

LOCAL NEWS FROM THE LELAND COMMUNITY

Items of Interest From The Busy Potlatch Center.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith by Rev. Gibbs. Interment was made in the local cemetery.

Last Wednesday a surprise party was given for Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodward. Fifty friends were present. After a very fine dinner at noon, the day was very pleasantly spent visiting and watching the operation performed by two of the Leland merchants.

Friday evening the ladies of the Missionary Society entertained their husbands at a party and supper. President, Mrs. Jesse Hoffman, acted as toast master. Speeches and songs were given, and the latter part of the evening was spent in playing games. The children of the parents attending were entertained by a number of high school girls at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvert.

Miss Melva Walker was given a surprise party at the school house Saturday evening. More than sixty people were present. Those attending brought lunch and a good time was enjoyed until nearly morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fleshman entertained the Glee Club Tuesday evening. Several new songs are being practiced from which selections will be made for the musical to be held in the spring. Messrs. B. F. and Ed Fleshman entertained with violin selections. Miss Tuttle and her hounds won the Coon Hunt, but the loser, M. Harmon and his dogs, paid the penalty by furnishing a very clever entertainment. Refreshments of fruit salad, whipped cream, cake and cocoa were served.

Mrs. Gibbs, local music teacher, has just received a new piano and is better equipped than ever to serve her scholars.

A class in good manners has been organized in the high school with Mr. Calvert, as teacher. The work to be taken once a week in connection with English. Much interest was manifest in the first lesson, which was table etiquette.

Three basket ball teams went to Southwick last week. The grade team won by a close score, but the Southwick high school team got revenge for the defeat suffered earlier in the season. The Leland town team was also defeated by the Southwick town boys. Leland has plenty of good material but are working under a handicap with no gymnasium to practice in. We often hear the remark, "Why can't Leland have a gymnasium?"

Kendrick visitors Saturday were: Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Calvert.

Mrs. Julia Fleshman is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Piper, near Agatha.

Ivan and Vera Craig accompanied Beulah Hoskin and Velva Cate to their homes Saturday.

Mildred Fleshman of the sophomore class is out of school for a few days with a bruised knee caused by falling on the ice while she was coming from the school house.

The second of the competition assemblies was given Wednesday morning by the seventh and eighth grade classes. The sixth and fifth grades appear next week.

Abroad With the Marines

Word comes from Lewiston that Claud Stanton, son of Mrs. Dottie Stanton, recently left San Diego, California, with a detachment of replacement troops bound for service abroad. His name appears on a list of marines who left for China on the U. S. S. Henderson. He joined the marine corps at Spokane last September and has recently been stationed in California.

Death of N. Williamson

Nathaniel Williamson, well-known businessman of the Palouse country, died early Wednesday morning at the Spokane hotel in Spokane, where he was taken ill with pneumonia several days ago while on a business visit to that city, says the Star-Mirror. His illness and death came suddenly, Mrs. Williamson being called to Spokane late Tuesday afternoon after returning to Moscow earlier in the day in the belief that the crisis had been passed.

Mr. Williamson engaged in business here in 1904, coming from Seattle where he gained his early training in mercantile affairs. Until 1919, he operated Williamson's department store, closing out his Moscow establishment in that year.

A mercantile establishment at Palouse was continued, and a few years ago similar stores were opened, first at Orofino and last year at Troy. Several years ago he acquired a building on west Sixth street which he converted into a natatorium, operating a creamery in conjunction for a time. He disposed of the creamery later, however, but retained ownership of the swimming pool.

Mr. Williamson had extensive farm holdings and was a raiser of purebred dairy stock. He was a member of the Elks' lodge and of the Episcopal church.

The deceased was born in Ireland, coming to the United States when a young man. He is survived by his widow, one daughter and three sons, Mary Elizabeth and Harry of Moscow; Jack of San Francisco and Frank N., who has been in partnership with his father in their store at Orofino.

