Fine Wheat Here

In 33 seasons, Ole Flamoc a local thesherman says he has never seen the grain yield more consistently than this year and after threshing 6 days this year he reports yields of 35 to 48 bushels to the acre. He also states that he has wheat ahead of him that is sure it will go 50 bushels per acre. This along with other crops demonstrates the ability of the Genesee country farmer and the fertility of this good old Palouse dirt. No argument, we think the Genesee country farmer should be sitting on top of the world this fall.—Genesee News.

State Can't Afford it

Whatever the future may bring to pass concerning the university, the time has not yet come for its dismemberment or removal. The taxpayers of the state cannot at this time afford to consider the maintaining of two degree granting institutions. One argument in favor of moving the agricultural college to the south is that, Latah is "not an agricultural county." A fool argument, as every one familiar with Latah county knows. If one cared to answer such a slander in as mean a spirit as it circulated, one might remind those who are responsible for it that only a few years ago all maps showed the southern part of Idaho as the "Great American Desert."—Deary Press.

MRS. J. A. HEACOX INJURED

Car Forced Into Ditch by Alleged Drunken Indians.

A carload of alleged drunken Indians traveling toward Lewiston on the North and South highway Wednesday afternoon forced a car driven by Mrs. J. A. Heacox of Juliaetta into the ditch, causing her to receive several bad cuts and badly damaging her automobile, says the Tribune.

The accident occurred on the turn near the L. B. Hill greenhouses, three miles above Lewiston. Mrs. Heacox was driving alone, enroute to Juliaetta, when she met the weaving car of the Indians. She was forced off the river side of the road, her heavy enclosed car rolling over twice and stopping in the ditch.

Mrs. Heacox was taken to White's hospital by a passing motorist. Her injuries were characterized as severe but not serious, being principally cuts around the head. She was resting easily last night.

The Indians were not apprehended.

An unusually ragged tramp knocked at the door of a home and asked the mistress for alms. "Aren't you ashamed," she inquired. "You are so ragged and dirty that I am ashamed of you myself."

"Yes," reflected the tramp, "it is a reflection on the generosity of the community."—Ex.

Will Pull at Fair

Interest in pulling contests has developed rapidly since the first public tests were held at the Iowa State Fair, Des Moines, Iowa in 1923. Pulling tests during the development of the Collins dynamometer were held during 1922 at the Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

The object of these tests is to determine the sustained maximum pulling capacity of each pair. These tests will also afford valuable scientific data on the relation between form and function in draft animals. They will stimulate general interest in the breeding and use of good draft horses or mules.

It was with difficulty, even when the above purpose of these tests was explained that the board of the Iowa State Fair was persuaded to turn over enough ground, even in an out of the way corner of the grounds on which to conduct the tests in 1923. Working under this and other handicaps, lack of premium, and little advertising—these first pulling tests drew such crowds that the fair board immediately arranged for similar tests in 1924. Demands for the machine for use at county and district fairs throughout the state for 1924 were so heavy that plans were made to build a second dynamometer for use in Iowa.

In 1924 that machine was widely used in Iowa and one was in use in Canada. After the pulls at the Regina and Saskatchewan fairs in Canada, rivalry between the owners of the winners of these two fairs became so keen and the power of the horses was so disputed that a special contest was arranged with a stake of $1000.00 in gold. Admission was charged and the fair authorities cleared $4000.00 in this one contest.

The Saskatoon winners, grade Belgians, won the match and the $1000.00 in gold but neither team in the match equalled the record set the day before by Jumbo and Barney, grade Belgians owned by Gibbs Brothers, which was a pull of 3100 pounds.

The tremendous pull exerted may be better understood when it is explained that it is equal to starting a load of 40,000 pounds on granite block pavement but with this difference: In starting a load on granite, block pavement such energy is expended for less than a second, whereas in developing such a pull on the dynamometer this expenditure of energy is continuous for the full distance covered. It is equivalent therefore to starting such a load on granite block many times.

