

IDAHO EDUCATION

This is "Education Week" all over the country. Emphasis is being laid upon the necessity of education and certain types of training. It is admitted that "book larnin'" alone may be dangerous education for it may not be practical and it forgets the necessity in a democracy of training the child for citizenship. In a government such as ours, where each child takes his place later in the processes of government and becomes a valuable cog in the machinery of government, it is very necessary that citizenship be one of the most important parts of every school curriculum.

Idaho spent a lot of money in education. We are all proud of the taxes we pay for training our boys and girls. Yet these boys and girls must be carefully trained to be able to return to the state, in some manner, citizenship which shall help rather than hinder the state. Trained citizens are an asset—untrained people are a liability. Loyal citizens are builders—unloyal are dynamiters. Therefore we must train in citizenship and its responsibilities as well as privileges.

This is a good week to talk about Idaho. Let's all sell Idaho to ourselves and then sell it to the world. The great state of practically untouched resources; its great agricultural wealth, timber, mines and livestock. Let's get educated about Idaho and its people. Let's know about its industries, its products and manufactured articles. Let's boost Idaho's industries by buying Idaho products. Let's Know Our Idaho and, Knowing—Let's Work for the Home Folks Awhile.

School Notes

The boys and girls basketball teams go to Troy today, (Friday) to play. The boys have a new line-up this year but are very strong. The girls team proves to be the best one the high school has known for a number of years.

On Saturday, November 21 the Kendrick high school basketball team plays Deary in the local gymnasium. This is the first game of the year, it being a double-header. The game starts at 7:30 sharp and the admission is 10c and 35c. Let's all come.

High School Jokes

"Hot Stuff," said Claude Cook as Sidney LaHatt hit him with a board.

Carl Sparber: "What is a boycott?"

Prof. Kerns: "A boycott is a new kind of a sleeping device."

Senior Motto: "Be sharp, be natural, but never be flat!"

"In one ear and out the other," said Bus Brown, as he poked a chissel through Art Wayland's head.

Carl: "The study of bugs is more interesting than sociology."

Prof. Kerns: "Again I like to hear pupils speak from knowledge. Anyone would rather study the things that he comes in contact with more."

For advice concerning the best make of hobnails to be used in skating on oiled floors, see Don Brocke.

Wanted: One quart of grey matter I don't care what it costs. Billy Ingle.

"Are you laughing at me demanded irate Prof. Strauch during physics class.

"No," came the answer in chorus.

"Well," insisted Mr. Strauch, "What else is there in the room to laugh at?"

Minnie Blum: "I want to be excused to get a haircut."

Prof. Strauch: "You can't get a haircut during school time."

Min: "Well it grew during school didn't it?"

(She got excused.)

Don Miller: "Say, Harley, why did you throw that rock into Jones' house last night for?"

Harley Eichner: "Oh, just for fun, did I hit Lizzie?"

Don Miller: "No, but you broke three of my fingers."

MASONIC PARTY

Kendrick Lodge No. 26, A. F. & A. M. gave a party to the members of the lodge and to the local chapter of the Eastern Star last night. A splendid banquet was served under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. N. Brocke. Dean Eldridge of the University of Idaho, delivered a very interesting address after which a very delightful entertainment was put on by Prof. and Mrs. Michaels, both of the U. of I. Mr. Michaels is a reader and vocalist while Mrs. Michaels is a beautiful dancer.

The party was a most enjoyable affair and was largely attended by members from Kendrick, Juliaetta, Troy and other points.

Mrs. JOSEPHINE BOWERS

The funeral of Mrs. Josephine Bowers, who died at Portland, November 13, 1925, was held at the Methodist church here, Wednesday of this week. Rev. Bell had charge of the services which took place at 2 o'clock with interment in the Kendrick cemetery.

