

NEWS NOTES FROM THE KENDRICK SCHOOLS

What The Students Are Doing This Week.

Miss Dick has made some very clever health clocks. They are in the form of ordinary clocks. The hour hand points to the standard weight of the pupil, and the minute hand to the weight. Each child has a clock, with his name on it. These are on the wall. The pupils also have health charts. These are marked every day for three weeks. They are for various health chores, as sleep, baths, brushing teeth, etc.

The second graders are learning "My Shadow," a poem by Robert Louis Stevenson.

The second grade is reading the story "Cinderella," in their new Free and Treadwell reader.

The primary students learned two new songs last week, they were "Humpty-Dumpty" and "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

The primary room has a small snowbird in a cage, which they will observe and care for, for a short time.

The third and fourth grades are completing their "Health Chores." The losing grade will give a party to the winners.

The fourth grade completed their "Gordon Reader" and started to read their "Young and Field Reader."

The children have taken their semester examinations this week.

The following girls and boys were neither tardy nor absent during the month of December: Keith and Paul Dammarell, Harold Ellis, Jim Schulze, Marjorie Onstott, Thomas Blevins, James Bojon, Herbert McDowell, Bessie Candler, Donald MacPherson, Doris Crocker, Evelyn Housley, Margaret Daugherty, Esther Aiken, Elmer Emery and Joe Watts.

The fifth and sixth grades' work has mainly been review this week. Some of their semester tests were given this week. In most subjects both grades have completed the required amount of work for the first semester. In some of the subjects more than half of the terms work has been covered.

The fifth grade was glad to have Marjorie Newton and Leola LaHatt back with them Monday. Both the girls have been absent for a week. Marjorie has been very sick with tonsillitis and Leola slipped and fell, during vacation, and hurt her knees.

The state examinations will be given to the students of the seventh and eighth grades, January 19, 20 and 21, by Mrs. R. Knepper. The eighth graders from this school will write on all subjects. The papers will be corrected by Mr. MacGregor, and will be considered as a six week's exam. They will be averaged with the daily work to get the grade for this period. The seventh grade will write on state questions in geography and physiology. The other exam questions will be made out by the teacher.

The general assembly program was conducted by the Freshmen, as follows: Bible reading; Josephine Wilken; general song; piano solo, Miss LaPine; general song; song by the Glee club.

The Glee Club has received a new song, which they ordered some time ago. The name of it is "To a Wild Rose" by McDowell. They devoted their entire practice, Monday, to this song. It is rather difficult, but the girls have done very creditable work on it.

The notebooks for the last six weeks were handed in this week in all classes.

The Latin Classes have been reviewing according to the Parts of Speech. This seems to be a very easy way, and makes the work much clearer.

The Ancient and American History and the English IV Classes have started a new method of review. The work is divided in sections according to pages, and each student has a section to report on in class. By this method the work can be covered in a short time, and the students find it easier to remember.

Following is an original story by Joe Watts, third grader, age seven years. See if you don't think it is good, in more ways than one. The title is "The Hunter":

"The hunter lives in the forest, and gets qit a lot of birds becas his dog helps him One time his dog which was useto hunting caught a pheasant out of season.

"Know Thyself"

"Know thyself" is an excellent rule for those who would acquire good taste in dress, says Miss Marjorie Eastman, clothing specialist for the university extension division.

"In order to achieve a satisfactory standard a woman must know something about lines and colors and study them in relation to herself," Miss Eastman advises. "Study your own figure, posture, complexion, features, facial expressions, and personality. The figure and complexion probably are often taken into consideration in choosing clothes, but other factors should not be neglected. The effect of a costume may be ruined by a slovenly posture or ungraceful carriage; the features, and even the facial expression which helps determine lines of the face, have much to do with the becomingness of hair arrangements and hats.

