WHY NOT JOIN FORCES?

Julietta and Kendrick should join forces and put forth every effort to have the road from Arrow to Deary designated as a state highway. This highway, when completed, would offer a saving of over 40 miles from North Idaho points to the state capitol, over the present North and South highway. This shortcut, in conjunction with the proposed improvement of the Loop road from New Meadows, which also offers a saving in distance of over 40 miles from the north and of the state to Boise, would provide a saving of over 80 miles, or nearly three hours traveling time. When it is learned that only ten miles of grading stand between connecting the two ends of the highway from Kendrick to Deary, it appears rather logical that this connection should be made. Wallace, Kellogg and St. Maries might profitably use their influence to help put this project over as it would bring these towns over 40 miles closer by auto travel to the state capitol.

PROVIDE MELON MARKET

A state highway offering a short cut of over 40 miles from the present North and South highway at Spalding to North Idaho points, would route enough tourist traffic through the Julietta section to provide a market for thousands of dollars worth of Julietta melons. At Irrigon, Oregon, last week the writer paid 60 cents for a melon at a stand along the highway that would have retailed in the stores of Julietta or Kendrick for half that amount—except that the quality was not up to the Julietta standard. Stands along arterial highways are proving profitable to the small growers of fresh produce.

An exchange says that the modern girl marries in haste to repaint at leisure.

A hunch from Mr. Brisbane: "If your business isn't worth advertising, advertise it for sale."

Good business men have learned that friendliness toward each other pays in dollars and cents. Nothing holds a town back more than ill feeling or a town row.

A Texas man is suing for divorce on the grounds that his wife refuses to talk to him. Men are sometimes hard to please.

The Western Advocate says that the easiest way to get back on your feet is to get rid of your car.

And now they say that every man is a sucker if you show him the right kind of bait.

"Pa" Olmsted, of the Grangeville Free Press, created a sensation at the Oregon Editorial Association banquet at Bandon by the Sea, recently, when he offered the following toast: "Idaho, where men are men and women sleep in their underwear."

Ed Skinner tells of an Emmett man who put up the best alibi thus far recorded during the cedar season. The gentleman's good wife told him that she smelled cider on his breath, whereupon he replied that his collar was so tight that it squeezed his Adam's apple.—Caldwell News.

City papers are full of society notes such as "Mrs. Smith-Jones entertained a number of ladies at a bridge luncheon this afternoon." No mention is made of the Potlatch farmers wives who "entertain" 15 to 20 harvest hands for three square meals a day.

How To Kill Your Town

Buy from peddlers as much and as often as possible. Denounce your merchants because they make a profit on their goods. Glory in the downfall of a man who has done much to build up your town. Make your town out a bad place and stab it every chance you get. Refuse to unite in any scheme for the betterment of the material interests of the people. Tell your merchant that you get goods a great deal cheaper in some other town and charge him with extortion. If a stranger comes to your town tell him everything is overdone and predict a general crash in the near future. If you are a farmer, curse the place where you trade as the meanest on earth. Talk this over with your neighbors and tell them the men are robbers and thieves. It will make your property much less valuable, but you don't care.—Altoona Tribune.

We offer this one with apologies to Mr. MacPherson: A Scotch beau sent his girl a packet of flower seeds and the following note: "Plant these now and you will have a nice bouquet on your birthday."

A city man heard a pretty good conundrum one day—at least he thought it was good—he came home all ready to try it on his wife. "Do you know why I am like a mule?" he asked her, suppressing his laugh. "No," came her prompt reply, "I know you are but I have never been able to figure out why." The man had forgotten his correct answer anyway.—Ex.

A chap was arrested for assault and battery and brought before the judge.

Judge (to prisoner) "What is your name, occupation, and what are you charged with?"

Prisoner: "My name is Sparks. I am an electrician, and I am charged with battery."

Judge (after recovering his equilibrium) "Officer, put this guy in a dry cell."—Ex.

Mrs. Ethel Custer Schuler, who for several years was a popular telephone girl on the local exchange, writes from San Francisco as follows:

"Enclosed find check for $1.50 for the Gazette. I couldn't get along without it, even if I am a long ways from home. I never forget the people at Kendrick. Would like to have been there the Fourth of July because I am sure everyone had a good time."

Mrs. N. C. Thomas of Spokane is visiting friends here this week.

Few hunters went out in the fields at the opening of the grouse and native pheasant season last Saturday. Owing to the new trespass law and the fact that the season is closed in Latah county, many were disgusted and failed to go out. Those who did go found birds very scarce and no one reported the limit.

Higher or Lower

Agent Ramey at the local depot is accustomed to answer many foolish questions as a part of his job with the N. P. It is necessary sometimes to go into details about as follows: Someone asked the ticket agent what was the difference between an upper and a lower berth. He said 50 cents difference. The lower berth is higher than the upper; the higher price is for the lower; if you want it lower you will have to go higher; we sell the upper lower than the lower; in other words the higher, the lower; most people don't like the upper, altho it is lower, on account of its being higher; when you take an upper you get up to go to bed and get down to get up; you can have the lower if you pay higher; the upper is lower because it is higher; if you are willing to go higher it will be lower.

Filling Stations

I am wondering what is eventually going to become of all the filling stations. A filling station is anything from a fellow who keeps it in a 5-gallon can to the elaborate place where a fellow jumps out and wipes off the windows, another fills the radiator and still another attends to the gas. In four years the number of cars has increased 100 per cent. In the same time the filling stations have multiplied 20 times. But who stands the toll? Of course the traffic can't stand the toll. Someone has to pay 20 times as much for "service" as he did four years ago. Largely the motorist pays, just as he pays for the gas tax and the fast-driving tax and the tire tax and the innumerable other taxes. Oftimes the excess comes from the earnings of the stenographers sister. If it were not for those 18 practically useless stations that have been built in four years, gas would likely be selling for around 10c. Maybe. The iniquity of it is that if there is a gas monopoly the big dealers heap up the profit. It is the competition that makes auto life bearable. I don't know what to do about it all. Nobody does.—Exchange.
