KENDRICK DEFEATS ELK RIVER LOGGERS

Locals Pick 20 Hits From Elk River Pitchers, Thursday.

The base ball game here Decoration Day, May 30, between Elk River and Kendrick was won by Kendrick 15 to 11. This win puts Kendrick in third place in the league standing.

As the score indicates both teams were smashing the ball plenty. Riggs allowed the Elk River batsmen 15 hits while the Kendrick batters picked out 20 safeties from two Elk River pitchers, Barrett and Campbell, each of whom allowed 10 hits.

Kendrick took the lead in the first inning by crossing home plate four times; however they did not hold this lead very long as Elk River went wild in the fourth inning and before they were stopped they had run in six more runs in addition to the one they got in the second inning, giving them a total of seven. Kendrick added two in the third and came back in the last of the fourth and tied the game up seven all. Elk River came back in the seventh and added one more run and three more in the ninth while Kendrick continued to score two in the sixth, five in the seventh and one in the eighth.

The feature of the game was the hitting of Types, McCall and Riggs. Types got six safe hits in six times at bat, McCall got four hits in six times up and Riggs got three in four times up. Dammarell and Boyd each got two safe hits.

Riggs pitched his usual good game. Although they did get to him in the fourth inning for seven hits, he settled down and the outcome was never in doubt after the fourth inning. Riggs had more or less a hard luck day of it as he was stalled on the road about two hours near Palouse and had to send back to Rosalia for another car so he could proceed to Kendrick. Then he had two blowouts on the road between Palouse and Kendrick and had to get a new tire before they got here which was just a few minutes before the game started, so if he did weaken a little he had plenty of reason for it.

Barrett and Campbell pitched good ball for Elk River and it was just a day of lots of hits and Kendrick getting the breaks. Elk River has a real ball club and will make the top notches go some to hold their places before the season is over.

BIG CELEBRATION HERE JULY THIRD AND FOURTH

Plans Are Progressing Nicely For Grand Time.

The various committees in charge of the celebration to be held here July 3rd and 4th, are actively engaged in promoting the program for the two big days of fun and entertainment.

One of the interesting features will be the baseball tournament between three teams of the White-Pine-Latah league. A big purse is being provided for the winning teams. The first game will be played on the afternoon of the third and the winner of this game will play a third team the following afternoon for the championship.

The committee in charge of the patriotic program to be held the morning of the Fourth, has already completed arrangements and an interesting hour will be provided.

The parade committee has its features well in hand and the public may look forward to something good along this line. This event will be held the morning of the Fourth.

Dancing in the open air pavilion will be in progress the evenings of the third and fourth.

Watch for the big posters, which will be out soon.

Dr. and Mrs. Field Arrive

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Field arrived last Friday from Rose Lake, Idaho, and are now nicely located in their home in the former Seeley residence and office quarters. Dr. Field is a physician of wide experience and will no doubt enjoy a splendid practice in this locality.

Bought Seeley Property

Dr. E. H. Field closed a deal the first of the week with a Spokane trust company for the purchase of the Seeley property on Main Street. The property consists of office rooms in front and living apartments in the rear and upstairs.

Dr. Field stated that he liked Kendrick and the surrounding country very much and he and Mrs. Field had come here to make their home and expected to stay. They will be a welcome addition to the community life and activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnes spent Sunday in Genesee with relatives.

I. O. O. F. DISTRICT CONVENTION

To be Held in Kendrick Next Monday, June 10. A Large Crowd Expected to Attend.

Next Monday promises to be a gala day in Kendrick. At this time the local Oddfellows and Rebekah Lodges will entertain the members of the order at their 25th annual district convention. Preparations are going forward to make this a splendid day and a big crowd is expected to attend from the surrounding lodges.

Registration of members will take place at the Fraternal Temple from 12 o'clock until 1:30. At 2:00 o'clock business meetings will be held, the Oddfellows at the lodge room and the Rebekahs at the Methodist church. The meetings will probably continue for the greater part of the afternoon.

Starting at 5:30 in the evening and continuing until 7, a banquet will be served in the city park. Long tables will be provided under the trees, where the guests will be served. This is expected to be a very pleasing feature of the day's program.

Immediately after the banquet a concert by the Kendrick band will be held for an hour. The general public is invited to attend the concert, which will be given in the bandstand at the park.

