

IDAHO VEHICLE ACT HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

Provisions of Law Do Not Apply to Common Carrier.

The constitutionality of Idaho's motor vehicle act regulating the "common carriers" and providing for payment of fees quarterly upon each motor vehicle operated, procurement of surety bond of $1000, a carrier permit with fee of $10 and surety plates at $2 each for his trucks, was held constitutional Wednesday by Judge Edgar C. Steele in district court here.

That provisions of the law, however, do not apply to "private carriers," and that the secretary of state has erred in demanding fulfillment of the provisions of Frank J. Burns of Orofino, is the ruling of the court who found for the plaintiff in action here to provide the first test of the law in Idaho.

The act was passed March 7, 1927, under emergency clause.

Suit was brought by Burns, a truck operator of Orofino who had refused to pay a special fee of $75 quarterly on each of four trucks operated by him to haul lumber for the Federal Match company from Weippe to Greer, under private contract, his trucks not being for common hire.

Judge Steele, in his decision, quotes Section 1 of the law:

"The term 'auto-transportation company' as used in this act means every person, corporation, co-partnership or association . . . owning, controlling, operating, or managing any motor propelled vehicle for the transportation of persons or property for compensation over any public highway in this state . . ."

The district judge points to a previous ruling by the state supreme court, Smallwood vs. Jeter, wherein the court holds that: "under presumption that legislature intended to keep within its power . . . providing for auto-transportation companies furnishing insurance or bonds to satisfy recovery for injury to passengers or damage to property, must be construed as applicable to common carriers only."

"State cannot by legislative fiat convert property used exclusively in business of private carrier into a public utility, or make the owner a public carrier."

This decision is elaborated upon with the following comment by Judge Steele:

"This court feels bound by the principles of law as stated in this decision. The plaintiff pleads that he is a private carrier. The supreme court states the . . . law cannot be applied to private carriers, and that the payment of the fees . . . to and which is required by the statute before the auto-transportation company can do business, is a police regulation which can only be applied to common carriers, and that a common carrier is one who holds himself out to haul property for all persons who may apply."

"While this court's views may be and are that these fees may be imposed upon a private carrier who is using our highways for hire . . . the court feels bound to follow the decision in Smallwood vs. Jeter."

The case, which has attracted statewide attention among auto transportation companies, undoubtedly will go to the supreme court. Hearing was held here 10 days ago, with Frank L. Stephan, attorney general, representing the state's interests.—Star-Mirror.

Baseball Practice Last Sunday

In spite of the rather chilly weather last Sunday afternoon, quite a number of Kendrick ball players held their first practice of the season. The outlook is encouraging for a fast team this year. Manager Bolon expressed himself to be well pleased with general prospects. A number of new men appeared at Sunday's workout and may materially strengthen the lineup.

Fleshman, who pitched a number of seasons for Kendrick, but for the last two years played with Nezperce, is again wearing a Kendrick uniform and promises to be a big factor in putting Kendrick on the baseball map this year.

The finance committee of the ball team, which is composed of Herman Schupfer, Ira Bolon and Jack Barnes, has already sufficient funds in prospect to insure the finances of the team for the season.

As soon as the weather is favorable regular practice will be held during the week.

Will Protect Sage Hens

Setting aside small tracts of sagebrush land to be used as sage hen refuges would mean the perpetuation of this game bird in Idaho, thinks R. E. Thomas, state game warden. If something is not done, he says, the birds will soon become extinct.

However, this is the warden's opinion and he would be very pleased to hear the views and suggestions of Idaho sportsmen many of whom, he says, are well informed on the birds' plight.

At the present time the warden is considering the advisability of proclaiming a closed season on sage hens this year.

A few years ago, he says, these birds were plentiful in nearly all the southern counties of the state. Climatic conditions such as long, cold springs and severe storms during the hatching season have contributed largely to the present scarcity.

Town Council Met Tuesday

At the regular monthly meeting of the town council, held last Tuesday evening at the city hall, considerable business was transacted with all members present as follows: Chairman Walker, Trustees Raby, Schupfer, Dammarell and Deobald.

