OFFICIAL PAPER OF LATAH COUNTY

VOLUME XXXIX

KENDRICK, LATAH COUNTY, IDAHO, FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1929

No. 12

Must Tag Spuds

of special interest to all potato growers of the state is the recent action of the legislature of Idaho, in passing senate bill 131, which has been signed by the governor, and is now in effect, as an emergency measure.

This bill writes into the law the essential provisions of the present potato regulations requiring that all potatoes entering the channels of trade in Idaho must be graded and branded. Certain exemptions are provided to this general rule, the most important of which are potatoes being shipped for repacking within the state, "Idaho Certified" and "Idaho Approved" seed potatoes, and potatoes in lots of less than one car load sold by the grower direct to the consumer.

The grades are specified and defined in accordance with the present federal standards. In addition it is lawful to ship Idaho potatoes in a combination of the U. S. No. 1 and U. S. No. 2 grades, the proportion of each entering this combination being optional with the shipper.

All potatoes must be shipped in branded bags. As a part of the brand all bags must show the name of the grade to which the potatoes conform. In the case of the combination grade, the bags must show in addition to the name "Idaho Potatoes," the percentage of both U. S. No. 1s and U. S. No. 2s. All brands must be in two inch or larger letters on containers of one hundred pounds or more and on smaller packages in proportion.—Lewiston Tribune.

Game Bird Loss Not Serious

Deputy Game Warden E. C. Collins, who was in Genesee Monday is very optimistic over the outcome of game bird life during the severe winter weather experienced this year. He states the loss has not been as great as was expected, and with favorable hatching season Latah county should be very well supplied with pheasants during the coming season. He expressed himself as being appreciative of the cooperation of the great number who fed birds the past two months. In Warden Collins' estimation only the weaker and crippled birds were lost, and that the percentage of death was greater among the smaller Hungarians than in the Chinese pheasants.

When asked about the shipment of elk, due to arrive in Moscow any day, he remarked that to carloads were to be received, with sportsmen of Latah county financing, the capture, express and other incidentals. "Cougar" Jones is assisting in securing funds from this section, and feels that securing the elk for Latah county is a good move on the part of the sportsmen.

Baseball Meeting Last Tuesday

The baseball boys got together last Tuesday evening at the city hall for the purpose of talking over plans for the season. A finance committee consisting of Marvin Long, M. O. Raby and R. H. Ramey, also met with the boys.

Manager Barnes states that he has 14 ball players who have already reported. Some of them are veteran players and others are younger men who give promise of holding a place on the team. Those on the list so far are: Blum, T. Eichner, H. Eichner, C. Davis, McVickers, Boyd, F. Glenn, C. Daugherty, Foster, Wilcoxon, B. Glenn, Kulick, Bolton, W. McCall.

The game to be played Sunday afternoon will be in the nature of a tryout in order to test the strength of the available material. Everybody come out and see the game.

Reason Enough

"Oh, why did I leave home and mother?" sobbed a bride after a few months of married life during her first quarrel with her husband. "Chiefly," he answered bitterly, "because your family was too stingy to take us in."—Ex.

Had Her Sympathy

A university president, and his wife were on a train bound for a city where the president was to speak before a convention. He made use of the hour, 20 minutes he spent in the train by rehearsing his speech in a low voice, using his hands to emphasize certain passages.

A kindly matron who was sitting directly behind, who had been watching, listening, leaning forward, tapped the president's wife on the shoulder, said, sympathizingly, "You have my sincere sympathy, my poor woman; I have one just like him at home."—Ex.

From California

During our stay in this land of promise we have met many people in the meanwhile we have read, rather extensively, the daily papers. From the people we get the idea that times are hard, from the press that everything is booming. From the people we find a scarcity of tourists, from the press the country is overrun with tourists. But the individual can make his own observations and come to his own conclusions. Wherever we go we are impressed with the number of For Rent and For Sale signs. If there is anything that is not For Sale or For Rent it has escaped our notice. This is in the heart of the tourist season. Empty houses now are not likely to be occupied until the next tourist season. Of course there will be many summer tourists but these are invariably campers. They are here one day and gone the next. They are not seekers after climate. Any residents of Idaho would make a serious mistake should they exchange the summer climate of Idaho for that of California.

