Arbor and Bird Day

Governor H. C. Baldrige has issued a proclamation calling attention to the fact that a day between the first of April and first of May should be set aside in the various counties by the superintendents of public instruction for Arbor day and that the birds should not be forgotten. He has set aside no particular day, but asks that county superintendents do so, inasmuch as it is impossible for such days to be set aside by him for weather conditions are not the same in all sections of the state.

DEATH OF J. M. TABER AT JULIAETTA, MARCH 21

(Contributed)
J. M. Taber was born at Milan, Mo., April 16, 1860, and passed away March 21, 1930, at Juliaetta, at the age of 69 years, 11 months and five days.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Taber and was brought up in a Christian home. When a young man he confessed Christ as his Saviour and united with the Methodist church, of which he was a consecrated member until death called him to his reward.

In 1864 he crossed the plains with his parents by ox teams, settling near Walla Walla, Wash. In 1878 the family moved to Fix ridge, locating on homestead claims. For the past eight years Mr. and Mrs. Taber have lived in the Lewiston Orchards.

On May 21, 1882, he was united in marriage to Addie Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Thomas. To this union six children were born: four sons and two daughters—John P. Taber of Tacoma, Wash., Rev. Clarence Taber of Corvallis, Mont., Rev. Lester Taber of Juliaetta, Sam N. Taber of Geneseo, Mrs. Lucy M. Bailey of Lapwai, and Mrs. Dorcas Sims of Longview, Wash. There also survive 22 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; three brothers—Lewis Taber of Sutter, Calif., Samuel S. Taber of Juliaetta, Ira Fix of Nampa, Idaho, and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Hall of Moscow.

His long and faithful life was fraught with earnestness. He rests from his labors but his works follow him.

The funeral was held from the Methodist church of Juliaetta. The Methodist choir and Mrs. Elmer Emery furnished the music.

The pallbearers were Richard Brown, D. C. Friddle of Lewiston, Robert Hall, Marsh Carlton of Fix ridge, Frank Neal and J. J. Groseclose of Juliaetta.

Interment was made in the Fix Ridge cemetery. J. J. Pickerd was in charge.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the friends who assisted us during the illness and after the death of our loved one; to Rev. Ferris and those who sang and to those who gave the beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. J. M. Taber and Family.

Veterans' Bureau Receiving Claims

"The Veterans' Bureau office at Boise has shown increased activity during the past week, owing to the number of veterans filing claims for disability compensation before April 6, 1930." This statement was made by C. E. Hudelson, manager of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau at Boise.

Hudelson advised that it is necessary for all ex-service men of the World War to get their applications for compensation on file before that date inasmuch as Congress set this expiration date when revising the World War Veterans act during the last regular session of congress.

Arrangements have been made by the office to take care of any number of applications, by the rearrangement of personnel, if necessary. A number of veterans have already completed their applications, materially adding to the more than 3,500 claims of Idaho veterans already on file at the Boise office.

It is also necessary that evidence be submitted on cases which have been previously filed but disallowed. Applications may be secured from the Boise office of the Bureau or any service officer of the American Legion, executive secretary of the American Red Cross or other veteran organizations.

Bridge Club Meets

The Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club met at the home of Mrs. E. H. Field this week. High score was won by Mrs. L. J. Herres and the consolation by Mrs. Silvie Cook. A delicious luncheon was served after the games.

CHINA NOT UNIFIED, SAYS REV. HALLOCK

The following interesting letter regarding conditions in China has been received by the Gazette from Rev. H. G. C. Hallock of Shanghai, China, who has been a missionary in that country for many years:

Here comes a letter from this land of "make-believe." This is Chinese New Year, but the government would make believe it is abolished and forbids its celebration. But it is Chinese New Year. Firecrackers boom as of old. People in their best "go-to-meetin's" greet their friends with "Kong-hsi fah-dzai!" — "Congratulations and abounding wealth." Stores are closed. Nanking's order is ignored. You can't change 1000-year-old customs of 450 million people in a night. But this is not the only make-believe. Nanking makes-believe China is unified. It "ain't." China is split into smithereens. Chang Fackwei in Kwangsi is fighting Nanking. Yen Hsi-shau has Shansi and Chihli and rules well. Chang Hsueh-liang lords it over Manchuria. Tang Seng-chi keeps a hornet's nest buzzing in Honan. Vong Yoh-dzang sways Shensi. Szechuen goes its own way, and other rebels keep the Capitol on "pins and needles." Yet Nanking has repeatedly reported each of these discordant ones overcome or won over. But it is only make-believe to hood-wink the world. Chiang Kai-shek is the "conqueror of the North and the unifier of China." But what he seems to have done was done mostly with Russian brains and capital until he took Nanking. After that the rest was won by squeezing money from people in the rear of the "fighting lines" and buying enemy commanders in front. There was hardly one worth-the-name battle fought. It was mostly victory by purchase and buying of victory takes the gloss off the glory.

