

Death of W. A. Fleshman

The following account of the death and funeral of Wm. A. Fleshman was taken from the San Diego Union, December 18. Mr. Fleshman is a brother of Frank and Jeff of near Leland and for many years was a resident of the Leland community prior to moving to California.

Funeral services for William Andrew Fleshman, 4568 Felton street were held Friday afternoon at Kent's funeral home in East San Diego. Services were conducted by Peralta lodge No. 416, I. O. O. F., of East San Diego. Interment was in Glen Abbey Memorial park. Many floral pieces testified to the high esteem and respect which everyone who knew the deceased held for his upright and sterling character.

"Mr. Fleshman was one of the men of pioneer stock whose word was as good as his bond," said one of his friends yesterday.

Fleshman was born in Indiana in 1853. When a young man, he moved to Wellington, Kansas. There he met Eva J. Harmon and they were married in 1879. For a time they continued to make their home in Kansas and then later the call to new fields took them on to Oklahoma. For 17 years they resided in Okenee, Oklahoma. It was there that Fleshman became affiliated with the I. O. O. F., in which he still retained membership at the time of his death. The new farming regions of Idaho then opened up and the family migrated to Leland, Idaho, where for many years they made their home. In 1916 the call to sunny California was too strong to resist. Fleshman brought his family to San Diego and purchased a home in Normal Heights, where he lived and took an active interest in community welfare and advancement until his death.

The deceased was the father of four children, three of whom survive him. They are Mrs. F. H. Plank of San Diego; George R. Fleshman, Priest River, Idaho, and Mrs. O. L. Kirtley, Los Angeles. One son, Otis Fleshman of Alberta, Canada, died in 1918.

He also left three grand sons, Ralph H. Scott, San Diego, and Enoch A. and Kenneth H. Scott of San Francisco, and one granddaughter, Leta G. Fitzpatrick of Sprague, Wash. Of great grandchildren there are four, Andrea and Doris Scott of San Diego and Patricia Joy and Dorothy Jean Fitzpatrick of Sprague, Wash.

A Questionable Tribute

Caldwell News: In a neighboring paper we read an obituary in which it is said of a late and lamented citizen that "he did not have an enemy in the world." A similar tribute might with truth be paid to a fishworm. If true, it means that during his lifetime the man to whom the intended tribute was paid never stood for right and against wrong, never defended the weak against the selfish strong, never stood out openly and frankly against injustice and never earned the joy that comes from being steadfast in friendship when the roads of life became rough for others. Christ had enemies; he was crucified. Socrates had enemies; he was forced to drink of the poison hemlock; Lincoln had enemies; he was assassinated. Therefore, let it not be said in praise of any man other than an imbecile that "he did not have an enemy in the world." This because the true worth of a citizen may, as a rule, be judged by the class of enemies he accumulates. To become hated by double-dealers, crooked politicians and tricksters is outstanding evidence of useful citizenship.

Newtons Moved to Spokane...

R. D. Newton, who recently sold his drug store at Colville, has moved to Spokane. He now has charge of the prescription department of the Liggett Drug Co.

Gasoline Tax Collections

Gasoline tax collections to December 1, 1927, amounted to $1,562,329.57, it is announced by Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state, and it is estimated December receipts will aggregate over $100,000. In November the department collected $142,617.34 from the sale of 3,565,433.5 gallons. Total gallons sold in November 1926 amounted to 3,213,257.7.

Total tax for 1926 was $1,182,583.61 from 39,419,453 gallons. The total gallons sold in 11 months of 1927 is 39,680,747.9. The secretary estimates the gallons sold for 1927 will exceed by 3 million those sold in 1926.

Schmidt-Parks Nuptials

Probably, the community's first wedding of the New Year, was solemnized last Sunday evening, when Miss Margaret Schmidt was united in marriage to Mr. Homer Parks. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage at Cameron, under a bower of Christmas greens and a large Christmas bell, Rev. E. A. Rein officiating.

The bride wore a gown of pink silk crepe, with an overdress of white silk shadow lace. Her tulle veil was caught with a wreath of myrtle. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses centered with a white lily.

Harold Parks, brother of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meyers, sister and brother-in-law of the bride attended the pair.

Shortly after the ceremony, a goodly number of the Cameron young people gathered about the parsonage to charivari the couple, after which they were invited in for treats and a social hour.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schmidt and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Parks, both families residing on adjoining farms, south of Leland. The young couple are favorites among the younger set of Leland, Cameron and Kendrick. Mr. Parks attended the high school at Leland, also one year at Kendrick and one year at Spokane College.