Those who are trying to account for a lack of tourists say that a few years ago there were many tourists and the residents started out to make hay while the sun was favorable. The tourists left with funds sufficient to buy a ticket for home and are not anxious to return. The other theory is that times are hard everywhere and those living in the frozen north haven't the means to enjoy this glorious climate. Whether one or both of these theories are correct is not pertinent, the fact remains that for some reason the tourists are not here.

Of course individual cases do not prove a general proposition but they sometimes point the way. We live in a neat little cottage that, a few years ago rented for thirty dollars a month. It now rents for twelve. Our next door neighbor owns a house that rented for fifty dollars. He is now glad to get half that sum.

There is another phase of California life that is interesting. Who pays the hordes of real estate men? Of course the answer is easy—those who buy real estate, but to support this army the buyer pays a big profit. If you count your wealth by thousands you can buy at present prices. If by hundreds you can buy and pay ten per cent down and one percent a month. If you fail to pay the instalments the agent is the gainer.

The real estate agent is persistent. It will not be long until this whole territory will be laid out in town lots, and this is the procedure: A tract of land consisting of one or two hundred acres is purchased. It is then subdivided into lots. Streets are laid out and paved. Side walks, water and sewers are provided. Business blocks, residence blocks and the blocks for apartment houses are designated. A big tent with board floor and furnished with chairs and tables is erected. Back of the platform are maps and blackboards used in exploiting the rare opportunities to be presented. Here the figures are shown and figures never lie unless presented by a liar. Without the tent are ten offices eight feet square. Everything now is ready for business.

To secure the business is the next problem. In all the surrounding territory from twenty-five to fifty miles are sub-agents who are expected to bring in prospective buyers. For each prospect the sub-agent receives one dollar and should he bring one who buys he will get a percentage of the sales. These agents are persistent solicitors and often urge tourists to go for the ride. But when said tourists arrive at the place of business a tag properly numbered and inscribed is pinned on him. In this way, about noon, there are present from twenty-five to fifty prospects. These are taken into the tent and seated about tables and served with a fine lunch.

After lunch a real genius mounts the rostrum. We call him a genius because he is one. In the outset he says that real estate men are often accused of lying but he solemnly declares that within the past year they have not been able to lie fast enough to keep up with the general progress and then turns to the board to prove it with figures. After a half hour of real entertainment by this remarkable genius each sub-agent takes charge of the victims' he has brought and points out the lot or lots best suited to their needs. After you get through with one of these garrulous men you are taken to one of the before mentioned offices and left alone with an expert salesman. He proves to you conclusively that black is white and white is black. You declare that you have neither money nor inclination to buy but he still persists. A dollar down and another dollar whenever you get it is all that is required. The prospect must be a hard shell to resist a chance to make a small fortune within a few months.

Between Los Angeles and Long Beach, about twenty-five miles, lies a wonderful territory practically all in town lots with many buildings erected thereon. At the present time this is probably the most progressive section in the state, owing to two large manufacturing plants now in operation—the Goodrich and Firestone tire factories. They are already meeting with a serious problem to find space for their workmen to park their cars.

Customer: "I want to buy a plow."
Clerk: "I'm sorry sir, but we don't carry plows."

Customer: "This is a h—ll of a drug store."

There With Grammer

A hi school girl wrote the following note to a chum in regard to a coming examination: "Honest, kiddo, it's a cinch I'll flunk on this ex, cause I don't claim to be the onliest only when it comes to figgers. I ain't scared when it comes to anything else. When you say grammer to me why I'm there with the big mitt, and don't you rub it out. That's where I shine, believe me, kid. Ain't I the big peach when it come to this here learnin' business? You can spank me if I ain't."—Exchange.

Magpie Egg Chase is On

Arrangements have been completed by the committee in charge of the egg hunt, so that as soon as the magpies, crows, bluejays and hawks have their nests feathered and start laying, the boys of the Potlatch country may start their contest.

