

PIONEER MERCHANT CLOSES OUT

MR. DAMMARELL TAKES LOOK BACKWARD INTO YEARS AGONE

E. H. Dammarell, pioneer merchant of Kendrick, began business in this village more than eighteen years ago. It was on the fourth of February, 1911, that he closed his books as county treasurer of Asotin county, where he had resided for a number of years, and turned toward the beautiful little city in which he now resides.

But to turn time backward further still: Mr. Dammarell began his mercantile career as a clerk in Prince Edward Is. Tiring of the long and severe winters there, however, and feeling the urge to go to the great northwest, he started for Portland. On reaching the vicinity of Lewiston, he changed his mind: for here, it seemed to him, were the opportunities he sought. After "roughing it" on a homestead for a while, and later serving two terms as treasurer of Asotin county, he felt the urge to return to the mercantile business. Then it was that he came to Kendrick. Asked why he sought this particular location, he said, "Because Kendrick is the hub of one of the richest farming regions of the west. I saw that it would always be a prosperous town."

The Kendrick Store till 1918 was a corporation. Since then, Mr. Dammarell has been sole proprietor. During the eventful years since he took over the business, he has experienced the usual ups and downs of the credit merchant, and his experience has taught him many lessons concerning human nature.

"The biggest problem in merchandising today is that of credit," he says. "People do not try hard enough to meet their obligations. It seems to me that many customers lack a sense of fairness to the merchant. After a merchant has carried a man for a year or longer, thus enabling him to grow his crop, he should market his produce as soon as possible, and pay the merchant first. This would help not only the merchant, but the farmer himself. Why? Because once he pays the merchant, the latter orders more goods. This starts the wheels of industry moving, the factories hum again, laborers in the city begin to buy more food, the demand for the farmers product quickens, and the farmer benefits. It is only by meeting his bills promptly and fairly that the farmer himself can prosper."

"Another problem of the small town merchant is that of holding the cash customer. Of late years there is a tendency to spend cash elsewhere and then when cash is gone, to call upon the local merchant for credit. This is not only unfair, it is harmful to the purchaser himself. For by and by the merchant, forced to the wall, will have to refuse credit altogether. Where, then, will the customer be? When he doesn't have the cash he will have to go hungry."

Mr. Dammarell's greatest satisfaction, as he glances backward thru the years, is his recollection of civic leadership. He was for twelve years a member of the town council, and he has always taken an active part in promoting civic causes. He says that on several occasions he and his friends have disagreed and have taken opposite sides, but that he has never felt any rancor in these town scraps. Men can honestly differ, and still remain friends. He takes great pride in the fact that he has had a part in promoting good schools and churches, cement sidewalks, improved streets, a

SCHOOL NEWS

The Kendrick school has started. Everything is running smoothly with all of the teachers and students cooperating at every point. We hope this spirit will continue, and we have every reason to believe that it will.

There are twenty-eight people registered in the Freshman class, fourteen in the sophomore class, fifteen in the junior class, and eleven in the senior class. This makes a total of sixty-eight in the high school.

The grade school has ninety pupils quite evenly divided among the eight grades.

The total registration to date is one-hundred-fifty-eight.

The football boys started practice with a light drill, Monday afternoon. Every suit has been issued and there are still more boys planning to turn out. We want all the boys to turn out that can. We are starting the season against a tough team, namely, Genesee. The game will be played here September 27, 2:30 P. M. Genesee always puts out a good team, and Kendrick is especially anxious to play a good game against them since one of our coaches has also coached at Genesee. Two games have been scheduled with Lapwai, one here, Nov. 1, and one there, October 18. Negotiations are under way for games with Troy, Cullisac and possibly Orofino.

The local boys are light and quite inexperienced, but they have wonderful fight and spirit. This may mean a good deal, as fight and determination often win the race.

—David Franklin Waltz—

David Franklin Waltz died at his home near Kendrick, Monday night, at the age of 70 years. He was born in Barlow, Wisconsin. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and three sons, Fred, Lloyd, and Archie. Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church, Thursday at 1:00 P. M. Rev. C. W. Groth officiating. J. J. Pickerd had charge of funeral arrangements. Pall bearers were: James Emmett, John Brown, M. V. Thomas, Fred Johns, C. G. Compton, and Paul Schulze. Interment was made in the Kendrick cemetery.

The Past Matrons Association of the Eastern Star, including all Past Matrons of Latah county and Lewiston, held their annual meeting at Potlatch Thursday.

city park, and good roads. He believes that the greatest problem facing the community now is the road problem, and that the future of Kendrick will depend upon the ability of her citizens to cooperate in the development of roads. If they fail to cooperate, Kendrick cannot go ahead as she should.

