

WOULD START YOUTH'S LIBRARY

LOHESE CLUB UNDERTAKES TO PROVIDE WHOLESOME READING

For some time the Loheze Club, under Mrs. H. B. Thompson's leadership, has been considering the possibility of starting a library for the young people of Kendrick and vicinity. At their meeting last week the club made a big start in that direction. Plans were formulated for the raising of funds, as follows:

Eight young people of the club were organized into teams, to solicit subscriptions for Woman's Home Companion, Colliers, and The American Magazine. All money earned will be devoted to a library fund. When $20 is raised, the first books will be ordered, from approved lists recommended by state librarians.

One team of workers consists of Ethel Cummings, Captain; and Alice Ingle, Clifford Franklin, and Doris Emery, helpers; the other, Nettie Mae McDowell, Captain; and Bernada Cummings, Carl Emery, and Edna Emmett, helpers. The two teams are now running a race to see which team can secure the larger number of subscriptions. Also, Mrs. Thompson will give a Bible to the individual worker who secures the largest number of subscriptions. It is confidently expected that $20 will soon be available as a nucleus for the new library. Shelves are ready in the club room at the church to receive the books when they arrive.

Once the library is started, the club will seek to enlarge it and to make it better and better as time goes by. A charge of 5c or 10c will be made for the loan of each volume, and small fines will be levied for overdue books. Money thus secured will be used to purchase more books. The club hopes, also, to maintain a magazine agency and to take subscriptions at any time for any and every magazine, with the understanding that the proceeds shall be placed in the library fund.

Citizens will fund Club members at the Presbyterian Bazaar Saturday, ready and eager to sell magazine subscriptions! Persons who subscribe will get value received from the magazines, and will have the satisfaction of knowing that they have helped along one of the most worthy projects that has ever been undertaken in Kendrick.

POLITICAL POT STARTS TO SIMMER

COMMISSIONERS WILL REPLY TO ATTACKS IN DUE TIME

The Idaho Post has been publishing articles by P. L. Orcutt attempting to show that our county commissioners are extravagant in their expenditure of public funds. Figures were given in last Saturday's issue to show that Commissioners Woody and Cone have been somewhat lavish in their payments of county money for meals, for gas and for auto repairs. It is announced from reliable sources that the other side of the case, in defense of the commissioners, will be presented in due time. This would indicate that we are now listening to the first rumblings of a lively political battle that may become louder and hotter as the election time draws near.

Well, there's nothing like a good scrap, and may the best man win!

HOOVER SPEEDS UP PUBLIC WORKS

For many years the suggestion has been advanced that the national and state governments, in order to help stabilize business and industry, should slacken an activity in public works when times are good, and should speed up public works when times are dull. Hoover is the first president however, to take the suggestion seriously and to attempt to put the principle into operation.

Foreseeing a probable depression, the President has ordered full speed ahead. Federal projects will be speeded up to give employment to a large number of men; and state governments, following the national governments' example, will prosecute their own projects with new vigor, where ever it is feasible. More than a hundred millions of dollars in federal money will be expended on roads alone during 1930. Nearly one million of this federal money will be spent in Idaho. Enormous sums will be spent on other projects as well—some sponsored by the states and some by the national government.

Their is danger that this speeding up process, once it gains momentum, will get out of bounds; but if it is guided by men of sound economic judgment, only good can result. In any case we must admire the courage of a President who dares to start so great a boll to rolling. If he and those cooperating with him succeed in bridging a depression and in carrying the American people into another period of better times, they will have earned the gratitude of a nation.

Mrs. Thorvald Nelson, correspondent from Big Bear ridge, was a caller at the Gazette office Wednesday.

A regular poultry car containing about 4000 birds, including ducks, turkeys, geese and chickens, passed through Culedasac Wednesday enroute to the Spokane market from the Ruhoff Poultry market at Cottonwood.

