THE KENDRICK GAZETTE

"The Pulse of The Potlatch"

Published every Friday at Kendrick Idaho, by Ralph B. Knepper

Subscription Price - $1.50

Don't fail to read and digest the good article on beans, written by Dr. Moser and published on the front page of this issue of the Gazette. Whether you agree with him or not, you will have to admit that the good bean growers who raise a big crop year after year, use the methods he outlines.

Recently Dr. Moser went into a field of beans being raised by a prominent farmer of the Potlatch. The beans didn't look as good as they should and were not standing up under the hot weather. Dr. Moser scraped a shallow muleh from the top of the ground and then by strenuous exertion picked a hole with his pocketknife into the hard soil underneath. It was dry as far down as he dug and the hard soil was cracked open in places. After a friendly discussion, the grower finally admitted that Dr. Moser was right in his deep cultivation argument. He said: "Doc, I know you are right, but I'll be d—d if I like to have a dentist teach me how to farm."

In "big business" the managers, with years of experience, often call in "efficiency experts" to map out a plan to put their business on a more economic basis. Maybe Dr. Moser is our "efficiency expert" and by his investigation and observation has developed an economically sound method of bean culture, one that will stand up under the "dry spell" that we almost invariably have during the progress of growing a bean crop in the Potlatch.

McCormick-Deering

Tractor Power---for All Work!

EVERY YEAR McCormick-Deering Tractors stand stronger with local farmers. The name McCormick-Deering has become the symbol of reliable power farming because it stands for carefully built, practical, many-sided, long-lived farm power—and the kind of service cooperation we are able to offer our customers.

Men who have used International Harvester tractors—for months or for years—are steadfast friends of McCormick-Deering farm power. They will recommend McCormick-Deering when you come to buy. Other men, who risked using cheaper, lighter tractors, found themselves underpowered. They fell short of reaching full production with the least possible labor and in the shortest possible time. After this experience they were ready for new and better power. There are many like these, too, who will recommend McCormick-Deering when you make your power investment.

LOCAL NEWS

G. P. Anderson left Tuesday of this week for Portland where he will visit his brother.

George Barnum is tearing down his big pavilion here this week. For some time it has been used for roller skating but the patronage did not justify continuing it.

Dr. Miller will be here tonight (Friday) for the last quarterly conference of the local Methodist church.

The town council held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night of this week. Nothing but routine business was transacted.

Mrs. Wade Keene and children drove to Spokane last Saturday to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schulze and children were Deary visitors last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Walker were in Deary and Troy last Sunday-afternoon.

Carl Emery left last Saturday for Spokane for a visit with relatives. His father, E. H. Emery, will leave the last of this week for a two week's vacation.

R. H. Ramey was in Pullman on business last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Long plan to leave Sunday for Nelson, B. C. for their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Daubenberg returned last Sunday afternoon from Seattle where they spent two weeks with relatives.

An error was made in last week's Gazette in stating that Ford Parks brought the first load of wheat to Kendrick this season. Wm. Wolff brought the first load. He stated this week that he threshed, hauled and sold his grain last week. His wheat averaged nearly forty bushels to the acre.

W. R. Smith of Southwick plans to leave next Tuesday for a visit in Illinois and Kentucky with friends and relatives.

M. L. Goldsmith of Redlands, Cal., was a Kendrick visitor Tuesday of this week. Mr. Goldsmith was a former Kendrick resident and owned property here 35 years ago. He built the bridge across the Potlatch at Mill Street in 1892 and the following year built the one across Bear creek at the northeast end of Kendrick. He stopped to spend a short time with a few old friends here.

Miss Edith Barton of Moscow spent the week end at the home of Miss Mabel Eichner on American ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Daubenberg went to Spokane, Tuesday evening, on business.

D. L. McLain, at one time principal of the Kendrick high school, now an instructor at Leland, Stanford University, arrived Tuesday to visit friends here for a week.

Mrs. Charles Fox and little daughter, Jean, returned to their home in Seattle last week after visiting Mrs. Fox's mother, Mrs. Sam Bigham on American ridge.

A. O. Strauch of Lewiston was in Kendrick on business Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Strauch was superintendent of the Kendrick schools for two years and served as principal for one year. He is well known in this locality. He is completing the construction of a garage across the street from the Lewis-Clark hotel. He expects to have charge of the garage business and his brother-in-law will manage the mechanical department.