After a short honeymoon trip they will be at home to their friends on the R. B. Parks place, where they will reside.

Their many friends and the Gazette wish them a long and happy future.

Death of Mrs. Inger Lien

Mrs. Inger Lien was born in Opdal, Norway, August 31, 1837 and passed away at the home of her son, Anton Lee in Deary, December 19. She has been a resident of his community since 1901.

Mrs. Lien was a devout Christian, a member of the Lutheran church and was ever ready to answer the summons to eternal rest. She was loved and respected by all who knew her for her kind and friendly disposition. Regardless of the advanced age of 90 years she had a remarkable memory and took interest in everyone around her.

Funeral services were held at the Lutheran church on Big Bear ridge, December 21st. Interment was made at the Lutheran cemetery, Rev. Peter Hesby officiating.

The pall bearers were her nephews, Ole, Andrew, Hans, Ed and Halvor Lien and Hans Sneve.

Mr. Carrick Entertains

Mr. Oliver Carrick entertained at a party at the Emery home, Friday night of last week. Those bidden were friends and relatives from Clarkston and Spokane, Messrs. and Mesdames Anderson, Barnes, E. Long, Ramey, Walker, Emery, Clarence Perryman and H. Schupfer. Each guest gave a stunt and after refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served the guests gathered round the fireplace, and with lighted candles, sang songs in the pleasant go until the wee small hours of the morning.

State Highway Projects

The Idaho highway bureau will spend $3,637,000 in 1928, it was shown Saturday when the department's annual budget was submitted to Governor H. C. Baldrige. Receipts were estimated at $3,681,000.

The program involves 246 miles of federal aid projects, including 130 miles of new construction and 340 miles as the maximum for oiling projects. There is a duplication of 66 miles of oiling, which is listed under federal aid and under oiling. In addition, 40 proposed state aid projects, mostly reconstructions, are listed.

The report shows that Idaho has 40,200 miles of roads, of roads, of which 4316 miles, approximately 10 per cent, are included in the state highway system. Of the grand total there are 18,081 miles of improved road, 11,710 miles of highways that are ony graded, 6057 miles of surfaced highways, 103 miles of oiled highways and 210 miles of paved highways.

The budget sets aside $700,000 for maintenance of the state highway system. Federal aid construction will consume $1,937,000, of which $801,000 is for new construction.

Other expenses are state aid projects, $250,000; oiling $400,000; reconstruction, $200,000; administration $90,000, and gasoline tax refunds, $60,000.

Estimated receipts are $1,700,000 from the state gasoline tax, $936,000 from federal aid, $160,000 from motor bus and truck tax and $750,000 from local sources. In addition, the bureau starts the year with an unexpended balance of $100,000 from this year's vehicle license fees, $35,000 from the operation.

Council Met Wednesday Evening

The town council met Wednesday evening of this week in regular session to transact business with four members present.

The petition asking that an ordinance be passed allowing Sunday movies was received and accepted. A copy of the ordinance was read the first time in full. The ordinance will be passed at the next regular meeting of the council. It specifies that moving picture shows may be held on Sunday afternoons between the hours of 1 p. m. and 6 p. m., except in case electric power is not available, when the shows may be conducted at a later hour in the day.

The council discussed the matter of clearing the creek channel opposite the N. P. pump house. It was decided to have the brush and rubbish cleared away on the island that has formed in the channel and also blast away the rocky point just below the swimming hole, in order to allow a straight channel for the main current of the creek. Each year the island has been increasing in size until it is now a menace to the safety of the town during high water. The N. P. Railroad Co. will be asked to co-operate in the work of blasting away the rock point.

There being nothing further to bring before the board the meeting adjourned.

A Brief Courtship

An Alabama man declares that the briefest courtship of all was that of a darkey couple in that State. It ran about as follows: Rastus speaking first:

"Why don't you take me?"
"Cause yo' ain't ast me."
"Well, now I asts yo'."
"Well, now I has yo'."—Ex.

He's Waitin to Be Told

Kendrick School Notes

The high school boys and girl's basket ball teams are going to play a game with the Lapwai teams tonight (Friday) at Lapwai. The teams are in good condition and have high hopes of victories. They intend to go in cars if possible.

The students of the Senior public expression class received their declamations and have started work on them. They will be presented in a contest at a later date.

Miss Ledbetter spent her vacation at Alice, Oregon.

Mr. Jarvis returned Wednesday from Blackfoot, Idaho.

Those neither tardy nor absent for the month of December, in the primary room are as follows: Irene Thornton, Ethel Fraser, Dick Carlson, Quentine Perryman and Floyd Candler.