Prizes have been ordered and will be displayed in the corner window of the Carlson Hardware Co. some time next week. There are five prizes consisting of one Favorite Stevens .22 rifle, two telescope steel fishing rods, one No. 15 fish basket, fly book with assortment of flies and a Boy Scout knife. The prizes will be awarded in the order given.

Any boy in the Potlatch country may enter the contest. This includes country boys, town boys and all boys. Points will be given for eggs brot in and the boy bringing in the most eggs will get first and so on until the five prizes have been awarded. Contest will probably last until about the first of June. The committee in charge is J. G. Gardner, H. B. Thompson, Ed Deobald, Ira Bolon, R. H. Ramey.

Bird Might Starve

Pat had seen nearly every clock in the place, but had discarded all of them as not being good enough for his purpose. The patient shopman had exhausted his whole stock except a few cuckoo clocks, so he brought one forward as a last resource. "I'll show you what they do," said the salesman. He set the hands at 12 o'clock, when the door flew open, the cuckoo thrust its head out, and cuckooed. Pat was impressed. "Well, how do you like that?" asked the salesman. "That's a staggerer for you, isn't it?" "Faith and I should think it is! Its trouble enough to remember to wind it without having to think of feedin' the bird."—Ex.

The Diary of an "Easy Terms" Man

Jan. 4: Bot an automobile today. Very easy terms, very fine car, with a cigar lighter on dash. Ought to finish payments on this in 18 months.
Feb. 4: Paid installment due on car. Bot a radio set on easy terms. Fine set, payments will be small, monthly.
March 7: A little late with payment on the car this month, will have to let the radio payment go over till April, as I bot a set of books, paid $10 down. Everybody should have a set of these books.
April 15: Borrowed $50 from the boss to make payment on car. The radio man came to take away the set, but we put out the lights, weren't home. The chump hung around all evening, so I couldn't see to read the books.
June 1: Borrowed $100 from Uncle George to pay the $50 I borrowed from the boss, also to make payment on the car. Got behind a little on the book payments because I bot a piece of land in a new real estate development. This land ought to jump in value. Paid $50 down.
August 15: Somehow I don't miss the radio set much. You can get plenty of books from the public library. The thing that hurts is that Uncle George should be so mean. Of course I told him I'd pay back the $100 on Aug. 1st; but you can't do the impossible, can you? Trying to arrange a character loan from the bank. If I can borrow $250 I can get square again, everything will go fine.
Aug. 16: Bank says I have no character. What a bunch of crooks!
Sept. 30: The garage man is holding the car for the labor bill. What right have they to hold a car? It doesn't belong to me.
Oct. 1: It wasn't any use. I had to let the car go. Anyway, I'd rather have that piece of land. They've given me a months grace on that. Real estate people have more heart, after all.
Nov. 15: Well they can have their old land. Good riddance. If I knew where to get $30 to meet the payment on the piano, I'd be all right. Bot a new automobile today, on the "pay-out-of-income" basis.
Nov. 16: Income stopped. Got the sack at the office. In looking for a new job you've got to have a suit of clothes, so I bot one this afternoon $5 down.—From an exchange.

School was dismissed Friday to give the teachers an opportunity to attend the teachers' meeting in Lewiston, Friday and Saturday. The demonstrations and lectures proved very beneficial as well as entertaining.

Original Stories
As an incentive to be more accurate in the structure of original and retold stories in the third and fourth grades, all stories with a grade of 95 per cent or above will be published in the Kendrick Gazette. The stories are graded upon spelling, punctuation, margin, capital letters and content.
The story this week is taken from a geography lesson and was written by Floyd Candler, grade three. The story follows:
SAVE OUR TREES
If we should plant a tiny pine tree today, one hundred years from now it would be large enough to use. If we should cut down all the tiny pine trees today, in one hundred years from now we would have no pines at all. If a man would throw down a match and burn up many trees some time we might not have any wood to burn and if it got awfully cold we would all freeze to death. Wood is used for many things, such as Rayon cloth, turpentine, paper, lumber, houses and furniture. To waste trees is the same thing as wasting money.