Backbone

From Yuba Dam to Yonkers the man of backbone conquers, where spineless critters fail; all obstacles overcoming, he goes along a humming, and gathers fame and kale. No ghosts of failure haunt him, no grizzley bogies daunt him or make his spirits low; you'll find him scratching gravel wherever you may travel, from Butte to Broken Bow. From Winnipeg to Wooster you'll see this cheerful rooster, this model to all men; undaunted by reverses he wastes no time in curses, but digs right in again. His face is always shining the others be repining; you cannot keep him down; his trail is always smoking while cheaper men are croaking about the old dead town. From Humboldt to Hoboken he leaves his sign and token in buildings high and grand; in factories that flourish, in industries that nourish a tired, anemic land. He brings the work to toilers and fills with bread the broilers their trusty dinner pails; he keeps the rip-saw ripping, the big trip-hammer tripping, the workman driving nails. All honor to his noblets! We drink to him in goblets of grape-juice rich and red—the man of spine and gizzard who hustles like a blizzard and simply won't be dead.—Walt Mason.

Still Right There

"You say the speculation has proved a failure?" questioned a man of a friend. "An absolute failure?" "Yes, a total failure," confirmed the friend. "Well, I can hardly believe you. I thought you were so sure there was a fortune in it?" "Yes," replied the would-be-financier, "So there was. Mine."—Ex.

Mrs. Susanne Giese

Mrs. Susanne Giese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Dennler, was born in 1873 in Alsace-Lorraine, France. In 1890 she came with her parents to America, settling in Plymouth County, Iowa, making their home there for six years.

In 1896 she was united in marriage to Julius Giese in Merrill, Iowa, where the young couple made their home for four years. In December 1900 they moved west and settled on Fix ridge, which has been the family home since. To this union were born eight children, Mrs. Chas. Austin of Twin Falls, Idaho, Susan, George, Julius, Herman, Adolph, Alfred and Carl, who mourn the loss of a loving and faithful mother. Besides her husband and children she leaves to mourn her sudden death, her aged father, John G. Dennler, a sister, Mrs. Wm. Zumhofe and a brother, Geo. Dennler, also a number of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Giese departed this life on February 8, 1928, at the age of 54 years, 2 months and 18 days. The funeral service took place from the family home on Fix ridge, Sunday, February 12. Interment was made in the Fix ridge cemetery, Rev. E. A. Rein, officiating.

"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord from henceforth: yea saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

Road Petitions Presented

Petitions signed by a big majority of taxpayers of the Kendrick highway district were presented to the local commissioners at their regular meeting last Saturday. The petitions asked that the commissioners call a bond election for the purpose of voting the maximum bonds to provide funds for making permanent road improvements.

Frank L. Moore & Son were retained by the commissioners for the purpose of looking after the legal phases of the proceedings. They are preparing the resolution of intention of calling the election, which will be passed by the commissioners at a special meeting to be held in the near future. Following the passing of the resolution there is a ten day period for receiving protests. At the end of this period the date for the bond election will be fixed. It is understood the date of the election will have to be advertised for 10 days prior to the date of voting.

W. O. W. Party

The members of the local Woodmen Lodge held their annual party Wednesday evening of this week. It was, as usual, a highly successful affair from every standpoint. Music was furnished during the evening by Bateman's Woodmen orchestra. Old time square dances were enjoyed for several hours, N. E. Ware calling the various numbers. Those who did not care to dance spent their time playing pinochle. A fine lunch was served and was one of the pleasing features of the evening's festivities.

Time For Reflection

A zealous, but untrained, reformer had secured permission to speak at the county jail.

"Brothers," he pleaded, "lose no time in turning to the pathway of righteousness. Remember, we are here today and gone to-morrow."

"Don't kid yourself," came a gloomy voice. "I've got eight years here yet."—Ex.

Letter From The Hulls

Long Beach, California. Kendrick Gazette:

These beautiful, sunny mornings give us strength and make us sit up and notice things. Last week Mr. and Mrs. George Carlson gave a three course dinner in our honor and to those residing here who were formerly Kendrick residents. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Emmett, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wessels, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beekwith, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. White were invited but were unable to attend because of the serious illness of Mr. White. Mr. Wilmot was out of town.

Last week we had a nice visit from Mr. and Mrs. Nagle and their son. Mrs. Nagle was formerly Miss Bernadine Moser. We also had the pleasure of a call from Mr. and Mrs. Follett of Genesee, parents of Mrs. Jack Barnes.