Mr. Ruhoff was in charge of the car and stated that this is the first time a full car of poultry has ever been shipped from the prairie. Heretofore all poultry shipments have been made in crates by express. By buying them up in ear load lots, Mr. Ruhoff said, the poultry raisers received from 2c to 5c more per pound for their birds, as they could be delivered to market cheaper in this way. When Mr. Ruhoff first announced his intention recently to gather up a car load of live poultry man were skeptical and did not think the effort would be successful.

Keep Poultry Yards Clean and Sanitary

Parasites Undermine Health and Sap Vigor of Birds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Care exercised in keeping poultry yards clean and in sanitary condition has a double function in keeping the flock clear of parasites that undermine the health and sap the vigor of the birds. The injury by mites, lice, fleas, and other parasitic organisms is sometimes obvious, but it also happens that some insects and other small creatures are carriers or intermediate hosts of some of the internal parasites of poultry.

For example, according to specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture, one variety of roundworm must develop for one stage of its life outside the poultry it affects. The roundworm lays its eggs within the chicken and they are eliminated in the droppings. They will not mature if picked up by a fowl. They do mature if a water flea picks up the eggs. Then if a hen takes in the water flea with her drinking water the roundworm parasite of the flea develops into a poultry parasite.

Many similar examples are known, and others are suspected. The grasshopper, for instance, has recently been shown to transmit at least one important parasite of domestic poultry.

Sanitation and cleanliness which prevents such insects from having access to the droppings may thus break a cycle through which infestation reaches the flock. The insects in themselves may not be harmful to poultry, but if they have had an opportunity to feed on contaminated droppings they may be the means of spreading these particular parasites.

Factor in Increasing Production of Crops

Last year farmers bought more fertilizers than in many years. This increased use of fertilizer was a large factor in increasing crop production. The American farmer is learning gradually the lesson offered by the European farmer who spends more on fertilizer per acre than any other farmer in the world. Holland is continually enriching its soil, which makes possible the intensive methods of the country and puts it at the head of the list of nations in the crop yield per acre. Where the American farmer was inclined formerly to plant over a wide area of land of questionable fertility, he is coming to realize that with more intensive methods, proper fertilization, and greater attention to the culture of his fields, he can make more money with less labor and acreage and undergo less anxiety from plant diseases and frosts.

Soy Beans Are Popular as Protein Supplement

Soy beans are proving a popular protein supplement in Indiana. Twenty-one of the twenty-four members of the Howard-Miami Dairy Herd Improvement association are feeding soy beans to their herds, according to I. O. Holliday.

The demand for linseed oil meal and cottonseed meal is increasing each year. As the need for such protein-rich feeds as a supplement to home-grown feeds for dairy cattle becomes more fully realized the demand for such by-products in dairy districts will continue to increase. Some other source of protein must be secured. Present indications are that the soy bean may play an important part in the solution of this important problem.

Tunnels in Washington

There are tunnels to both the senate and house office buildings in the national capital. In the one leading to the senate office building there is a monorail electric car system. This convenience has not been installed in the tunnel leading to the house office building. A tunnel for transmission of books connects the Library of Congress with the Capitol.

Cutting Canada Thistle in August Most Favored

Dates suggested for the best date to cut Canada thistle vary. A Hanson, botanist at Purdue experimental station, has inquired into the matter with no definite results so far.

This date seems to vary somewhat, according to the almanac one happens to consult, but seems to center somewhere around August 14. That the almanac signs do not always work is indicated by the experience of one irate farmer who tried the method and concluded that he evidently cut while the sign was on the twins, since he now has two thistles where he had but one before.

Why so many farmers have succeeded in practically destroying Canada thistle by a single cutting is a mystery. It may be related to the fact that when thistles mature the stems become hollow and cutting at that stage followed by rain may fill the hollows and cause rotting. This rather unusual condition has been observed a number of times.

Agricultural Notes

Alfalfa is a superior feed for live stock.

Good seed of standard varieties is always in demand. It pays to produce it.