Georgine C.: "Yes, and his Scotch is terrible."

Bill Ingle: "When the mail comes in I'm going to whip you within an inch of your life."
Ed Mielke: "Why wait for the mail."
Bill: "I'm taking a correspondence course in boxing."

Mrs. Jarvis in English I: "Bill, make a sentence using the word 'indisposition'."
Bill Holt: (assuming an aggressive pose) "When you fight you stands in dis position."

Miss Ledbetter in history class: "What is Spalding now famous for?"
Emma G.: "Spalding bridge."

Claude W.: "Robert has a scheme for making one cent stamps do as well as two cent ones."
Harley: "How's that?"
Claude: "Why, he uses two of them."

Miss Ledbetter: "Why did you place the alarm clock beside the jar of dough, Lulu?"
Lulu: "So it would know what time to rise."

Since the class of '29 put up their number last year, the Juniors of this year took their privilege of tearing it down and now a '30 reigns supreme.

Correction

There is a correction to be made in last week's "Juggler." Those who attended Edna Bolon's party were: Jane Plummer, Nettie Mae McDowell, Katherine Emery, Elizabeth Carlson, Nona McAllister, Clifford Franklin, Karl Emery, Roy Long, Ralph Blevins and James Bolon.

D. S. Girls' Hike

Tuesday morning, since the D. S. girls had their lesson on sandwiches they took these and hiked up Bear Creek a short way. Many of the girls are in general science class, so they obtained many plants that they are studying in this class. They have flower boxes in Room II and the Chemistry room.

Seventh and Eighth Grades

Margaret Schulze and Jane Plummer entertained their Sunday school class at a St. Patrick's Day party at the Plummer home Saturday night. The evening was spent in playing games after which refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Franklin and son, Clifford, Kathryn and Karl Emery, Johnnie Kite, Nettie Mae McDowell, Effie Aiken, Woodrow Nye, Roy Long and Annabel Davis.

Rowena Ramey came to school Monday. She has been in Florida. We are all glad to have her back again.

The following were elected as the new Current Event officers: Clifford Franklin, president; Geneva VanWert, secretary; Carrie Riley, eritie.

The seventh grade is studying for their geography exam which they will take in April.

Last Basket Ball Game of Season

The Kendrick Basket Ball Girls played their last game of the season, at Deary last Wednesday. Although they were defeated by a score of 9-2, it was considered the best game of the season. At the end of the first quarter the score was 0-0; the second quarter 1-0 in favor of Deary; the third quarter the score advanced to 6-0 until almost the last second of play when a basket was shot by Helen Emmett, making it 6-2. This buckled the Deary girls down to business, so that the final score was 9-2.

After the game the girls were escorted to the high school where they were served luncheon before leaving for the train. They were shown such a good time and hearty hospitality that the girls are all regretting that it was the last game.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

A party was given in honor of Junior and Jean Ramey Monday afternoon by Miss N. Weaver and pupils. The party came as a complete surprise to Junior and Jean. Many lively games were played out on the play ground. Before going home all were called into the school room to refreshments of ice cream and cookies.

Young Unbroken Horses
Need Proper Training

Young unbroken horses that will be expected to take a full share of farm work next spring should have some training during the winter. At this season of the year there is spare time that may well be used in getting the green, young horse accustomed to what is expected of him when he takes a place in the team. It takes time and patience to train a horse to do his job with ease and willingness. Time spent in properly breaking a young horse means time saved later when farm work is pressing. Furthermore, the young horse that does a little work during the winter will be much better able to work hard next spring because his shoulders and muscles are hardened.

Locate Shelter Belt on North and West Sides

The shelter belt should be to the north and west of the building to give the most winter protection. The inside of the belt should not be closer than 100 feet from the buildings because there must be clearance for drifting winter snows.
For best success trees should be planted in soil that has been under cultivation for at least one or better, two years. Failure is almost sure if trees are planted in sod. If the location on which you are to put your shelter belt is in sod, it should be immediately plowed and summer fallowed until the following spring. This sets one back a year but it is better than to attempt to hurry matters by planting in sod.