Last Sunday we attended a picnic given in the park for former residents of the Palouse country, where we met many old time friends, among them J. L. Naylor of Moscow. Tomorrow we intend going to Los Angeles to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. White.

We had the pleasure of attending a theatre with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett to witness the play "The Seventh Heaven". We are planning to go to San Diego soon with the Emmetts and Mr. and Mrs. George Carlson.

It does one good and is a sight to go out on one of the piers and on the pike and witness the multitude of people there, all visitors from every part of the country. There are plenty of amusements, band concerts every afternoon. We wish all the Kendrick people could be here to enjoy the many sights and beautiful weather.

With kindest regards to all.
—H. P. Hull.

Burning Idaho Spuds

Idaho is not putting low grade potatoes on the markets of the country. This particular variety of tuber has now found an outlet that is turning out so profitably that there is possibility of a potato shortage if everybody gets to doing it. They are being burned up in the stomachs of dairy cows and in addition to getting rid of surplus potatoes the dairyman is getting more milk from his cows on this diet.

Over near Shelley one Tony Trutsky was milking 450 pounds of milk daily. He decided to try some surplus spuds in the cows' diet and fed 17 pounds daily to each cow. Now he is milking 600 pounds of milk a day. Dairy-men in the potato sections might try spuds as a diet for their cows for a while.

Baseball Benefit Dance Feb. 24

A baseball benefit dance will be given at the Fraternal Temple Kendrick, Friday evening, Feb. 24, to raise funds for the local ball club. Good music and a good lunch will be a part of the evening's program. Everybody keep the date in mind and plan to be there. The dance will be in charge of the baseball finance committee.

Try The Rumble Seat

Jemima, at the zoo, saw a zebra for the first time. "Rastus," she said, "what kind of a animal am I dat?"

Keenes Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Keene delightfully entertained about forty at their home Wednesday evening. Seven tables of progressive pinochle were played for several hours, the high score and prize of the evening was won by Thorvald Nelson.

At midnight a lovely supper consisting of sandwiches, salad, pickles, cookies, cake and coffee was served by the hostess. The guests departed declaring they had spent an evening of real pleasure.

Lewiston's 1928 Auto Classic

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 23, 24 and 25, the residents of the entire north-central Idaho and eastern Washington regions will have the opportunity to view the newest models in automobiles, this being made possible through the concerted effort of Lewiston dealers in holding their automobile show, the fourth since that mode of travel became universal.

People are interested in the newer models and it is just for this purpose that the show is held—that prospective purchasers may gain first hand knowledge of the car in which they are interested in. Practically every car that is meeting with a demand in the American market is represented with a distributing agency in Lewiston. The dealers are housed in spacious and finely arranged quarters for the display of their commodity.

The show will be held in the large show room at the Neperce Auto Company's building at Ninth and D streets, just one-half block from Main street. Throughout the afternoon and evening of the three days of the display, courteous attendants will be present to receive callers, and there will be no effort made to "talk shop." The sole object of the show is to better acquaint the people with the latest in motor-vehicle products.

There will be no charge whatsoever.

The participating dealers are: Bartlett Motor Co., Studebaker; Blackwell Motor Co., Reo; James L. Elam, Paige; Fewel Motor Co., Buick; Gusman Motors, Oakland and Pontiac; Hugo-Johnson Motor Co., Oldsmobile and Falcon Knight; Lewis-Clark Motor Co., Overland and Willys-Knight; Lewiston Hudson-Seix Co., Hudson and Essex; Lewiston Motor Co., Dodge; Neperce Auto Co., Chevrolet; Charles E. ### Boy Inherits $20,000

A newspaper clipping from the Helena Daily Independent, published at Helena, Mont., was received by the Gazette this week stating that the little son of Mrs. Bernice Martin had inherited $20,000 from the estate of his late grandfather, D. L. Martin of New York City. Mrs. Martin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gentry, former residents of Big Bear ridge.

In seven years, when the boy reaches the age of 10 years, the money, with accrued interest, will be turned over to his mother to be used for his education.