Mrs. Bowers was the mother of Mrs. J. H. Bolon. She was born at Vancouver, Wash., August 1, 1852 and lived to the advanced age of 73 years. She is survived by eight children, three sons preceding her in death. The daughters are Mrs. J. H. Bolon of Lewiston, Mrs. Lawrence Ringel of Helix, Oregon, Mrs. Maud Larkin of Portland, Mrs. McLain of Spokane, and Mrs. Lola Woodman of Scotia, Wash. One son, Percy Bowers, lives at Spokane with his father, Samuel Bowers. The children were all present at the funeral. Twenty-nine grandchildren and thirty-six great grandchildren also survive her.

TWO SHOOTING MATCHES

The sportsmen of the Potlatch country should have a good opportunity next week to try their marksmanship. There will be two turkey shoots, one at Leland on Tuesday, Nov. 24, given by Oral Craig and I. C. McKay and the other at Kendrick on Wednesday, the 25th, which will be put on by Manly and Gentry.

DELIVER CRUSHED ROCK

E. M. Booth, who has the contract of furnishing 600 yards of crushed rock to the town of Kendrick delivered the first load Tuesday of this week. The rock will be put on four blocks of the alleys, which were graded last summer with the idea of preparing them for surfacing. The side streets at the Fraternal Temple and Kendrick State Bank will also be surfaced and the balance of the rock will be used for maintenance.

Mr. Booth has his crusher set below Juliaetta and will also supply the rock for surfacing the road from Arrow to the Latah county line.

In order to deliver the rock to Kendrick he is surfacing some of the worst spots of the short strip of road between Kendrick and Juliaetta, which is under the supervision of the county commissioners and still remains a dirt road.

RECEIVED BIG CHECK

Julius Giese, a prosperous farmer of Fix ridge, sold to the Vollmer Clearwater Co. at this place Tuesday, 4269 sacks of Jenkins Club wheat which netted him $11,117.23. Mr. Giese says there is nothing like having a few sacks of wheat to sell.

BIG SHOW TONIGHT

The movie fans will have the opportunity, tonight, of witnessing one of the greatest motion pictures that has ever been attempted in the history of the screen. "The Phantom of the Opera" which is to be shown at the New Kendrick Theatre tonight and Saturday, is said to be a marvelous production.

"Mr. Congo" Arrives in America

"Mr. Congo," the only gorilla in captivity in America, arrived in New York on the steamer Homeric with his captor and owner, Benjamin Burbridge of Jacksonville, Fla. He was caught in the Belgian Congo.

PROCLAMATION

In keeping with the proclamation by President Coolidge, proclaiming Thursday, November 26 Thanksgiving day, Governor C. C. Moore, in a proclamation issued from the capitol, urges the observance of the day by the people of the state of Idaho.

The governor's proclamation follows:

"Conforming to the proclamation issued by the president of the United States, designating a day for general and religious thanksgiving, and believing in the continuance of this time-honored custom instituted by our God-fearing forefathers, as Governor of Idaho I direct the consideration of our citizens to those blessings of peace and prosperity which as a state and as a nation we have enjoyed during the past year.

"At this Thanksgiving season the people of Idaho have great reason to be profoundly grateful. The state shows marked progress in all that tends to make a greater and better people.

"There is a spirit now pervading the whole state which makes for a larger life. People are becoming inspired with the determination that they will do things that will make a better citizenship, more comfortable and more beautiful homes, towns and cities, that they will so order their public affairs that their government will be for the good of all.

"There is coming to be a oneness among all of the people in behalf of these great purposes. The splendid vision of the future, which this forecasts, is inspiring and cannot but call forth expressions of profound thanks and songs of praise.

"God, indeed, has been very good to us, and the least that we owe to Him is our thanks. That we may give them, not singly, but as one people, I set apart November the twenty-sixth, the day designated by the President of the United States as THANKSGIVING DAY and call upon the people throughout the state to lay aside the ordinary occupations of the day, that they may join together in their places of public worship, and in family reunions in their homes, in praise to God for the manifold blessings of peace and prosperity that He has bestowed upon us."