If Nanking had the money now she could purchase all her present enemies. But what's the use? Soon there would be swarms of other enemies. It's profitable to be an enemy of Nanking. China had to humble herself before Russia for Russian officers could not be bought. But in China the "itching palm" is conspicuous. Remember this and you can understand much about the wars in this "squeezer-greaser" land. China is getting worse and worse. Property-rights are gone. Life is unsafe. Business is paralyzed. Freedom of the press and speech has vanished. Loyalty and obedience are not. Liberty is dead. Bandits abound. But Nanking makes-believe all is "as fine as pie" and issues pious reports. Among officials there are doubtless sincere ones who would put things right but the make-believes predominate and block every move for good. But don't judge harshly. Most officials are sons of the laboring class and of the newly-rich. They are young and inexperienced. They pay great attention to trivial things and neglect great things. If in our Washington it's said, "He that is without 'gin' among you let him first cast a stone," can we condemn heathen China? We hope that some day China striplings will tire of "playing house" and will get down to horse sense.

But I'm getting away from the New Year. Gambling is everywhere. Superstition is rife. Money is wasted that might relieve famine suffering. Every temple is crowded with people offering incense, candles, paper-money and prayers to all the gods. They pray most for wealth. That prayer is not make-believe. They want wealth, and they worship the god-of-wealth with all their hearts. Every home has one made of wood, mud, or of paper but he is "Dzai-zen" all the same.

When business gets poor in China they say the god-of-wealth has gone to America. The paper Dzai-zen is interesting. The god's throne is a big ingot of gold set with jewels. Mountains of gold are at the god's left and Silver Hill is at his right. In front of him is a great bowl of jewels. On Silver Hill is the money tree, a shake of which will shower you with untold wealth. Over Dzai-zen's head is "Foh"—blessedness. All around are his servants ready to carry wealth to those whom the god favors. This god is very amenable to flattery and he who flatters best gets most. But he too is make-believe.

May the true God-of-Wealth prosper you and friends in all good.

Advertisers appreciate your trade. They are reliable.

Patrolman Robinson Resigns

With much regret the law enforcement department of the state of Idaho has received and accepted the resignation of Ernest G. Robinson, state traffic officer for the counties of Latah, Idaho and Nez Perce. He quits the state position to join the federal force of border patrol.

Robinson was one of the prominent figures in the search for the late Lieutenant Governor W. B. Kinne and his abductors. He was also responsible for the procuring of evidence and the conviction of Dan Broncheau on the charge of manslaughter an connection with the death of Dorothy Allen, who was killed on the highway December 1 between Kooskia and Stites.

Trout Season Soon Open

While quite a good many have limbered up their shooting-irons and have gone out after the elusive squirrel, it will soon be time for them to grease up their fishing rods and reels and go out after the finny tribe.

The trout season opens in Idaho on Wednesday, April 16, for all species, including steelhead.

Roads Are Again Sloppy

From the appearance of automobiles and other wheeled vehicles that come into town it is very evident that the country roads have again taken on a decided sloppy appearance, although the highways are said to be fairly good.

Civic enterprise is the grease that makes the wheels turn smooth. Let's use lots of it.

SOVIETS PLAN MODERN UTOPIA FOR RED RUSSIA

Just what the campaign for "complete socialization of Russia" would mean to its citizens is to be illustrated in a model socialistic agricultural city which is to be erected by the government in the Hoper province, lower Volga district.

Summed up, the project calls for a mode of life a bit more impersonal than that which exists in the barracks of the average army in peace time. Only clothing and the pocket knick-knacks which the individual carries about with him will be private property. All else will belong to the commune.

Standardized living quarters for infants, school children and adults will keep each of these three classes apart from the others except for visits of parents to children or vice versa. Mothers will be "freed" from the duty of nursing and caring for their babies.

The women will not even have to cook meals for their mates as one gigantic "kitchen factory," situated on the outskirts of the community, will prepare the food for all the 44,000 people who are expected to take part in the experiment. This food will be distributed to restaurants of which there will be one in each communal residence or group of houses. Thus all will fare alike.

Professor Williams of the Timiryazevsky agricultural institute at Moscow, heads a committee of experts engaged in planning the model rural town. He said it would be located in the center of a huge "collective" farm of nearly 500,000 acres.

The population of about 44,000 will consist of farm laborers who will be members of the community, and workers in the different enterprises serving them with food, shelter, clothing, medical attendance, amusement, education and recreation.

All houses will be of the same type and will consist of living quarters, a general dining room, club rooms, library and gymnasium. For each ten of these houses there will be a separate laundry and shops for making and repairing the furniture and other equipment.

Besides the permanent apartments, a thousand or more movable houses will be utilized in the busy planting and harvest seasons. These will be erected in the fields and transferred from place to place as the work requires. They will serve as living quarters for the farmers and thus spare them the daily journey from town and back during the rush seasons.

