MRS. LOUIS OLDAG

Mrs. Louis Oldag, nee Sophie Bartels, was born in Raddendorf, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Germany, February 17, 1849 and passed away Thursday, Dec. 26, 1929, at 1:45 A. M. in Cameron, after 10 weeks of suffering, following a paralytic stroke.

Miss Bartels emigrated to America in June, 1872, settling at Clayton Center, Iowa. She was married to Louis Oldag in the Lutheran church of that place in 1873. In 1886 they came to Cameron, Idaho, and took up a homestead.

Nine children were born to this union, three of whom have passed to their reward. Those living are Mrs. Henry Wessel, Fallbrook, Calif.; Mrs. Henry Henshaw, Eagle Point, Ore.; Mrs. Henry Flomer, Genesee, Idaho; Mrs. A. H. Blum and Mrs. Carl Lohman, Cameron; and Mr. Charles Oldag, Spokane.

POLITICAL GOSSIP

(By Mon T. Vale)

Tho it has been only a few days since the state supreme court handed out its decision declaring void the recent amendment to the constitution, changing the term of state officials from two to four years, the political horizon has cleared perceptibly already. The most interesting development is the avowed candidacy of Byron Defenbach, of Lewiston, for the office of governor. As state treasurer, Mr. Defenbach has made many friends in both political parties. People seem to feel that he is sincere—and they know he is capable of filling the office of governor. As a usual thing, voters pay but little attention to the promises of a candidate for office. But every one seems to feel certain Mr. Defenbach means just what he says in his announcement regarding the reduction of taxes. If the North will unite in an effort to nominate Mr. Defenbach, it is felt that he has a good chance to win the nomination in the next Republican convention. If it were left to a direct vote of the people, he would almost surely win.

Friends of Fred L. Ulen, president of the Lewiston Business College, are boosting him for the office of Secretary of State in case a Lewiston man is not nominated for governor. Mr. Ulen has many friends thruout the state and would make a splendid race. He has long been prominent here in Lewiston in Republican politics.

County Politics

A good deal of interest is being manifested in political affairs of the county. The Republicans are determined to replace a democratic county official with members of the Republican party. There are several names mentioned for some of the offices. Interest seems to center on the offices of sheriff and prosecuting attorney. The Democrats will probably nominate Ray Durham, the present prosecutor. The Republicans will very likely have several candidates for that office to choose from. Sheriff Dent will have some opposition in his own party, perhaps, but will be given the nomination again. It is very doubtful whether Clarence Whitman, commissioner representing the third district, will have any opposition in the primary election, as he is one of the most popular commissioners that district ever had.

J. L. Armstrong will probably be a candidate to succeed himself as assessor. Mr. Armstrong is a mighty hard man to beat. But the Republicans say it can be done. Commissioner Heitfeld will be renominated by his party if he wants the job again. So also will Wayne Talbot, commissioner from the second district.

M. and Mrs. Arliss Crocker are visiting at the home of Fred Crocker.

CHRISTENSEN AND WARE

Miss Georgian Christensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Christensen of Southwick and Lyd Ware, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Ware, were quietly married in Lewiston Saturday by Judge E. L. Parker. Mr. and Mrs. Ware will be at home to their many friends after January 1st. in the Raby house.

The Gazette joins with their many friends in wishing them many many years of happiness.

In 1884 M. Silflow came to America, returning to Germany after five years. United in marriage to Ida Lohman in the ancestral house of their home city on the third of May, 1889. Mr. McCreary and his son William, who will do all their own work, are practical printers with many years of experience. They published the Genesee News for 16 years, and until recently they published the Stanwood News at Stanwood, Washington. They are well known in Latah county.

They will return in time to establish themselves in Mrs. Hull's residence, not later than Saturday, Dec. 28. By Monday morning at the latest, they will be ready to go to work.

Mr. McCreary and his son both enjoy living in northern Idaho, and they are glad to return to a country that seems like home to them. Kendrick is to be congratulated on securing two able, practical printers who are, at the same time, aggressive and substantial citizens. The Gazette will indeed be in good hands.

Record Well Known

"The people of Idaho know me well enough to decide without much prompting whether or not they care to have me serve them in the high position to which I aspire. My attitude on public questions is also a fairly open book.

"I am for the reduction of taxation by the only possible expedient, which I believe to be the simplification of government, especially state government. I do not believe in the reduction of salaries, nor in any curtailment of necessary activities. But I do believe in the selection of public servants on the sale consideration of fitness and would measure every proposed expenditure by the probable benefits that would accrue to our people as a whole. I would be a liberal in roads and schools and a conservative in overhead frills and luxuries.