A very old one: Man to woman: "Pardon me, but you look like Helen White..." "Well, I look worse in black," she replied

HARRIS-WARE

Owing to the rush of work in the office last week an item of news that will be of interest to the readers of the Gazette, was unintentionally omitted. Two popular young people of this community, Miss Allie May Harris and Mr. Percy Ware, were married at the Central Christian church in Spokane, Monday afternoon, November 9, at three o'clock. They will make their home in Kendrick until spring when they expect to move to the Ware ranch on Bear ridge. Percy and his father, N. E. Ware, are engaged in farming on Bear ridge. The best wishes of the Gazette are extended to the young couple for a happy future.

DINNER AT TANEY

There will be a dinner and fancy work sale at the Taney school house on Bear ridge, on Thanksgiving day, given by the ladies of the Lutheran church. Everybody is cordially invited.

Crescent Clippings

The I. T. Kimberley family visited at the Mike Forest home Sunday.

Elsie L. Darby, who has been staying at the John Darby home for the past month, returned to Moscow, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Reiche and daughter, Lena, spent Sunday at the A. Dorendorf home.

A new family must be going to move into the neighborhood soon. At any rate Bill Dorendorf is fixing up and furnishing his house these days.

A FAST AGE

"This is truly a fast age. The world never moved so fast before," mused the man on the corner. "We have winter ice on the Fourth of July, spring vegetables on Christmas; we buy straw hats in February and our felt hats in August; we get our Sunday paper on Saturday night and our magazines a month ahead of time. If we telephone a man in San Francisco from New York he hears our voice about three hours before we speak; and if someone in Japan sends us a cablegram tomorrow we get it today."

Someone hands this out: If you give your boy everything he wants some day he will want a pardon from the governor.

SCHOOL BIBLE READING

Bible reading in Idaho's schools, required by a statute enacted at the last session of the legislature, is thus far neither a decided success nor an emphatic failure, according to the state commissioner of education, who carefully observed the operation of the new law since it has become effective throughout the state.

"As was to be expected," said the commissioner Wednesday, "the law has met with a varied reception. Even though the Bible passages required to be read have been carefully selected for the purpose of providing all possible interest and inspiration, both teachers and pupils have in certain instances, failed to enthrall."

"We are living in rather an irreverent age and it was almost to be expected that modern day school children, unaccustomed to the Bible reading, would not listen to passages from the Great Book with the attentive, conscientious interest of their elders. On the whole, however, the results have been good, although many teachers have admitted that the temptation to explain more or less obscure passages is difficult to resist. But the law expressly prohibits teachers to comment upon or interpret any of the passages or verses read, pupils who ask questions being referred to their parents or guardians."

"One of the most interesting tests of the effect being made by Bible reading upon the students themselves has recently been made at Soda Springs by Superintendent Elmer E. Wilson. Every pupil in the Soda Springs high school was asked to write a candid, honest opinion on the subject. Of those who had formed an opinion, 28 expressed themselves as in favor of Bible reading and 26 voiced their opposition."

"Interesting because of their frank revelations of student psychology, the following excerpts from opinions obtained by Superintendent Wilson seems to me particularly interesting:

"I don't think it worthwhile because it is not explained, and we don't know what the teacher is driving at." "Yes, I think it a good plan to read the Bible each morning. It only takes a few minutes of one's time, and if one listens he will be sure to learn something of benefit to him." "Bible reading is all right; but the common tendency of pupils is to laugh at the daily reading. Although some pupils get something out of it, many make fun of it." "I do not like the Bible reading, and do not like the idea of being compelled to listen to it being read. I do not want religious work mixed with the school work. I get nothing at all from it." "I do not think it is a waste of time if you understand it, and get anything from it, but as yet I haven't received much from what has been read."

"I think it is all right to have the Bible reading before the classes take up in the morning. It does no one any harm and it will do some good." "I think it is all right to be taught in the schools; but I don't get anything out of the reading. In order to do so, I would have to study it and have it explained; but this cannot be done under the present state law." "I believe it a good thing because some students never read the Bible and know nothing of what it is all about. By this method they learn something about it where otherwise they would not."

NEW $70,000 HOME OPENED

The new $70,000 chapter house of Beta Theta Pi, National Fraternity, was formally opened last week with a reception given by members of the fraternity for University faculty members and students, and Moscow business and professional men. More than 700 persons were guests at the opening. The new fraternity home is English Manor in type and is of the popular Tudor-Gothic style of architecture.