After auditing the bills and checking the report of the treasurer, a communication was read from J. J. Hamley with reference to having the residence north of the Silvie Cook property, moved or torn down. Mr. Hamley has promised to take the matter up with his sister in Spokane and promises to have the matter attended to in the near future.

Jack Barnes and Ira Bolon, members of the finance committee of the baseball team, appeared before the board and asked that funds be appropriated from the town treasury for new wire netting and sufficient lumber to put the grandstand at the ball park in good condition. The grandstand and most of the ground in the ball park is town property. The board granted the request providing the management of the ball team would furnish the necessary labor to have the wire put on and the grandstand put in good condition.

Thos. Sturdevant appeared before the board and asked that a street light be put in at the intersection of First Street and the alley, near the Continental Oil Co. tanks. The light would materially benefit the residents in that block. The request was granted.

Dr. Morehead was officially appointed health officer for Kendrick by unanimous vote of the board.

Moved and carried that the license fee for the Kendrick Baseball benefit dance, which was held two weeks ago, be remitted. The license fee for the Juliaetta ball team's dance, to be held tonight, was also remitted by the board.

The marshal was ordered to enforce the dog tax ordinance as soon as the proper tags could be secured.

The matter of clearing off the slab at the west end of town, was brought up and it was decided to hire the Kendrick highway district crew and dragline equipment to have the rocks and debris cleared away as soon as the water was low enough to permit the work to be done.

There being nothing further to bring before the board the meeting adjourned.

Get Vouchers in Early

The following communication was received from County Auditor Thatcher this week:

The Idaho State Legislature passed a law at the last session, whereby each quarter the County Auditor must furnish the County Commissioners a report showing the approximate estimate of all expenditures to be made at that meeting of the Commissioners.

As it is obligatory that this report be completed at the time the Commissioners meet, it will necessitate that all bills, to go before the Commissioners, must be filed with the County Auditor not later than the first Monday of April, July, October and January.

No bill will be accepted by the County Auditor for filing which have not been properly O. K'd. The proper procedure is to get the O. K. of the officer authorizing the expenditure. Also each officer's account must be kept separate and itemized.

The County Auditor must audit and segregate all bills before this report can be completed and, as this will take considerable work, it will be absolutely necessary that bills are in on or before the date mentioned. There can be no variation in regard to the time of filing the bills or claims, as that would make it impossible to get them ready in time for the Commissioners.

Dr. G. W. Law of Juliaetta was transacting business in Kendrick Thursday afternoon of this week.

Pay Cash

The world needs a religion that will pay cash, exact cash. It is all right to borrow money to buy a home, or go into business, but it is all wrong to sponge ones way by owing those who need the money—every creditor needs money in order to pay his own way. Many business failures could be avoided if cash is paid as expected. A religion which burns into the soul that no one must withhold from another what is due—must not contract bills without being able to pay them—would be pleasant in the sight of men and angels. Not to pay ones debts is a crime. The failure of one man to pay makes another unwilling, a third unable. The new religion should deal justly—without holding what belongs to the other fellow. The Golden Rule is to pay cash.—Exchange.

The life of a world hero is not all roses, points out the Topeka Capital. One of Lindberghs hosts on his big flight, discovered that the hero had only one shirt to his back, asked politely about his needs. "What can I do," Lindy is reputed to have answered. "If I send a shirt to the laundry I never get it back. They cut it up for souvenirs."

Hayden Says "Fake"

Lester Hayden, local weather and crop prognosticator, says the article we had in the News last week about "Spring" is a fake and that he can prove there is nothing to it by just a reference to the present weather.

He says that he walked ten miles over the various canyons down on the rim where John Gamble said Spring "was just around the corner," and Hayden says the only indications he found were two robins "headed south as fast as they could go." He says spring will not be here for about seven weeks—or in the neighborhood of April 10. However, the calendar says March 21.—Genesee News.