The first grade has finished the Gordon Primer and is now reading the Free and Treadwell Reader.

The second grade is working hard to get some perfect arithmetic papers to hang up for January.

The children of the primary room are learning "The Little New Year" as a January memory gem.

The fifth and sixth grades took examinations in the following subjects this week: arithmetic, language, history and geography. The questions were sent out by the County Superintendent. These grades are also reviewing for the semester exams, to be given by their teacher next week.

A Silver Thaw

A silver thaw that took on rather large proportions visited the Potlatch country Tuesday of this week. A rain coming from a warm air current overhanging the country, developed a steady downpour which froze as it hit the cold air current below. Trees, telephone and power wires, took on a heavy coating of ice and a sheet of ice formed on top of the snow which covered the ground. Considerable damage was done, particularly to the trees. The power was off Tuesday afternoon and evening, owing to a broken wire on the line between Kendrick and the top of American ridge. Thousands of evergreen trees were broken off along the sides of Potlatch canyon. Fruit trees were also quite badly damaged. Warmer weather Wednesday relieved the situation within a few hours.

No Warning To Autoists

Star-Mirror: After February 1, when the 1927 Idaho auto licenses definitely expire, there will be no warnings, but arrest for owners of non-licensed cars, according to announcement by Sheriff Charlie Summerfield Wednesday. Licenses are being issued by the county assessor's office now.

In past years owners have been warned, but with the expiration period extended until February 1, there is no excuse for unlicensed vehicles, the sheriff feels. If automobiles are not in operation during the late winter months, it will not be necessary to get a permit until the car is operated.

Auto owners of the county during December have received blanks for application for certificates of title. These, when properly filled out, allow the motorist a certificate of title. This certificate plus the usual license fee may be exchanged for 1928 plates.

Women's Missionary Society

The Leland Women's Missionary Society are giving a community program at the hall, Friday evening, January 13th, beginning at eight o'clock. A small admission will be charged and a nice lunch will be included under the one charge. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy an hour and a half of good entertainment consisting of recitations, harmonica, piano, violin and auto harp music, plays and singing.

Idaho Births Exceed Deaths

In the period December 12, 1926, to December 12, 1927, a total of 3989 people died in Idaho and 9538 babies were born, it is shown in the annual report of the state bureau of vital statistics. Death of males totaled 2448 and females 1541. Boy babies totaled 4920 and girls 4617.

On an estimated population for 1927 of 522,000 the death rate is 7.64 per 1000 and the birth rate 18.27 per 1000. For every person who died there were 2.39 babies born.

Total deaths in 1926 were 4153 and births 10,625. The estimated 1926 population was 508,000.

Linden Items

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Combs returned to Lewiston, Sunday, after spending several days visiting at the W. Weyen and Louis Alexander homes.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Grayson, who passed away Friday afternoon was buried at the Linden cemetery, Saturday afternoon.

Cleve McPhee has recently purchased a radio.

Grandma Keeler visited at the C. H. Fry home several days last week.

The dance Friday night was well attended and a good time was reported by all.

Mrs. Arthur Bohn returned home Friday accompanied by her brother, Norman Enger, who will stay with her.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Weyen and sons spent Sunday evening at R. C. Wingardner's.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bohn, Cleve McPhee and Fay Pippinger were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Garner, New Years day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Lyons assisted by Mrs. Whisler and Mrs. A. Alexander entertained a large crowd at a party Wednesday evening in honor of the high school pupils, Dan and Raymond Lyons, Forest Whisler and sisters Ruth and Bernice, who were spending their vacation at home. Most every family in the neighborhood was represented and a jolly good time was had by all in spite of the stormy evening. Refreshments consisting of oyster soup, sandwiches, pickles, salad, cake and coffee were served at midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lockhart have rented Clarence Weaver's place and took possession Wednesday.

Out of town visitors at the Edgar Bohn home last week were: Axel Bohn of Park, Miss Fay Pippinger of Cavendish, Mrs. Chris Dahl and daughter, Grace. Ernest Thompson and Charles Gilleburg of Park attended the dance Friday night.

Mrs. C. E. Harris and children returned home Tuesday after spending several days visiting relatives at Southwick.

Mrs. W. M. Sadler and daughters spent Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. Joe Perry at Troy.

Miss Fay Pippinger returned to her home at Cavendish, Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Edgar Bohn and Cleve McPhee, who attended the dance Monday evening.