Distribute License Plates

A new method for the distribution of license plates during 1926 has been worked out by the Motor Vehicle Bureau of the Department of Law Enforcement, it is announced by F. A. Jeter, Commissioner of Law Enforcement. Heretofore it has been the practice for all license plates to be mailed out from Boise after application has been made to the County Assessor of the various counties, and after applications have been mailed to the Law Enforcement. During the rush period a larger number of applications has always reached the office in Boise than could be handled in a short time. Consequently there has always been a considerable time between the making of applications by motor vehicle owners and the receiving of plates. During the last year, owing to the delay on the part of the legislature in enacting the new motor vehicle license fee law in time for applications to be made early, there were at one time forty thousand applications in the office and it was impossible to mail out more than one thousand plates per day. Thus a delay of five or six weeks took place. In order to avoid a repetition of this condition those in charge of the distribution of license plates sought the co-operation of the assessors in the various counties and as a result during 1926 those who go to the Assessor's office to make application for license will have delivered to them immediately a set of license plates.

The supply of license plates for 1926 has been received and the plates have been sent by freight to the county seats of the State. It is difficult to anticipate the number that will be used during 1926, but eighty-four thousand sets of plates have been bought. The total number of licenses issued during 1925 to date is about eighty thousand three hundred, this being approximately eleven thousand over the number issued during 1924.

Under the provisions of the legislature, all licenses for 1926 must be bought before February 1. In former years it was the practice of the Department of Law Enforcement to fix a dead line as late as March 15 after which no old licenses might be used. This was done despite the fact that the law required that licenses be obtained before January 1. Under the present administration a compliance with the law has been required by the department, but it is indeed fortunate now that the Legislature has definitely fixed a date after which old licenses may not be used lawfully.

During the last biennium the cost of issuing plates was thirty-three and four tenths cents for each license, this amount including the cost of issuing plates will be approximately thirty cents, and it is hoped that under the new plan of distribution the cost will be considerably reduced. This reduction is largely due to the fact that the total cost of sending the license plates to the counties by freight will be approximately one thousand dollars, whereas the cost of postage for 1925 will be about sixty-five hundred dollars.

JUST AS GOOD

The grocer had just put a new boy to work and among other instructions was this: "If you do not happen to have what the customer asks for suggest something else as nearly like it as is possible."

Soon a woman came into the store and asked the boy: "Have you any fresh green stuff today?" "No, ma'am," answered the boy, "but we have some nice bluing."

The college youth sat himself in the dentist's chair, baloon pants, low pressure chin, green cap and all. "I'm afraid to give him gas," mused the doctor, "for how will I know when he's unconscious?"

Expression's Origin

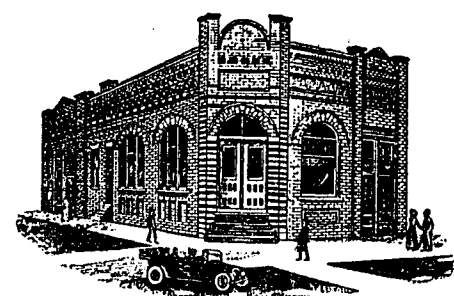

Sometimes we speak of a rich man's son having been born with a silver spoon in his mouth. That expression originated more than 500 years ago when it was the fashion for wealthy godfathers to present their newly christened godchildren with a silver spoon. These were regarded by the parents as actual wealth, for, like all silver, they could always be melted down into money.

DAIRY

MOST ECONOMICAL PRODUCER OF FOOD

Although the statement that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of human food of all the different classes of live stock, is a fact, it does not hold true for each individual cow. The one most important factor in profitable milk or cream production is the ability of the individual cow. It does not matter what breed you own a what family within the breed, there are always certain individuals that are more economical producers than others. According to the latest available figures, the average milk production for the dairy cows in the United States is 4,260 pounds of milk, points out J. P. LaMaster, chief of the dairy division at Clemson college.