On the outskirts, separated from the tenements by parks, will be a number of government factories where butter, cheese, bacon, sugar and other by-products of agriculture will be manufactured. The entire process of labor will be mechanized, tractors and other modern machinery taking the place of horses and hand tools.

Glass Broken; Lock "Jimmied"

Someone, who evidently thought they should have entrance to the Commercial hotel building, now unoccupied, broke the glass in the front door to the office the other night and undertook to gain entrance to the building by turning the night lock, but it so happened that the lock in the door had also been turned and they failed to gain entrance. They had also tried to pry the padlock off the front door to the hall leading upstairs, but also failed in that.

But Monday when Mrs. Kulick, who, with her husband, resides upstairs, unlocked the padlock on the front door and laid it on the windy ledge inside the door, someone decided that they needed the lock and took it.

The building has been idle for the past several weeks.

Another Wind and Dust Storm

Another high wind and rain and dust storm visited this section Saturday and when the rain ceased it was found that everything, including windows, was covered with a splendid coating of dirt, caused by an over-supply of Snake river dust coming this way while it was raining here.

The surrounding hills were covered with about an inch of snow on Saturday morning and again on Monday morning they received a coating of from two to three inches of snow. A heavy fog also enveloped the uplands.

The continued rains have sent old Potlatch creek on a rampage and its roar may be heard for some distance.

Asks Keene as Administrator

According to a petition filed in the probate court at Moscow, Theo. Eldinghoff of Peace Valley, Missouri, has asked that Wade Keene of Kendrick be appointed administrator for the estate of his brother, George Eldinghoff, who died here March 2.

The value of the property listed is $5,600, $3,200 of which is in real estate and the remainder cash.

There are 16 heirs to the estate, all said to be living in the middle states.

GOVERNOR BALDRIDGE FAVORS PROHIBITION

Governor Baldrige does not think much of anti-prohibition campaigns which offer no substitute for what is already in effect. He made this clear this week in a statement issued to the press in connection with a movement started in Shoshone county against the prohibition amendment by Senator Donald Callahan. The Governor's statement follows:

"Anyone carefully observing conditions can easily observe that the saloon and the great mass of political corruption which went with it have been abolished or at least partly reduced. Our cities have been cleaned up, the sight of a drunken man on the streets or in other public places is rare, and certainly we no longer have whole sections of a city so vile that women are advised not to pass through them, either by day or by night.

He cited a two-block section of Boise which before liquor was officially legislated out of existence was so closely lined with saloons, and other disorderly haunts that women never passed there. "No," he added, "there is not a foot of sidewalk in Boise unsafe for women."

Crime in Idaho is showing a gradual decrease, he contended, pointing out that two years ago at this time there were 404 inmates of the state penitentiary, while at the time of his statement the total population was 376.

"Much of the crime now charged to prohibition," he continued, "is, instead, an after effect of the war, similar to that following every war. On my recent trip to Washington I did not see a single drink of liquor imbibed, and so far as I know no one was under the influence of liquor in my presence, either on the train or elsewhere."

Denying any intent of questioning the motives of Senator Callahan and his group, the Governor declared the senator had been a supporter of liquor control all his life.

"Unless he can suggest something better than the present prohibition enforcement," the chief executive concluded. "I shall believe he is doing himself an injustice in trying to break down what has already been established."

Soft winter wheat markets were also firmer, influenced by strength in the general market situation and the relatively light offerings of milling quality grain. Track offerings at St. Louis were very light and prices advanced 2c to 3c per bushel, with current offerings below trade needs for milling wheat. No. 2 soft red winter wheat was quoted at $1.15 per bushel, compared with $1.07 per bushel on No. 2 hard winter. Only five cars of wheat were received at Cincinnati during the week ending March 21 and the market was inactive. No. 2 Red winter was quoted at $1.15 to $1.15 1/2 per bushel. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted nominally at Chicago at $1.08 and No. 3 red winter at $1.05 1/2 to $1.08 1/2 per bushel.

MARKET SHARPLY HIGHER —MODERATE OFFERINGS

The grain market developed a decidedly firmer tone for the week ending March 22, influenced by some improvement in foreign demand for North American wheat, occasioned by a sharp reduction in offerings from the Southern Hemisphere and diminishing supplies of native wheat in Europe, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Rye and feed grain prices were carried upward with wheat, while a more active inquiry for the moderate offerings of corn, oats and barley were also a strengthening factor.