Okoke Bridge Supper

Dr. and Mrs. Morehead were host and hostess to the Okoke Club and guests last Saturday night at a delicious two-course bridge supper. Covers were laid for sixteen at four small daintily appointed tables. After supper the evening was spent in playing bridge, until almost time for the New Year to be ushered in. When the scores were added it was found, most happily, that The Anderson's were recipients of the prize, a double deck of auction bridge cards. New Year's wishes were exchanged and the guests departed declaring the Morehead party to have been one of the pleasantest of the season. Special guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Herres and Mr. Carroll.

Prizes for H. S. Basketball

Championship and sportsman-ship prizes totaling $1100 will be given to Idaho high school basketball teams by the State Athletic Commission, it is announced by Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state, under whose direction the commission operates.

Mr. Lukens and W. B. Pratt, a member of the commission, met with the state board of control of the Idaho Interscholastic Athletic association, during the meeting of the Idaho Education association in Boise, and worked out details of the awards.

To the winners of the state championship the commission will give $200 to help defray expense in attending the national basketball tournament. In each of the six basketball districts the commission will make two awards, each of the value of $75. One will be to the district champion and the other will be to the team displaying the most sportsman-ship qualities throughout the season.

Winners in both classes will be decided by the district officials and certified to the commission through the secretary of the education association. The winning school will designate in what way it wishes the $75 spent.

"This effort on the part of the commission to take part in school athletics of the state," Mr. Lukens says, "is simply carrying out the spirit of the athletic law which says that the commission may expend such sums as it deems expedient for the promotion of clean athletics in the public schools of the state."

High Water at Arrow Junction

Because of an ice jam extending from above Ahshakka almost to the dam at Lewiston, water at the mouth of Potlatch creek backed up and flooded the Arrow railroad tracks and station platform.

The night train, Wednesday, was tied up here all night and the morning train from Lewiston, Thursday, did not arrive until nearly noon.

Reports were received here Wednesday night that a man and his family, living on the island below Arrow, were forced to take refuge in trees as the island was flooded. This report was somewhat exaggerated as later news stated that the island had nearly an acre of ground that was not flooded and the inhabitants crossed the ice to the north bank of the river with a little assistance.

A telephone communication from Orofino yesterday reported that the Clearwater had raised six feet there on account of backwater formed by the ice in the river. Whether the ice jam will do any damage to the lower country will depend on weather conditions. A gradual break-up should clear the river without any serious consequences.

Deacon Dubbs Leaves

Darius Dubbs, one of our distinguished citizens, will leave shortly for a visit with friends and relatives in Kendrick, Idaho. We shall miss Darius during his absence from us, but wish him a jolly good time in Kendrick.—Sorghum Center News, W. Va.

Raw Material Here Girls

Troy News: For the next 12 moons shy and bashful men will be seen legging it for the tall timber and the highest hills pursued by vivacious maidens, with a deadly aim and serious mein. Nevertheless we heartily endorse the coming of a calendar bearing among its dates February 29, which date means emancipation from spinsterhood of so many of the fair sex.

While it has not been definitely established, the testimony of many husbands shows that they were taken out of season by their better halves. This however is vehemently denied by the latter.

BACK THE BUSINESS MEN

It is an excellent principle to stand by those who stand by you. When something is needed in the Kendrick community the mail order houses are not in the habit of contributing. The business men are called upon and dig up their hard earned money for the good of the town. But some people forget this. They expect favors from the business men and then fail to return them. They buy from mail order houses or drive to other towns to shop. Fortunately for the town the majority of the people do not follow this principle. It would soon kill the town if they did.

Every time you buy at home you help to maintain a friendly relation with your home people. You put yourself in a position to receive favors that you would otherwise not have the right to expect. The man who sends his cash to a mail order house and uses his credit at the local stores is, as a rule, an unprofitable customer. His business is not sought for by local firms. But if he does his cash buying at home his credit is increased to a marked degree.

Moral: Don't send your money out of the community to be used to build sky scrapers in Chicago.

Expression of Appreciation

I wish to express my appreciation to the Epworth League and Freshman Class for the flowers sent to me while in the hospital, also for the cheerful letters from friends.

Buying Dairy Cows

When buying cows at a closing out sale of a man who has been in a test association, one gets a chance at cows that have records. The better cows are mostly worth the money they bring, especially if they have not had the best of care. If one buys such a cow that has the earmarks of a dairy cow and has a fair record with ordinary care, and takes her home and feeds her and makes her comfortable one may venture to say the cow will do her part.