As a result, this pair, although they lost the match, nevertheless held the world's championship from July, 1924 to August, 1925, when Pat and Barney, Percheron-Belgians owned by the Blue Line Storage Company of Des Moines, Iowa, set a new record by a pull of 3425 pounds which is equivalent to starting for 15 or 20 consecutive times a load of 44,500 pounds on granite block pavement.

This machine has been secured for the Whitman-Latah Fair to be held at Garfield, Sept. 2-3-4, where daily contests will take place.

Hard Lines

In a school the children had been examined and their eyes tested, according to the educational authorities latest decree. Those who were suffering from defects had notes given them to take home. Among the note bearers was one of the name of Willie Jones, and the note bore was as follows: "Dear Sir: I wish to inform you that your son, William, shows signs of astigmatism, which ought to be attended to at once.—Yours faithfully, J. W. Headmaster."

In the afternoon Willie brot this reply "Dear Sir: I don't know just what it is that Willies been doing, but I waloped him well this dinner-time and you can have another go at him if he isn't any better.—Yours truly, Wm. Jones, Sr."

Return From Tennessee

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Ingle returned Tuesday morning from a trip to their old home in eastern Tennessee, where they visited relatives for several weeks. Mr. Ingle stated that crop conditions there were the best in years. That wheat yields, instead of 15 bushels to the acre, ran as high as 40 bushels. He says that farm improvements there are better than any other agricultural community he ever saw. People do considerable dairying and engage extensively in the poultry business. Road improvements are going forward there as they are everywhere—except in the Potlatch.

LATAH COUNTY PRIMARY RETURNS

Heavy Vote Cast at Election Last Tuesday.

Returns from 22 out of 27 precincts in Latah county give results that will not be changed by the small vote yet to be heard from. Interest centered around the republican primary as there were a number of contests that brought out a heavy vote in most of the larger precincts of the county.

Democrats held elections in only two precincts and nominated a complete ticket. No progressive primaries were held in the county.

For representatives there were four candidates, Oversmith and Harsh winning over Anderson and Keene.

For county commissioner third district G. F. Walker was defeated by John L. Woody by a vote of 887 to 740. Geo. C. Hoidal, 275 and J. W. Pence, 213, the last two candidates causing a split in the vote that defeated Mr. Walker. John Cone, incumbent commissioner for the first district won over his opponent, E. A. McClelland, by a vote of 1289 to 748. Elmer H. Paulson from the second district was nominated by a vote of 926 to 748 for his opponent, Laurence E. Huff.

Abe Goff, for prosecuting attorney, was nominated over Latham Moore by a vote of 1343 to 888.

For Sheriff, Charlie Summerfield, present incumbent, defeated William H. Smith by a vote of 1363 to 979.

Pickard, coroner; Homer Dinsmore, auditor; Robert Muhlitz, assessor; Cecil Ryan, surveyor; June Cole, treasurer; John Linehard, first district commissioner; G. O. Miller, second district commissioner, and Thomas Christie, third district commissioner.

A group of workmen at lunch hour were discussing evolution and the origin of man. One of the party remained silent, when a companion turned to him and demanded his opinion. "I ain't going to say," he replied doggedly. "I remember as how Henry Green and me threshed that all out once before, an it's settled, so far's I'm concerned." "But what conclusion did you arrive at?" "Well, we didn't arrive at the same conclusion. Henry he arrived at the hospital an' I at the police station."