The firmness in foreign wheat markets as a result of the reduction in shipments from Argentine and Australia, was principally responsible for the advance in domestic markets. Southern hemisphere shipments for the week totaled only 2,725,000 bushels and Black Sea shipments only about 360,000 bushels. These relatively small shipments, together with the diminishing supplies of native wheat in Europe, stimulated demand for the North American wheat. North American export sales, however, during the week were largely of Canadian wheat, and prices at Winnipeg advanced around 9c per bushel, compared with only about 5c per bushel in domestic markets. Prices of wheat for March delivery at Liverpool advanced about 11c per bushel. Quotations on foreign wheats in English markets also advanced sharply, but both Russia and Argentine were selling well below quotations on U. S. wheat and domestic exports continued negligible. On March 21 No. 1 Canadian Manitoba wheat afloat from Vancouver was quoted at London at $1.26 1/2, No. 2 Manitoba at $1.24 1/2 and No. 3 Manitoba at $1.12 1/2 per bushel. Australian wheat afloat was quoted at London at $1.20 1/2 and 63 lb. Rosafe from Argentine at $1.12 1/2. A small cargo of Russian wheat was reported sold at $1.06 1/2 per bushel. No quotations were available on United States hard winter in English markets, but No. 2 hard winter for export was quoted F. O. B. New York at $1.12 1/2. Native wheats were quoted generally firmer in European markets. Good milling wheat at Hamburg was quoted at $1.16 1/2. The German import duty has again been increased and is now equivalent to about 7 1/2c per bushel. Native wheat at Paris was quoted at $1.35 1/2 and at Genoa at $1.69 1/2 per bushel.

Domestic wheat markets, cash, followed closely the advance in futures, and on March 21 closed 5c to 6c higher than a week ago. Domestic prices were mostly above an export basis and current offerings were taken almost entirely by mills and other domestic industrial buyers. Country offerings were not large, reflecting the relatively small farm stocks, but daily arrivals were generally equal to trade requirements. New winter wheat crop conditions are still reported generally favorable, although there has been some local damage in the soft winter wheat areas and more moisture is needed in the southwest and in the Pacific northwest. Hard winter wheat prices were advanced 3c- to 4c at Kansas City, where ordinary protein No. 2 hard winter was quoted March 21 at $1.01 per bushel, with mills paying premiums of 1c to 1 1/2c per bushel over this for 13 per cent protein of the same grade. Mills and shippers were the principal buyers but demand was not urgent, although offerings of certain types were scarcely equal to market needs. Receipts at Omaha were very light but demand was also moderate. No. 3 hard winter sold in that market March 21 at 98c per bushel.

Soft winter wheat markets were also firmer, influenced by strength in the general market situation and the relatively light offerings of milling quality grain. Track offerings at St. Louis were very light and prices advanced 2c to 3c per bushel, with current offerings below trade needs for milling wheat. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted at $1.18 1/2 to $1.19, compared with $1.07 per bushel on No. 2 hard winter. Only five cars of wheat were received at Cincinnati during the week ending March 21 and the market was inactive. No. 2 Red winter was quoted at $1.15 to $1.15 1/2 per bushel. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted nominally at Chicago at $1.08 and No. 3 red winter at $1.05 1/2 to $1.08 1/2 per bushel.

1929 Business Highest On Record

Auto Collision

A small car collision took place Tuesday about noon between a car driven by Pete Blevins and the city truck, driven by Marshal Ernest Davis. It seems that the city truck was descending the hill while young Blevins was ascending and, it also seems, that Blevins kept on the left-hand side of the sign that says "Keep to the Right," at the intersection of the street going up to the school house and Main street and the two cars met at the intersection. The car driven by Blevins had the left fender and light badly damaged while the town truck had the front axle bent and the steering-gear and the wish-bone badly damaged.

It is strange that more accidents do not happen at this corner than do, for more than 75 per cent of those ascending the hill in cars "cut" the corner on the wrong side of the street. Young Blevins is not the only one who has done it.

Look For the Tag

If you catch a salmon with a metal "tag" fastened to its fin or tail, send the tag in to the Bureau of Fisheries. That salmon has been marked by Uncle Sam with the view of studying his life history.

Every year salmon fingerlings are caught before they start on their migrations to the sea, and the small strips of metal marked with the fish's locality, species, weight, length and general characteristics are carefully placed on them. The fisherman who catches the salmon is requested to send in the tag with a record of the locality where the fish was caught, and the fish's weight, length and similar features. From these tags an immense amount of data is being amassed concerning the growth, travels and hazards of salmon.

Studies of various kinds of fish by the tagging method have been conducted for several years. Even in 1875 cod were marked with silver tags fastened by copper wires. Mackerel in New England are tagged with colored celluloid.

MARKET SHARPLY HIGHER —MODERATE OFFERINGS

wheat advanced premiums on cash grain at Minneapolis. 12 per cent protein No. 1 dark northern was quoted in that market March 21 at the May price of $1.09 1/2 to 2c over, 13 per cent protein at 2c to 4c and 14 per cent protein 4c to 6c over the May price. There was an active inquiry for high protein wheat for shipment to the head of the Lakes, presumably for movement to Eastern points at the opening of navigation. Demand at Duluth continued rather slow although mills were taking most of the high protein wheat and elevators' remaining arrivals.

Canadian spring wheat markets were firmer than domestic markets, reflecting the increased export takings of Canadian wheat. May wheat at Winnipeg advanced 9c for the week, closing March 21 at $1.12 1/2. Cash wheat advanced about the same amount and No. 1 Manitoba Northern was quoted at $1.10 1/2 per bushel.