Refused to Pay Rent

In United States politics the "Anti-Rent" party refers to a party in the state of New York which had its origin in dissatisfaction among the tenants under the patron system in the eastern part of the state. The tenants refused to pay rent in 1839, resisted force, and a few years later carried their opposition into politics. The matter was settled by a compromise in 1850.

Happy Hymns

Hymns are meant to be offerings of objective praise, not expressions of personal self-abasement. The true hymn-singer is very like the lark. He cannot help singing, he is so glad. Children are our excellent exemplars in this. They are always ready to give thanks, melodiously. Our hymn-books should provide an outlet for this urge, not divert it into channels less spontaneous.—London Daily Telegraph.

EGG A DAY MORE THAN HENS LAY

That a hen crosses the road for reasons of her own, and lays an egg a day, is all the information about her possessed by some members of the public. As a matter of fact, there is no record of a hen laying an egg a day for a full year. The standard as laid down by the poultry department of Ohio State university is 100 eggs in 365 days. The state average is about 70 eggs. Of course some high-grade hens do better. More than one hen on the records of the Ohio Poultry Improvement association has beaten the 300-egg mark in 365 days. But they are not common hens.

Egg production for the average hen is at the lowest point in November, when five eggs for the month is the standard requirement. This standard rises month by month to 21 eggs in April, then falls again.

This information is included on the Ohio State Poultry Calendar, distributed through the agricultural agents by the Ohio State university, to more than 3,000 Ohio poultry growers, who have registered with their agricultural agents and agreed to keep an accurate record of the performance of their flocks for 365 days. The calendar contains seasonal information on housing, feeding, breeding and diseases, prepared by the university poultry department.

Floor Space Necessary for Different Breeds

The light breeds such as Leghorns, Anconas, Minorcas and others, should have three and one-half square feet of floor space per bird, while heavy breeds such as Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Wyandottes, Orpingtons and similar breeds should have at least four square feet per bird. If the present house is not large enough to provide this amount of space for the flock to be housed it is advisable to build more room, because a lack of space will make it increasingly difficult to keep the house sanitary and will lower the vitality of the birds, thus reducing the number and hatchability of the eggs produced.

The DAIRY

MUST FEED COWS FOR PRODUCTION

If the dairy industry of North Carolina is to profit most from the introduction of pure-bred cows and bulls brought in by farmers in recent years, the offspring from these animals must be well fed.

"In the three dairy improvement campaigns conducted in this state during the last three years about 850 pure bred, well selected dairy bulls have been placed on that many farms," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at the North Carolina State college. "This does not include a number of other fine animals brought in through private sales. If the dairy industry is to derive any great benefit from the use of the animals, their offsprings must be well fed. This is true from the time the calf is dropped until it has passed its usefulness as a milk cow. Many heifers sired by good bulls have been disappointments and have been stunted in growth and production by under-feeding when they were young."

Mr. Arey states that good breeding is very important in building up the milk and cream production of a herd, but it is ineffective unless the good breeding is accompanied by good feeding. Underfeeding, he states, is largely responsible for dairy cows of this state averaging only about 150 pounds of butterfat a year. This quantity of butterfat selling for 45 cents a pound brings only $67.50 which will not pay for the feed the cow eats. In many cases, the production may be increased from 150 pounds to 225 pounds by liberal feeding. At 45 cents a pound the 225 pounds of fat will bring $101.25 which is enough to give the farmer a good profit for all the feeds he produces on his farm and feeds to his cows.

These animals which will not produce as high as 225 pounds of fat when well fed, should be culled from the herd and sold to the butcher; but, no cow should be so condemned until she has had a chance under good feeding and care, states Mr. Arey.

Winter Water Supply Is Important for the Cows

Dairy cows which are giving from 25 to 30 pounds of milk daily will need from nine to ten gallons of water daily, while cows that are giving only a small amount of milk can get along on half of this amount. This fact alone demonstrates that a good water supply is a prerequisite of successful dairying.