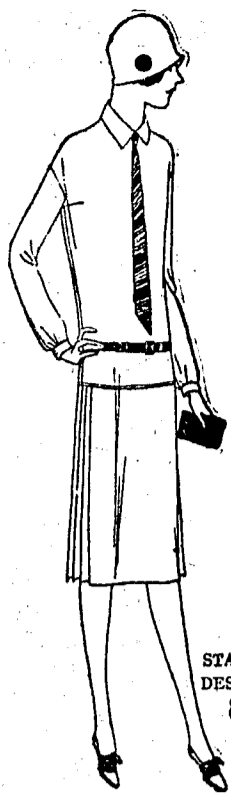

Ice Cream Eaters

This is a nation of ice cream eaters. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that 322,729,000 gallons of ice cream were eaten last year. Consumption in 1910 was 95,450,000 gallons. By 1915 the figures reached 175,224,000 and by 1920 it had increased to 260,000,000 gallons. Ice cream consumption varies from year to year, influenced by weather conditions, but the long-time trend is distinctively upward, the department says. A wholesome product, convenient packages, and ice cream cones are given as reasons for the increased consumption.—Ex.

DIVINING ROD AIDS IN FINDING FOSSIL

Stick That Located Elephant Bone Described.

Tucson, Ariz.—Dr. Byron Cummings, director of the state museum and professor of archeology at the University of Arizona, described the manner in which the mysterious divining rod was manipulated by Charles Udall, one of his co-workers, in the unearthing of the shoulder blade of an animal, which Doctor Cummings declared to be that of a prehistoric elephant, probably a mammoth, at least 250,000 years old. Doctor Cummings, however, declined to make any scientific pronouncement on the efficacy of the rod.

The blunt bone was exhumed by Doctor Cummings, Capt. D. W. Page, a Washington archeologist, and Mr. Udall, a geologist, who is the owner of the Cerro Colorado mining tract seven miles northwest of Arivaca, Ariz., about ten miles north of the Mexican border, on which the discovery was made.

Mr. Udall had told Doctor Cummings that he had been locating lime deposits, including bones, by means of the mysterious rod.

Operation of Rod Described. "The device," said Doctor Cumings, "consists of a wishbone-shaped stick, with a wooden thimble set in at the junction of the two forks. The thimble contains certain chemical substances, the nature of which I do not know."

"Mr. Udall holds the forked stick lightly between his fingers so as to give it free play. When the stick is held above a lime deposit it gives a downward tip, apparently, and as the stick is withdrawn from a point directly above the attracting spot the thimble seems to be drawn in the direction of that spot."

"Before we exhumed the shoulder blade Mr. Udall traced the outline of it over the surface of the earth by means of his forked stick. To what extent it is accurate will have to be demonstrated by further excavations."

"Near the bone that was excavated the crocheted stick in Mr. Udall's hands traced the outline of a mammoth's tusk. "He tells me that his rod has traced the configuration of several skeletons, one of them a mammoth. This mammoth's outline was transferred to paper by Mr. Udall. Later he compared a picture in a magazine with his drawing and the two were strikingly similar."

Bone Found in Volcanic Ash. "The outline of a dinosaur, which apparently is larger than any of those yet uncovered in the United States, has been traced by the crocheted stick, according to Mr. Udall."

The elephant's shoulder blade, which was protruding a few inches above the surrounding ground, was exhumed from a bed of volcanic ash, which would have preserved the skeleton in better condition had not a later upheaval of the earth forced the remains toward the surface.

There seem to have been three periods of volcanic disturbance in this region, Doctor Cummings said. As a result, the strata are much closer to the surface of the earth than they otherwise would have been, and this accounts for the imperfect fossilization.

"The spot probably was at one time a fresh-water lake where animals came to water," Doctor Cummings continued.

"There is no question that the bone was deposited there by natural means. It was not 'planted,' and it is undoubtedly genuine."

"This one bone, found so close to the surface, indicates that there is an extensive fossil bed in that region. Mr. Udall, from the work he has done there, is confident that there are fossil remains of very large pleistocene mammals there."

"The shoulder blade we found was almost complete. Only a small fragment is missing. There is no doubt in my mind that it is a part of an adult mammoth or mastodon, probably the former."

Find Tuberculosis in Hogs Killed in 1922

One of Every Seven Animals Had Dread Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Federal meat-inspection records for the year 1922 show that an average of one hog out of every seven slaughtered in establishments under federal inspection during the year showed lesions of tuberculosis. Altogether, 39,416,439 hogs were slaughtered under federal inspection in 1922, and 5,640,061 of them showed lesions of the disease.