"Personality is extremely important. For instance, a quiet retiring woman will not feel at home in extreme, showy clothes that attract a great deal of attention to her, yet she should not be allowed to wear neutral, lifeless costumes that make her still more inconspicuous. A small amount of vivid color may help to bring her out of retirement, for one unconsciously tries to 'live up' to her clothes. The striking, dramatic personality is enhanced by the strong, rich colors and extreme designs that would entirely overshadow a shy, modest person."

A satisfactory standard of dress, Miss Eastman points out, will include the best elements of all features of the problem. Clothing should be comfortable, serviceable, easy to keep looking fresh and attractive, and at the same time should have the right style for the individual woman who wears it.

Gets Suspended Jail Sentence

Robert Thornton, who was arrested here several weeks ago and charged with possessing intoxicating liquor, appeared before Probate Judge Nelson at Moscow last Friday and received a fine of $150 and a suspended jail sentence of three months.

Through a ruling by Federal Judge Dietrich, recently, over 10 million dollars worth of highway bonds were invalidated in Idaho. Weather and Roads

There seems to be plenty of "weather," but there are no roads On the heels of the young blizzard of two weeks ago, has come the melting of snow that has caused the roads to break up, and on the country roads there is scarcely any bottom and the highways are so cut up and dug full of holes that it makes a decidedly unpleasant ride over them.

The roads to Spokane are open at this time, but so full of chuck holes that it is almost impossible to make any time over them, either by way of Moscow or Pullman.—Genesee News.

Addition of Dried Yeast to Normal Calf Ration

In tests at the Minnesota experiment station in which 47 calves were fed, C. H. Eckles, V. M. Williams, J. W. Wilbur, L. S. Palmer and H. M. Harshaw found that the addition of dried yeast to normal rations, including whole or skim milk, grain and hay, did not increase the rates of gain from two weeks to 180 days of age.

"In several experiments with rats, from 15 to 20 per cent of yeast in the ration was required for the production of normal growth. Increasing this amount did not have an additional stimulating effect. A calf ration was fed to rats, with and without yeast, with unsatisfactory results in both cases, due probably to an excess of bulk."

Manure Allowed to Pile Up Loses Its Fertility

There is always a loss when manure is permitted to pile up—be it summer or winter. The loss in the warm months is apt to be heavier than in the case of winter-stored manure except where the latter is held with no protection from the weather. But in summer, whether manure is kept under cover or not, it is certain to lose considerable of its fertility through heating. This is a purely bacterial and chemical change. The most effective way to check it is to keep the waste slightly moistened. But better than this is to get it to the fields if possible. It is no failure in economy to fertilize grass plots which one plans to plow in the fall or following spring. If manure be applied directly to the grasses in small amounts and thin spread no loss of fertility elements will occur. Distribution is always better than allowing the waste to pile up, although if properly protected it can be held for short periods without serious loss.

Turkeys for Breeding

Those who are interested in securing turkeys for breeding stock should make their selection early. Usually the early-maturing turkeys are sold for the early trade and the slower maturing fowls are kept over for the later markets. Breeding stock should come from the very best stock. Turkeys that make rapid gains and mature quickly are the ones best suited for breeding purposes. It is a serious mistake to take the smaller birds on account of cheapness.

"Voicing" Piano

In voicing a piano the hammers are loosened in order to make the tone more uniform. This process does not prevent a piano from being tuned afterward.

Varieties of Jinxes

The natives of Galway consider the fox unlucky. If they meet a fox on their way to fish, they turn back for that day. If Irishmen or Italians pronounce the names of certain animals while they are fishing they are certain to have ill luck. In some sections of Scotland there are old women whose names are unlucky and such persons must be spoken of in an indirect way.

We Don't Need Them

Girard, in the Philadelphia Inquirer, says we get "hurricane from the Carib Indian," and that "tornado was Latin, and it means to turn, while typhoon and cyclone were borrowed from the Greeks." It's about time we returned them to where they came from.—Detroit Free Press.

