

Dickie Carlson was sitting in the doorway of a freight car from which his brother and another boy were unloading wood, when another car bumped into it, throwing Dickie on to the floor and the wood onto him. He was cut on the back of the neck, making a stitch necessary, and is carrying a bump on his forehead.

A CREAM STATION IN KENDRICK?

An offer has been made by a responsible company to establish a cream station in Kendrick if it can be shown that the average monthly shipment of cream throughout the year is sufficient to justify the investment. Between $400 and $500 would have to be put into machinery and fixtures.

At the present time, according to R. H. Ramey, Northern Pacific agent at Kendrick, as many as 800 five-gallon cans of cream are shipped from here in a month during the spring of the year. The poorest months show only 350 cans. The average for the year runs between 500 and 525 per month.

Whether this is a sufficient quantity to justify establishing a station is difficult to determine, because it is not known for certain what percent of the farmers who ship cream would patronize the station. Much would depend, too, upon the man who had charge. He should be a local man, a rustler, a man who has the acquaintance and the confidence of the farmers. For such a man there is an opportunity to get into a growing business without the investment of a dollar of his own capital,—a business which should make for him a good living from the start, and might pay handsome dividends in the long run.

Whether the time is ripe for the establishing of a cream station may be debatable question, but the community should get behind the movement to hasten its coming as soon as practicable. The advantages of such a business to the community are so obvious they need no elaboration.

Men wear three times as much clothing as women. A man's apparel weighs 6 3/4 to 10 1/4 pounds. Men swelter in the summer times under a load of stuffy clothes, women go about in comfort. Yet men imagine they are the more national sex. When will they shake themselves free from the shackles of custom, and be guided by common sense?

Advertisers should note that the mosquito, which does a humming business, is not satisfied with one insertion.

IDAHO IS GOOD TURKEY COUNTRY

Pren Moore, state poultry specialist, has recently expressed the opinion that Idaho has every natural condition conducive to turkey growing. Although admitting that the national turkey crop is sometimes too large, Mr. Moore believes that Idaho turkeys will always sell at a premium because of their excellent quality.

The long dry summers and the abundance of rough range land found in this part of Idaho make it an ideal turkey country. Mr. Moore believes that turkeys are more profitable than any other poultry, if the right methods are employed in growing them.

OBITUARY

Caroline Elizabeth Morris,
born at Springfield, Oregon, Jan. 3, 1871.—Lived near Dayton, Wash, until 1887 when with her parents she moved to Juliaetta, Idaho.

At Kendrick, November, 1894, she was united in marriage to Thos. LeBolle. To this union were born three children, one daughter and two sons, one son preceding her in death at the age of 11 years.

Died at Lewiston, Idaho, Aug.
16, 1929, at the age of 58 years, 7 months, 13 days.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter, Mrs. Mae Schultz residing at Deary, Idaho, one son, Anbrey LaBolle, also of Deary, Idaho, two grandchildren, one sister, Miss Mary Morris; three brothers, Austin, Isaac and Henry Morris all of Clarkston, Wash., besides a large number of neighbors and friends.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, at the U. B.
Church on Texas ridge. Rev. C.
W. Groth delivered a most em-pressive and comforting service, explaining the ways of the great Comforter and his promises for the future. Burial in Elwood Cemetery. A large number of neighbors were present to pay their last tribute.

FINDS NEW WAY
TO STORE EGGS

Small Amounts of Carbon Dioxide Will Be Big Aid.

Eggs can be better preserved if they are stored where there is a certain amount of carbon dioxide in the air, according to Paul F. Sharp of the New York State College of Agriculture, who has just published the results of some experiments on eggs in Science.

Eggs stored in ordinary air spoil rapidly after they lose the carbon dioxide which is a part of the egg. As soon as an egg is laid it starts to become more alkaline and this hastens decay. This alkaline tendency, however, can be easily and conveniently neutralized and controlled if the eggs are placed where the air contains small amounts of carbon dioxide.