Nautically Speaking

"He certainly had hard luck," sighed a man. "Just to think of marrying a girl, then having her within a week run away from you! 'Yes, it is certainly sad,' sighed a sympathizing friend, 'to think that you are a sea captain, take a girl for a mate, then so soon find out that she is a skipper.'"—Wichita Eagle.

Playing Safe

A man out at Lyons was very ill. His wife sent for a clergyman to give him spiritual comfort. "You had better renounce the devil, my friend," advised the preacher when he came. "Renounce the devil?" exclaimed the speedily weakened man. "No, indeed. I'm in no condition to make any enemies now."—Ex.

STRANGEST CULT IS FADING OUT

Face Extinction in Snowbound Siberian Forests.

Moscow.—The Shamans, one of the strangest cults of spiritualist medicine men in the world, face extinction in the snow-bound forest fastnesses of Yakutia, Siberia, to which they fled years ago to escape what they call the "humdrum superficiality" of modern civilization.

Once respected by the Yakuts as a supernaturally inspired caste, treated and feasted like gods, the Shamans are dying out because their self-imposed isolation prevents them from attracting converts. They do not believe in marriage or childbirth. An adult soul alone is capable of being imbued with the healing properties of the great god of the steppes, Amagyat. Few of their hymns have been collected and preserved for posterity. If the Shamans pass from the earth, they probably will take their enchanting music with them to the grave.

Dimitri Rogal-Levitzy, famous Russian musical ethnologist, one of the few white men who have succeeded in collecting authentic information about the Shamans, described to the correspondent the "kamlanye," or great sacred ceremony of Shamanism, presided over by the chief Shaman beginning at twilight.

The success of this spiritual healing among the people was so great that the Yakuts, a semi-primitive race, ascribed heavenly powers to the Shamans. But as political exiles and travelers spread Western civilization among the Yakuts, the Shamans took offense and for a decade have been living in seclusion.

Novel World Flight Now Being Planned

Wallingford, Conn.—An east-to-west world flight looms as part of the American aviation program for 1928. Thomas M. Hewitt, Jr., of New York city, a wartime flyer and a former resident of Wallingford, projected the flight to perpetuate the memory of Raoul Lufbery, American ace, and that of the Lafayette escadrille in which Lufbery served during the World war.

Hewitt disclosed his plans before conferring with Connecticut's "Flying Governor," John H. Trumbull, on preparations for the trip and means of financing it.

A former pilot in the famous escadrille which was made up of American flyers who entered the French service before the United States declared war, Hewitt said that he had gained the promise of aid from the Wallingford Chamber of Commerce. Lufbery was a resident here at the time of his enlistment.

A tri-motored biplane, with a crew of four and space for two additional persons, will be used for the flight.

It is planned for the plane to arrive in Paris on or before May 30, 1928, in time to take part in the official dedication of the memorial de l'Escadrille Lafayette.

With New York as a starting point, the plane will take its course westward to San Francisco, with an intervening stop if necessary. From San Francisco the route is planned to include Honolulu, Tokyo, Vladivostok, Peking, Shanghai, Hongkong, Hanoi, Calcutta, Delhi, Kabul, Teheran, Constantinople and various capitals in Europe. The final hop will be from Paris to New York.

Flying Medical Squadron Planned for Australia

London.—A service of flying doctors will be the latest development of aviation in the interior of Australia early this year, according to news dispatches from Sydney. The medical flying squad has been organized in the interests of settlers in remote districts mainly by the efforts of two members of the Australian Board of Inland Missions, Rev. J. Flynn and Rev. J. A. Barber.

An airship to rush medical aid will be available at any hour of the day or night at the central station of the flying doctor service at Cloncurry, which will be in radio communication with several outlying stations where transmitting sets will be installed.

Young Frenchmen Are Found Unfit for Army

Paris.—More than half the young Frenchmen called to do their 18 months' government military service are found unfit. The proportion of rejected men has been growing each year since the war.

Before the war, when the young conscripts did three and even four years' service in the army, only about one man in ten was relieved of duty. Many of these, examined later, were accepted for office duty.

About one-third of the young men are refused as physically below par when they appear at the age of twenty. About a sixth are sent home during their first three months' service, the hard life of the army and the manual labor or exercise developing defects previously undetected.