Of all the projects which Mr. Dammarell has helped along, the building of the fine new Methodist church is the one which gives him the greatest satisfaction. "A few of us got together after prayer meeting one night," he said, "and I offered to pay $50 toward a new church site, if each of the others present would pay $25. This started the ball to rolling, and now we have one of the finest church plants to be found in any village in Idaho."

In bringing his comments to a close, Mr. Dammarell said, "I have always kept this thought in mind: A man cannot help to build up a community without spending a good part of his money there. If he undertakes to get a corner on everything and hang on to it, he will do the community more harm than good. I have made money in Kendrick, and I have spent a great deal of money here."

FORMER RESIDENTS VISIT BEAR RIDGE

Mrs. Alvin Tweedy, Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Furrow, Orofino, formerly southern California, and Mr. Furrow's sisters, Mrs. J. N. Deland of Milton, Wisconsin, and Miss Daisy Furrow, nurse and instructor in advanced physiology in Teachers' Colleg at Greeley, Colorado, recently visited old friends and old land marks on Bear Ridge.

The Furrow's were pioneers. Their father homesteaded the old Drury place and a part of the D. J. Ingle farm. Mr. Furrows built the first house on Bear ridge.

The Furrow's left Idaho 39 years ago, and this was their first trip back. Mr. Furrow tells many interesting tales of the "airy days" among which is a very exciting bear story. It was from this story that the ridge received its name.

Visitors Return to Dayton

Miss Marjorie Stedman and Leonard Franklin, son of Rev. N. E. Franklin, returned to Dayton a week ago Monday to enter school, after having visited several days at the home of Rev. N. E. Franklin and wife. Rev. Mr. Franklin took them to Dayton and returned Wednesday. While in Dayton he had the pleasure of seeing his son—Leonard—in action on the football field. Leonard is a prominent leader in athletics in the Dayton high school.

MR. BEHRENS CORRECTS STATEMENT MADE LAST WEEK

W. H. Behrens wishes to correct a statement made in last week's issue of the Gazette, about using a combined harvester to thresh beans. At the time this statement was printed we were at work threshing with the combine; but to our sorrow the combine did not do satisfactory work, and we threshed with a stationary machine.

Mr. Behrens states that his beans yielded only about three sacks per acre, but he sold the beans at 6 cents per pound, still netting a nice profit, as well as a good crop of wheat would bring. "I find that year after year bean crops pay big. Bean Crops always leave land in good shape for wheat. Farmers who attempt to raise wheat only will soon feel the effect."—W. H. Behrens

Forest Whistler is in Boise again this year, Bill and Bob Fry, Dan and Raymond Lyons again in Kendrick, Jim Keeler at Spokane, Viola Sadler and Dotaline Whybark in Troy, Ruth and Bernice Whistler in Kendrick.

This is the largest class to have graduated from the Gold Hill school, and due credit should be given their teacher, Miss Sarah Sweeney.

Besides those mentioned, Lucille Darby is in Moscow, and Lois Fry in Kendrick, bringing the total to twelve. Here's wishing you good luck, boys and girls, and may each and every one of you graduate from high school.

COMICVILLE COMES TO TOWN

COMIC WEDDING DELIGHTS LARGE CROWD

One of the most splendid weddings of the season occurred Thursday evening when Uncle Jim Gump and Henrietta Zander were tied together at the Kendrick Theatre. This comedy of funny paper characters, sponsored by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church, afforded many a chuckle for the good sized audience.

Mrs. Carroll as "Maggie" wielded the rolling pin with characteristic vigor, and put on airs as only Maggie can. W. C. Jones, as "Jiggs," broke the record in eating corn beef and cabbage,—and suffered from tummy ache.

Mr. Ramey and Mrs. Harold Thomas, as "Plato" and "Mandy," delighted the house with their ducky dialect and their truly wonderful singing. They were ably seconded by Mrs. Herres, who took the part of Rachel. What would Comicville be like without these dusky characters?

W. J. Carroll, acting the part of Major Hoople, presided as chief functionary and high-cook-a-lorum at the wedding. His commanding manner, his mastery of the part, and his dignified mein, gave a mock seriousness to the occasion which topped it off in fine style.