Pacific Coast wheat markets were strengthened with Eastern markets, but demand from exporters and domestic buyers continued dull. Cash grain advanced around 6c per bushel at Portland, where No. 1 Big Bend Bluestem hard white was quoted at $1.23, No. 1 soft and western white at $1.11 1/2 and No. 1 hard winter, northern spring and western red at $1.09. Big Bend bluestem was quoted at Seattle at $1.23, white wheats at $1.13, red wheats at $1.13, 14 per cent protein No. 1 dark-hard winter, from Montana at $1.13 and No. 1 dark northern spring at $1.18 per bushel. Quotations on Montana wheat were for grain in bulk. Mills provided about the only outlet for the current arrivals which were of moderate volume. No export sales of wheat were reported from Columbia river points either to the Orient or Europe and export flour business was also quiet. A fairly large amount of export business was worked out of Vancouver to both Europe and the Orient, according to trade reports, at prices below current domestic quotations at Portland and Seattle. Considerable reseeded of winter wheat will be necessary in the Palouse and Big Bend sections, but the ground is now very dry and unfavorable for spring seeding, according to trade advices.

California wheat markets held steady, but prices were not materially changed. Mill demand continued dull while good pasturage and relatively cheap barley are restricting demand for feed wheat. No. 1 hard white and No. 2 soft winter were quoted at San Francisco March 21 at $2.00 to $2.05 per 100 sacked. No. 2 soft white wheat from the Pacific Northwest was offered on track at San Francisco at $2.05 per 100. Receipts of wheat at Los Angeles totaled about 40 cars, a slight increase over the previous week. The arrivals were principally of good quality hard white Baart and Federation from mother California points and were mostly taken direct by mills. Good milling wheat was quoted at Los Angeles March 21 at $2.12 1/2 and feed wheat at $2.07 per 100.

The oats market advanced along with corn and wheat but was influenced also by an improved demand. May oats advanced 2 1/2c for the week at Minneapolis, closing March 21 at 40 1/2c. No. 3 white oats were quoted in that market at 39 1/2c to 40 1/2c, and at Chicago at 45c, and at Kansas City at 45c to 46 1/4c per bushel. No. 3 white oats were quoted, delivered at Group 1 Texas points at 55c and at Group 3 points at 56c per bushel. Texas red oats were bringing about the same price as the white.

Wool Growing Important to Us
 The importance of wool growing to the northwest was pointed out recently by Mac Hoke, secretary of a large sheep company of Pendleton, Oregon. Growers in Washington and Oregon, which states head all others in raising sheep, have more than $100,000,000 invested, said Mr. Hoke. "The sheep population is more than 3,000,000,000 head and 20,000,000 pounds of wool are clipped yearly, enough to clothe 5,000,000 people. Without this industry thousands of acres of otherwise poor land, used as grazing, would not be on the tax rolls. Also sheep keep down the fire hazards and help rebuild the soil.

FEDERAL LAND BANK SEES IMPROVEMENT

The annual report of the Federal Land Bank of Spokane, just issued, says that while there is a sizable task still ahead, signs are hopeful and encouraging and the bank officials are confident of further improvement during 1930. Business for 1929 closed with substantial reductions in past due accounts of principal and interest payments, as well as delinquent taxes, both in number and amount, the report indicates. The reduction for the year in the unpaid principal of loans with delinquent installments was 20 per cent. Delinquent taxes on lands covered by mortgages to the bank were reduced 47.2 per cent in number and 40.7 per cent in amount. Land sales exceeded $2,000,000 for the third time in successive years, and the bank's investment in lands sold was $790,321.07 in excess of its investment in lands acquired.

Canada's New Woman Senator
 The Canadian Senate will no longer be addressed by its speaker as "Honorable Gentlemen," for with the entrance of Mrs. Norman Wilson into that hitherto "stag" body, it becomes necessary to vary the form of address to "Honorable Members." Thus Canadian feminism cuts another notch to mark its advance.

In America we are not excited any more by the presence of women in our national legislature. Mrs. Wilson, however, arouses speculation not only because of this last unique accomplishment in her country, but because of many other factors in her career. She is the mother of eight children, the wife of a former member of parliament, and the daughter of a former senator. Her political activities commenced only in 1921, and her swift rise to national prominence is partly attributed to her fluency in both the English and French tongue. Besides bringing up eight children, managing a household, and holding office in at least three large women's clubs, this first woman senator has very ably managed her own extensive business interests.

Why Plumbers Get Rich
 The plumber worked and the helper stood helplessly looking on. He was learning the business. This was his first day. "Say," he inquired, "do you charge for my time?" "Certainly, you idiot," came the reply. "But I haven't done anything." The plumber, to fill in the hour, had been looking at the finished job with a lighted candle. Handing the two inches of it that were still unburned to the helper, he said wittingly: "Here, if you gotta be so darned conscientious, blow that out!"