Hogs are infected principally by following diseased cattle in the feed lot and by drinking milk from tuberculous cattle. Because of the short feeding period of hogs, the tuberculous lesions are usually localized; the head and glands of the neck are most commonly affected. However, it is estimated that in 1922 more than $2,000,000 worth of pork was condemned as unfit for human food on account of tuberculosis. This is but a part of the total loss sustained by the nation on account of tuberculosis in hogs. Animals affected with the disease cannot make the best gains, and the danger to human health is a factor always to be considered.

The vigorous campaign being conducted for the eradication of this dread disease has resulted up to March 1, 1923, in 24,132 accredited herds in the United States, in which more than a half million cattle have been pronounced free from tuberculosis. Every herd that is freed reduces the menace to the hog industry.

Hens are never so happy as when they are knee-deep in straw or chaff, scratching for kernels of grain. This happiness is what makes them profitable, too.

Have pullets and hens in good flesh and condition for heavy egg production. Make the house clean, warm, well ventilated, dry. Feed a good balanced ration.

FORCE FEED, splash, and automatic clarification are the three big points in the Primrose oiling system. Every time the crank turns, oil is forced and splashed to every bearing and running part. The oil is picked up from a small trough, without disturbing the oil in the bottom of the reservoir, and is whirled into every corner of the oil chamber. All oil in circulation is fresh and clean—the dirty oil settles to the bottom and is automatically drained off when you add new.

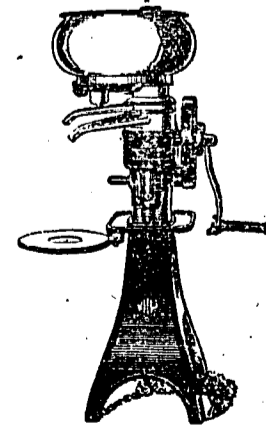

The care with which every part of the Primrose oiling system has been worked out points to the superiority of this machine in every part and feature. The high-grade ball bearings give ease of turning unheard of a few years ago. The perfectly balanced bowl and the sturdy, short spindle assure friction-free, vibrationless operation, and consequent perfect skimming.

Just stop in, or telephone, and we'll set a machine on your farm in quick time. Try it. Prove every point we make. You'll buy, just as your neighbors have, because the Primrose is the easiest-running, most satisfactory separator you ever saw or owned.

Few Senators Serve More Than One Term. The United States senate is becoming more and more a one-term body. Less than half the men in the senate today have been elected for more than one term of office, a survey has revealed. A total of 63 senators have been in office six years or less. Eight have been elected for two terms, and 10 others are serving their second full term in addition to an unexpired term. Only 19 of the 90 senators are serving third terms. Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming has spent nearly half his life in the senate and is now serving his sixth continuous term and his seventh in all, but he is alone in this class.

Average Fleece Weight. The bureau of animal industry says that the average fleece weight for the United States is approximately seven and a half pounds. There is a great difference between the Southdown and the Rambouillet breeds, the wool production varying in Southdowns from six to seven pounds; in well-bred and well-fed Rambouillet, from twelve to fifteen pounds.

AIRWAYS FIVE YEARS WITHOUT FATALITIES

Army Routes Traversed on Regular Schedule.

Fairfield, Ohio.—The model airways of the army for five years have maintained, without a fatality, a regular schedule of flights for passengers and freight.