It is commonly recommended there should be one acre of alfalfa for every dairy cow.

Half of the failures in getting windbreak trees to grow and thrive can be laid directly to faulty preparation of the soil.

First American Hoop Race Is Held in Los Angeles

America's first "human hoop" champion is Miss Betty Ellis of Los Angeles, who was victorious in the first American "aero-wheel" race, held at Carthay Circle, a suburb of the California city. Inasmuch as the contestants were all of the type which has helped to make southern California famous, cordons of police were called into service to hold back the cheering crowds. This photograph shows the lineup of the pretty human hoop rollers before the start of the race.

Improved Roads Needed for Operation of Farm

For economical operation of spray rigs, farm roads should be kept in good condition. An occasional dragging is not alone necessary for this. In addition to dragging it is necessary to have the road well drained. Many growers find that it pays to own a ditcher. They use this for their peach orchards to keep the drainage in good shape and then use it in keeping their roads well ditched. Spray rigs are heavy and dragging them around through the mud is hard on teams and expensive in time.

Tidal Variations
The highest and most variable tides in the world are encountered on the Atlantic coast of North America. They range from 50 feet in the Bay of Fundy to 1 foot at Nantucket Island.

Save Soil Fertility

One of the most difficult problems confronting our farmers who grow cash crops is the conservation of the soil's fertility. There is some difference of opinion as to the best method of accomplishing this, but judging the future by the past, we can safely say that there is no way more certain of results than the keeping of livestock. The farmer who keeps cows, being a consumer rather than a seller of feeds, will constantly increase the fertility of his soil.

High-producing cows need grain even when on good pasture. Early pasture grass is high in protein, so grain mixtures should not contain more than 15 per cent protein for best results.

To assure milk of pleasing flavor the dairyman should not give his cows any feed likely to taint milk until just after milking. He should then follow this practice with aeration of the milk against flavors or odors.

In ordinary seasons sweet clover will furnish about 50 per cent more grazing than bluegrass on soils suitable for its use and in many instances twice the grazing has been produced. Ever greater advantage is observed in dry seasons.

Editor Kendrick Gazette,
Kendrick, Ida.
Dear Editor,

Having read my old friend, and school mate's letter in the last issue of the Kendrick Gazette, will reply. I too, am a pioneer of Kendrick. I have seen lots of changes in the little town but each change was for the best. I moved to Kendrick about one year or eighteen months before the railroad built down there from Moscow. The first fire that burned the town was in 1893; it wiped out all the business part of the town, except one store owned by D. D. Keller and son. The second fire I can remember very distinctly but can't get just the right date fixed in my mind. The flood was in 1901 and the last fire was in 1904. I was very sorry to hear of Brother Hull's departure from this world, (as we belonged to the same lodge,) but I can almost rejoice because I know God's ways are best, and I feel sure we will meet again soon where there is no parting. If you print this letter in the paper, I feel sure most of the people in Kendrick and the surrounding country will remember us, as we left Juliaetta just a little over a year ago.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Amos Nigh

This Week's Short Story
The strong man, knife in hand, gazed at the smooth white body in the water. "I cannot do it!" he groaned. "It is not a man's work!" and the tears streamed from his eyes. The woman, with a look of utter scorn on her face, took the knife and finished peeling the onions.—The End.

Know him By This Symbol

In every type of enterprise, commercial or professional, there are, of necessity, certain leaders.

In the business or profession concerned, these leaders are generally known and recognized, but frequently the public finds it hard to distinguish them.

The mortuary profession is no exception to this general rule. In the ranks of this ancient calling there are certain funeral directors who have proved themselves to be especially worthy of the trust and confidence of the public.

To distinguish these funeral directors from the others, the symbol you see pictured below was created, and it is being used throughout the country by funeral directors whose professional standards and business methods are of a certain predetermined excellence.