DAIRY FACTS

GIVE FALL CALVES CHANCE TO START

Proper Feeding and Stabling Are Great Essentials.

If one is to have their dairy cows freshen during the fall, which practical results show is the most profitable, then one must see that the little calves get a good start during the fall and winter months. While this may prove more difficult for some on account of the need for better stables, fall calves that are properly grown during the first winter are ready to go on grass the following spring and grow better than spring calves.
Proper feeding, plus proper stabling, are the greatest essentials in starting fall calves. When a calf is first dropped it is essential that it receive the colostrum milk from its mother. This milk is laxative in character and helps to clean out the calf's system. Where it is not available, the calf should be given an ounce of castor oil. The calf can be allowed to run with the cow for four or five days, but the majority of dairymen prefer to break it to drink before it has nursed for any length of time.

Too much milk is often given to young calves. One pound of milk daily for every eight to ten pounds of live weight is sufficient. For the first two or three weeks the calves should get whole milk, then skim milk can be gradually added. Bright leafy hay should be given to the calves beginning with the third week. A little cracked corn and ground oats may also be added to the pails after the calves finish drinking their milk.

As the calves develop they will gradually learn to eat grain and hay. The milk should be continued but it should not exceed 14 to 16 pounds daily or it will make the calves "pot bellied." It is better to furnish the additional nutrients needed for growth by feeding grain and good legume hay, rather than to give the calves too much skim milk.

Unless the calves are kept in a clean, sanitary place they will not grow to the best advantage. Scours are usually the result of unsanitary feed pails or improperly managed stables. Calves should be turned out in a sunny pen during the day if they do not have the advantage of sunshine in their regular quarters.

Utilizing Surplus Skim Milk as Poultry Feed

According to a recent survey made by the United States Department of Agriculture there were in 1928 approximately 76,000,000 pounds of surplus skim milk used in the making of concentrated sour skim milk at 27 different milk plants or creameries located in various sections of the country. The method of making this product was perfected by Dr. L. A. Rogers, chief of the division of dairy research laboratories in the bureau of dairy industry. This product is sold mainly as a poultry feed and affords creameries or milk plants equipped with condensing machinery a profitable means of utilizing surplus skim milk.

Generous Feed Supply Seen for Coming Year

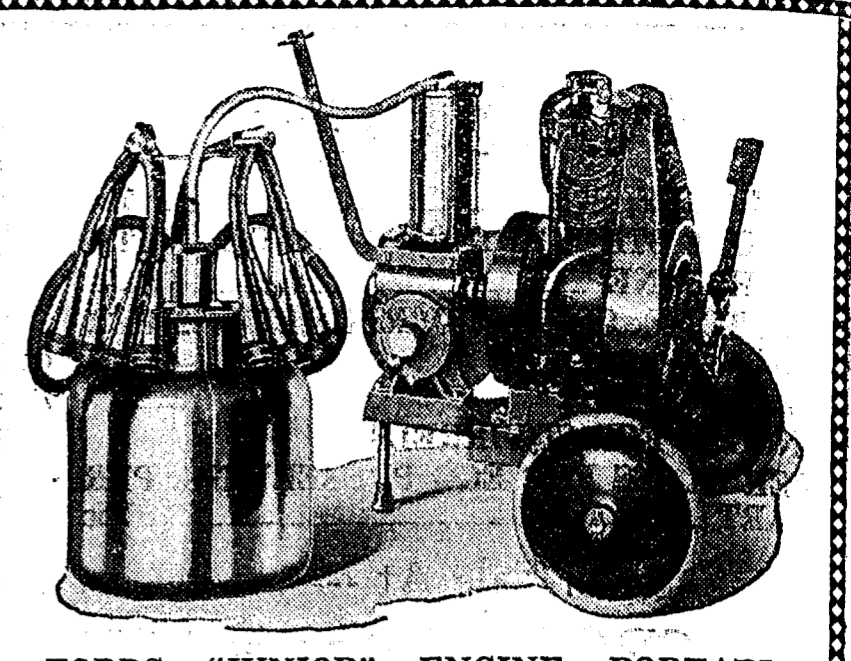

The supply of feed this coming year will be generous. Preliminary indications are that there will be 400 pounds more grain feed per animal unit than was available during the average year of the last five years. The supply of hay per animal unit will be the largest of any year as far back as 1920 with the exception of last year and 1924. Unfortunately for dairymen there is a shortage of legume hay. This shortage of protein hays is likely to put special stress on the supply of protein supplements and lead to higher prices for them in spite of the abundance of feed grains.

Tendency for Farmer to Feed Improper Rations

With plenty of corn and corn products, along with oats and possibly barley, all of which are low in protein, there is a tendency for the average farmer to feed rations that are low in protein. Under these conditions there is also a tendency to overfeed many of the cows on these feeds that are low in protein, the result being that the amount of grain fed is too large and the production too low. Farmers who have fallen into this trouble find that they can save a lot of grain and get more milk by feeding a well balanced ration according to production.