At 8 o'clock a program will be rendered in the lodge room and following this a social evening will be held after which refreshments will be served. Following is the evening program:

Down on The Farm

Down on the farm, 'bout half-past four I slip on my pants and sneak out of the door. Out of the yard I run like the dickens to milk ten cows and feed the chickens, clean out the barn, curry Nancy and Jiggs, separate the cream and slop all the pigs, work two hours, then eat like a Turk, and, by heck, I'm ready for a full days work. Then I gease the wagon and put on the rack, throw a jug of water in an old grain sack, hitch up the horses, hustle down the lane, must get the hay in, for it looks like rain. Look over yonder! Sure as I'm born, cattle on the rampage and cows in the corn! Start across the medder, run a mile or two, heaving like I'm wind-broke, get wet clear thru. Get back to the horses, then for recompense Nancy gets straddle the barbed-wire fence. Joints all a-aching and muscles in a T. Eichner

I'm fit as a fiddle for a full days work. Work all summer til winter is nigh, then figure up the books and heave a big sigh. Worked all year, didn't make a thing; got less cash now than I had last spring. Now, some folks tell us that there ain't no hell, but they never farmed, so they can't tell. When spring rolls 'round I take another chance, while the fringe grows longer on my old gray pants. Give my s'penders a hitch, my belt another jerk, and, by heck, I'm ready for a full years work.—Anon.

Eichner Estate Valued $105,000

The value of the Eichner estate, according to inventory and appraisal filed in the probate court at Moscow, is $105,000. It consists of real estate, stocks, bonds, mortgages and notes. Appraisers were Warney May, Ira Havens and Ben Callison.

They Do Harm

The men who do a town more harm than good may be classified as follows: First, those who oppose improvements. Second, those who run it down to strangers. Third, those who distrust public-spirited men. Fourth, those who show no hospitality to anyone. Fifth, those who hate to see others make money. Sixth, those who oppose every movement that does not originate with themselves. Seventh, those who put on long faces when a stranger speaks of locating in their town. Eighth, those who oppose every public enterprise which does not appear of personal benefit to themselves.—Selected.

Not Yet

"What party do you affiliate with?" asked the registration clerk of the colored lady.
"Does I have to answer dat question?"
"That is the law."
"Den you just scratch my name offen de books. Ef I got to tell dat party's name, ah don't vote, das all. Why he ain't got his divorce yet."—Ex.

Play at Bovill Sunday

The local baseball team will go to Bovill next Sunday to play that snappy aggregation of baseball fanatics. It will be a fight for second place in the White Pine-Latah league. If Kendrick wins it will put both teams in a tie for second place in the league standing. Kendrick will have a well organized team for that game. Manager Barnes is going out to win and it should be a real ball game.

POTLATCH DISTRICT SURFACING ROADS

Will Soon Complete Several Important Projects.

Work of surfacing roads in the Potlatch highway district is progressing nicely and within a period of two weeks the projects will be finished. The crusher is now supplying rock for the road from Leland to connect with the Cameron-Southwick road at the Fred Silflow place. This will give the Leland section a winter outlet to the Wandeher gulch grade. The distance covering this project is a mile and a half.

A strip of road between Cameron and Southwick, approximately a mile and a quarter in length is already completed. The completion of this link gives Southwick an all-winter road to Wandeher gulch.

The road from Leland to the Fairview section will have an additional half-mile of surfacing. About 400 yards of crushed rock will be used to surface some of the bad spots in other parts of the district.

R. B. Paks, highway commissioner, stated some time ago that the plans were to improve and surface Wandeher gulch grade some time in the near future as soon as funds were available. This will be the next project undertaken by the district.

People of Potlatch ridge are rejoicing over the improved road conditions. Next winter it will not be necessary for the residents of the district to be isolated from the outside world because of impassable road conditions. It is a big step forward to have Leland, Southwick and Cameron connected with hard surfaced roads.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

A family reunion was held Sunday at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker, south of Kooskia. The occasion was the fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walker and their ten children were present to help them celebrate the day. The Walker family formerly lived near Leland.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married at Fort Scott, Kansas, on June 2, 1889, and they resided there until 1902 when they moved to Leland, Idaho, where they made their home for 14 years on the Big Potlatch ridge, they then moved to Kooskia, their present home.

A family dinner was served at a beautifully decorated table to the twenty-six who were present. A wedding cake bearing the date 1889 and decorated with a wreath of rosebuds occupied the center of the table. The cake had been baked by Mrs. Roy Morgan, the oldest daughter.