GRIEF OF MOTHER STARTS INDUSTRY

Takes Up Weaving and Town Is Now Famous.

Beiriz, Portugal.—A broken-hearted mother is responsible for bringing an entirely new industry to this remote village of the Douro province.

Four years ago the young wife of a well-to-do farmer here lost her only child. To take her thoughts away from her grief she took up carpet-making. Her nimble fingers worked so fast in their race to keep ahead of her sad thoughts that she became quite proficient and finally took on six apprentices to help her.

The carpets they produced were so successful that the industry expanded and their little home workshop has become a factory with 300 women employees, besides scores of others employed in minor jobs and training for admission in a second factory which will open soon.

The harmonious, delicate coloring and the intricate patterns of the Beiriz carpets already has made them well known in other countries.

The wool used in their fabrication is obtained from the flocks of the Portuguese Serras. All raw material is Portuguese, so that the industry is a genuinely national one.

The carpet industry is bringing prosperity to districts surrounding Beiriz. The women who a few years ago worked all day in the fields with their menfolk for a precarious livelihood now live in comfort at home employed in weaving and spinning the wool for the carpets at the factories, which sell as fast as they are made.

Grandmother Proud of Work in Night School

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Mrs. Mollie Kaplan could not understand what the fuss was about, and her dark eyes snapped with mystification and a trace of anger. She was a grandmother, yes, with 13 grandchildren, and she was probably the only grandmother, sixty years old, attending the public evening schools in the city of New York. What of it?

"Me? Too old? Why, I learn just as well as when I was younger," she said. To prove it, she drew forth a black notebook and showed the long English words she had written there.

Mrs. Kaplan came to American from Poland about a year ago. First of all, she says, she went to the synagogue and after a while she sought out a public school. She has never seen a moving picture, but she may, sometime. According to Ignus O. Hornstein, principal of evening school 150, and Miss Clara Komoroff, Mrs. Kaplan's teacher, there is no more conscientious student in the evening school than the grandmother who three nights a week trudges up three flights of stairs and seats herself up in the front row of the classroom, pencil in hand and notebook in readiness.

Wives' Modernity Still Wins French Divorces

Paris.—Modern woman's mannishness has not yet swept all Frenchmen off their feet.

In Paris a merchant charged his wife with "cutting her hair like a boy, smoking like a chimney and driving like a chauffeur," and convinced the divorce court that he was right to object.

At Montbrison one of the old school got a divorce because his wife, who enjoyed riding a motor cycle astride, clothed in "baggy breeches," refused to cease these practices, which "injured his standing as an insurance agent. He took the precaution of having officials serve a summons on her to get her back into skirts and to establish that she refused to do so.

Legion of Honor Is Expensive to France

Paris.—Every red ribbon of the Legion of Honor costs the French government 500 francs, or $20, a year.

There are about 120,000 members of the order, so the expense runs above 60,000,000 francs.

Every member pays for his insignia, but there are archives and records to be kept, a permanent governing body to be maintained and several schools to be operated for children of members.

Pensions are attached to only a small proportion of the honors conferred for distinguished service, and each year there are fewer such awards.

Excellent Rule

Accusations are like stones—they can be picked up anywhere and hurled by any hand, however soiled. Why not follow the formula of the man who recently said, "I have made it a fixed rule never to utter anything derogatory to another's reputation?"

Honesty in Business

In a sensibly run business honesty is a matter of course and not the product of conscious thought.—Wolford Beason.

The POLICY of PROGRESS

A STATEMENT
by GENERAL MOTORS

IT is the policy of General Motors to maintain continuous improvement, in every one of its car divisions, with no interruption in production.

This means that you enjoy the benefits of new engineering developments promptly — just as soon as they have been thoroughly tested on the 1245-acre Proving Ground.

It means that you can now order the new Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac, or GMC Truck, and receive immediate delivery.

Behind this policy of continuous improvement is an organization so widespread and resourceful that it can make and sell quality automobiles more economically than any automobile manufacturer in the world.

In the north and south it logs and mills its own lumber. In the east it makes its own ball bearings and radiators. In the middle west it produces its own plate glass. Its plants are busy in 33 important American cities.