This symbol has therefore become a symbol of good faith; the mark by which the public may know a funeral director who may be relied upon to give comprehensive service, to advise wisely, and to charge a fair, reasonable price in keeping with the family means.

There is now a Golden Rule funeral director in this community. His announcement, incorporating this symbol, will appear within a short time in this paper, over his own business signature. The Order of the Golden Rule is proud to present and to recommend this firm to the people of this community and the surrounding territory.

Codling Moth Is Expensive Pest

Apple Growers Must Rely on Lead Arsenate to Destroy Them.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The codling moth is at present the most serious insect pest with which the apple and pear growers of the Pacific Northwest have to contend. Losses from the "worms" in some years average as high as 20 per cent of the total crop, or even as high as 50 per cent in individual cases. By the use of proper methods, however, many growers keep their losses well below 5 per cent.

Plan to Control.

In order to control the codling moth it is essential to understand its seasonal history under local conditions. There are two generations of the codling moth a season in the Pacific Northwest, and the various stages in these overlap. Except for a short interval worms are hatching and attacking the fruit from the latter part of May to October. Apple growers must rely mainly on spraying with lead arsenate from one to six times during the season, according to their locality and the prevalence of the pest there. A carefully worked out spray schedule must be used, timed to protect the fruit at certain definite stages of its growth and of the development of the worms.

Farmers' Bulletin 1326-F, "Control of the Codling Moth in the Pacific Northwest," by E. J. Newcomer, M. A. Xothers and W. D. Whitcomb, entomologists, has recently been revised. It describes the life history of the codling moth and contains a chart showing how and when the various stages of the pest develop. Spray schedules for both apples and pears are given. The importance of the early spray is emphasized, and it is urged that no other farm operations, such as irrigating, cultivating, or handling alfalfa in the orchard should be allowed to interfere with the spray program.

Fungous Diseases.

Two fungous diseases of apples, powdery mildew and scab, are controlled by spraying with lime-sulphur at approximately the same time that the spraying for the codling moth is done. It is often convenient to combine the materials used for the two operations and spray them together on the trees. Directions for doing this are included in the bulletin. Farmers' Bulletin 1326-F is free as long as the supply lasts. Write to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

DAIRY FACTS

FEED COWS GRAIN WHEN ON PASTURE

Keeps Up Milk Flow for Fall Production.

The better dairyman knows that it pays to feed his cows in the summer as well as in winter, says G. W. Talby, Jr., of the New York State College of Agriculture. For the past ten years dairymen in all parts of New York state have been feeding their cows better in the summer.

As an example of results from record-keeping and better feeding, Mr. Talby spoke of a dairyman in Oswego county who, five years ago had 16 cows which produced 5,335 pounds of milk with 174 pounds of butterfat; the next year 17 cows produced 6,843 pounds of milk with 233.5 pounds butterfat; the third year 18 cows produced 5,777 pounds of milk with 197.4 pounds of butterfat, and the fourth year 14 cows produced 9,579 pounds of milk with 318 pounds of butterfat.

During the first summer the cows were fed no grain during June or July, and only four pounds a cow a day during August. During the fourth summer, the cows received an average of four pounds a day, and were fed somewhat according to production, although they were still underfed. The 9,579 pounds average for the fourth year was at least partly due to better summer feeding.

One dairy herd improvement association member said recently, "I find that it pays to keep the cows in the barn until June 1. Then the grass has a good start and has some substance in it. My cows have good pasture for June, but I continue to give them a little grain, about four pounds a day. Soon after July 1, I begin to cut green alfalfa for them and also increase the grain. This holds up the milk flow and keeps the cows in condition for next fall."

Hog Sanitation Is Meeting With Favor

Many Indiana Farmers Saving Eight Pigs Per Sow.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Attention to swine sanitation is changing hog production on many farms in Indiana from a losing to a profitable enterprise. A report received by the United States Department of Agriculture from Dr. J. E. Gibson, federal inspector in charge of hog-cholera-control work in Indiana, credits the swine-sanitation system developed by the bureau of animal industry with many practical benefits.