Keep Calves Healthy

The dairyman must arrange for his young calves to occupy the warmest part of the barn. They should not be near a door that is frequently used. Exposure may merely lead to a cold, which is frequent and not often fatal among calves. However, a cold will throw the calf off feed, possibly stunt its growth and render it especially susceptible to other diseases. Pneumonia frequently follows severe colds, and pneumonia is an extremely serious problem in calf herds.

Now that filling stations along the highways are selling hot-dogs, motorists had better look out or the absent-minded service man will be filling the tank with sausages and putting mustard in the crankcase.

Isn't Crowded

Maybe the reason some people stick to the straight and narrow path is because there isn't so much traffic on it.

JULIAETTA NEWS

Mrs. Eben Adams entertained the Needle club last Wednesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alexander. The main feature of the day was the dinner table, which was beautifully decorated with St. Patrick's motifs, at which the guests were served a typical Irish menu. The evening was spent playing bridge. The members present were Mesdames Behrens, Bidison, Gruell, Nutt, Jones, Houck and Alexander. Her invited guests were Mrs. D. E. Buckallew and Miss Gladys Dale of Lewiston, Miss Erlene Stump of Kendrick and Mrs. Wilcoxon, Mrs. Deane, Mrs. Thorpe and Miss Adrianson. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rector of Potlatch are the parents of a daughter, born on St. Patrick's day. She was named Patricia Ann. Mr. Rector lived here for several years before moving to Potlatch. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Heinrichs of Rockland, Idaho, visited Thursday and Friday at the M. Nutt and Cecil Gruell homes. Mrs. Heinrichs and Mrs. Nutt are sisters. They returned to southern Idaho by car the first of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Horst Gunther and two sons attended a show at Lewiston Sunday evening. Mrs. Edgar Wilcoxon was a Kendrick visitor on Thursday of last week. Miss Edith Adrianson visited in Moscow over the week-end. A group of young people surprised Bill Denlar at the home of Mrs. A. Heins on Wednesday evening of last week, the occasion being Bill's birthday anniversary. Refreshments of jello and cake were served at the close of the evening. Mrs. Yuel McKinley entertained a group of friends last Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. L. Huntberger, Mesdames Hutchison, Nye, Millard and Walsh were her guests. After an evening of needlework and cards a dainty luncheon of ice cream and cake was served. Mrs. Kate Crutchfield entertained the M. E. ladies aid last Wednesday afternoon at the Joe Groseclose home. Mrs. Jim Groseclose was assistant hostess. Fourteen members and six visitors were present. Nutt and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gruell spent Sunday afternoon at the John Heinrichs home in Clarkston. Miss Evelyn Hendren of Slickpoo stopped at the Everett Custer home Sunday. Her niece, Leona Gruell, accompanied her home for a week's visit. Those who attended the card party given by the Rebekah Lodge last Friday evening report an enjoyable time. High honors at bridge were won by Miss Stump of Kendrick and Edgar Wilcoxon. A delicious lunch was served. Mrs. W. J. Gamble of Huntsville, Oregon, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. Stinson. Mrs. Gamble is a former resident of this place. Several people have reported losing chickens and canned fruit during the past few weeks. As a result, padlocks are taking the place of ordinary locks. Walter Cochran is removing a large number of cherry trees from his orchard, due to last summer's drought. The work is being done with Will Behrens' tractor. Aiding American Ships A further step was taken toward strengthening the American merchant marine when the House passed the White bill, granting preference in award of ocean-mail contracts to purchasers of government-owned vessels. Until Postmaster General Brown raised the point, it had been supposed that the Jones-White act carried this provision. It does authorize preferential mail contracts for operators who will build new vessels in American shipyards. Now those who take ships off the government's hands are to have the same privilege. The new measure imposes necessary safeguards of the public interest. It provides that the purchaser who wishes a mail contract must possess, "with the aid of the contract so to be awarded," the ability to render adequate service. The quoted words are significant. It will be remembered that the Postmaster General found fault with the United States lines for counting a prospective mail contract among its probable resources in connection with its financing program. These contracts are of great value to a steamship company, and the proposed legislation recognizes its right to list them among its assets, says the New York Evening Post. Let a want ad. sell your surplus stuff; the cost is small.

