Walker for Commissioner

The position of commissioner of the third district in Latah county seems to be an attractive one judging by the number of candidates who have filed on the republican ticket for this office. G. F. Walker, present incumbent, will be opposed by C. J. Pence and George C. Hoidal of Troy and John Woody of American ridge. The men who compose the opposition to Mr. Walker are no doubt worthy in every way to fill this office with credit to themselves and profit to the county. They are men who stand well in their communities. On the other hand, Mr. Walker has demonstrated during his one term of office that he is also able to dispatch the duties of his office in a most efficient and creditable manner. In recognition of his service it would seem that he has a right to expect the endorsement of the voters of this county. To refuse him a second term would be in a measure, a reflection upon his two years of service.

When Mr. Walker took office he went in on a program of strict economy. He and his two constituents on the board have carried out this program to the verge of penury. They have followed out the wishes of those who put them in office.

There have already been floating rumors that there was extravagance in the remodeling of the court house. This kind of stuff will probably be used during the campaign. Anyone who is sufficiently interested should inspect the court house and also look up the cost of the work that was done on it. It is safe to say that a favorable comment would be forthcoming. As everybody knows the court house, before it was remodeled by the present board of commissioners, was a disgrace to a civilized community. Kendrick wouldn't have stood for maintaining such an old shack in this town. After being completely remodeled and repaired it now presents a very creditable appearance and the county emmissioners no longer have to meet in the woodshed when court is in session. To achieve this result the commissioners paid the cost from the general fund and there is no indebtedness hanging over the county for the new court house. Just why shouldn't Mr. Walker be re-elected county commissioner for a second term?

Magistrate (severely) — The idea of a man of your size beating a poor weak woman like that.

Prisoner — But, your honor, she keeps on irritating me all the time.

"How does she irritate you?" "Why, she keeps saying, 'Hit me! Beat me! Just hit me once and I'll have you hauled up before that baldheaded old reprobate of a magistrate and see what he'll do with you.'" "Discharged."—Ex.

CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF NEW ELEMENT

Scientist Declares Substance Is Radioactive.

Cornish, Me.—A new radioactive element is alleged to have been discovered by Dr. William Teg of Cornish, formerly of New York, director of a biological research institute here, which he founded.

Doctor Teg declares he has succeeded in isolating this element, which he calls brodtum, after 16 years' work in the United States and abroad. The substance is an alkali, said to be closely related to the sodium and potassium groups.

Brodtum is found principally in mineral form, and the pure element is described as a brownish-gray substance which smells like pungent earth and is soluble. The metal has an atomic weight of 225, slightly more than radium, plus.

It is everywhere present, the doctor declares, and acts against gravity. Radioactivity, it is stated, causes it to give off what the doctor has termed "terrestrial rays" and these rays, he believes, supply energy to all living things. The rays are said to cause the capillary action by which plant life feeds on its sap, and provide the nervous energy for the human body.

The doctor's theory is that brodtum, a widely distributed element, gives off rays to all forms of life. Plants assimilate these rays through their roots and leaves, and the element being more active in water, the action is facilitated in the sap. The human body absorbs the rays, which are everywhere in the air, through the nerve tips.

Doctor Teg says that various scientists have investigated and several are now working with him looking into the new element. He mentions the Atomic Research association of Detroit as investigating his findings and scientists in Kansas City as making experiments.

His own laboratory is an old farmhouse which he has improved himself.

Delivers Principal Address At Gardiner
June 20; Big Season On.

Stephen T. Mather, director of National Parks (left above) was master of ceremonies at Gardiner Gateway to Yellowstone Park June 20 when he formally opened the National Park season.

Mr. Mather delivered the principal address of the Opening Day program, released the chains across Roosevelt Arch, entrance to Yellowstone Park, and unfastened a pair of locked elk horns as symbolical of the friendly reception awaiting America's tourists this summer at the hands of the Park animals.

Above is shown Roosevelt Arch at Gardiner Gateway, through which nearly 200,000 summer tourists are expected to pass during the 1926 Park season, June 18-September 15, on the famous "in Gardiner-Out Cody" Park tours.