"Our reports," he says, "indicate that heretofore the average number of pigs per sow has been about five and one-half, whereas farmers who are following instructions as to swine sanitation are now saving more than eight pigs per sow. Cases almost without number have been found where farmers were nearly ready to quit raising hogs because they were unable to save a sufficient number of their pigs to make the business profitable. Since they have been instructed in swine sanitation and are following the instructions in whole or in part, they are able to grow hogs at a profit."

Referring to the extensive use of the system in 11 counties of the state where the project has been introduced, Doctor Gibson adds that, aside from the educational work done on hog-cholera control, nothing has had such a noticeable beneficial effect on hog production.

Cow Deserves Careful Attention to Her Feet

When a cow's toe nails, if we may call them such, become too long it makes the animal walk and stand awkwardly, and oftentimes makes a fairly good animal look worse than she really is. A sharp chisel is handy in removing the excess growth and the hoof can then be shaped with a rasp. It is very surprising how much a cow will let you do to her feet if you are quiet and careful in the way you go about it. You will be more than pleased with the result of your labor when you see how much better she handles herself after a good job of manuring.

Sodium Arsenate Quite Efficient

Poison Has Proved to Be Satisfactory for Grasshopper Bait.

Paris green and white arsenic have long been used as the standard poisoning agents in grasshopper baits. As a consequence most farmers have become familiar with these materials. They know that desirable results can usually be obtained. That being the case, most farmers are not prone to make a change to other materials. They always ask the question, "Why change to sodium arsenic when I can get results with paris green or white arsenic?"

Paris Green Costly.

Paris green, besides being hard to mix, is entirely too expensive for economical poisoning, therefore should be eliminated. White arsenic is cheap enough, but due to the care required to get the poison evenly distributed in the bait, it is often difficult for the field worker to obtain a perfect mixture. When the mixture is imperfect, erratic results are sure to be had. The possibilities of arsenical poisoning are also greater when one works with white arsenic extensively.

Advantages.

Sodium arsenate is free from the above criticisms, and has proved to be a most satisfactory and efficient poison. It has the following advantages:

1. It is cheap, reducing the cost of poisoning to a minimum.
2. It is easy to mix. The chances of an imperfect mixture are reduced.
3. It is soluble. Therefore every flake of bait moistened is poisoned, doing away with possible erratic results.
4. This material is poison and must not be taken internally, but due to its liquid state, there is less possibility of being poisoned with it than with white arsenic where large quantities of dust can be breathed.
5. It is easy to measure and handle.
6. It is efficient. Experiments show it to be entirely effective when properly applied.—George S. Langford, office of Colorado State Entomologist.

CRESCENT CLIPPINGS

(Too late for last week)

Mrs. Anna Kimbley and children visited at the Andrew Dorendorf home Saturday.

Sue Robeson has been on the sick list several days this week. Guss Farrington and Alva Hudson went to Lewiston Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Riley and children visited with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dorendorf and children Sunday morning. In the afternoon both families visited at the Andrew Dorendorf home.

Centers for External Parasites in Old Lots

While in continuous use, old hog lots and houses may become centers for external parasites such as lice and mange mites and more death-dealing microscopic organisms, those that cause pig diseases such as scurvy, scours, infectious nasal catarrh, bronchitis, infectious edema, swine pest, undesirable sequels to wound infections, eczema, necrobacillosis of the skin, nose, stomach, and intestines, and various types of pneumonia. Besides all these troubles, there are the ever-present round worm eggs.

Disk Before Plowing Is Advantageous Practice

It has been pretty definitely proved that pulverizing the top layer of the soil with the disk before plowing is done is a very advantageous practice. When the furrow is turned over the pulverized soil breaks away from the furrow and helps fill up the furrow bottom much more effectively than when the soil furrow is turned over. In the latter case large openings are often left which cause the soil to dry out rapidly and become too hard to work down well.