This discovery has a practical result because carbon dioxide can be introduced into cold storage rooms in amounts which greatly retard the destructive changes in the eggs and yet the amount in the air will not be enough to prevent workmen from entering the storage rooms. Carbon dioxide can be used also in shipping containers and in refrigerator cars.

A convenient source of this gas can be used, such as the solid form or the gas form in cylinders. Professor Sharp says the only method of preserving eggs which approaches this one in cheapness and practicability is the oil dipping method in which eggs are dipped in a suitable oil which very nearly seals the pores.
The carbon dioxide method is superior to the oil method, because the whites of the oil-dipped eggs become cloudy in storage. Those preserved by the carbon are not cloudy after the eggs are removed from the air which contains the carbon dioxide.

Concrete Runs Outside

Brooder House Are New

Concrete runs outside of the brooder house are a comparatively new addition to poultry farm equipment but are coming into use because of several advantages. They enable one to use a brooder house without danger from contaminated soil near them, save the labor of moving portable buildings and make it possible to keep chicks near the dwelling or barns.
says a writer in the Rural New Yorker. As they do not have to bear heavy weights, a two-inch thickness of concrete is sufficient, except at the edges, where double that thickness is needed to prevent breaking.

They should be smooth for easy cleaning, have a slope for drainage, two or three inches, according to size, and need not be roofed. They,
of course, may be of any desired size, so that they give an ample outside run, preferably not less than that required inside for the same number of chicks. They may have permanent fences or movable wire covered frames to set upon the concrete. Movable frames will facilitate cleaning.
They may be lightly covered with sand, loam or litter, though the essential thing is that they be kept clean to prevent infection from droppings picked up by the chicks running upon them.

Poultry Hints

Early-hatched pullets produce fall and winter eggs.

Overcrowding in the poultry house discourages production of eggs.

Sitting hens should be dusted with sodium fluoride before being put on the nest.

Gather the eggs frequently to avoid the dirt that may be carried in on the hen's feet.

Chicks hatched so as to begin laying the first of October are usually the most profitable.

Those from Kendrick who attended the lecture given by Mrs. Williams in the Methodist Church in Juliaetta Sunday were Mrs. Field, Mrs. Cummings and daughters, Mrs. Frytag, Mrs. McAllister, Rev. and Mrs. Groth, Mr. and Mrs. Ramey, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Walker, Mrs. Hugh Stanton, Mrs. Watts, Miss Davidson, Mrs. Martin Thomas and Mrs. Cling Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Carlson went to Winchester Sunday.

Thomas J. Jackson who has been batching on a homestead at Dent since 1905 visited in Kendrick Wednesday. It had been many years since his last trip to this place.

ALASKA, OUR SCENIC FRONTIER

By Rev. CLAUDE W. GROTH

The reaction of the native children to the teaching and preaching of the Christian religion is favorable to a great extent. When one realizes that they have been sent to this mission from such unfavorable and degrading conditions of life, it is amazing how quickly they learn to live in a better way. That, however, does not mean that no difficulty is ever experienced in teaching them lessons of industry, good living, and religion. But it takes "line upon line, precept upon precept," and that continually.

The industrial subjects that are taught these children are agriculture, manual training, domestic science, mechanical drawing, laundry work, shoe repairing, making of fish nets and fishing, and carpentering.

Some of the things taken up under agriculture are animal husbandry, poultry raising and land-clearing. (The Home at latest reports, has eight head of cattle, fifteen hogs, six goats, and one hundred fifty hens.) Ensilage for the cattle is made from tall grass.

The girls are taught sewing, cooking, fancy work, landering, and all house work.

The boys learn housecleaning, and always darn their own stockings.

On the farm are raised potatoes, carrots, beets, rutabagas, cabbage, lettuce, peas, and radishes, and at present there are 300 hills of rubarb.