Settle Endowment Row.

"The question of whether or not the endowment funds of the state have been properly protected should be settled for all time, and if any wrong policies are being pursued they should be corrected.

"The population of Idaho is 76 percent rural; there are few states where a single industry is more strikingly predominant. Every question of public policy should be subjected to the test of the effect of its adoption upon the agricultural interests of the state."

BOYS RECEIVE WONDERFUL GIFT

W. F. BEHRENS CONSTRUCTS COMPLICATED TOY CITY

Among the happiest of children in Juliaetta are those at the home of W. F. Behrens. Old Santa has been unusually good to them at this Christmas time.

Mr. Behrens has shown himself to be not only an expert in repairing tractors and cars, but also an artist in constructing toys. For the past two weeks he has been using his mechanical ingenuity in the building of a mechanical city—the most wonderful modern city ever seen by the hundreds of people who have visited his shop during recent days. If all labor were figured, $500 wouldn't buy this toy city; but labor and many days of hard figuring do not seem to bother Mr. Behrens so long as he can make his three little boys happy for many long winter nights.

It is just like viewing a circus, to see this mechanical city work. An army Scout plane and a giant zeppelin speed around a five-foot circle with their motors roaring. An electric train with electric lighted coaches, also a string of freight cars, travel about the city. Many kinds of animals perform their stunts, negroes dance merrily, boxers in the ring slam each other with gloves and fine music is played for entertainment. A windmill goes at full speed, pumping water, while a sand crane works busily, automatically elevating sand and dumping it into cars. Clowns perform many stunts on the trapeze, and most astonishing of all, a cannon shoots real lead shots at "nigger babies." Every time a shot is fired the lead ball drops into a conveyor and automatically reloads the cannon.

All parts of this complicated mechanism are operated by a finger board consisting of electric switches that look very much like typewriter keys. These switches control the mechanism, so well that any one of the multitudinous parts can be shut off while everything else continues to run. A one-quarter horse power steam engine furnishes the last word,—it blows the whistle for dinner, and provides the power to throw the electric switch on and off, as desired. The power goes on every half minute and off every half minute, automatically.

Mr. Behrens, commenting on the remarkable Christmas present he has constructed for his boys, said:

"Boys of school age should have tools to work with, to keep them off the streets. Most any boy can develop his brains to build things if only he has a chance. It may cost a father several hack saw blades, chisels, and drill saws while his boy is learning to use tools, but that's nothing; let him learn. No matter what the lad may become,—a farmer, a banker, a butcher,—he will always have occasion to build or repair something. It is surprising to me how many farmers there are who, when a little thing breaks, are stuck; they cannot repair it. They stop their machine, go to town, and buy new, just because they were not properly taught when they were young. Give the boy some tools!"

We are sorry Mr. Behrens is not a real Santa Claus, so that he could build a wonder city for every boy in the land.

Miss Hester Knepper who is attending Lewiston normal was a week end guest of Miss Doris Emery.

Mr. Lou Daugherty left Saturday for Spokane to spend the holidays with his son, Mr. Frank Daugherty and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gibson and family from Pomeroy are spending the holidays at the D. V. Kuykendahl home.

Dec. 17, 1929

Kendrick Gazette
Kendrick, Idaho

Dear Editor, I am enclosing a Christmas poem that I have written from memory that I spoke in the Linden Lyceum more than 30 years ago. I have never seen it in print since and do not know the author. I wondered if you would care to print it. If you don't it is all right. I don't know the title but it is supposed to be England in the 16th century. There is a line missing in the 4th stanza.

Respectfully Yours,
Annie Morrison

England Christmas 16th Century
(Author Unknown)

I.
The silvery moonbeams, taintly shed
A flickering light around;
The keen wind blew, the silent snow

Fell on the ice bound ground;
The hungry wolf had sought his den,
The lynx his lonely lair,
The village's watch-dog's bark alone,
Rang on the frosty air.

II.
Beyond the heatlo, beyond the glen,
Deep in the silent wood,
Far from the busy haunts of men,
A Cotter's dwelling stood.
On now his daily task performed
That home the cotter sought,
And of his wife and little one's,
With tender love he thought.

III.
His heart was light, for in his hand
A gift for them he bore,
A wheaten loaf, the rich man's alms,
At Christmas, to the poor.
And as his onward way he wound,
Across the moorland wild,
Beneath a spreading pine he saw
A little lonely child.