When using a disk for this purpose, do not angle it too much. Let it run rather straight and it will do satisfactory work.

Agricultural Hints

Give the hens plenty of water.

Hog lots and pastures used year after year are one of the causes of rusty spots.

There is no such thing as too much sweet corn. Don't be stingy with your plants.

In recent years the soy bean has entered into the regular cropping system on a very large number of farms.

The manure pile is a fertile source of danger through providing a breeding place for flies, but it is also the most valuable single adjunct a mixed farmer can have.

Sweet clover hay should be cut before the stalks get too large to be good for hay. It is also important to cut sweet clover before the stalks get very coarse in order to prevent killing it.

Potato Bugs Controlled by Using Lead Arsenate

Potato bugs can be controlled by using lead arsenate or Paris green applied either as a dust or a spray. If the arsenate is sprayed it is used at the rate of one pound to 50 gallons of water. If Paris green is used it is used in the ratio one pound to 100 gallons of water. The spray is more effective than the dust because it sticks on the plants better.

The dusting method is the cheaper and for that reason is preferred by many farmers. When lead arsenate is dusted, it is used at the rate of one pound with 10 pounds of flour or hydrated lime which act as carriers. The ratio for Paris green is one pound to 20 of the carrier. The dust can be applied by shaking through a can or from a porous sack.

The flea beetle, another pest of potatoes, is best controlled by using a 4-10 Bordeaux mixture. This consists of four pounds of copper sulphate, four pounds of freshly slaked lime and 50 gallons of water. The flea beetle works on all garden crops. Its work can be identified by the shot-like holes in the leaves.

Agricultural Notes

Manure saved is money saved.

Dry years reduce the curculio attacks.

Canada bluegrass should never be planted where Kentucky bluegrass will grow.

The high price of oilmeal is making soy beans as a seed crop look profitable again.

Skim milk, a by-product of dairying, can be used most profitably by feeding it to hogs.

Maybe soy beans are the most combedly grown. The Dunfield bean is a new variety that is gaining quite rapid favor.

Soy beans are one of the easiest of all field crops to grow and also one of the surest crops to produce a satisfactory yield.

Roughages are usually the cheapest part of the dairy ration, but their value is very largely dependent on quality. Early cut, well-cured hay is vastly better than overripe, poorly cured hay.

The herd bull should not be confined to a small stall but should have room to exercise whenever he wishes. He may be kept in a lot that will be large enough to furnish grass during the pasture season.

Feeding According to Weight and Production

Stilage and hay should be fed according to the weight of the cow. A good rule to follow is three pounds of silage and one pound of hay for each 100 pounds live weight. If silage is not being fed, feed two pounds of hay instead of one pound as when silage is being fed.

The grain mixture should be fed according to the amount of milk and the per cent of butterfat. Feed one pound of grain per day for each three or four pounds of milk produced, or feed one pound of feed per day for each pound of butterfat produced per week.

Food for Goslings

Bread and milk, cornmeal and bran meal are all good food for goslings. One thing that should be noted is that the goslings are not always careful as to what they sometimes eat poisonous weeds, principally young cocklebur, and unless timely aid is given they die. It is best to feed them at least once a day, and to include a little lard or grease skimmed from liquor in which vegetables have been boiled and seasoned, to overcome the effects of such poisons.

Boise.—Local wheat growers' board. The plan a approved by the board provides for subsidiary or district corporations of the national corporation recently formed at Chicago on the recommendation of the national farm board and the formation of local units in communities where sufficient wheat is grown to maintain such units. Plans for the immediate organization of these locals were worked out so that many of them will be organized in time to take advantage of the national relief act for the 1929 crops. There was some question, Mr. Parsons said, as to whether the wheat growers of southern Idaho would affiliate with the northern district or whether another district would be formed to include Utah, southern Idaho, California and other contiguous territory. Idaho's southern representatives, Mr. Atkins and Mr. Webster, are giving consideration to this matter.