What is a wedding in Comicville without an oration or two? Andy Gump, in the person of our congenial attorney, C. A. Oppenborn, ably seconded by Min. in the person of Mrs. N. E. Walker, supplied the fluency necessary for the occasion. Verbose Andy, famous for the chin which isn't there, provided the hot air that put pep into the circus. In sonorous tones and in dignified pauses and poses, he broke the oratorical record by several points. With arms, legs, muscles and voice all co-ordinated and in action at once, Andy did himself proud; and the entire Comicville tribe will long remember his achievement.

Of course, Uncle Walt and his beloved Skeeze were there, —in the persons of E. H. Dammarell and Dickey Carlson. As in the funny papers, so in actual life, they proved themselves delightful characters, full of good nature and human kindness.

Mutt and Jeff? Yes, they were present, too, thank you. N. E. Walker as Mutt, Ira Bolon as Jeff. But there really isn't any describing them. If you missed seeing this splendid wedding, you missed more than your money's worth in Mutt and Jeff alone. They were worth the price. Come again. Mutt and Jeff!

Other characters, too numerous for comment in this brief sketch helped to round out the show and to make the wedding a gala occasion in the social life of Comicville.

THE WASHINGTON WATERPOWER CO.

CONSTITUTION WEEK, SEPTEMBER 15 TO 21

Boise—In accordance with a nation-wide effort to arouse the citizens of the country from the indifference and apathy with which the nation's fundamental law is too generally regarded, Governor H. C. Baldrige has proclaimed the week of Sept. 15 to 21 as CONSTITUTION DAY. In issuing the proclamation the Governor says: "For the seventh consecutive year patriotic societies continue the annual program to re-awaken in America a realization of the responsibilities of citizenship; to oppose, through printed and spoken word, all efforts to substitute any other theories of government in place of the Constitution of the United States. "Believing that an understanding of the Constitution cannot fail to stimulate an American in his allegiance to his country and optimism in its future, a period each year is devoted to a special effort to arouse our citizenry from the indifference and apathy with which the nation's fundamental law is too generally regarded, sounding the warning that in time of peace as well as war, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

SLICKERS AFTER FARMERS' MONEY AS CROPS RIPEN

Idaho's prospects for bumper crops and high farm prices have drawn into the state a swarm of financial slickers, looking for a chance to annex some of the readily available currency as soon as the farmer receives it, declared John R. Middleton, director of the blue sky bureau of the state, Friday. He said a constant stream of rosy painted prospectuses are being submitted to his office for examination and the stream is steadily increasing as harvest advances.

"It happens that every year, and annually a number of citizens are inveigled into unwise investments," he continued. He warned buyers of stocks and bonds to investigate thoroughly before taking the plunge.—Elk River News.

Egyptologist's Luck

In 1897 Dr. Garrett C. Poir, Egyptologist, bought from an Arab in Lower Egypt half of a blue glazed faience finger ring. Four years later in Rench, Upper Egypt, he bought the other half from a worker in a flax field. The inscription was completed by the two halves of the ring.

Wild morning glory is one of the most persistent weeds found in cultivated fields.

The use of crank-case oil around hog pens, poultry houses and barns is very helpful in keeping down fleas, mites and lice.

The earlier in the season limestone is applied the sooner it will become effective. Limestone applications are profitable on soils which are acid.

WHY SAY, "WHAT'S THE USE?"

A young man ran for the legislature of Illinois and was badly swamped.

He entered business, failed and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner.

He was in love with a beautiful woman to whom he became engaged—then she died.

Entering politics again, he ran for congress, and was badly defeated. He then tried to get an appointment to the U. S. Land Office, but failed.

He became a candidate for the United States senate and was badly defeated.

He became a candidate for the vice-presidency, was once more defeated.

One failure after another—bad failures—great setbacks. Then he became one of the greatest men of America—Abraham Lincoln.

Who says, "Oh, what's the use?"—Bindery Talk.

Cats and Catnip

The Biological survey says that it knows of no reason why cats are fond of catnip. It is true that all breeds of the cat family like catnip. Catnip does not grow in some countries where cats are found, but even so, cats which are not familiar with catnip seem to like it the first time they come in contact with it.

MOTORISTS ARE WARNED

Mr. Lukens has issued a warning to all motorists in Idaho to observe school zone signs now that schools all over the state are operating. Speed limits in school zones, he points out in a letter to state highway patrolmen, is 15 miles per hour. Disregard for school zone signs has become chronic with many motorists during the summer, he said, while children themselves have become less watchful because of the vacation period. He advised schools to form junior traffic patrols to direct and caution traffic where students congregated.