BEN FRANKLIN RATED FERTILITY ABOVE MONEY IN THE BANK

Back in the days when Benjamin Franklin trod the streets of Philadelphia, many gems of Franklin wisdom went out of that city and into the copy of books of forthcoming generations. One of Franklin's best was, "The best investment is a deposit of fertility in the soil bank—surest and pays the best." True in that day of virgin soils, and truer by far today!

Since Dr. Franklin made that farsighted observation the boundaries of American agriculture have been pushed west, south, and north in our nation. New soils have been made old soils. The preservation of soil fertility has become a problem of vital importance to agriculture. Thousands of experiments have been made. Many commercial fertilizers have been developed. But in most sections the old reliable barnyard manure remains the outstanding fertility restorer. Always considered a by-product of livestock production, in these days of highly intensive farming it assumes a role of first importance. No farmer can afford to waste its life-giving fertility.

Common sense says that every forkful should be put on the fields. The McCormick-Deering Manure Spreader makes this a comparatively easy task. Loads can be lifted easily over the low sides of the McCormick-Deering, after which the light-draft spreader carries the manure to the fields and spreads it uniformly and finely over the ground. Some pull their spreaders with their Farmall tractors. Others use horses or regular tractors. In any event, the work they do is of the most profitable kind.

If you are not now taking advantage of the McCormick-Deering Manure Spreader, we suggest that you talk to us about one for immediate use.

H. P. Hull handed a number of his friends a package of lemons this week, which he sent from California. They were as large as three ordinary lemons and were grown on the ranch of Mr. Banta, a former Kendrick resident, who conducted a store in the Fraternal Temple building.

Mr. and Mrs. James Calkins of Moscow arrived last Sunday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Knepper. Mr. Calkins is a brother of Mrs. Knepper.

The snowfall yesterday morning is a gentle reminder that it isn't time to look for spring. The mild weather last week created considerable speculation as to the probabilities of an early spring. Squirrels were out and frogs were croaking but they are not in evidence right now.

Miss Evelyn Hanson of Troy arrived yesterday afternoon to visit friends here.

The Kendrick high school basketball team played the Juliaetta team a practice game at the local gym last Wednesday evening. The score was 26 to 10 in favor of the locals.

the Department for this interesting and valuable data as we are terribly interested in matters pertaining to the breaking of bottles in milk plants.

Cameron News

The holidays with their many big dinners, card games and "Watch" parties, are past and after a splendid vacation, Cameron has "gone back to work." The men are seen cutting wood or hauling feed for stock, while the women are busy sewing and making quilts.

After a two-weeks vacation, school was re-opened last Monday. A few children have been absent on account of bad colds.

The George Ehlers, Carl Wegner and Amos Spekker families are suffering with the "flu". The cases are mild but convalescence is slow.

Herman Meyer returned Saturday from visiting his parents at Spokane. He reports his father as getting along quite well.

PULLETS VERSUS HENS FOR EGGS

It is commonly believed that well-matured pullets will produce more eggs than hens a year older. How much more has been studied by the Maine department station. The results of this study add strength to the emphasis on pullets as egg producers. The records covering several years and a considerable number of flocks show that pullets produced about 40 per cent more eggs than they did in their second year of laying. Not only was the production larger but the greater per cent were laid during the period of high prices. That is, properly handled, matured pullets will produce more of the eggs during the winter months the first year than they will the second year of egg production.

Another factor in favor of keeping as high a per cent as possible of pullet producers in the egg factory is the higher death rate that comes with each added year of age. Aside from contagious diseases that are no respecters of age, the deaths among mature birds mount rapidly after the first year; more rapidly among the American breeds than the Mediterranean, probably.

These three reasons should boost close culling of the farm flock during the summer and fall. Keeping any hen after the close of the second laying year is generally poor policy unless she is of proved value as a member of the breeding pen.

Conditions on most farms favor the disposal of a high per cent of the hens in order to give the pullets adequate room for development. More pullets and hens kept than the houses and facilities warrant are ten times more frequent than a small flock that the housing and equipment justifies.