POWER BOATS DUE TO RULE MISSOURI

New Type of Navigation Replaces Steamboat

Kansas City, Mo.—When the little blue-winged teal first took the water on the Missouri river ages ago, it began navigation history on the "Big Muddy" that soon is to see another step in its evolution.

The Indian with his canoe, the half-civilized voyager with his plogue, the fur trader with his keel boat and the "dingey" or little steamboat with a single boiler and engine successively tolled up and down the treacherous river, each marking a step forward in navigation.

Steamboat Once "King."

The magnificent steamboat of the '50s, that great floating palace that marked the heyday of steamboating on the Missouri, held sway for a decade or more and with its passing river traffic halted. Now is to come the power boat and string of freight-laden barges. This modern means of river commerce is to be made possible by a channel improvement program extending over five years, whereby approximately $2,000,000 will be spent the first year between Kansas City and St. Louis.

The first attempt to navigate the Missouri by steam was made in 1819. It was a hazardous undertaking. Besides the danger of the river, which needed the most skilled navigation because of snags, sandbars and tortuous channel, there was the danger of the lurking savage, concealed in the grass along the river banks ready to open fire on the boatmen without warning.

The Western Engineer, a small steamboat 75 feet long, was the first to ascend the river as far as Council Bluffs, which it reached September 17, 1819. It was built expressly to awe the Indian. On the bow, running from the keelson forward, was a large steam escape pipe, made in imitation of a serpent. The pipe was painted black and the mouth of it red, and clouds of steam belched forth as the little ship crawled upstream at the rate of three miles an hour.

First Trip in 1831.

The first steamboat to ascend the river above Council Bluffs was the Yellowstone of the American Fur company, which left St. Louis April 16, 1831, and reached the mouth of the Bad river in South Dakota, on June 19. The following year the Yellowstone ascended to the mouth of the Yellowstone river, thus demonstrating the claim long made by army engineers that the Missouri was navigable that far.

Traffic on the "Big Muddy" flourished after 1830 and was at its height between 1850 and 1860. Lines of noble boats plied the stream, making possible the military and trading posts of the ever-extending frontier.

Birth Rates Take Drop in 26 Out of 30 States

Washington.—Birth rates for 1925 were lower than for 1924 in 26 out of 30 states for which records are available, according to the Department of Commerce.

The birth rate for 1925 was 21.2 per 1,000 population, as compared with 22.6 in 1924. The highest 1925 birth rate, 28.8, is shown for North Carolina, and the lowest, 15.1, for Montana. The Illinois birth rate in 1925 was 19.1, compared with 19.9 for 1924. The birth rate for the city of Chicago is given as 19.9 for 1925, as compared with 20 in 1924.

Death rates for 1925 were higher than for 1924 in 10 of the 30 states. The average death rate in the 30 states was 11.7 per 1,000 population in 1925, as against 11.8 in 1924. The highest 1925 death rate, 14.6, is shown for Vermont, and the lowest, 7.7, for Montana and North Dakota. The death rate both in Illinois and the city of Chicago was 11.5 in 1925 and 11.2 in 1924.

Forest Service Will Round Up Wild Horses

Bozeman, Mont.—Last year the forest service initiated the plan of rounding up and disposing of all wild horses within the confines of the national forest and plans to continue the drive this year.

In 1925 there were 300 head captured in the Gallatin national forest alone, and it is estimated that there are 500 of these useless animals still within this forest range. Throughout the national forest of the state there are thousands more.

Some of these animals were at one time domesticated. They were turned out to forage for themselves and those of the least value were not rounded up. In time many of them became wild and the ones that survived the winters and predatory animals bred with other bands and thus herds were formed.

Manuscripts Say Christ Preached in Central Asia

New York.—The existence of manuscripts in the monastery of Ladak, written during the life of Christ by Lamas and telling about his travels and preaching in India, Tibet and central Asia, has been verified by the Roerich art expedition, the Rperich museum announces.