FAVORS STUBBLE DISKING

Agricultural college experts in Nebraska are advising farmers to ride the disk if they would add $50 a day to their incomes. A test disclosed that stubble land disked July 15 and then plowed 7 inches deep August 15 yielded three and a half bushels more wheat to the acre than fields not so treated. Average wheat price has been $1, and since a farmer can disk 15 acres a day or more, his income might jump according to the days he spent on the implement.

Equipment Needed for

Creosoting Fence Posts

The only equipment needed for the open tank method of creosoting fence posts is a tank which can be heated. A good outfit is a galvanized iron tank three feet in diameter and four feet high. The creosote may be heated over an open fire with the tank on a temporary foundation. The posts should be thoroughly seasoned before treatment. The lower half of the post should remain in hot creosote (190 degrees F.) for a period of two to four hours. The posts should then be allowed to remain in the creosote as it cools. The tops of the posts such as cottonwood and willow should be dipped in the creosote for a few minutes. A penetration of one-half inch in the portion of the post coming in contact with the ground will give good protection.

Increase Continues in Production of Oats

Oats production continues to increase in the United States despite the fact that the number of horses and mules on the country's farms is declining. That the demand for oats has been adversely affected by the substitution of mechanical power for animal labor on farms is indicated by the post-war trend in oats prices. Oats since the war have brought prices about on a level with those prevailing before the war. In comparison with the price position of other feed grains and most other agricultural commodities, this is an extremely unfavorable situation. Farm commodity prices generally have averaged about 40 per cent higher since the war than before.

Agricultural Hints

- Rape pasture taints cows' milk.
- Co-operation is not a sentiment—it is an economic necessity.
- If conditions are favorable, rape will make a good pasture crop five weeks after seeding.
- On soils containing sufficient lime the most productive grazing crop known today is sweet clover.
- The home gardener may extend his growing season in the fall by the use of hotbeds and cold frames.
- By treating their seed carefully grain growers can save hundreds of thousands of dollars, which are lost annually through plant diseases.
- Lime can be spread and disked in ahead of oats, corn or soy beans, or it can be applied after the corn or soy beans come through the ground.
- Sudan grass belongs to the sorghum family and for that reason is a hot weather plant. It should not be seeded till the ground is well warmed up.
- Prepare for the control of insects by having on hand spraying and dusting equipment together with such insecticides as arsenate of lead, nicotine dust, and nicotine sulphate.
- Besides conserving moisture and keeping down weeds, cultivation tends to break up the harbors of mice, add plant food to the soil, and make more available the plant food already in the soil.

MR. KNEPPER IN SALMON RECORDER-HERALD

About the only criticism of Salmon that seems to have any merit is that it is rather difficult in bad weather to get out of from the "inside" or into from the "outside." We found it rather hard to get here last May, traveling over the Banook pass after an eight inch snowfall. But the pleasing feature is that after getting here we can't imagine anyone ever wanting to get out.

The many friends of Ralph B. Knepper will be interested to read his "Foreword", published in the September 4th issue of the Salmon paper.

Editor Knepper's Foreword Beginning with this issue the Recorder Herald is under new management. Mrs. Evelyn Melvin, who has so ably published the paper for a number of years, is temporarily retiring from the newspaper field and will take a course in journalism at Columbia. Her host of friends in Lemhi county will wish her success and happiness in her new work.

The Recorder-Herald has held a high place among the weekly newspapers of Idaho. It has done its share in promoting the advancement of better conditions in Salmon and the surrounding country.

During the past two years, Mrs. Melvin has conducted the Recorder-Herald as an independent newspaper. That policy will be continued under the present management. It will also be the policy of the paper to make itself useful in all public affairs.

After a period of years if the Recorder-Herald has as many friends as Mrs. Melvin has made for it, the present owner will feel that it is a successful newspaper.--Ralph B. KNEPPER.

SHORT TERM AGRICULTURAL COURSE AT UNIVERSITY

University of Idaho, Moscow --Designed especially for those desiring special technical training in agriculture but unable to enroll for the regular four-year courses in agriculture, the University of Idaho college of agriculture offers this year four mid-winter short courses. One course is in commercial dairying, two are in motor mechanics and power farming and the fourth is in poultry. The commercial dairying and power farming courses open October 28. Included in the power farming short course is a two-weeks course in tractors and farm machines, arranged principally for farm operators. The poultry short course is of one week duration, the opening date to be announced later.

BETTER GET MARRIED

If statistics recently compiled by Dr. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago are to be accepted as accurate, those who desire to retain wealth, sanity, and even life itself, should get married if they are not already that way.

