will have a surplus of seed corn this year.

The banks of Conway, Ark., have offered prizes for the most marketable sweet potatoes produced on one acre of land. A first prize of $150 is offered, along with three district prizes of $50 each. The county agent and the banks are working out the details.

Care for Cows Through

Dry Period Important Several weeks before the prospective mother cow's time comes for freshening, she should be "dried off."

This should be done for the reason that the cow is preparing for a hard ordeal and she needs and should have all her strength reserved for the event. She should not be required to divide her strength with the production of milk.

True it is that some cows are such persistent milkers that it is quite difficult to get them dry, but just as sure as water runs down hill they will not produce as much milk after freshening if they do not take a vacation from milk production previous to the arrival of the new-born calf.

One way to "dry up" a persistent milker is to skip one milking, then milk her dry next time, then skip two milkings, and milk her dry, then three. etc., until dry, meanwhile keep her off good pasture and feed her nothing but timothy hay, do not let any one handle her udder between milkings.

When the cow is dry she should be fed generous rations of bran and oats, the oats may be fed whole or ground. .. The bran contains minerals and the oats provide strength. In winter on dry feed the cow should have my business making? How can that offment included in the ration.

Planning Ahead

On The Money Question

Will you need money five years from now? Your opportunity to invest advantageously, perhaps to buy an interest in your employer's business, may come at any time.

You may have still other needs for money, five years hence. Sickness may come—unemployment—or the opportunity to make a substantial payment on your home. Your children may be bound for college— any number of things may bring about a need for money.

Old Ben Franklin once pointed out that if one would understand the value of money, he should try to borrow some. Why not start saving? To decide to save is a decision which is never regretted.

This bank will welcome your account, no matter how small. You may open an interest-bearing account with $1 or more. Make your decision today.

Have Vegetables in Winter by Storing

Possible to Keep All Roots in Fresh Condition.

Few people realize the number of vegetables that may be kept in the fresh state for winter use. The essential conditions for the storage of all root crops including such vegetables as potatoes, beets, carrots, horse radish, parsnip, winter radish rutabaga, salsify, turnip, kohlrabi and also cabbage, are that they be kept cool and moist, away from air currents. Storing should be done as late as possible, avoiding freezing. These conditions may be met in several ways. The simplest for home use where only a few of each are to be stored, is to place them in a box of moist sand or soil in layers and leave in a cool part of the cellar.

Where larger quantities are to be kept, they may be put in what is known as an out-of-door pit. Only whole specimens free from disease should be used. The method is as follows: The vegetables are placed in a conical pile on the surface of the ground in a well drained location. A covering of six to eight inches of straw or litter is then placed over them, and a covering of as much soil, commencing at the bottom and working toward the top. In severe climates a later covering of manure may be necessary as soon as the soil freezes. In this way, vegetables may be kept in perfect condition until well along in the spring .- J. J. Gardner. Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colorado.

Fall Plowing Best Plan

for Eradicating Garlic That the fall plowing or cultivation method of destroying wild garlic is successful in practically all cases in which the work is carefully done, was further indicated by a recent check-up among farmers who have practiced this method in Knox county, Indiana, according to a statement recently issued by A. A. Hansen of the Purdue university agricultural extension staff. J. B. McCarty started the method three years ago on a 22-acre field heavily infested with garlic. In spite of the fact that the work was seriously interrupted one season on account of weather conditions, most of, the garlic has been eradicated. Mc-Carty plowed the infested field during. the fall of 1921, plowing again the following spring. This was followed by corn and the fall plowing was continued during 1922. At present the field is in soy beans.

Nolan McClure succeeded in eradicating a bad stand of garlie by two years of fall and spring plowing, using cowpeas during the summer and rye in the fall. His results were exceptional since at least three years are usually required to destroy wild garile by this method. The cultivation method consists essentially of fall plowing during November in such a manner? as to turn the garlic plants completely upside down, followed by spring plowing and a cultivated crop such as corn, cowpeas, or soy heans, either in rows or broadcasted.

Feed Liberally to Get

if profit is expected from dairy cows," says R. W. Clark of the Colorado Agricultural college. "A large portion (50 to 75 per cent) of the food given a cow is required for maintenance, the remainder being required for the manufacture of milk. With a scant feeding, the whole umount given may be used for maintenance, leaving nothing for milk production.

offin feeding for large returns, a variely of foods gives better results than a single diet. Such a ration is better digested, relished longer, and is more likely to meet all the requirement's of the body. Large consumption of food is important and this will be accomplished with a mixed diet. If certain needs of the body are not supplied, the animals will develop a deprived appelite, leading them to eat bones, leather, paper and similar materials to satisfy the craving which arises because the ration is lacking in some particular nutrient."

Poultry records pay. So do dairy records.

Keep watch of your bees to prevent

Save good small grain seed for fall planting and store carefully.

Oyster shell is good, but it won't take the place of grit for hens.

Harvest lima beans as fast as they nature and save for winter use.

Do not cut corn roots; cultivate shallow, and one middle at the time. Cows cannot give powdered milk;

better let them have plenty of water. Dust for Mexican bean beetle where it is injurious-calcium arsenate one pound, hydrated line nine pounds.

A persistently broody hen ought to mean a culled hen-unless you like to feed boarders that don't pay their card. "Loufers" is a better term.