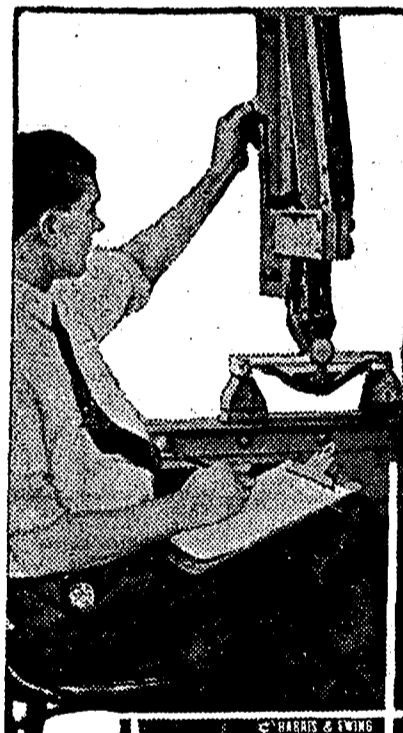

The manuscript will throw much light on the vague years of Christ's life before his return to Jerusalem in his twenty-ninth year, it is believed.

The expedition, which has been in and around Chinese Turkestan since 1923, was detained in central Asia by the death of Khotan, but was released after its arms were confiscated, according to the museum.

Find Leper Cure

BENDING MARBLE

Tests that the bureau of standards is making show that a specimen of marble when subjected to great pressure stretches or gives to a certain degree without breaking. This photograph shows D. W. Kessler conducting the so-called flexure test with a machine which was designed for the purpose.

U. S. Wild Life Doomed, Says Zoological Expert

New York.—Civilization will wipe out the wild life of America—mammals, birds, fish—unless protective measures are taken, in the opinion of Dr. William T. Hornaday, who retired recently after 30 years of service as director of the New York zoological park, popularly known as "The Bronx Zoo."

Doctor Hornaday, who is now seventy-one years old, issues this warning after looking backward over his half-century of intimate observation of wild creatures. As remedial measures, Doctor Hornaday recommends the establishment of more game sanctuaries and further limitation of the hunter's bag limit.

Storing Flour

Under proper storage conditions flour should keep entirely satisfactorily for three months. Much of the high-grade wheat flour is kept for a considerably longer period of time, even for a year or more, and such flour is satisfactory for bread-making purposes.

Here's Scale That Can Weigh Dot Over an i

Milwaukee, Wis.—If interested, you can have the weight of the dot over an i measured accurately by means of a scale received at the Marquette university school of medicine by Dr. Joseph C. Bock, head of the department of pathological chemistry. Doctor Bock, to illustrate the fineness of the weighing machine, took a sheet of paper and wrote a name thereon, leaving the letter i undotted. He then weighed the paper, making a perfect balance by use of aluminum halfwire weights. Then he dotted the i. When the paper was returned to the scale the balance was disturbed and the difference found to be two one-hundred thousandths of a gram. The scale is a marvel of German mechanical skill, and is the invention of a scientist named Nelmetz.

METAL EXPERIMENTS CHECK CORROSION

Resistant Alloys Produced by Research Work.

Madison, Wis.—The protection of metals from corrosion and the development of corrosion-resistant alloys such as stainless steel are progressing rapidly under the impetus of scientific research into the nature of corrosion processes, Walter G. Whitman, industrial chemist of Whiting, Ind., declared in an address here.

As an example of the strides that have been made toward preventing and removing rust, he told fellow chemists at the regional meeting of the American Chemical Society here that the elimination of dissolved oxygen from water entering steam boilers is now a common practice in reducing boiler corrosion. Old Theories Discarded. "Within the last few years," Mr. Whitman stated, "the conflict of contradictory theories has given way to a general agreement that corrosion is fundamentally electrochemical in action.

"Most cases of corrosion are chargeable to the action of oxygen from the air in the presence of moisture. Even a case of so-called 'mechanical' erosion of turbine blades has been shown to be truly a corrosive phenomenon due to oxygen.

"The products of corrosion often build up films on the surface which protect the underlying metal from further attack. These films are also formed by reaction of the corrosion products with material dissolved in the water such as calcium bicarbonate. Where such films are only partially protective they may break down locally and cause severe pitting of the metal at the point of breakdown. Can Correlate Protection.