When dairy cows are forced to go out into a cold northwest wind and shiver while they are trying to drink out of a trough partially covered with ice, it stands to reason that they will not drink a sufficient amount to produce efficiently. From a standpoint of feed alone, it is cheaper to heat the water with coal or oil than it is to heat it in the cow's body by the use of high-priced feed.

If the question of economy alone were the only point to consider, it would not be so important. However, cows will not produce to their maximum capacity when they are forced to drink ice water. When such conditions exist, it is only natural that cows will drink only sufficient to keep up their body requirements.

Electricity Is Needed to Operate Water Motor

It is easy to install a water system that will give a supply of water at all times under pressure. The old-fashioned elevated tank in the attic or outside on a tower will work, but the latest development is a little compact, self-contained automatic pump that costs less than $75. It consists of an automatic electric pump, a little pneumatic tank and the necessary pipe connections. Set it at the pressure desired—when the pressure drops the pump starts working and keeps on until the pressure is up again. The tank helps to maintain a steady pressure, which means a uniform flow. Of course electricity is necessary to operate the motor, but this is rapidly being made available almost everywhere.

Cream Separator

A cream separator properly installed, lubricated and operated under normal conditions from day to day should not have a wide variation in tests, but there are so many factors, such as temperature, speed of the machine, etc., that affect the tests that it is well to give all of these factors consideration before becoming suspicious of your cream buyer. When the cream screw is turned toward the center it will deliver a much richer cream.

Modern Dairy Methods

The saving of time and labor which is possible with modern dairy-barn construction may easily make the difference between profit and loss. Handled by old methods, the management of a dairy herd was a hard grind which took all the strength a man had, and gave a basis for the assertion that dairying was a dog's life. The newer methods and modern equipment make it possible to handle the job with much less labor and yet do it better.

Disinfection Is Best for Scab

Kills Organisms on Tuber and Prevents Introduction Into Soil.

The importance of seed disinfection in the growing of a clean crop of potatoes is much greater than the average grower realizes. Potato specialists at the college of agriculture in New Brunswick point out that in tests conducted in 1920 disinfected seed showed an increase of 33.9 bushels per acre over untreated seed. In addition to the increase in yield there was a considerable reduction in the number of scabby potatoes.

Kills Organisms.

Not only will disinfection kill organisms on the tuber, but it prevents their introduction into the soil as well. This is especially true of scab organisms. Unquestionably, if seed treatment had been more generally adopted in the past, more growers would not now be growing scabby potatoes.

There are two chemicals commonly recommended for seed treatment, formaldehyde and corrosive sublimate. Formaldehyde does not give as efficient control of scab, so the use of corrosive sublimate is advised. This material is a poison and must be kept away from animals; furthermore, it corrodes metal and must be made up and used in wooden containers.

Mix Corrosive Sublimate.

Mix corrosive sublimate at the rate of 4 ounces to 30 gallons of water. The potatoes should be soaked in this solution for at least one-half hour, but if heavily infected with scab or rhizoctonia, continue the treatment one hour. As soon as potatoes are treated they should be removed from the solution and dried. Corrosive sublimate is removed from the solution by the potatoes, so measures must be adopted to keep it up to original strength. This may be done by adding one-half ounce of dissolved corrosive sublimate after treating every four bushels. Seed can be treated for from four to five cents a bushel.

Swine Flu Exceedingly Expensive to Breeders

Since the introduction of preventive measures for hog cholera, greater loss is sustained by hog producers from flu than from cholera. Flu undoubtedly causes greater financial loss to the producer of hogs than any other single disease. While many hogs actually die from flu the main damage occasioned by this disease is the result of loss in condition of the herd. When a herd is infected with the flu, even though recovery is secured without loss from death, there is a tremendous waste of feed, for the porkers not only fail to gain in weight while affected with the disease, but generally they also lose weight. When brood sows become affected with the flu, the problem is still more serious because it very often causes abortion and if not, many of the pigs will be born dead, so that the average number of pigs raised per sow, even though no sows are lost, may be reduced by 100 per cent, which makes the pigs very expensive. The thing to do is to institute preventive measures against this disease by supplying good, well ventilated sleeping quarters, kept well bedded.