South Carolina has just recently started developing its dairy herds, and although we have no available figures on the actual production of all the cows in the state, it is very obvious that the production is much lower than this average for the United States. This means that if we are to make dairying a profitable farming operation, we must not only get more cows, but we must especially improve the average production of all of our cows. The individual farmer can do this in three ways:

First, by keeping records on the cows he now owns, and this does not mean official records, but the actual weighing of the milk each produces at each milking. Totalling this record each month and also keeping a record on the feed each cow consumes in a month, he can in a few months tell which of his cows are the best.

The second way by which the farmer can improve the producing ability of his herd is by buying cows which have already made creditable records, proving that they do have this ability to make a profit on feed consumed. This is a rather expensive way because the farmer who has made this record on the good cow wants to keep her and in order to buy her, it is necessary to pay a premium. Also, in buying cows, there are chances for loss in bringing in diseases and other troubles of which you have no knowledge when you make the purchase.

The third way is a combination of the first and the use of a bred-for-production dairy sire on the cows you now own and which are selected from your herd as being the best, judging from the records they have made.

Potassium Permanganate Good as Water Purifier

Dr. S. Erikson of the Mountain Grove (Mo.) experiment station has carried on experiments to determine the value of permanganate of potash as a purifier of water for poultry, and has found that it is very efficient. The germs of cholera and of other intestinal diseases are destroyed in a few hours. The quantity to use is 14 grains per gallon of water. This quantity can be measured with sufficient accuracy with a ten-cent piece as measure, about 14 grains being carried on it. Permanganate soon loses its strength, which is indicated by loss of the purple color. When this occurs a new solution should be made up. Erikson's experiments show that small chicks are not injured by drinking permanganate water over a period of nine weeks. It can be safely used when sour milk is being fed, but it is not recommended to be added to milk.

Poultry raisers should not place dependence on permanganate as a cure for any disease. Its use is not intended as a cure but as a destroyer of germs that gain entrance to the drinking water from sick birds, thereby lessening the chance of the disease spreading in the flock.

Legumes take from 50 to 100 pounds of nitrogen to the acre from the air annually. An amount sufficient for a 50-bushel corn crop. Seed some alfalfa this fall.

Oats is a good grain to feed colts, but when not available a grain ration consisting of six parts corn, three parts bran, and one part linseed oil meal, is a splendid substitute.

LUCKY WILD TURKEYS

"The lion growls about being the King of the Beasts," said Mr. Wild Turkey.

"You mean," corrected Mrs. Wild Turkey, "that he roars about being the King of the Beasts."

"Yes, gobble, gobble, gobble, that's what I mean. But if he thinks he can roar about that I can go him one better—or one just as fine anyway."

"What do you mean?" asked Mrs. Wild Turkey, in a much quieter voice, for she couldn't make as much noise as Mr. Wild Turkey could.

"I mean that I am the King of the Game Birds."

"Oh dear, oh dear," said Mrs. Wild Turkey, "don't say that."

"Why not? It's the truth! You can't help but say it is the truth, and I think it is quite nice, quite nice, too."

"It sounds perfectly dreadful to hear such a thing," said Mrs. Wild Turkey. "Game birds are birds that people shoot and eat."

"Oh don't talk like that, even if it is the truth. That makes it all the harder to hear," Mrs. Wild Turkey said.

She was all aquiver. Her feathers shook.

"There, there, gobble, gobble, gobble," said Mr. Wild Turkey, "calm yourself, my love."

"Calm yourself. Hear me through to the end."

"Very well," said Mrs. Wild Turkey. "I will hear you through to the end—wherever that may be," she added, "but the subject does make me a little nervous."

"Still as you told me to calm myself perhaps you will talk to me so that I will feel less nervous at the end of your talk."

"We're Safe Here in the Zoo."

"I will do that," said Mr. Wild Turkey.

"It is a great honor," he began, "to be the King of the Game Birds but it needn't alarm you at all, my dear."

"For, don't you see? We're safe here in the zoo. We have a beautiful yard of brush and trees which look quite wild, and here we live and are well fed."