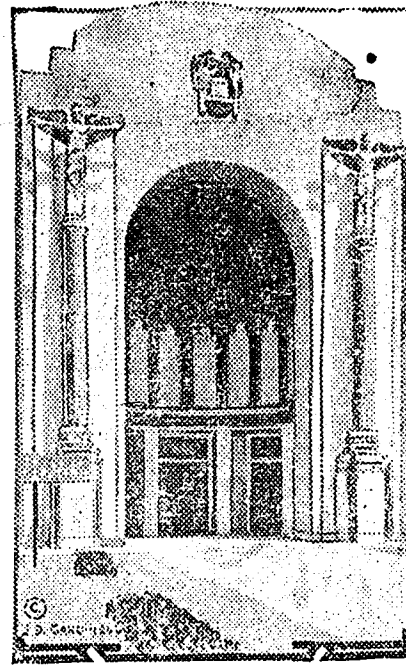

Since April, 1921, this group has covered more than a million miles in the air over 4,000 miles of routes which now are accurately mapped and organized thoroughfares. The system is operated under the chief of air service through an airway control office, Lieut. L. J. Matland of Wright field, here.

Average 2,000 Miles. Airways trips have averaged 2,000 miles for each army pilot, all of whom take turns in making the flights, and usually cover two days. Ships start simultaneously from certain flying fields, such as Bolling, Langley, Selfridge, Scott and Mitchell fields, and move over charted lines on schedule. Sometimes the flyers cross en route; sometimes their ways coincide in part. They fly over all kinds of ground, in all seasons, and tabulate with the most minute accuracy every point regarding ground and air conditions. It is by means of these repeated first-hand reports that information governing selection of routes, speeds, altitudes, length of hops and other vital details has been brought to the point of usefulness for virtually all of the United States. Night flights over the army airways arranged for the technical equipment necessary to keep the mails going.

Speed 115 Miles an Hour. A service passenger, on his first long "hop" over the airways, described the experience as follows: "A longing look at the ground near St. Louis, a big bump, and on the ground again outside Louisville. Up again and smoothly down again at Dayton. Average speed 115 miles per hour. Average height, 2,000 feet. Dayton to Washington, practically no difference. D. C. to Mitchell field much the same, except fewer bumps over the water."

Scheduled army flights heretofore have run on a weekly basis, but recently they were restricted to one per month from each starting point. It is hoped that in the fall funds and equipment will be available to put Douglas transports on the airways, permitting the carrying of seven passengers on each trip.

Japan in Drive to Cut High Cost of Weddings

Tokyo.—Getting married in Japan costs more—for the Japanese—than in many other countries. For this reason Premier Wakatsuki, as chairman of the thrift and saving encouragement board, has begun a campaign to make weddings cheaper.

Expenditures for a Japanese wedding run all the way from $250 for the lower classes to $250,000 for the very rich. When the daughter of a poor clerk marries it is frequently necessary for her father to spend his entire life's savings in the observance of the customs and celebrations which are deemed essential in order to maintain "face."

While the bride's father groans under heavy expense, the bridegroom does not escape. In the first place, after the go-between has arranged the engagement the young man makes a money present to the girl's family. The sum is supposed to be generously commensurate with the intended son-in-law's financial position.

Rides 94 Miles Daily at 90, Then Raises Rates

Topsfield, Mass.—Albert A. Conant, who travels daily 20 miles from his home here to his office in Boston, started on his ninety-fourth year as little concerned as if he had been half a century younger.

Mr. Conant believes he is one of the oldest members of the Masonic fraternity in the United States. He has been a member of St. John's lodge in Boston since 1867. He is Topsfield's oldest resident and for years has taken an active interest in town affairs.

Besides attending to daily business, the nonagenarian finds time to cultivate a spacious flower garden. Rose are his hobby.

"CONSCIENCE FUND" IS FED BY SINNERS

Hand Government Half Million Since 1811.

Washington.—The prodding of the conscience of the inhabitants of the United States has netted the government half a million dollars since 1811. The money reposes in the federal treasury and is known as the government's "conscience fund." It has been made up, a little at a time, by persons who have sent money to the government in atonement for their sins.

Long rows of files in the Treasury department hold letters which have accompanied these "conscience contributions." Most of the letters are unsigned. In addition, a staff of clerks is kept busy keeping account of the fund and depositing contributions as they are received.