From almost 5,000 suppliers, its materials are obtained—steel by the hundreds of thousands of tons—wire by the tens of thousands of miles—upholstery by the acre—nuts, bolts and washers by the millions. Its sales and service take place through 33,000 dealers. More than 275,000 families look directly to General Motors for their livelihood—almost a million and a half men, women and children in every community in the land.

Meaning so much to so many, General Motors has felt a supreme obligation to look ahead.

Are there methods by which General Motors cars can be better built to better serve?

Are there new ideas which can increase the utility and pleasure and safety of motoring?

Are there new materials which can add to owner satisfaction?

Such are the questions that all General Motors engineers have always asked. The answers have made it possible, year after year, to offer an increasing measure of beauty in design, modern performance, riding comfort and distinct style. Thus in every price class, from Cadillac to Chevrolet, purchasers are constantly benefiting from the General Motors policy of progress.

SUTTEE RITE STILL PERSISTS IN INDIA

British Authorities Fail to Stop Practice.

Bombay, India.—On the banks of the Ganges in India the other day a Hindu woman mounted to the top of her husband's funeral pyre, while a crowd of 5,000 natives ringed her around to acclaim the religious merit of the widow who was about to immolate herself in the ancient rite of suttee. In 1829 the barbaric rite was prohibited by the British in India and severe penalties are now meted out to those who attempt to commit or instigate suttee, which is held equivalent to attempting or abetting suicide. As the flames burst from the pyre on which the widow lay with the body of her dead husband the police charged the mob, but were unable to fight their way through. The victim refused to leave the pyre until the torture proved too great for her. When reinforcements appeared the police rescued the victim, who had fled to the river, and seized three Hindus, who were charged with acting as ring-leaders. The woman later died.

Rite Persists.

Despite stringent prohibition of the rite, suttee has persisted in isolated cases to this day. The Indians elevate the widow who immolates herself to the status of a martyr, with the result that crowds rush to obtain relics of the victim. As late as 1911 a woman poured kerosene on her clothes and ignited herself in a "home" suttee, and there are records of the illegal rite in Bihar during 1901, 1903, 1904 and 1905. Nepal, located outside British rule, maintained suttee until quite recently. Three women committed suttee at the funeral of Sir Jung Bahadur in 1877.

Literally countless widows, many of them mere girls, have sacrificed themselves in suttee. Most European authorities credit its origin to the Scythians, the central Asian race, the funeral of whose kings saw huge holocausts of slaves. As many as 3,000 women at one time were burned on the pyres of Indian rulers between the fourteenth and sixteenth centuries. The most appalling rate of suttee in comparatively recent times was listed in the year 1818, when in Bengal alone 839 native widows burned with their husbands.

The Rajput women were the bravest by far in facing death through fire. Their husbands were warriors, and they met suttee willingly. A lighted lamp or a knife was placed in the hand of the Rajput girl or boy on coming of age, to signify the death that some day each must die.

For years the British East India company refrained from prohibiting suttee, fearing to arouse the religious fanaticism of the natives, but eventually the force of public opinion in England prevailed and in 1829 it was banned by law from the provinces under Anglo-Saxon rule. The Mongol conquerors of India endeavored to suppress suttee, and Akbar, it is said, once rode 100 miles at a gallop to rescue the daughter-in-law of the rajah of Jodhpur from the funeral pyre.

After the British prohibition, however, the rite lasted in the semi-independent states for decades, the Punjab and Rajasthan retaining it in full force. In south India it was the custom for the widow to leap into a blazing pit, while in north India she ascended the pyre and held the head of her dead husband in her lap. The torch was applied by the eldest son or nearest male relative. To the Hindu suttee stood for an act typifying the highest degree of wedded love.

Stenos Can't Keep Up With French Orators

Paris.—Frenchmen's disposition to talk long and rapidly makes it necessary to have ten stenographers work in relays in both the chamber of deputies and the senate. Each works three minutes, then goes out to transcribe his notes and rest.

The fastest talker in parliament is Senator Leon Perrier, minister of colonies. Stop-watch tests show he speaks at the rate of 220 words a minute. The slowest talker is the elderly Alsatian, Senator Lazare Weller, who gets off 70 words a minute.