The guests of honor were presented with a radio by their children.

Those present to enjoy the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Oney Walker, and son of Juliaetta; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morgan and son of Juliaetta, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Walker and children of Kooskia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker of Kooskia; Mr. and Mrs. Ericl Woody of Juliaetta; Mrs. H. L. Lewis and children of Spokane, Mrs. Eldon Johnson and children of Lewiston; Mrs. Beulah Sands and son of Stites; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walker of Burke; and Clifford Walker of Kooskia. Mr. Lewis and three children and Mr. Johnson were unable to be present.

Paul Seiffert of Oorfino took pictures of the entire group during the afternoon.

The Reclamation Conflict

President Roosevelt looked upon the construction of reclamation facilities precisely as he did upon the deepening of a river or a harbor.

Eastern congressmen have always opposed increase of arable lands in the west. In 1927 the Bureau made a new interpretation of the reclamation act, providing for the ultimate return to the government of all moneys expended, but still treating each project as a financial unit. A little later Commissioner Arthur P. Davis suggested that all profits should be thrown into the general fund.

This led to contests between the government and the settlers on the Minidoka and other irrigation projects. Instead of the two parties co-operating, they became competitors and rivals.

The attitude of the government may be expressed somewhat as follows: "Mr. Settler, just see what we have done for you. Built all these great reservoirs and canals, put in the pumps and the turbines. All you have had to do was to move on to the land and build your home."

To this the settlers on many projects are saying, in effect: "Is that so? We thot we had come out here into the wilderness of sagebrush and jackrabbits and gambled with Fate and Nature to see whether or not we could live. We found that reclamation was not completed when the water was turned on; it had just started. We dug out the sagebrush and cut down the high spots and fought the wind and frost and the markets and bad roads and high taxes, and charged it to experience and life. The government's investment appears to have netted a million dollars on this project alone, while $16 per cent of our holdings have been foreclosed on by the mortgage companies."

There is no better illustration of the possibilities of profit in the development of a water supply, than the deepening of the channel in the South Fork below Jackson Lake dam.

Long after the work was completed it was discovered that the outlet did not thoroely empty the reservoir, owing to a hump in the river bed a short distance below the dam. Engineers found that a cut of approximately three feet in this hump would free a large quantity of water. The work was done by the government at a cost of $44,000. The additional water thus made available was sold for over ten times the cost of the improvement.

This profit the Minidoka Project claims as its own. The contest is of importance and interest because typical of the unfortunate general situation in the reclamation field. Many well informed and conservative men believe that irrigation in Idaho is still in its infancy. Not nearly all of the available water is being used. Much of southern Idaho is traversed by subterranean streams. It is confidently predicted that methods will be devised to utilize these hidden waters.

DAIRY FACTS

ROUGHAGE USEFUL IN DAIRY RATION

Limited Grain Feed Found to Be Most Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many dairymen, in their effort to increase the production per cow, have acquired the habit of feeding too much concentrated grain feed, says O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. More net profit per cow can be made under some conditions, he says, by feeding a limited grain ration or even a roughage ration in preference to a full-grain ration.

To demonstrate this statement, Mr. Reed cites the results of an experiment by the bureau at Huntley, Mont. In this experiment three plans of feeding were compared. Ten cows were fed over a three-year period on each of the following rations: For one year (1) roughage alone, consisting of corn silage, roots, alfalfa hay, and irrigated pasture; for another year (2) the same roughages and a limited grain ration of one pound of grain mixture to each of six pounds of milk produced; and for still another year (3) the same roughages and a full grain ration of one pound of grain to each three pounds of milk produced.

On the first ration, when production was figured to maturity, the cows averaged 478 pounds of butterfat, on the second ration 684.1 pounds, and on the third 619.9 pounds. At the prevailing prices for feed and for milk and butterfat, the returns over cost of feed were $161 per cow on the first ration, $185 on the second, and $132 on the third. The limited grain ration was therefore the most profitable, with the roughage ration a close second.

Inefficient Separators Waste Much Butterfat

Butterfat left in skim milk by inefficient cream separators often costs dairymen and farmer owners anywhere from a few dollars to several hundred dollars yearly. Improper adjustment and lack of care on the part of the operators cause most of the losses. Testers in dairy herd improvement associations of 30 states find the loss from poor skimming one of the most serious problems of the industry.