Gas Engine Heats Water
for Washing Milk Cans

Water for washing milking machines and other dairy utensils can be heated cheaply and easily by means of a new water heater attachment for gas engines. This attachment, which holds between three and four gallons of water, and fits practically any engine, is designed to utilize the heat of waste gases from the exhaust.
A device of this kind is particularly helpful on farms where water heating facilities are limited. Frequent use of hot water helps to keep milking machine, pails and cans free from visible dirt and bacteria, aiding in the production of clean, high-quality milk.

Glowing Moments
Men's feelings are always purest and most glowing in the hour of meeting and farewell; like the glaciers, which are transparent and rosy-hued only at sunrise and sunset, but throughout the day gray and cold.—Richter

Health Hint

Don't neglect persistent or recurrent pains. Find out what causes them. A pain is nature's way of telling you there is trouble that needs attention. You wouldn't neglect your car if it knocked. Why not do as well by your self?

The White Man's First House

When you look at a map of Idaho it may remind you of an old-fashioned straight-back chair; some writers have conceived of it as lying on its side and so resembling a shoe.

There are other ways of visualizing it. One of these is a rather fantastic ragged curtain draped down over the western slope of a part of the continental divide.

Five great rivers cross Idaho, all having their sources on or beyond the state's eastern line, and all moving in a generally westward direction across the state toward the Pacific. The two most northerly ones, the Kootenai and Clark's Fork, as well as the southernmost one, the Snake, traverse more or less of the territory of other states. But in between these lie two magnificent mountain rivers, the Clearwater and the Salmon, whose mouths as well as sources are in Idaho.

If you will picture these five somewhat parallel channels with their numberless branches, all slipping down from the top of America to the Columbia, you catch a glimpse of the imaginary piece of dripping drapery above suggested. The discoveries and early explorations of Idaho are so systematically connected with these streams as to make the story as picturesque as a romance.

Meriwether Lewis was the first white man to see what is now Idaho; he travelled down the Salmon a short distance, then moved over to the Clearwater and followed its course to the Snake at Lewiston's site.

The next white visitor was the Englishman, David Thompson, four years after Lewis and Clark. Thompson came down the Kootenai to about the present location of Bonners Ferry. He then crossed the low divide separating that river from Clark's Fork, and on the banks of the swelling out of the latter stream known as Lake Pend O'Reille, he erected the first white man's habitation ever built in Idaho. This building was known in history as Kullyspell House.

It was abandoned after a brief service, and burned down some twenty years later. The ruined chimney may still be seen, and the location is otherwise marked by a monument recently erected by patriotic people of Sandpoint and Bonner county.

Thus it will be seen that Idaho's first white visitors were guided by two of our great streams, and the next group by two others. One might think these routes would have sufficed for some time. But the third crew of adventurers, headed by Wilson Price Hunt, made use of the remaining one of the five great watercourses. Hunt crossed the divide at the Tetons, entered the valley of the Snake at the foot of those majestic summits, and followed that stream clear across the state we live in.

"Instinct" and "Intuition"

Instinct is the term applied to an inherited tendency to perform a specific action in a particular way whenever a situation arises. Intuition, on the other hand, implies the faculty of knowing something beforehand, whether it be mystical, intellectual or moral.

You can hardly believe your eyes when you see the work done by the sturdy, compact John Deere Tractor. It out-performs tractors hundreds of pounds heavier and handles your work faster, better and more economically. You get a surprising surplus of power in the

John Deere Tractor

You will be sure to appreciate the advantage of the John Deere for farm work—its great power that permits the use of both field and belt machines of a profitable size.

You will like its light weight—4,000 pounds—which makes it practical for operation on plowed fields and on land that tends to pack—its extreme simplicity that means less repair expense and fewer and easier adjustments.

You operate it at a saving—with less fuel and oil, it does more work in less time. The fewer, but sturdier, working parts are completely enclosed in a dust-proof case and automatically oiled, which means long life.

The remarkable performance of the John Deere and its great economy have led thousands of farmers to see the value of power farming.

Come in and see this better tractor.