Premier Poincare never varies his speed. He gives out in a crisp, biting, high-pitched voice, 160 words a minute, whether he speaks for a minute or an hour. He never hesitates and never forgets. He usually speaks extemporaneously, but when he prepares a speech he writes it himself, in longhand, and once he has written it he has memorized it.

Canada Gains Pigeon "Army" Aid From U. S.

Washington.—The War department is furnishing the Canadian department of national defense details of organization and equipment of the pigeon lofts operated by the signal corps of the army as part of the military communication system. This information is to be used as a guide in the contemplated establishment of a similar service in the Canadian army.

The signal corps maintains 17 pigeon lofts, the largest, at Fort Monmouth, N. J., a breeding loft, containing 465 birds.

The second largest loft is at Schofield barracks, Hawaii, where 210 birds are kept in training. There are two other lofts in Hawaii, two in the Philippine Islands, three in the Panama Canal Zone, and several in different parts of the United States.

FOUND SOUTH SEAS NO DOMESTIC IDYL

Prospective English Countess Kept Early Hours.

London.—Housekeeping in the South Sea Islands requires a great deal of hustling and energy, says Lady Hastings, who has just returned from the island of Morrea, where she went two years ago as a bride. The day begins at six o'clock, with breakfast at seven.

She is the daughter of an Italian marquis, and when she settled down in her new home she had never been in a kitchen more than a few moments at a time. Her husband, heir to the earl of Huntington, ran a plantation there.

"Our coral house in the South seas sounds so idyllic that it might be the creation of some ultraromantic imagination," said Lady Hastings. "Such a mundane word as 'housekeeping' probably never enters one's mind in connection with it. Yet keep house I did, while my husband supervised the work outdoors."

The Hastings' had two Chinese and a Polynesian servant.

"The only difficulty about catering was that as the boat crossed from Tahiti only twice a week the commissariat had to be planned a week ahead. One boat took the orders and the next delivered them. From civilized Tahiti I ordered fresh meat on ice, New Zealand butter and canned fruits and vegetables."

Regarding the daily routine Lady Hastings said:

"In that climate, tempered by trade winds from the sea, no afternoon siesta interrupted our round of work and sailing and swimming, excepting in January and February, when the lassitude from the combined effects of heavy rain and heat had to be slept off every afternoon."

1927 "Fairly Good" for Farmers, Says Report

Washington.—Agriculture, as sized up by government experts, had a "fairly good" year in the chief producing regions with the exception of the central and eastern part of the corn and hog region.

The Department of Agriculture in its final report of the agricultural situation for the year said 1927 brought a measure of recovery to the cotton belt, but much of the central and eastern sections of the corn and hog region had a poor crop of corn, which, coupled with a slump in hog prices, left the past season a disappointing one.

"The swine industry," said the department, "was hit last spring by a market slump, especially in the European market, and continued throughout the season on a level of prices somewhat below the two previous years. The other live-stock industries have fared relatively well. All told, 1927 was a year of well-balanced production. It brought the price level of farm products last fall up near that of two years ago, which was the highest since 1920."

"The total value of about fifty crops in 1927, based on December 1 prices, is estimated at $3,428,626,000, compared to $7,793,480,000 for the same crops in 1926, an increase of $635,146,000."

West Canada Farmers Plant, 7,500,000 Trees

Indian Head, Sask., Canada.—Nearly 7,500,000 of broadleaf tree seedlings and cuttings were planted in 1927 by 11,000 prairie farmers, thus setting a new mark for tree planting in western Canada.

The development of shelter belts in the Canadian west is being followed to a considerable extent by the setting out of apple and small fruit orchards, gardens of fine vegetables and of shrubs, flower beds and lawns. To insure success in the establishment of shelter belts, helpful control is exercised by the department of interior forest service stations at Sutherland and Indian Head. From spring until the coming of winter each year a corps of field inspectors travel continuously, inspecting proposed new plantations, advising farmers and taking note of the effect of the plantations on the social and economic life of the settler.

In the last 26 years the government has distributed over 95,000,000 trees to farmers in the prairie provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

MOON RAISES HIGHER TIDES THAN THE SUN

Distance Is Chief Factor in Reducing Sol's Pull.