He declared that most of the inmates of insane asylums are unmarried; also that the death rate for single men and widowers is twice as high as that for married men.

It has often been asserted that married men live longer, but a cynic once declared that this was not literally true, as "it only seemed longer." However, Dr. Ogburn's researches seem to bear out the idea that married life is really conducive to longevity.

Browse Supplies

Feed for Goats

Essential to Have Succulent Grass and Weeds for Does in Summer.

Ideal range for Angora goats should possess suitable forage at all times of the year, be well drained and free from continued heavy rains, and be adequately supplied with watering places and suitable bed grounds, according to W. R. Chapline, in charge of range research, forest service, United States Department of Agriculture.

Feed for Goat.

As browse furnishes much of the forage for goats on the ranges, and in the winter is the principal goat feed, an abundance of good browse should be available. Some important browse plants of high palatability are mountain mahogany, the bluebrush of the Pacific coast, Fendler ceanothus of the Rocky mountains, fendlera, bitter brush, and service berry. The oaks are less palatable but important browse plants in the West. It is also essential to have succulent grass and weeds for does at kidding time and during the summer.

Good range management includes conservative stocking, dividing the range so as to afford the best feed during each season, and obtaining as nearly even utilization of all parts of the range as possible. The grazing capacity of a range area is the number of animals which may be carried on it year after year without injury to the forage and with sufficient palatable feed. An average of approximately four acres of the grass-brush type and from three to six acres of the true-brush type can be allotted to each goat for year-long grazing.

Signs of Overgrazing.

Reduction in the quantity of palatable forage, increase in nonpalatable plants, stubby appearance in the browse species, and thin goats are signs of overgrazing. Overgrazed areas should have the number of animals reduced so the palatable forage plants will not be injured; and, if possible, such areas should be protected from grazing until after the main forage plants have matured seed. Open, quiet herding, and the bedding of the goats on a new ground every night are recommended.

Mr. Chapline discusses the management of goat range in more detail in Miscellaneous Circular No. 50-M, The Angora Goat and Mohair Industry, recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Three Kinds of Trees

in Effective Windbreak

A windbreak to be most effective should consist of at least three kinds of trees, depending on the locality and the type of soil. The advice of a good nursery nursery is a great help in securing the right kind of trees. A dense growth close to the ground on the outside of the shelter belt stops snow. The main body of the belt should consist of at least six rows of both temporary and permanent trees. For the temporary growth Northwestern and Norway poplars and cottonwoods are the best, and white elm and green ash are among the best of the slow growing permanent trees. At least two rows each of white elm, green ash and poplar makes the best kind of shelter belt.

Groom Cows Frequently

to Remove Loose Hairs

It is evident that the wisest course is, so far as possible, to prevent the introduction of dirt and bacteria into milk, and to use the most efficient straining methods to take out all of the sediment that can be removed.

Since the body of the cow is the chief and most dangerous source of milk sediment, preventive measures must begin there. Cows should be groomed frequently, to remove loose hairs, bits of manure, or bedding. In addition the flanks, udder and adjacent belly should be cleaned with a moist cloth just before milking. If these parts are kept clipped they will be much easier to clean.

Find First Year Sweet

Clover Equals Alfalfa

Tests at several corn-belt experiment stations have demonstrated that first-year sweet clover is practically equal to alfalfa for hog pasture. Second-year sweet clover is equal to alfalfa in the early part of the season but becomes woody and coarse by midseason and less valuable. Sweet clover, since it is a biennial, works in better with a hog lot sanitation program than alfalfa. On the other hand, alfalfa has the advantage of being ready to pasture earlier than first-year sweet clover.--A. W. Weber, University of Nebraska.

Killing Morning Glory

and Other Perennials

Wild morning glory vines and other pernicious perennials should have their tops cut down into the ground the last of July, and they should therefore be cut as often as any leaves show above ground, and such cutting should be continued until winter sets in. How this is best done depends on how best it can be done.

On stubble ground it can be done with plow and cultivator or by discing frequently; in corn it may have to be done with hoes.

54 BUSHELS WHEAT TO ACRE

Mr. Martin Thomas reports that his 80 acre piece lying just south of the Chris Meyers place on American Ridge, threshed 54 bushels to the acre this year. It was farmed by William Cox.

A dividend of $75,000 has been declared by the Sunshine Mining company, owner of the richest silver mine in the Coeur d'Alene district of Idaho, to be paid to stockholders on September 20, his is the second quarterly dividend paid this year.