"It is now possible to correlate many cases of film protection with the solubility either of the first corrosion product or of some other material formed when the corrosion product reacts with dissolved substances. The tendency to protect is greatest when a highly insoluble film is formed close to the metal. Many hitherto obscure examples of corrosion resistance are explainable on this basis and it has direct application in the development of alloys such as stainless steel."

Poison Bait Is Useful in Killing Off Gophers

Gophers increase at the rate of 250 per cent annually if undisturbed by poisoning or trapping, declares A. E. Oman of the Kansas State Agricultural college, state leader of rodent control work. In spite of this immense percentage of increase the decrease of gophers by trapping or other means for which bounty is paid, is but one gopher per acre, or about 25 per cent of the total number of animals, he explains.

To make the bounty plan of killing gophers adequate to thoroughly wipe out the animals, the yearly gopher catch should be increased five to ten times, which would increase the bounty tax from $10,000 to $20,000 for a year or two in many of the counties of the state. The poisoning system of getting rid of gophers is far better and cheaper, Mr. Oman believes, as each poison bait, if properly applied and used, kills twenty gophers for the cost of one under the bounty system.

Car Turns Over

Two men on their way to Orofino last Saturday afternoon had a close call while driving up the Wandehar gulch grade. The motor was giving trouble so they stopped, but the brakes would not hold and the car started back. The driver banked the machine and it turned over pinning his companion under it. He was injured to some extent and was brought to Kendrick where Dr. Moorhead administered first aid. The men, whose names were not given, then proceeded on their way.

Charles Daugherty Drowned

A sad death occurred in the family of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Daugherty of Leland, when their son, Charles, was drowned in the Willamette river near Portland Saturday. He was bathing with a party of friends and stepped off into a deep hole. He began to struggle to regain his footing and some of his friends tried to assist him, but he grappled with them and started to drag them under with him, which is said to be the natural thing for a drowning man to do. It was with difficulty that his friends saved their own lives. The body was recovered about 25 minutes after its disappearance. A pulmotor was rushed to the scene of the accident and physicians summoned, but life was extinct.

Philip, brother of the deceased, accompanied the body here and funeral services were held at the family home near Leland, Tuesday, July 13, Rev. Taber, Methodist pastor, officiating. White Pine Camp of the Woodmen of the World had charge of the services at the grave, interment being made in the Leland cemetery.

Charles Daugherty was well known in this section of the country. He was 21 years of age and was born and raised near Leland. Last fall he went to Portland where he secured employment and was getting along very nicely when the fatal accident occurred. It was thought his drowning was due to cramps from the cold water as his father stated that Charles was considered a fairly good swimmer.

He is survived by his parents, four brothers, Clyde, Harrison and Jake of Leland, Philip of Portland; four sisters, Mrs. A. G. Peters, Mrs. Virgil Flesman, Mrs. Lyle Harrison of Leland and Mrs. Frank Bresgal of Spokane.

Finish Cameron Cut-Off

The Potlatch highway district recently completed construction of the new Cameron cut-off, near the village of Cameron, which cuts about 400 yards in distance off the main Kendrick-Southwick road and eliminated 15 percent grades for grades of six percent maximum, says the Tribune. The contract, about 1800 feet in distance, was done by force account under the supervision of County Engineer W. P. Hughes. Instead of going through the village of Cameron the Kendrick-Southwick road misses it a short distance and takes the shorter and more gentle route. The improvement is a very important one, especially in eliminating the heavy grades going out of Cameron.

This improvement is significant, Mr. Hughes states, because it has demonstrated to the residents of that section what road improvements mean, and he is of the opinion that it is only the start of a highway improvement program which will include many of the main throughfares, where revisions of grades are needed.

Hooks Trout Wearing a Gold Watch and Fob

Saranac Lake, N. Y.—A. J. Bernard of this place believes he is the luckiest fisherman in the Adirondacks. Recently, while trout fishing in North Branch river, near Goldsmith's, he noted what appeared to be a gleam of gold amid submerged brush.

As his hook neared the bright object there was a vicious strike. The astounded fisherman found himself in possession of an eight-inch trout and a gold watch. The line had caught in the fob when the trout struck.