Washington.—"Although the moon is the chief factor in creating tides, the sun also makes itself felt noticeably in piling up the ocean's waters," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"But the sun is tremendously greater than the moon—more than 27,000,000 times as large; why does it play a subordinate part to the little moon in tide production?"

"Distance is one answer, but it is not the whole answer. If the sun were as close to the earth as the moon is it would pull the earth and its waters some 27,000,000 times as hard as the moon does. But since distance is such a great reducer of gravitation the sun's pull on the earth is roughly only 183 times that of the moon.

"But the question persists, why does the moon produce the higher tides when the sun pulls on the earth 183 times as strongly?"

"The total pull of a body on another, and its tide-producing force are not the same. The tide on the earth results from the difference between the pulls on the center of the earth and on the near and far sides. These are the pulls that tend to separate the waters and the earth, and therefore to pile the waters up. And it will be seen on close thought that two weak forces that are considerably different, operating one on the earth and one on the waters, can cause a greater separation than two very strong forces that are nearly equal.

Weakened by Distance.

"Light and gravitation act somewhat alike in that each grows weaker as the source of light or gravitational pull is moved farther and farther away, and that both grow weaker very rapidly—in proportion to the distance of the source multiplied by itself. The differences, in gravitational pull on which tides depend can be visualized, therefore, by an experiment with light.

"Turn on an electric desk light or other single bulb and hold near it a sheet of ordinary white paper. Hold the paper with one edge toward the light and only two or three inches away and turn it very slightly so that the light shines along the sheet and illuminates its whole surface. There will be a noticeable difference between the brightness of the light at a point near the close edge and at a point near the far edge.

"Now hold the paper in the same way at a distance of ten or twelve feet from an even brighter light, or hold it in the daytime at such a distance from a bright window. You know that there is still a difference in the degree of illumination of the two sides, but it is so very tiny that you cannot detect it.

"The two points on which the sun pulls to make the near tide—the surface of the ocean nearest the moon and the earth's center—are 4,000 miles apart, and this 4,000 miles is a tiny fraction of the earth-sun distance, a little over four-one hundred thousandths. In the case of the moon this same 4,000 miles is a relatively large fraction of the earth-moon distance—1,000 one hundred thousandths.

"When all the values for distance and mass are inserted in the rather formidable equations for the pulls of the moon at the center of the earth and at the surface, and for the pulls of the sun at these two points, it works out that the difference in the moon's pulls are roughly 2 1/4 times the difference in the sun's pulls. The moon, therefore, exerts 2 1/4 times the tide-producing power exerted by the sun.

What Makes Highest Tides.

"Most of the time the sun and moon are pulling in different directions. But twice each month they pull in the same line. It is then that our coasts have their highest tides.

"Theoretically every star and planet and satellite in the universe raises its separate tide in our oceans. Actually, however, even Jupiter, the greatest of our sister planets, is so far away and relatively so small, that its influence cannot be detected. To all intents, therefore, it may be said that only the moon and the sun, our nearest and our most powerful neighbors in space, have a share in making the earth's tides."

Noise Costs Money

Estimates place the cost of noise in the United States at $10,000,000 a week. The loss is due to inefficiency on the part of workers who can't concentrate in noisy places.

Worked Way Through

In 1891 Isaac Newton entered Trinity college, Cambridge (England), as a "sub-sizar." Fixed portions of food and drink were then called "sizers" and "sub-sizers" were the students who, too poor to buy their own food, carried "sizers" for others and, as a condition, obtained their own free of cost

on Increase in U. S.

Washington.—Business is looking up in the million-or-better income tax class. Preliminary statistics by the bureau of internal revenue of the sources of revenue show that when 1926 closed there were 228 persons paying taxes on incomes of $1,000,000 or more. The total is 21 more than were of records for 1925, and 153 more than in 1924 and 154 more than in 1923.

Fourteen individuals boasted in 1926 of incomes of $5,000,000 or more, just twice as many as in 1925. These fourteen paid net taxes totaling $17,174,771. While thirty-three incomes of $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 netted the treasury $14,590,293 and forty-three $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 incomes paid $17,871,993. There were one hundred and fifteen $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 incomes, fourteen of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 and nine between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.