Hens Earn More

Hens in the flocks of the 543 Ohio farmers who last year kept cost records in co-operation with the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State university, earned more for their owners in 1926 than in any year since the co-operative record keeping began. This report shows that the average hen in these 543 flocks paid its owner $3.23 for labor and feed in 1926. In 1925 the labor income per bird was $2.60; in 1924 it was $2.50.

"WAY!" grumbled John Martin, and pulled the bedclothes closer around him.
Partly visible in the curtained room, the littered dressing table, tumbled bed and carelessly discarded clothing bespoke a late and hurried retirement. Beside the bed, in the deepest shadow, stood his wife, half-clothed. She shook him gently.
"Come, dear, wake up," she urged. "It's nearly noon, and you promised to take us out to see Father today. See, it's broad daylight," and she drew back the curtains. The hard glare of a midwinter morning focused on the waking man. "There! That's better."
"Darn shame," her husband complained, as he rose. "Up all night celebrating, and then can't even sleep on New Year's morning."
Evelyn Martin smiled, but it was several minutes before she spoke again. "You don't really mind going out to Father's today, do you, dear? I wouldn't insist, but we didn't get out Christmas, and I mustn't let the season go by without seeing him at all.

I have the presents all ready, and we can drive out in no time."

"That's all right. Always did like the old gentleman. Lot of useless trouble, though. No reason on earth why he shouldn't live here with us."

"I know, but he is so used to the old home. He says he is more lonely here with us, and I think I can understand. I'm home so little, anyhow, and there he knows every nook and cranny, and that housekeeper is just a jewel. I'm going out there more often, too, this year. I'll make that New Year's resolution, John. Now that the children are older—and, by the way, I'm dropping the Woman's club this year—I'll have more time to spare." She surveyed herself in the mirror approvingly. "Well, I'll go down. Hurry, so we can start early."

In what had once been the well-to-do section of a neighboring town stood the "old home" of Evelyn's childhood. Changes had been made inside the rambling house, too, but they consisted of the modern comforts and conveniences with which a wealthy daughter chose to honor her father.

Only the parlor remained unchanged, with the old portraits on the walls, the roses painted on the ceiling, and in one corner the music box that had once been (and still was) its chief pride. Its sole window, which overlooked the neglected yard, was enclosed by reddish-brown portieres.

A grate fire added to the dim light and spread a red glow over the two figures just entering the door. The one, a feeble, gray-bearded man, was leaning on the strong arm of a kindly-looking and interesting young woman.

"See, sir," she remarked. "I've built you a nice, warm fire that will burn all afternoon. Now wait while I fix your chair for you."

"Thank you, Marie," the old man answered, leaning heavily on his cane for a moment. Then, as he settled into his chair before the grate: "Now go and have a pleasant New Year's Day with your people. Everything will be all right."

"It's not that I want to leave you, sir—"

"Marie, I have told you to go. Have friends while you are young and can enjoy them. We grow old quickly enough."

"You are sure you will not be lonely?"

"I shall not be lonely. I am used to loneliness."

"Really, sir, I had rather stay. I shan't enjoy myself for thinking of you here alone."

"Nonsense, Marie! Here I have this nice, warm fire. I do not mind. Perhaps my daughter and her family will come to see me. They said Christmas that they would try to get down on New Year's."

"Perhaps they will, sir. I shouldn't be surprised." She carefully adjusted a lap robe about her. "Good-by, then, sir. And a happy New Year."

"A happy New Year, Marie." The door closed behind her, and the master of the house was left alone.

For a long time he sat brooding, his mind repeating over and over the final words. "Perhaps my daughter will come—I shouldn't be surprised—a happy New Year, Marie—a happy New Year—" The fire crackled, and a spark shot out on the hearthstone, but the old man still sat engrossed in his thoughts. Memories of his youth—adventures—romance—pressed upon him. Finally his mind went back to his daughter. There was her picture on the mantel. He knew it was there, even though his failing eyes could barely discern its shape. Perhaps if he could touch it he would not be so lonely. She looked so like her mother.

Holding tightly to the chair, and resting his weight on his cane, the old man rose, balanced himself, and took a few steps forward. Now he could reach the picture. He stretched out his arms, a little higher. His fingers touched the frame, but in that moment he lost his balance. To his dizzy senses it seemed the room wheeled around; he clutched at objects that always eluded his grasp. He half turned toward his chair, and in so doing he fell. "Evelyn," he called, the pitiful cry of helplessness. "Evelyn!"

The fire sputtered, and cast an un-felt warmth upon the prostrate man. Beneath his head the crumpled lap-robe absorbed the thin trickle of blood. In his hand was clasped a picture of the woman who looked like her mother. But the man himself had entered upon the happiest New Year of all.