Everett Frasier, mail carrier on Route 2, is sporting a new Star coach this week.

There will be services in the Methodist church on American ridge Sunday morning and in Kendrick in the evening at the usual hour.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. MacPherson purchase the residence in Kendrick which they now occupy, from Arnold Behrens of Juliaetta. They expect to make a number of substantial improvements in the property.

There will be services at the U. B. church on Bear ridge, Sunday at 11:00 o'clock a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. D. A. Myers will occupy the pulpit.

Methods of Bean Cultivation

mulch. His moisture hasn't evaporated into the clouds. He has no pitiful beans with yellow leaves and blossoms on the ground—tears and blood! Oh, boys! why will you persist in growing beans in this cruel manner.

Let's cheer up a little. How would you like to have a new sedan and a nice bank account above what you will have this fall? I am talking to the fellows who are cruel to their beans—murder of your bank account in the first degree. Boys, I will say again that big yields of beans may be grown, under ordinary moisture conditions during the winter and spring seasons, every time, without a drop of rain from the time they are planted until harvest. And if rain comes, you will be better off with large plants full of beans than the fellow who has stunted plants with a few good pods, lots of green ones, a thresh bill and a few sacks of rotten beans on his hands.

I want to tell you here, no guessing, why some have the latter condition just mentioned. Nothing is done as the good bean grower does it, but just the opposite. The plant is robbed of its moisture. It makes a great effort to do its part but the best it can do is two or so sacks per acre. It has done nobly and the grower doesn't deserve that many. The rains come and the plant has been stunted and not developed to maturity, like that most faithful animal, the dog, which has been abused most cruelly by his master, yet will love him and will do all he can to please him. (Could write about the dog and gun and fish hook all night, but it is now midnight and beans is my subject).

As I said before, like that faithful animal, the dog, your beans make another effort, a feeble one, because the plant has been almost murdered to produce its small quota of beans. But also, you have read the story about the dog that bit the heels of the horse his master was riding, in a vain effort to stop the horse. His master shot him and then found he had left his bag of gold behind and that the dog was trying to let him know—the noble animal. The noble bean makes its last effort to tell its master but he has shot it and the result is he must thresh his green beans in with his good ones and he has left a rotten mess. I had nearly 300 acres like that last fall.

As to seed, I find that the growers who are alert do not plant any old kind of seed, but prefer getting seed from the man who has the kind of beans he wants, that have ripened early and from thrifty plants.

Another point to consider is that if you have used deep cultivation that is proper for growing beans, you will have an ideal seed bed for fall wheat.

Recently, as I was on my way to the Potlatch to study the soil conditions, I stopped at Raleigh Albright's farm about three miles above Arrow Junction. I learned why Raleigh is able to buy land, build a new house and barn, buy a new truck and still have money on interest (did have a year ago). I went to his melon field and found the soil was mulched 10 inches deep, was full of moisture, and so loose that I could dig down 10 inches with the heel of my shoe without any effort. The melons looked just fine. I talked with Raleigh and found that he had learned to conserve moisture. Was certainly "tickled" to see what the boy was doing and why. Of course I am not giving him all the credit—he is married. Alongside his melon ground was a patch of radishes that had not been cultivated since matured because he was thru with them. The soil was dry and hard a foot deep or more and could hardly be penetrated with a hoe. It is plain that if your bean field is hard and dry, except for a shallow mulch on top, you are just as wrong as you can be in your method of cultivation.

Here are some puzzles. Why does anyone cultivate shallower in the middle between the rows than any other place? Have no idea!

Why in cultivating the beans isn't it a wise plan to throw a mulch about 4 to 5 inches deep on either side when the plants are sufficiently large not to cover the leaves, and why will this not keep the moisture in the soil for the benefit of the plant? Why, boys, wouldn't it be a good plan to shut yourselves in a room, take a pair of old socks, fill them about a third full of beans, and with one in each hand swing them well and hit yourself on one side of the head then on the other. Keep it up until you can get to thinking a little. If that won't work, use sand in place of beans, or maybe brickbats. But whatever you do—get to thinking.