During the long summer days groups of the children under the leadership of a teacher, go to the hills and the swamps and secure great quantities of red blue, currants, blueberries, and high-bush and low-bush cranberries.

Dolly Varden trout and salmon are caught in their season by the workers and the boys in the Home, by means of dragnets and goof-hooks. One afternoon, while we were working there, we caught eleven hundred trout, and on several evenings the boys "gaffed" salmon, catching as many as fifty-five in a single evening.

The teachers of the Jesse Lee Home at the present time with their official positions are given below:

- Chas. T. Hatten—Supt. of Home.
- Myrtle C. Hatten—Assistant Supt. History and Domestic Science teacher.
- J. Dean King—Boys' Dean and Instructor in Manual Arts.
- Isabelle M. Knapp—Girls' Matron.
- Laura Y. Olsen—Girl's Matron.
- Mrs. Millie King—Boy's Matron.
- Miss Blanche Thornton—Girl's Matron and Nurse.
- Miss Beth Stewart—Boy's Matron and Nurse.
- Anna Martin—Teacher of English, Science and Typewriting.
- Ethel S. Robbins—Teacher of Domestic Arts.
- Anna I. Gould—Instructor in Cooking.
- Olive Beedle—Laundry Instructor.

Beside the industrial work, the children of the Home attend a grade school established and supported by the Territory of Alaska. My brother is the principal of that school at present. There is also a school for those of high school rank, which is maintained as a private high school by the Home. My official position, while a worker in the Home was that of High School Principal and Boys' Industrial Worker. Mrs. Groth as Music Teacher taught public school music in the grades and gave private music lessons in the high school. Mr. J. Dean King taught manual training in both the grades and the high school, while I had charge of the classes in free-hand drawing. These classes were made up of those from both the grades and the high school who were exceptionally talented along that line. And among that number were some of the best art pupils that I have ever seen.

In order that you may know more about these native children, I shall describe a few of them. There is Ephraim Kalmakoff, a small brown boy, an Aleut, who shows Indian blood strongly. His hair and eyes are black. He has twice won first prize in the annual Mountain Race at Seward. I think of Eddie Edigoruk, an Eskimo boy, who is about five foot, eight inches in height and very muscular and strong. He Henry Wille from off Potlatch ridge was a Lewiston visitor Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Petrick returned to Seattle Saturday to make their home.

Winifred Davidson spent a few days at Genesee last week where she will teach this coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Westacott and son Richard spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ramey.

G. H. Sloan made a trip to Potlatch last week to visit friends, returning home Sunday, bringing with him Archie who has been visiting there for some time.

Mrs. T. C. Lukens and two children of Lewiston visited at the Frank Crocker home Wednesday and Thursday. They went on to Moscow from Kendrick, where Mrs. Lukens will visit her mother.

is reserved, has a winning smile, and works faithfully. He is an exceptionally good basket-ball player.

There is Mary Ella Larson, an Aleut girl, who is very musical, has black hair and brown eyes, but a rather fair complexion. She might pass for a white girl in the states. Another Aleut girl is Harriet Lange who has light hair, blue eyes, and a very fair complexion. Harriet has in mind the obtaining of a college education. Billy Blackjack, a part Eskimo is four years old, and can't be kept out of mischief. He is bright beyond his years and will no doubt learn rapidly in school. Nokoli Tutiakoff, a little Aleut is a cute little fellow to look at, has a deep lustrous voice, and looks very sober when in trouble (which is often). His sister Sarah, a small but bright girl is one of the best examples of a Christian native. She always wears a bright smile, and never causes any disciplinary trouble. Aleck Conn, a sixteen-year old boy does all the shoe-repairing for the Home. He plans to start in the shoe-shop business in the States as soon as he finishes his schooling.

Next time I shall describe some of the beautiful places I have seen in Alaska and some of the stories concerning game which I have heard.