CAPONS COMPARED WITH MALE BIRDS

That caponizing pays but that capons do not gain anywhere near what is claimed by some, is indicated by the results of an experiment conducted by the poultry department at South Dakota State college.

According to these claims, the capon should gain twice as much as a rooster of the same age and breed. but a 10 per cent gain is about the best to expect. The lighter breeds like Leghorns, do not really gain at all. Since chickens usually hatch late on the farm and since there is usually plenty of feed, caponizing will probably pay the farmer. The birds should be caponized when developing wattles and combs, or better when they weigh about two pounds in the American or medium-weight breeds. The capons can be shipped in barrels holding 150 to 200 pounds, during January and February, and bring a good price.

Two weeks before marketing, the capons should be put in close quarters and fed on fattening rations, such as milk, corn meal, bran, tankage, etc. Any combination like corn and milk is very good. During the time previous to these two weeks, the capons can be fed on corn and can be allowed to run with the pullets,

In dressing capons for market, only the soft feathers need be removed. The coarse feathers on the wings, tail, etc., may be left on. The capons must be dry-picked, if a good price is ex-

As capon feathers, especially white ones, are in demand and will bring from 85 to 90 cents per pound, the farmer can afford to keep them clean and dry and the colors unmixed.

To have capons mother little chicks does not pay. This means that capons have to be kept over winter. Three or four dollars are thus invested in them, whereas an old hen would do

Must Feed Hens Mash to Fill Summer Egg Basket

"Hens will not lay eggs in the summer unless they are supplied with all the mash they can eat," says Duncan H. Reid of the poultry department, University of Wisconsin. During the spring months, the wet ground and grass are full of insects which provide plenty of animal feed for the hens, but when summer comes the insects disappear and this lack of animal food must be supplied through the

A good ration recommended by Mr. Reid consists of 100 pounds of ground orn 100 nounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of wheat bran, 100 pounds of wheat middlings, 100 pounds of meat scrap, and 5 pounds of salt. When milk is fed with the mash, the meat scrap should be cut in half. "A hen should receive two ounces of grain a day and all the mash she can eat," says Mr. Reid. "The grain ration should consist of corn supplemented with 25 per cent wheat and oats. This is contrary to the general telief that corn furnishes too much heat. Tests have shown that the best results are obtained when this ration is used. The grain should be fed a little in the morning and heavy at night. The mash should be changed at least once a week. A lack of oyster shell during the summer months will cut egg production in half. Green feed, such as clover, when mixed with the much, has a decided advantage even if the green feed is growing in the yard."

Electrical Discharges

Cause Souring of Milk?

Do you believe that thunderstorms cause milk to sour? It is generally believed they do. The souring of the milk is generally attributed to the electrical action between clouds, which is responsible for the lightning associated with thunderstorms. There is no relationship between these electrical discharges, and the souring of milk. Some authorities report that electricity will destroy bacteria or retard their growth. In such cases electrical action would cause the milk to keep longer.

Souring of milk is caused by a growth of bacteria which feed upon the milk sugar and convert it into an acid when the milk is held at a warm temperature. The acid sours the milk. It is believed that the temperature conditions immediately preceding a thunderstorm cause the souring of milk. Thunderstorms usually follow a period of hot, humid wentlier. The heat and humidity cause the refrigerators, cellars and cooling tanks to warm up. The milk is also warmed up, stimulating a rapid growth of bacteria, which really causes the milk to sour.-E. H. Parfitt, Purdue University.

Water for Calves

The importance of watering calves is emphasized by a recent test. Two lots of calves were fed liberal allowances of skim milk, clover hay and the grain mixture of corn, oats, bran and oil meal. One lot was given all the water it would drink twice daily, while the other had no water. The calves given the additional water gained at the rate of 1.86 pounds per head daily. while those given no extra gained but 1.32 pounds daily.

United Doctors

The Doctor who has charge of the State of Washington

is . A SPECIALIST in Chronic Diseases and Clinical Medicine Will be at

Davenport Hotel, Spokane WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY FRIDAY

SEPT. 16, 17, 18

Palouse Hotel. Palouse SATURDAY, SEPT. 19

Office hours 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

No Charge for Consultation

The doctor is a graduate in medicine and surgery, licensed in the State of Washington. He visits professionally the important towns and cities, and offers free consultation to all, except the expense of treatment when desired.

He treats Chronic Diseases of long standing and has to his credit many wonderful results in catarrh, ulcers of the stomach, diseases of gall bladder, bowels, blood and skin, nervous disorders and diseases of heart, kidney and bladder, bed wetting, rheumatism, sciatica, leg ulcers, varicose veins, rectal ailments and chronic constipation. If you have been ill for any length of time and do not get better, call on the doctor, as improper measures rather than disease are often the cause of your long standing illness. Special attention is given to each case, and an earnest effort made to attain the best possible results. Remember above dates and that the doctor specializes in Chronic Diseases.

The Most Thrilling Railroad Picture Ever Made

SEE The crash of giant locomotives, the hurtling thru space of an entire train which crashs thru a trestle hundreds of feet high, into a swirling, rushing flood below! The operator at the "Signal Tower" knew that the limited was doomed. He must save the lives of scores— Yet his wife's honor was that very moment at stake! Where did his duty lie? Could he leave his post to save his wife? Or should he attempt to save the helpless scores who were speeding through the night in the doomed passenger train? There is the most beautiful love story connected with this picture that you ever witnessed in any photo play.