A car drew up at the curb outside and Evelyn Martin, her arms filled with presents, tripped daintily along the walk. She stepped upon the porch and shifted her bundles to open the door.

"Yoo-hoo, Daddy! Happy New Year!" She entered the firelit room. (C. 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

COWS TESTED FOR MILK PRODUCTION

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A dairy herd improvement association is an organization of dairy farmers who co-operatively employ a man to test their cows for economical production of milk and butterfat. The tester visits each farm one day each month, weighs the feed and milk of each cow, tests the milk for butterfat, and figures the results.

The dairy herd improvement association furnishes the dairyman definite information regarding the milk and butterfat production of each cow, thus enabling him to cull out the low producers, to feed the remainder according to known production, and to breed up a herd in which the daughters excel their dams. That all this is adding to the profits of members of dairy herd improvement associations is indicated by the increase in the number of these associations.

It is estimated that the average dairy cow in this country produces annually about 4,500 pounds of milk containing about 180 pounds of butterfat. The records of thousands of cows tested regularly show average yields of more than 7,200 pounds of milk and 282 pounds of butterfat. Several associations have average yearly records of more than 300 pounds of butterfat.

In the Ottertail (Minn.) association in 1924-25 the cow produced an average of 299 pounds of butterfat and returned a little more than $3 for every dollar's worth of feed consumed. Moreover, each cow returned $101 income above feed cost. Commenting on this record J. C. McDowell of the United States Department of Agriculture remarks that any cow that returns $3 for every dollar spent for feed is a good market for feed, and that a cow that each year returns $100 above feed cost is a good labor market.

Poultry Facts

A young guinea is like a young grouse or quail and will hide when scared. They do not make any noise at all when they hide from a supposed enemy and are very hard to find.

Some poultrymen place a large box of coal or wood ashes in each section of their laying houses. The hens dust in the ashes and undoubtedly remove many body lice by the process.

Feeding whole, dry oats as a large part of or all whole grain ration is poor business. Even though the oats are plump and bright, the hulls make them poor feed except in limited quantities.

The Missouri College of Agriculture has recently completed some experiments in which they find that in feeding hens, soy-bean meal may be used in place of meat scrap, thereby reducing the cost of feed. They also found it paid to feed mineral.

While the hen isn't exactly a grazing animal, she does tuck a lot of grass under her belt during a summer day. And when she can't get it, she must have sprouted oats, cabbage, mangels, or such, if she's going to gladden you with eggs.

If we expect winter eggs we must produce our pullets from hens that are bred to lay during the winter.

Thoroughly spraying the poultry house, especially the roosting and laying quarters, with crude oil or coal oil will destroy the red mites.

The period when pullets start laying is a critical one. Pullets which are due to begin to lay at freezing weather usually wait until spring. This means an entire loss for several months.

Root Diseases and Wrongs of Alfalfa

Specialist Tells of Ailments in Various Sections.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Root diseases and injuries affecting alfalfa plants in many of the large producing sections of the country are described by J. L. Welmer in Department Circular 425-C, "Observations on Some Alfalfa Root Troubles," issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Welmer does not announce any new discovery but puts on record "what has been seen with the hope that it may be of assistance in ultimately determining the causes of these alfalfa-root diseases." He reports on and describes collar rot, heart rot, hollow crown, and two less-common root troubles. Collar rot and heart rot are terms selected to designate certain exterior and interior injuries to the root at and just below the crown of the plant, which the author judges from field observations to be due to a form of winter injury which probably facilitates the development of fungous growth. The author notes the distinctions between hollow crown and heart rot. A fourth type of damage in which the root was destroyed several inches below the surface was diagnosed by W. P. Flint, state entomologist of Illinois, as the work of the clover-root curculio.

Collar rot is the name applied to a firm, moist, brown decay of the outer bark of the crown, and the upper part of the taproot, most frequently detected in the spring in the death of scattering plants of young alfalfa.

The circular may be obtained by application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Furnish Young Pullets With Comfortable Pens

Success with winter egg production is going to depend largely on the quarters in which the birds are housed, says N. R. Mehrhof, poultryman for the agricultural extension service, Florida College of Agriculture.

Any sudden change of weather conditions will have a direct bearing on subsequent egg production.

