BUSINESS LOOKS GOOD

Business in the 12th federal reserve district was more active during the first six months of 1929 than during the same period of 1928. Prices of farm products advanced. Interest rates went down and bank reserves increased. Industry operated on a higher level, except in June. Sales of new automobiles exceeded previous records. Inter-coastal and foreign trade, though just now on the decline, show a greater total than that of the first six months last year.

Altogether, the business outlook is good. And when the Potlatch crops begin to roll in next month business will be still better.

Crape hangers are out of luck.

SWAT THE WEEDS

Farmers in Latah County are attacking weeds with greater energy this summer than ever before, says J. L. Woody. Even those who opposed the weed law a year ago are coming to see the danger. They are keeping the county chemical truck busy almost everyday. Those who have cleaned up their own premises are urging their neighbors to act, and are reporting flagrant cases of neglect.

The big truck will approach the Kendrick district soon, and it is expected that several farmers here will make use of it. In doing this they will protect their own interests and at the same time perform a vital service to their community.

MORE COWS NEEDED

Farmers who contemplate buying cows in order to have a regular monthly income from cream sometimes hesitate for fear that dairying may soon be overdone and the price of cream go down.

An article in the Lewiston Herald-Tribune of recent date discusses the question illuminatingly. It shows that hundreds of thousands of pounds of cream are shipped annually from distant points to the Lewiston creameries, to be converted into butter and other products and re-shipped. These creameries, it is estimated, could use ten times as much local milk and cream as they now use if it were available. Just as fast as the local supply increases, we may assume, the local creameries will absorb it, instead of shipping from central Idaho and other distant points. This means that there should be a continually expanding market at good prices for Latah and Nez Perce County cream and milk for years to come.

THANK YOU!

The Troy News, commenting on the recent sale of the Gazette, extends a hand of welcome to the new editor in the following well chosen words:

"The News joins others of the craft in Latah county in extending the hand of fellowship to the new owner of the Gazette.—He has a good town, good people to work with, and one of the finest countries out-of-doors to boot."

And the Elk River News shows a fraternal spirit by saying that "The new manager, Mr. Dickerson, is welcomed to this locality and the Elk River News extend him well wishes in his new field of endeavor."

Thank you, gentlemen. It helps a stranger in a strange land wonderfully to be assured a welcome by his fellow craftsmen round about.

Moseow maintains that she was the first city in the United States—or one of the first—to advocate farm relief. It was in 1919 that she outlined a plan for the fixation of wheat prices, and her plan was discussed widely. She may well be proud of the fact that she was instrumental in starting a movement, which, after ten years of agitation, has crystallized into a national program.

FARMERS DISCUSS

RELIEF AT MOSCOW

Three hundred farmers met in Moscow Saturday night to study the farm relief bill. G. P. Mix was appointed chairman of a committee to get in touch with the federal farm board. Thru this committee the farmers of Latah county hope to secure whatever benefits the farm relief bill may have for them.

Farmers seemed skeptical in regard to the bill. Opinion appeared to be general that it was powerless to raise the price of wheat. According to Dr. Drummeier of W. S. C., however, the bill will tend to prevent price fluctuations, and may eventually reduce marketing costs by stimulating co-operatives.

The federal farm board will loan money at a low rate of interest to farmer co-operatives for the purpose of buying grain, building warehouses, and perfecting organizations of the farmers.

Congressman French said wheat growers must be educated to control crop acreages as well as to cooperate in marketing their product. He advocated a higher tariff on farm products, and said that when farmers are properly organized they can control 90 percent of the factors in marketing.

SUMMONS

In the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho in and for the County of Latah.

Martin Jacobson, Plaintiff, vs.

Nettie Thalheimer, and all unknown owners of and all unknown claimants to any right, or title to or interest in or lien or claim upon the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section five in township forty-one north, of range five, W. B. M., situated in Latah County, State of Idaho, Defendants.

The State of Idaho Sends Greetings to You, the Above Named Defendants and Each of You:

You are hereby notified that a verified complaint has been filed against you in the District Court of the Second Judicial District of the State of Idaho, in and for Latah County, by the above named plaintiff and you are hereby directed to appear and plead to said Complaint within twenty days of the service of this Summons upon you.

Said action is brought and prosecuted by the plaintiff against you, the defendants, to remove an alleged cloud upon plaintiff's title to the lands and premises in said Complaint mentioned and described as follows: The South West Quarter of the North East Quarter of Section Five in Township forty-one North, Range five W. B. M. in Latah County, State of Idaho, containing forty acres according to the U. S. government survey, all of which fully appears from plaintiff's said Complaint to which reference is hereby made.

And you and each of you are further notified that unless you so appear and plead to said Complaint within the time herein specified, the plaintiff will take judgment against you as prayed in said Complaint.

Witness my hand and seal of said District Court this 23d day of July 1929.

HARRY A. THATCHER, Clerk.

Millard have returned from Lewiston and have moved into Herb's place.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Custer went to Peola, over the week end, in search of huckleberries.
They report the green berries to be plentiful, but it is still too early for them in that vicinity.

Sammy Tabor was called to Southern Idaho last Sunday due to the death of his daughter, Mrs. Virgil Burns.

Sam Gruell was a Spokane visitor Saturday.
Rev. Forbis and family spent the week end at Gilbert.

Mrs. M. Nutt, Mrs. S. Gruell

Hanks spent Sunday with friends in Juliaetta.

The camp meetings closed
Sunday after a three weeks run. There was a basket dinner served at noon and baptizing in the afternoon, there being twelve that were baptized, and services again in the evening. A very large crowd was present.
Much interest was taken in the meetings during the three weeks and there were several conversions.

Wm. Kander and wife of Crescent were in town Monday.
Russell Betts drove to Lewiston and back last Saturday.