First Given in 1811. The first contribution to the conscience fund was in 1811, under President Madison, when a writer sent $5 to the government and a letter stating that the sender had defrauded the government out of that amount. The largest contribution received was $30,000 from a person in New York city, and the smallest was one cent, to pay for a stolen postage stamp.

Contributions to the conscience fund come from all parts of the world, even from such remote places as London, Australia, Wales, Manila, Porto Rico and Africa. The contributions average about $5,000 a year—and the total in 1925 was greater than in any single year since 1916.

Returned the Stamp. A man in Philadelphia wrote that five years previously he had stolen a two-cent stamp. He joined the Salvation army, and his conscience finally persuaded him to make restitution. So he sent the government a two-cent stamp—pasted on the outside of the letter he wrote to the treasury.

Another case is that of a society woman, name not divulged, who mailed $10,000 to the government from Paris, France. With the money was a letter stating that the woman had evaded customs duties of that amount in New York city.

The largest contribution, $30,000, was from a person who was formerly a government employee. A letter said that the $30,000 was five times the amount the writer had stolen from the government. No name was signed to the letter, which was mailed in Chicago.

The treasury reports a total of $5,241.31 added to the conscience fund in 1925. In 1924 the total was $8,839.32; 1922, $2,443.11; 1923, $2,804.28; 1924, $3,508.54.

Pilaff Is Boiled Rice; Tastes Like Risotto

Constantinople, Turkey.—Pilaff, the national dish of Turkey, resembles risotto more than any other dish in America.

Pilaff is boiled rice, prepared by adding a quantity of water, always the thickness of two fingers in excess of the quantity of rice. Exactly this amount of water will be absorbed in the cooking process. None must be left in the pot. The length of time required for cooking depends, of course, on the quantity.

After it is cooked, the rice is sprinkled with salt and liquid butter is poured over it. The pot is then again covered and left to stand over the fire for five minutes.

If pilaff is properly boiled, it should be possible, according to the pilaff experts of the little Black sea village of Bolou, to roll a spoonful of the rice out over the table, which process causes each kernel to separate and not to cling together, as in risotto, which is cooked longer than pilaff.

If it is desired to give the dish more flavor, boiled meat or chicken, chopped, may be added after the cooking. A favorite seasoning is to pour bouillon or chicken broth over the rice. Dry raisins are sometimes added.

An old clipping: "A kiss is a peculiar proposition. The small boy gets it for nothing; the young man has to steal it; the old man has to buy it. It's the baby's right, the lover's privilege, the hypocrite's work. To a young girl the kiss is faith; to a married woman, hope; to an old maid, charity."

POULTRY

FIXED EGG-LAYING RATIONS
Poultry Keeper Should Determine on Feeds Best Suited to Conditions and Prices.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

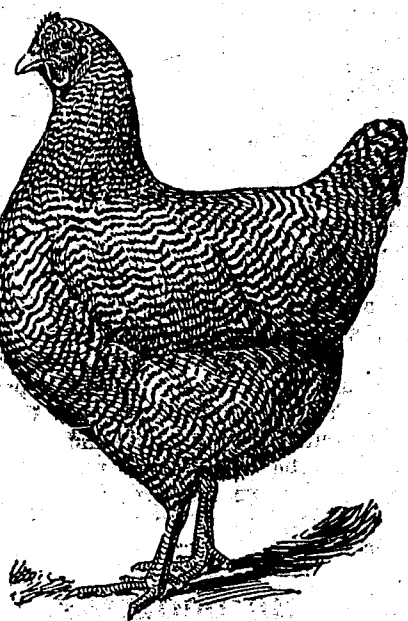

All the following rations have been used with good results at the experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, but the poultryman should choose the ration best adapted to local conditions and prices. Feeds not included here may be added or substituted on the basis of their comparative analysis, provided the meat scrap or animal-protein feeds are not replaced by cottonseed meal or other high vegetable-protein feeds. All changes in the feed should be made gradually, as sudden changes may decrease egg production materially.