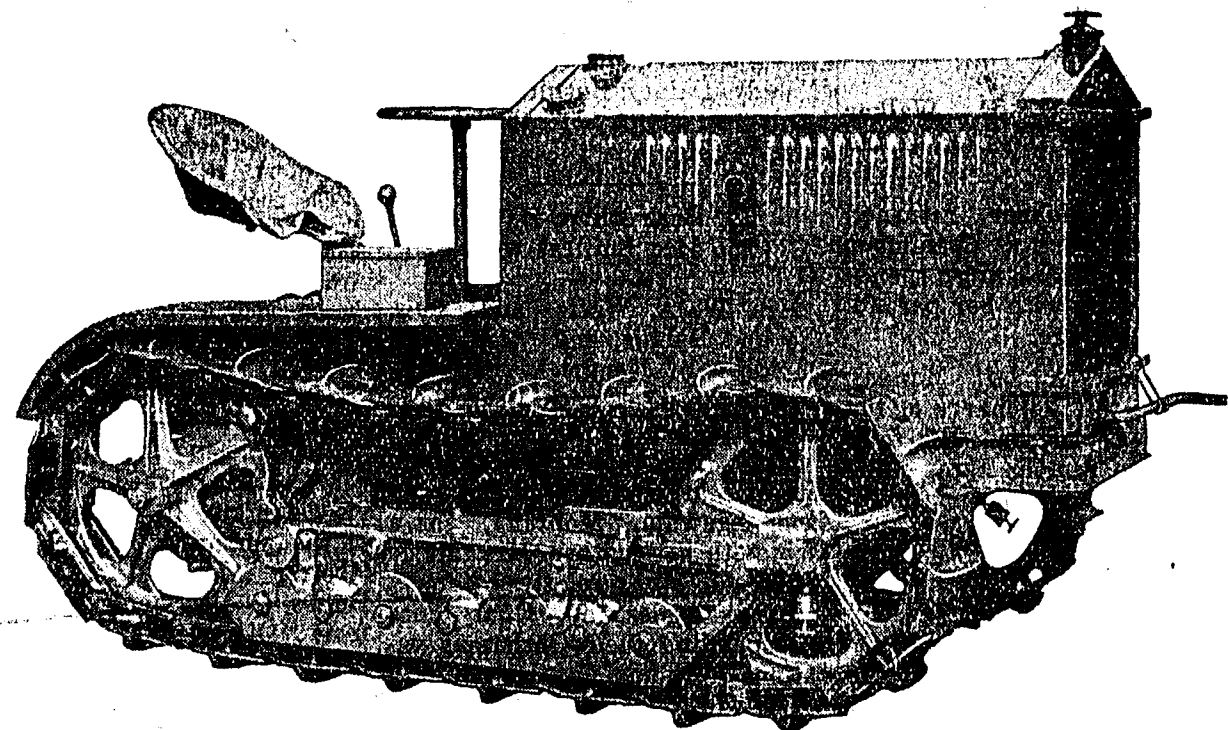

The young pullets should be provided with a house that will keep them comfortable. A contented pullet is a profitable one.

The birds need plenty of ventilation, this making it necessary not to crowd and also not to make the house too tightly constructed.

On the other hand, the birds must not be allowed to roost in drafts. A great percentage of colds are brought about by the birds being in drafts or in a too-crowded house.

Some of the things to consider rela-

WORLD'S CHAMPION Cletrac Crawler Tractors

THE TRACTOR WHICH HAS PROVEN THE GREATEST FARM TRACTOR ON EARTH
Built in the Largest Factory on Earth that build nothing but Tractors... No Hill Too Steep and No Mud TOO Deep. The Cletrac is here to Stay.

Why?

There is no job on the farm that the Cletrac can not do; it is dependable the year round. Built to resist wear and to stand the hardest knocks that man can give them.

Since we sold Cletrac Tractors here for the past two years much has been said about how long will they last? How will they stand up? and how long will the track last? Out of some fifty Cletracs which I have sold in the three Counties not one of them is worn out, all are going fine and every one is well pleased and tells his neighbors, that is why we sell so many.

There was not much farm work done last fall on account of wet weather, therefore, there will be a big demand for tractors in the spring. Owing to this big demand we will probably be short and will not be able to make delivery just when you want them, therefore I urge those who want a Cletrac in the spring to give me an order now or not later than the 10th of February so that the tractors may be shipped in carload lots from the factory

All those who order now or before February 10th will get a reduction of $75.00 on their tractors. This $75.00 will be saved on the freight where they are shipped in carload lots.

The new Cletracs are much improved over last years model. We assure prompt service when needed. Prices are as follows:
12-20 W. $1295.00; 15-25 20-K $1950.00 and the 30-45 30-A $3150.00 F.O.B. Kendrick, Ida. The new 105 H. P. is also on the market. Think of a Cletrac 105 horse power.