Mrs. Eva Wright is assisting Mrs. Arnold Cuddey with her house work while the latter is helping to hoe beans.

A letter from Ben Baker who is on Larson Creek working for the fire patrol, says that the bear that frequented their camp had to be killed. He would break into the packers things and eat the hams and sweets and if he couldn't find what he wanted he would cuff the packs all around. Ben states that he hated to see the bear killed, as it would lie down in front of the door and sleep whenever he was in camp alone and was quite a lot of company.

Rev. N. E. Franklin and O.
E. MacPherson returned Tuesday evening from a two-day fishing trip in the vicinity of Clarkia. They report an abundant supply of mosquitoes but not so many fish.

T. H. Kerr, pole buyer from Sandpoint, Idaho, transacted business in Kendrick the latter part of the week.

ALASKA, OUR SCENIC FRONTIER

—By Rev. CLAUDE W. GROTH

It is surprising to many when they learn that Alaska is largely a white man's country. According to the census of 1920, the population of the territory is 55,000, forty-seven percent of these being Indians or other native stock. Since then there has been an increase in the white population, but practically none with the natives.

The white people are of much the same average class found in the States, but in Alaska, as has been the case on all frontiers, there is the element that cares more for a fast life. But balancing these are found those whites who enjoy a new country, who have energy and enterprise, and of whom many have a college education.

But in this discussion we are concerned more with the native classes, the Eskimos and the Indians, as well as the Aleuts or natives who are found in the Aleutian Islands, the Alaska Peninsula, and other islands near by. The Aleuts are a cross between the Alaskan Indian and the Russian or Scandinavian. The Indians of Southeastern Alaska include the Tlingit, Tsimpsian and Haida tribes or races. The Eskimos inhabit the northern and northwestern parts of the territory, and also sections near the Yukon and Kuskokwim Rivers.

Eskimos at the present time do not live in snow houses as is commonly supposed. The only time they reside in such a dwelling is when they are out on the trail in the bitter cold and can find no other shelter. (The Eskimo dogs are very interesting. They are powerful creatures, and often times very savage, and always keep an eye on strangers. It is dangerous to shake hands with the master of a dog team, if his dogs are at hand, and free, for some dogs have thrown themselves upon strangers and almost killed them before help could be rendered. These dogs are covered with long heavy hair, and have great bushy tails with which they cover themselves at night to keep warm. Their food is principally rice and salmon.)

The Eskimo resembles the northern Asiatic a great deal and it is believed by scientists that he is of Asiatic origin. He has high cheek bones, black eyes, brown skin, and straight coarse black hair. So far as I have been able to observe, most Eskimos are a little under the average in height. But the pure Eskimos are always decreasing in number because of their intermarrying with the whites. However, I remember one Eskimo boy who lived near Seward who was a big strong fellow, and there were quite a number of Eskimo children in the Jesse Lee Mission Home.

The Eskimo is good at hand-work, but works only when he feels so inclined or if necessity forces him to do so. He loves to hunt, trap, and fish, and because of his lack of initiative, he is oftentimes out-stripped by the white man. The native as a rule is not intellectually inclined, and consequently in many cases, his ignorance makes him an easy prey to unscrupulous traders and adventurers. Even in the reindeer industry the Eskimo sometimes gets the bad end of the deal, because big business has outwitted him. In his trapping he receives only a low price for his furs. The Eskimos are very artistic when they work at ivory-carving and bead-work. Some are very skillful with the brush. I have in mind two of the girls at the Jesse Lee Home, Lucy Kivik and Bessie Aleyak, who were exceptionally good at free-hand drawing, and painting.

The clothing of the Eskimo for cold weather consists of a reindeer parka, fur trousers, and mukluks. The parkas oftentimes are equipped with hoods of wolverine fur, which does not freeze when the breath is blown upon it in the severe cold. This kind of clothing will always be worn in Alaska, by both the white man and the native, for no clothing of the white man's manufacture, has as yet been made that is warm enough for the extreme cold sections. The mukluks are a kind of a shoe made of the hide of a deer or moose.

In next week's writing I shall discuss the religion of the natives and the work of the mission schools.

Five men are being prominently mentioned as possible successors to Judge E. C. Steele, who died in Seattle Friday. They are Abe Goff, Moscow, prosecuting attorney of Latah County; C. J. Orland, Moscow attorney; A. H. Oversmith, Moscow attorney; Frank E. Smith, Orofino, member of the public utilities commission; and Frank S. Kimble, city attorney of Orofino.

An intensive campaign against defective and glaring headlights of automobiles will be conducted all over the state during the week beginning August 12, it is announced by Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state. The campaign is one of the results of the recent conference of state traffic officers held in Boise. Tail lights will also come in for their share of inspection. Prior to the date of the campaign Mr. Lukens is arranging to have a large number of light-testing stations established. Garages in the various cities and towns of the state will be designated as official light-testing stations. When his lights are properly adjusted each motorist will be given a certificate indicating that on a certain date his lights were satisfactory. This system, is similar to that used in California and Oregon except that the minimum charge is higher there.

From all sections comes the information that tourist travel in Idaho is increasing and experts who are interested in this phase of Idaho's development predict that the state is about to begin to realize its share of this

TRUE WEIGHT

There's more than one detail to be considered in the filing of prescriptions. Purity, strength and skillful compounding are three very necessary considerations, but there's a fourth consideration equally as important. The weighing and measuring of drugs must be carefully done. Your doctor wants an exact amount on his prescription. We give you exactly what the doctor orders. We weigh medicines on the most accurate prescription balance made. All liquid medicines are measured in carefully graduated containers. You are sure of receiving the right amount and the exact amount when we fill your prescriptions. It is a carefulness that goes with our service.