"Oh yes," said Mrs. Wild Turkey. "Now I see why you told me to calm myself. You are a wise gobbler, you are."

"We are doubly lucky," Mr. Wild Turkey continued, "for, as one of my relatives was saying, there is a special reason for our good luck—or rather we are especially lucky, reason or not."

"When I say that we are doubly lucky it means that we are lucky twice. We are fortunate because we are here in the zoo and can't possibly be killed and eaten as other wild turkeys might very probably be."

"In the second place we are lucky because we are such fine birds with such a royal name and with such beautiful rich brown feathers with other glorious colors worked in, too."

"Then there is the third thing to make us joyful—just what a zoo neighbor said not long ago."

"What is that?" asked Mrs. Wild Turkey.

"We're not like our cousins, the regular barnyard turkeys. They lead a happy life for a while."

"They're well fed, oh, wonderfully well fed—but all for the sake of making them fat so they will be good and tender for Thanksgiving day or Christmas day."

"I don't suppose they mind, though, as they'd rather have a short life full of food than a long one without much food."

"But we aren't going to be used for any celebration. We're safe here in the zoo."

"We're well fed and greatly admired, gobble, gobble, gobble. Gobble, gobble, gobble."

Not Enough for Hogs

The doctor was holding a clinic examining children of school age. One youngster, aged six years, was under weight. The doctor began to make inquiries as to his diet, and the following dialogue took place:

"You don't drink milk?"

"Nope."

"Live on a farm and don't drink milk at all?"

"Nope, we ain't got hardly enough milk for the hogs."

Thinks Were Twins

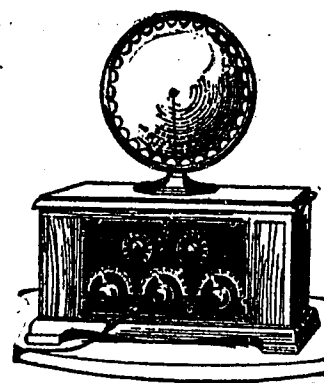

Howard never asks for anything to eat, but I knew he must be hungry, so I asked, "It is a long time since you had your breakfast. I wonder if you would not like a cookie?"

He answered happily, "Why, Auntie May, our thinks are twins."

Some enthusiasts have overestimated the legumes and especially artificial inoculation, but this does not do away with the fact that they are valuable.

One-Control Set Is Very Popular

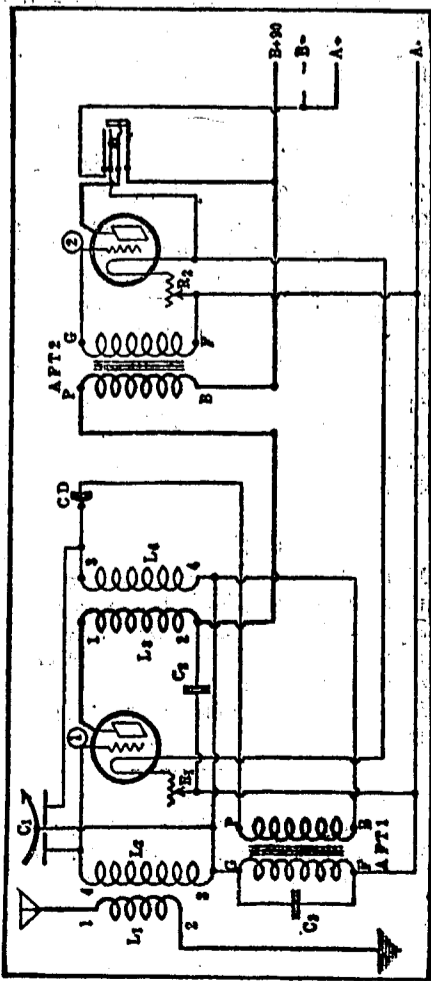

Hookup One of Latest and Can Be Easily Built by Amateurs.

By PERCY WARREN, in Radio World.

The one-control set will be very popular this season. The 1926 models, shown at the two radio shows in New York city, proved that. More than seventy manufacturers had one-dial sets.