Ration No. 1, Mash.—16 lbs. cornmeal, 6½ lbs. meat scrap, 1 lb. bran, 1 lb. middlings. Scratch mixture: 1 lb. cracked corn, 1 lb. wheat, 1 lb. oats.

Ration No. 2, Mash.—2 lbs. cornmeal or barley meal, 1 lb. bran, 1 lb. middlings, 1 lb. meat or fish scrap. Scratch mixture: 2 lbs. cracked corn, 1 lb. oats, 1 lb. wheat or barley.

Ration No. 3, Mash.—5 lbs. cornmeal, 1 lb. meat scrap. Scratch mixture: 2 lbs. cracked corn, 1 lb. oats.

Ration No. 4, Mash.—9 lbs. cornmeal, 5 lbs. middlings, 4 lbs. bran, 2 lbs. cottonseed meal or gluten meal, 2 lbs. meat scrap, 2 per cent bone meal. Scratch mixture: 2 lbs. cracked corn, 1 lb. wheat, 1 lb. oats, 1 lb. barley.

Young Plymouth Rock.

Ration No. 5, Mash.—1 lb. cornmeal, 1 lb. bran, ¼ lb. meat scrap, 1 lb. middlings, 1 lb. ground oats. Scratch mixture: 2 lbs. cracked corn, 1 lb. wheat, 1 lb. oats, 1 lb. barley.

Ration No. 6, Mash.—3 lbs. cornmeal, 1 lb. bran, 1 lb. middlings, ½ lb. meat scrap. Scratch mixture: 2 lbs. cracked corn, 1 lb. wheat, 1 lb. oats. Feed with table scraps or cooked vegetables.

Ration No. 5 is adapted especially for yearlings or old hens of breeds inclined to get too fat, such as the Plymouth Rock, Orpington and Wyandotte.

As cornmeal, fed with meat scrap, is very fattening, these two feeds are cut down in the rations.

With ration No. 6 feed all table scraps available, or vegetables at the rate of 5 pounds daily to 30 hens.

Five per cent bone meal may be used in any of these mashes, and the quantity of meat scrap reduced accordingly, or 2 per cent of bone meal may be added without changing the mashes.

RAPPITES' SHRINE TO BE PRESERVED

Woman to Restore Men's Quarters of Queer Cult.

New Harmony, Ind.—Preservation of one of the most interesting links with the Rappites has been assured New Harmony settlers through the purchase by Miss M. E. Fauntleroy of an old Rappite dormitory here.

The commercialism of the present which crept within its walls, blurring but not obliterating its historic aspects, threatened the very life of the old structure. For years it has housed stores. Recently it was to be sold to a junk firm, which would have torn down part of it and altered the remainder.

Miss Fauntleroy intends to restore it and eventually it will become a public shrine in which will be housed relics of the quaint German peasants who followed George Rapp, religious leader and prophet, into the almost trackless forests bordering the Wash river, more than a century ago.

Under the doctrine of the Rappites, all members practiced celibacy. The men were quartered in dormitories. Dormitory No. 2, which Miss Fauntleroy bought, was built in 1817. It was the largest of three erected.

On its south wall still hangs the old sundial, across whose face the lengthening shadows measured off the hours of rest and toll for the Rappites, all of whom worked for the community and not for individual gain. One of the dormitories was burned, and the other now is a hotel.

See What's Inside—

The length of service your engine will give you depends upon its working parts. We are proud of this neat, compact engine—that's why we show you "what's inside."

John Deere Type E Gasoline Engine

Notice, first of all, that simple splash oiling system. Every important working part is enclosed in the dust-proof housing and operates in a bath of clean oil. Oiling begins the instant you start the engine and stops when the engine is stopped. There's no oil wasted in this engine as it has no sight-feed oilers to open and close—no grease cups to fill and turn down.

Note the sturdy construction of its working parts—each part is designed to do its work steadily and stand up under severe conditions.

There are a great many real quality points in this engine that we want to show you. Come in and see us the next time you are in town.