IV.
His feet benumbed with cold,
His tattered dress and tearful eyes
A tale of sorrow told:
"Nay weep not thus thou little one.
See thou yon gleaming light,
It beams my lonely dwelling from
Where thou shall dwell to-night."

V.
At early dawn we celebrate
A blessed Savior's birth;
We know that there is joy in Heaven,
There shall be love on earth,
They reach the hut, the little ones
Around their father press,
And strive which first shall touch his hand,
Which win his carress.

VI.
The tender pardner of his care,
With kindly beaming face
Infolds the stranger guest with
A loving embrace.
To him they give their only seat,
A rudly fashioned chair,
And of their only loaf bestow
On him an equal share.

VII.
The board is spread, the father stands
And breathes a simple prayer
That God may give them grateful hearts
-For this their simple fare.
A loving glance he cast around,
The stranger is not there.
But low a white robed Angel stands
Beside the vacant chair.

VIII.
Nay fear not, thou hast' fulfilled
Thy mission from above,
God sends his messengers on earth,
The hearts of men to prove.
My face again you may not see,
No more my voice may heart.
Yet ever when on Christmas Eve
As now I shall be here.

A NEW DAY

Finish each day and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities crept in no doubt. Forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely, and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense. This day is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and invitations, to waste a moment on the yesterdays.—

We Deserve Our Criminals

"Every society has the criminals that it deserves," says Lewis E. Lawes, Warden of Sing Sing penitentiary, and one of America's greatest authorities on crime.

This is a profound truth. Crime waxes or wanes in direct ratio to the attitude of society. The callous attitude of most Americans toward our growing criminality is responsible for the present strength and prosperity of the underworld.

We have allowed our criminal law to reach a point of impotence where it is mainly a display of technicalities and legal pyrotechnics. We have allowed reformers to create sickly sentiment for the most hardened lawbreakers. And we are now paying the price.

Crime will be subdued when public opinion demands quick apprehension and punishment of offenders; instead of sanctioning the passage of a "new law" which in each instance restricts the rights and liberties of law-abiding citizens on the theory that the criminal will be affected thereby. What a farce! Crime flourishes under such a system and the innocent suffer. Continue this system to its logical conclusion and the only man who would have any freedom of action would be the lawbreaker.

Every citizen would do well to remember Warden Lawes' statement, "Every society has the criminals that it deserves."

NO KITCHEN DRUDGERY IN 1930

Corvallis, Ore.—Home cooking will be as obsolete 50 years from now as home-cobbled shoes or home knitted socks are today. The pies that mother used to make—which are one-quarter sentiment and three-quarters hard work—will all be in the past tense, and woman's lot in general will be lost much of its drudgery. So says August Heinrich, one of the leading caterers of San Francisco, Calif., who recently visited the Oregon State Agricultural College campus at Corvallis.

"The kitchen is the last stand of the small business," said Mr. Heinrich, "This is a day of consolidations and mergers, and the kitchen along with other small businesses has got to go."

Compactness will be the keynote of the apartment of the future, with mechanical contrivances to the housework, he says. All furniture will be "built in" and most articles will do double duty. Food will be delivered already prepared for eating, done up in artistic packages. Greater happiness, he believes, will be the result.

When Youth sleeps on a bed of roses

Age on beds of thorns reposes. There is nothing in which people betray their characters more than in what they find to laugh at.

Chiefly, the mold of a man's fortune is in his own hands.

Let's have heads that think and hearts that beat.

Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together.

Whatever you are, be that; Whatever you say, be true; Straightforwardly act, be honestn fact, Be nobody else but YOU.

Plant Helped by Sleep

After "sleep" of from 15 to 20 minutes a plant developed in Germany produces new leaves. So sensitive is it says the Houston Post-Dispatch, that if the leaves are touched, or a match burned near them, they immediately wither and fall off. In about a quarter of an hour after the withered leaves have dropped off, new ones grow out.

Mother, sharply: Eddie, stop asking your father so many questions. Can't you see it makes him nervous?

Eddie: It's not the questions that make him nervous. It's the answers he can't give.

Habit is a cable. We weave a thread each day until at last we cannot break it.

A New York City school teacher tells about a little boy whose coat was so difficult to fasten that she went to his assistance. As she tugged at the hook, she asked:

"Did your mother hook this coat for you?"
"No," was the astounding reply, "She bought it."—Portland School Bulletin.