The most economical one-dial receiver that will work a speaker is shown in the diagram. A double condenser is used. The wiring is shown. Even a novice will find it easy to follow.

Winding the Coils.
Assuming that the coils are to be wound at home each of the two may be put on a separate 3/8-inch diameter tubing, four inches high, with ten turns for the primary and 43 turns for the secondary, No. 22 DCC wire being used. The double condenser

Showing Schematic Diagram of the Wiring of the Set.

has two sections, each .0005 mfd. ca-capacity. It is preferable to leave three-quarter-inch space between L1 and L2, with only three-quarters inch between L3 and L4.

Winding in Same Direction.
All windings are in the same direction. Considering L1, the terminal (1) goes to aerial, (2) to ground, (3) to the G post of AFT1 and (4) to the grid of the reflexed tube, No. 1. The plate of this tube goes to (1) of L3, while (2) is connected to the P post of AFT2. Join (3) to the catwhisker of the crystal, if an adjustable crystal is used, otherwise to the low side (G) of a fixed crystal like the carbonium, which is quite voluminous. The other L4 terminal (4) goes to the G post of AFT1. This same lead is connected to the rotor of the tuning condenser. The stators of this condenser go to (4) of L2 and (3) of L4. The phase reversal in tube No. 1 is negated by the reversal obtained in L1L2. Note that the coupling transformer L3L4 has fields aiding.

High Wave Regeneration, Single Circuit Hookups

A kink for high wave regeneration with single circuit sets is here outlined. On a great many of these sets, the regeneration or ability to oscillate ends about midway of the wave length range. One very good remedy is to place a fixed condenser between .00025 and .006 from the ground to the ticker circuit at the point where plate coil connects to the P terminal of the audio transformer or to the phones.—Radio Digest.

Placing Fixed Condenser From Ground to Ticker Circuit.

RADIO WAVES

Local stations may be shut out with a loose-coupled tuner.

A covered wire is no better than a bare wire for a ground.

Soldering lugs should be used under every terminal in the set.

To experiment with all freak hookups is an expensive hobby.

A good aerial system should have a bright, clean surface throughout.

The life of batteries is lengthened when connected in series parallel.

Solder flows more readily if the iron is wiped frequently on a woolen rag.

Simple, tight mechanical connections are better than poorly soldered ones.

The DAIRY

RAPID DECLINE IN MILK PRODUCTION

The rapid decline in milk production as the summer advances is the result of a combination of factors, says C. B. Bender, assistant dairy husbandman at the New Jersey College of Agriculture, New Brunswick. Chief among these is the poor condition of pasture.

In many regions a drought in mid-summer causes tough and woody pasture. The result is that the cow, especially if producing a liberal amount of milk, doesn't get sufficient food and loses flesh by trying to keep up production. Finally the production declines, slowly at first and then more rapidly as conditions become extreme. Records from creameries show that for 100 pounds of milk delivered June 1 there are only 46 pounds delivered August 1.

Flies may be a slight factor, but their importance is overestimated. The flies and the hot weather are factors in so far as they both discourage the animals from grazing.

If kept on pasture the cows should be turned out to graze during the early morning and late evening. The growing of sodding crops may be a good practice. Grain is an effective means of holding up production, but it is an expensive practice to the extent that the grain replaces grass. Silage is not a complete ration, but it may be used alone to supplement pastures. If conditions are such that most of the feed has to be supplied outside of pastures, then the feeding should be practically the same as in winter.

If the production of the herd drops to a marked degree during the summer it cannot be brought back to the point where it should be. Therefore, to insure a paying fall production, it is highly important to keep up the milk flow during the summer, even though there may be no immediate profit.

Farm Hints

Breeding and feeding spell success with poultry; but to keep up the breed be sure of pedigrees.

Onions should be harvested when the tops have died down. Dry out the bulbs thoroughly before storing.

The number of cuttings which alfalfa will stand depends partially upon the kind of alfalfa seed used.

Since the old gray mare "ain't what she used to be" there should be a likely colt coming along to take her place.

The tractor has come to stay, but the draft horse will be here for a long time, because tractors cannot wholly replace him.