I also have several used tractors on hand: 1 12-20 Rumley, 1 12-20 Twin City, Fordsons, International, 1 Case Steam Engine, 1 new Superior Drill either tractor hitch or horse hitch; 1 new Grand Tetour three bottom tractor plow. This machinery I will sell at a bargain.

See me for new Oliver Plows, Superior Drills, Disc Harrows, Deep Well Pumps, Combination Grain Fanning mill and Smutt Machine. I also have any amount of fine horses and bred Jersey cow, fresh.

Lucky Strikes
—the finest cigarettes ever made.
11,105* doctors give written opinions about smoking and throat protection.

WHAT is the quality that Giovanni Martinelli, Mary Garden, William Hodge, David Belasco, Lenore Ulric, Fiske O'Hara, Blanche Ring, and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105* doctors answered this question "YES."

These figures represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

Fiske O'Hara, Pleasing Stage Star, writes:

"The throat is a delicate instrument which all singers protect with the utmost care. To avoid irritation, I smoke Lucky Strikes. They are not only kind to my throat but have the finest flavor."

...tive to poultry houses are ventilation, freedom of drafts, dryness, sunlight, convenience, roominess and economy. Look around and see that everything is ready for the pullets about to lay. Egg production this winter means more money for the producer. Keep the birds and houses clean. Do not allow parasites to retard production.

Roup Easily Controlled by Proper Management

Contagious roup is very easily spread from one bird to another by contact through the feed, water and litter. Roup is easily controlled by proper management and housing. Damp, insanitary, poorly ventilated, overcrowded, drafty quarters are conducive to its spread. Only valuable birds should receive individual treatment. Place bird in a dry, well-ventilated place and give it plenty of fresh air and feed. Every morning and evening remove all the cheesy matter from the eyes and nostrils of the bird and dip its head into a solution of bichloride of mercury (1-1,000). This is made by placing one 7.3-grain bichloride of mercury tablet in a pint of water. Hold the bird firmly and immerse the head until the eyes are covered, keeping it there a few seconds, or until it struggles.

Agricultural Notes

Leaves and trash which are burned can add no humus to the soil; better compost them.

Best results are obtained when lime for alfalfa is applied before the seed is sowed if the soil is sour, for lime acts slowly.

Portland cement is so fine that more than 75 per cent of it will pass through a screen having 40,000 holes to the square inch.

Many farmers have small concrete mixers which they use in their construction work. The machines can also be used for home mixing of fertilizers and feed.

For young pigs skin milk or butter-milk is better than tankage, to balance corn. They will soon fall to thrive on corn and tankage if they get no green feed.

If you are in doubt as to whether certain water is suitable for use in mixing concrete ask yourself: "Is it good enough to drink?" If it is, it can safely be used in concrete.

Vitamines for Fowls

Vitamines should not worry the good poultryman so much in summer as in winter. Green foods and sunshine supply the vitamins that are most apt to be lacking in the winter ration. During the early spring months these factors are apt to be lacking unless the poultryman takes special pains to see that the birds have green stuff and sunshine. Alfalfa leaves, when put in a rack where fowls may eat them, will help to supply the need for green material.

Sunlight Helps Hens

Direct sunlight will help the hens to lay strong shelled eggs as well as eggs with a high degree of hatchability. If hens have been closed up they should be turned out into the sunshine on bright days. If it is necessary to keep them closed up, then the windows should be thrown open during the middle of the day so the direct rays of the sun may get in. Glass substitutes may also be used in place of some of the window glass to let in more.

Preparing for Winter

Around Poultry House

A thorough cleaning of the poultry house should take place at this time of year in preparation for winter. The clean-up should consist of removing nests, roosts, hoppers, drinking stands and all other equipment from the house. Each should get a thorough scrubbing with water and some good disinfectant. The house itself should be swept, ceilings, walls and floor. The floor should be well scraped clean of all hard, dried litter and droppings. Dirt floors should have at least six inches of the old dirt taken off and replaced with six inches of clean dirt.

The final clean-up step should be a thorough spraying of the inside of the house with some good disinfectant. Whitewash helps to brighten a dark house and a freshly whitewashed house has a tendency to encourage its owner to keep it looking clean for some time to come.

Please keep in mind that a very distinguished guest will visit our city in the near future, in the person of Darius Dubbs, "better known as Deacon Dubbs." He comes all the way from "Ol' West Virginny". Let's give him a royal welcome when he arrives. More later. 1-1
