With better roads the community spirit of Kendrick will reach out and take in practically the entire Potlatch country, all of which is rightful Kendrick territory. The time is not far distant when all Potlatchers will look upon Kendrick as their home town.

Out here in the west there are still found great ranches. A rancher was asked where he lived. In Desert county, was the reply. Where's that? In the northeast corner of grandma's pasture, he said.

Sometimes it happens that the man who, in social life, would feel badly for having committed a social blunder against his business friends, feels little or no compunction in turning down the same man in a business deal even where no odds exist. Give the home merchant the first chance to bid for your purchases. A safe rule is, if the home merchant hasn't got it he will order it for you. Give him something to work for, and he will take pride not only in duplicating but in bettering the price of the foreign trader. Remember this: If you trade in the other fellow's home town, and the other fellow trades in his home town, after a while you won't have any home town.—Grangeville Press.

Statistics show that in the United States men who retire from active business, especially farmers, do not live an average of two years after ceasing work. Work is necessary to retain interest in life.

A wise old bird has said that it is a lucky man whose wife thinks as much of him as he thinks of himself.

You can't take much stock in a woman who cuts a pie in eight pieces. This type seldom marries.

A "go-getter" these days is an auto driver out of gas and two miles from a filling station.

Build Up the Home Town

Surely loyal home boosters who realize the necessity of supporting schools and other community institutions will not forget at once the importance of building up the home town and the state's taxable wealth. Surely if we observe the Home Products Week for six days and forget for the rest of the year, we have contributed little to our neighborhood and to ourselves. Our own selfish interests, if you look at it that way, demand our trading at home. Let's not Forget.

The local business men make churches, clubs, libraries and facturers possible. State university and other institutions possible. Let's make it possible for them to build pay-rolls, build taxable wealth and in so doing build Idaho.

The Idaho Products or Know Your Idaho Week has been most successful in all sections of the state. Commercial clubs, women's clubs, men's clubs, and the general public, consumers, retailers and manufacturers, have united to make the week really amount to something in popularizing Idaho grown and manufactured products. Exhibits, demonstrations, displays of all kinds and special inducements have featured the week along with home products banquets, addresses, mass meetings and renewed resolution to patronize the home merchant instead of the mail order houses. A number of communities are continuing through this week and have arranged a variety of methods to attract the attention of the consumer to the necessity of buying at home. Permanent Home Industries committees have been formed in many cities to keep up the work the year around.

Newspapers have been most helpful in this campaign of home buying and their good efforts will ever be found boosting for the betterment and the building of the home community. If merchants did not get their printing done last week in their own town there is still time to help the editor who works for them every day in the week. Let's not Forget!—Norman B. Adkison, Sec.-Mgr. Idaho Home Industries Association.

A Pretty Wedding

One of the prettiest fall weddings was solemnized at Cameron at the Carl Hartung home, Nov. 11 when Miss Bertha Hartung and Walter McCall were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Rein of Cameron, beneath a bower of evergreens and a huge wedding bell and before an improvised altar of burning cathedral candles, banked on either side with Myrtle and chrysanthemums.

The house was elaborately decorated in yellow and white, the color scheme, which was also carried out in the gowns and flowers of the bridesmaids. Seven little friends and relatives of the bride formed an isle of white streamers. The bridal party passed down this isle and through an arch to the altar, where the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was met by the groom. Mrs. E. A. Rein played Lohengren's wedding march and also "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms".

Miss Hannah Hartung and Clara Marquette of Lewiston were the maids of the bride. Walter and August Hartung, brothers of the bride, were the attendants to the groom.

Miss Hannah Hartung wore a gown of apricot flat crepe with a front tunic of euru lace and a large rose of apricot shades, on the shoulder. Miss Marquette wore a gown of a deeper shade of apricot in the same material and made on similar lines. The bride's gown was of moonglow satin made with flare set in panels and trimmed in roses of self material and ostrich. Her long tulle veil was held in place with a wreath of myrtle and pearls. She and her maids carried bouquets of huge chrysanthemums in yellow and white.

After the ceremony, which was held at high noon, an elaborate wedding feast was served to 82 guests. The tables were waited upon by the Misses Stella McClelland, Ruth Boemeke, Josie Wilkens and Bill Mielke and Herbert Wolf.

After a trip to Spokane and the coast the young couple will make their home on the McCall farm.

The entire community joins in wishing the popular pair a long and happy wedded life.

Illustrated Lecture

Rev. John W. Hoyt of Walla Walla will give an illustrated lecture on "Marcus Whitman and the Early Oregon Country", at 7:30 next Sunday evening, at the Presbyterian church. Everyone is cordially invited.

The girls giving the party were Edna and Jaunita Stanton, Alice Bell and Eleanore Her-They planned the entire program, entertainment, eats etc. All had a good time until ten o'clock when the guests departed.

Change in Cashiers

Mr. Anderson is a man of eight years executive experience in various lines of business. He has a wife and two children who will join him here later.

Mr. and Mrs. Pool have been here but a few months but they have made many warm friends in this community. They will probably locate in Illinois where Mr. Pool has a bank position.

School Notes

The high school assembly met on Tuesday afternoon to elect a yell leader and an assistant. Those nominated were: Harley Eichner, Donald Miller, Donald Brocke, Jerry Ingle and Minnie Blum. Donald Brocke received the most votes and Minnie Blum will be his assistant. Many new and enthusiastic yells have been given. A very interesting program is being planned for the game to be held in the gymnasium with Deary on Nov. 21.

Every noon after the roll has been taken one of the high school teachers reads from the Bible seventeen verses of scripture. The law was adopted by all schools in this state. The verses read are not to be asked about or discussed in any way by the students and teachers.

Armistice day was observed Wednesday by the whole school taking a holiday.

HOME ONLY A STATION

Times are sure changin'. Home used to be the place where folks ate meals, spent their evenings and raised a family. Now days home is the passenger station for the family automobiles and the place where a man goes on Sunday morning so's he can hear the sermon with his house slippers on.—Ames Abe.