Out of 30 typical cream separators recently checked by testers, only three were wasting less than $20 worth of butterfat a year and five were leaving more than $100 worth of butterfat in the skim milk annually. One new separator, only a month old, was found to be leaving 1 per cent butterfat in the skim milk, probably one-fourth of the total fat present.

In 523 demonstrations during the early part of 1923, a manufacturer of cream separators found that the average separator was wasting butterfat with a yearly value of $79.61. Tests for 1927 gave similar results.

Calf Scours Is Usually Caused by Indigestion

Calf scours is a common disease of the digestive tract and is usually caused by indigestion. The calf that scours early in life may be seriously handicapped and of course sometimes dies. Prevention is best but not always possible. Care should be taken that the calf is not overfed, that the milk is always fed warm, and that the milk is uniformly sweet and fed from clean buckets. If scours occur, cut the milk down one-half and give a dose of one to three ounces of castor oil or of mineral oil. Raw eggs may be used to correct the trouble. Two or three tablespoonfuls of lime water in the milk is sometimes effective.

Dairy Facts

Succulence can be furnished with silage, mangel beets, or wet beet pulp. All of these will prove their worth at the pail.

Sweet clover is a great pasture. One acre of it will produce more than three acres of red clover. Fifteen acres of sweet clover pasture will carry forty Holstein cows from May until August.

Reports are received frequently that cows bloat on sweet clover. There is little danger of bloat if the cows are pastured regularly, keeping the clover down or if the cattle are not turned in when the clover is wet.

Alfalfa hay is highly esteemed as a roughage for dairy cows because it is rich in protein and lime and is laxative and palatable.

Clover hay is almost as valuable as alfalfa from the standpoint of the dairy cow. The protein content is not quite so high as clover.

Wheat middlings are very satisfactory when fed to dairy cattle, being higher in protein and total digestible nutrients than bran. They should also be fed with other concentrates.

POULTRY

SANITARY RUNWAY QUITE VALUABLE

Brooding Platform May Be Used With Fair Success.

(By G. T. Klein, Extension Poultryman, K. S. A.)

By making use of the "sanitary runway," the permanent brooder house that has for years been the menace of the poultry industry may be used with a fair degree of success.

The runway is merely a brooding platform that is placed in front of the brooder house. It has a floor of one-half inch half screen or hardware cloth. The wire floor, which is about 15 inches from the ground, allows all droppings and filth to fall through. Wire sides and top of one inch poultry netting confines the chicks to the runway and protects them from enemies.

The sanitary runway accomplishes everything that turning the chicks outside will accomplish, giving them exercise and sunlight and keeping them from contaminated soil. Diseases are less likely to spread when chicks are running on the wire floor, for they have less opportunity of infection.

The runway may be ten feet wide and the entire length of the brooder house. The framework may be constructed of 1 by 4 inch material. These boards are placed on edge to support the floor. Boards may be spaced two feet apart. The wire may be either 24 or 48 inch widths. The 48-inch material makes a slightly stronger floor. Sides should be two feet high. Sections of the top should be hinged for ease in filling the feeders and care for the chicks.

Sufficient Number of Nests Properly Placed

The number of nests in relation to the size of the laying flock during the heavy laying season is important. With a sufficient number of nests properly placed there is less danger of eggs being deposited in the litter and becoming lost, stepped on, or otherwise broken.

Nests should be darkened; they should be so constructed that it is easy for one to see and remove the eggs. If nests are too large eggs may be broken by two or more hens crowding into them. Twelve by fourteen inches is suggested for the larger breed and ten by twelve inches for the smaller breeds. Nests should be easy to remove to facilitate cleaning.

Turkey's Natural Food Lines Often Overlooked

Then there are a good many persons working with turkeys in a small way who do not recognize one of the turkey's natural food lines; they fail to remember. If they ever knew, that the turkey's food in its wild state consisted chiefly of insects, beechnuts, acorns, berries, and so forth, with but little corn. The average poultry raiser who has not studied Mr. Turkey's former habits of life feeds too much corn and corn-meal, the latter especially. So much corn-meal for small turkeys tends to pack the crop and cause indigestion and liver trouble.

POULTRY

SELECTING EGGS FOR HATCHING

Quality of Chickens Hatched Depends on Care Used.

Considerable care should be taken in the selection of eggs for hatching, for the quality of eggs used will determine to a large extent the quality of the chickens hatched from them.