Take Vigorous Measures Against Pest of Rodents

With rats and mice in evidence in large numbers, farmers will do well to begin vigorous control measures against these filthy, destructive pests. Powdered barium carbonate, mixed with various types of food on a basis of one part of the poison to four parts of the selected food, has proved very effective.

In the control of large rats, which are especially destructive to young poultry, a rabbit carcass with the poison worked into knife cuts, has given unusually good results. The poison should be worked into the cuts in the proportion of one part to four of the flesh, and the carcass placed where rats will have ready access, but poultry and other domestic animals will not be endangered. Securing the carcass firmly with wire will prevent large rats from dragging it away.

Wire Mesh Bottoms for Nests Discourage Mites

Many poultrymen are now building nests in their laying houses with a fine wire mesh for the bottom instead of the usual board nests. There are two principal advantages which are set forth for this practice. The first is that such nests will be freer of mites on account of the fine dust from the straw or other litter dropping through, and the second is that there will be fewer broken eggs.

Nests which are constructed on this plan may be easily sprayed for mites, which is an advantage in their favor. When the straw gets low in the nests eggs will not be so easily broken as they would in board nests.

Hereditary Traits

Roosters furnish at least half of hereditary influences that determine the quality of chicks produced, and as relatively few males are required, the poultryman can afford to use considerable care in selecting the breeding males used in his different flocks. The ideal situation would be to have all flocks headed by males that combined good size, color and vitality with a pedigree of at least 200 eggs on the dam's side.

Poultry Notes

Poultry keepers who use cod liver oil for their flocks should feed it from the time the birds are put into winter quarters.

The poultry men are awakening to a short-sighted policy similar to that which has prevailed in the dairy industry. They have been breeding for production and forgetting form.

Hens that molt late can never be coaxed to lay winter eggs and it is better to put them in separate coops and feed for vitality and future profit. Corn, buckwheat, and mash are all excellent.

Because proper sanitation about the poultry yards will keep down coccidiosis and prevent the problem of controlling it from becoming acute, the disease is regarded with less alarm than a few years ago.

One of the most important essentials of a poultry house is that it be dry, free from drafts and well supplied with fresh air.

Poorly colored birds and those with disqualifications, such as side sprigs on the comb and stubs on the legs, are undesirable as breeders.

Keep the pullets and early molters by themselves and give them the toulces, the green food and shells, staroal, charcoal, etc., to stimulate egg production.

DAIRY FACTS

KEEP COWS CLEAN AND COMFORTABLE

Maintenance so far as possible of summer conditions for dairy cows in winter calls for a good snug barn in which the dairy stock will be comfortable the coldest days. "It is not necessary that the temperature of the barn be kept anything like that of a human dwelling," says Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of dairying of the University of Minnesota, "but on the other hand a barn so cold that the manure freezes every night will have a bad effect on milk production and will therefore be the means of losing money for the cow owner. "Ventilation is important. Fresh air for the cow is as great a necessity as feed and is cheap to supply. If a barn is thoroughly wind proof and has a good roof, the cows will not suffer much from cold. In the northern states the barn should be insulated by being boarded up on the inside. If frost gathers on inside walls of a barn in cold weather, causing them to drip moisture as the temperature rises, the ventilation is poor. But ventilation alone in a cold climate will not prevent frosty walls; proper insulation is needed. "Any changes in the barn that will improve the sanitary conditions, or that will make it easier to keep the cows clean, should be made now. Let it be remembered that the barn is a place to prepare human food and that the health and even lives of the children of the country depend to a goodly extent upon conditions in the stable where milk is produced. To produce clean milk requires clean cows. A good floor, a gutter of proper depth and width, and especially a platform of the right length for the animals, are the first things necessary to keep cows clean in the ordinary barn.

"Imitate summer conditions both as to feed and comfort of the animals, and winter production will be as satisfactory as early summer, with the price generally better."