This caution is urged by O. C. Urford, poultry specialist for the extension service of the Colorado Agricultural college.

Eggs used for hatching should never be over ten to fourteen days old, and the fresher the better, the poultry specialist declares.

The size, shape and color of an egg is an inherited quality, and if one uses small or mis-shaped eggs for hatching, the pullets that hatch from such eggs are liable to be undersized and have a tendency to lay the kind of eggs from which they are hatched.

The standard weight of an egg is two ounces. It is best to set eggs as near this weight as possible. A hatching egg should not be long and narrow or illformed in any way. Eggs that are ridged, rough-shelled or thin-shelled in spots are undesirable for hatching purposes.

White eggs should be uniformly chalk white in color; a tint of brown is objectionable. There are many shades of brown, but if one will select for a certain shade one may build up a strain of birds that will lay very uniform colored eggs. This is particularly desirable when one is marketing a particularly high-quality egg.

When one is saving eggs for hatching one should keep them in a cool place, with a temperature of between 45 and 65 degrees. When saving eggs longer than three or four days they should be turned daily.

Turkey Raising Given Earnest Consideration

Turkey raising has attracted considerable attention in late years due to the possibility of raising the turkey in confinement. A majority are of the opinion that turkeys must be given the entire range of the farm, and where this is done it is impossible to keep them away from infected grounds.

The confinement plan which is being successfully used confines the turkeys to areas which are not infested with blackhead, and keeps the turkeys away from chickens. So far as care of turkeys is concerned they may be brooded and fed the same way as baby chicks. All feeds should be hopper fed.

Devastating Diseases Contracted in Yards

It should always be kept in mind that usually the most devastating poultry diseases such as tuberculosis, typhoid, cholera, blackhead and coccidiosis are but rarely contracted in the houses. The yards, that is the place where the birds find their food and water, are just as important in connection with disease transmission as the houses.

The soil of the poultry yards presents a hygienic aspect of a tremendous importance because on it are deposited the body wastes of the fowls and those constitute for the diseases mentioned the most common, if not the usual vehicle for their transmission.

Small Shriveled Combs Indicate Poor Layers

Some poultry breeders have the impression that the larger the comb the better breeder the bird will prove. It is true that small shriveled combs of females indicate that they are either temporarily out of production or poor layers. The same kind of a comb on a male would lead one to expect him to be a poor breeder. The opposite is not necessarily true, that the larger combed birds are any better breeders than those with combs of average size. Exceptionally large combs on breeds normally having large combs disfigure and handicap the individual.

Grains for Chicks

A comparison of common grains as the sole source of feed for day-old chicks showed that wheat gave slightly better results in connection with weight than those obtained from corn, kafir, or oats, according to the 1920 Kansas experiment station report. The use of cabbage gives fairly good results as a vitamin source, ranking in this regard above carrots. The user of commercial chick feeds made up partly of weed seeds was found undesirable.

Care for Chicks

Sitting hens should be confined to the slightly darkened nests at hatching time and not disturbed unless they step on or pick their chickens when hatching. In which case the chickens should be removed as soon as dry. In a basket lined with flannel or some other warm material and kept near a fire until all the eggs are hatched, or the eggs may be removed and placed under a quilter hen whose eggs are hatching at the same time. Do not chill the chicks.

Roughage Mills Favored for Cutting Bulky Feed

The popularity of roughage mills for cutting up corn stalks, straw, hay and other coarse feeds for live stock is indicated by their use on 35 adjoining farms near State Center, Iowa. On each of the 35 live stock farms is a roughage mill and no farm within this huge block is without one.

These 35 Iowa farm operators and many others find that by chopping it up with a roughage mill they can save much feed that would ordinarily be wasted. Feeds are made more palatable in this way for all classes of live stock, including hay for poultry. Roughage may also be chopped by means of recutting attachments for ensilage cutters.

Early hatching of chickens this spring and proper handling of the pullets will bring them into laying condition next fall during the months of high-priced eggs.

Market premium for high-quality eggs has aroused an interest in larger egg size. There are inherited tendencies toward large and small eggs. Careful selection at time of placing eggs in the incubator should contribute to the improvement of the size of the eggs of a flock.

Freedom from disease is essential to growing a large percentage of the chicks hatched. Choose eggs from disease-free parents, or if you buy back chicks get them from flocks known to be free from bacillary white diarrhea.