Lewis and Clark Expedition

The story of the famous trip of a little detachment of the United States army from St. Louis to Astoria has been pronounced "our great national epic of exploration." No state has a deeper interest in the story than has ours, and no education in Idaho history is complete without a knowledge of at least the important phases of that great journey. President Jefferson was its instigator. In a personal letter he expressed fear that England would anticipate us. His persistence, in the face of strong opposition over a period of ten years finally resulted in a small appropriation and the necessary approval of congress. Lewis was the official leader, and the ranking officer. He was born near Charlottesville, Virginia, in 1774, and was a captain in the First United States infantry. After the expedition he was made governor of Louisiana, and at the age of 35 he was either murdered or committed suicide, in Lewis county, Tennessee, and is buried there. He was never married. William Clark, selected by Lewis as his fellow leader, was also born in Virginia, and was the older of the two by four years. He had been trained in the army, and was at one time Lewis's superior officer, but had resigned on account of ill health. For the purposes of the expedition he was made a second lieutenant of artillery. His brother, George Rogers Clark, had already distinguished himself as an explorer. Some time after Lewis's death, Clark succeeded him as governor of what had become Missouri Territory. Following the expedition he was married twice, was the father of seven children, died at the age of 68, and is buried in the city of St. Louis. The expedition as it entered Idaho near Salmon City consisted of Captain Lewis, Lieut. Clark, three sergeants, 24 privates, Clark's negro slave York, and the Charbonneau family of three; a total of 33 persons. The Charbonneau woman, known to history as Sacajawea, was 19, the baby Baptiste, seven months of age at this time. The party went down the Lemhi to Salmon City, thence into the Bitter Root valley of Montana to Lolo and across the Lolo Trail to Orofino, thence by boat to Lewiston, where they entered Snake river, pursuing that stream and the Columbia to the ocean. Starting back in the spring of 1806 they came up the Columbia to near Wallula, thence by Dayton and Waitsburg to Asotin, Washington, crossed the Snake a little above Lewiston, followed the north bank of the Clearwater to above Arrow, thence crossed over to Lawyer's canyon to Kamiiah, thence over the Lolo Trail again into what is now Montana, then on to St. Louis. Idaho is the only state in which the trail is not marked. An association has been formed at Lewiston for that purpose, in celebration of the 125th anniversary of the great journey. The House That Dave Built The Lewis and Clark party, discoverers and first explorers of Idaho, reached St. Louis on the homeward trip in September, 1806. They had been away two years and four months, of which about one-seventh had been spent in Idaho, sixty days each way. The personnel of the party in Idaho was the same east and west, thirty-three persons; they are buried in at least ten different states. The last one to join the party was also its last survivor, Sacajawea's baby boy, Baptiste Charbonneau. The political significance of the journey is in danger of being overlooked. Jefferson recognized it, had in fact, foreseen it. Twenty years before, in a badly misspelled personal letter he had said, "I am afraid the English have thoughts of colonizing into that quarter." The English had preceded us across the continent, following a line much farther north. Two British fur companies were fighting for control of the traffic along our northern line and their agents were soon afterward to invade that no man's land which finally became our great Northwest. The first of these was David Thompson, a native of Westminster and a graduate of Oxford University. He had been an employee of the Hudson's Bay people, but later had gone to their great British rival, the Northwest Company. Three years after the close of the Lewis and Clark expedition, Thompson came down from the north into what is now Idaho.

He lead his trappers along the Kootenai to about where Bonners Ferry now is, then crossed the low divide which separates that stream from Clark's Fork. In September, 1809, he reached the shore of Lake Pend d'Orelle which is a swelling out of the latter river and is Idaho's largest body of water. In the green meadows beside this lake he found a number of natives encamped. It impressed him as a good business location; he built a substantial log edifice for a trading post and named it "Kullyspell House."

The buildings were burned twenty years after Thompson left them, but their exact location is still certain. Thompson and his associate, Finnan McDonald, abandoned the post after two years, locating near Spokane. Their stay in Idaho marked the first occurrence of several things. They celebrated our first Easter, were the first white men to fight forest fires in Idaho, and were our first exporters. They sent out over four thousand pounds of dressed furs.

In September, 1928, the people of Bonner county erected and dedicated a monument to the Thompson expedition. It is on the lakeshore at the town of Hope, two miles from the site of the post.

Kullyspell House will always hold its place in our history; while not a permanent settlement, it was the first white man's house built in Idaho.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

Stylish Language, Indeed! PERSONALLY I can vouch for the authenticity of this one. It happened in the town where I was born and reared.

For years, a certain worthy and highly intelligent old colored woman did our family washing. She almost was a member of the household. One Saturday night, after she had fetched the week's laundry she sat in the kitchen of our home favoring her feet before she started on her return trip to her own house a mile and a half away. My mother came to the kitchen door to chat with her a little while.

From remarks which the old woman let fall, my mother gathered that Aunt Milly, although very devout, did not seem to care deeply for the present pastor of her church.

"Mis' Manie," said Aunt Milly, "I'm goin' to tell you how I put that there biggity preachin' man in his place. Yere yistiddy evenin' jest fo' supper-time, I wuz settin' on my front porch w'en the Rev'n Rogers come along by. He sees me settin' there an' he stops an' fumbles with the gate latch an' he sez to me he sez, 'Sis' Carter, I would have speech with thee—just lak that."

"Now, Mis' Manie, I ain't adm'n to let no nigger whatsoever, even if he is a min'ster of the gospel, use mo' stylish language 'en what I kin. So I sez right back to him, I sez, 'Rev'n, draw 'igh an' yo' shall be heard!'" "So he und'rd the gate an' come on up the walk to my do'step. But no sooner do he start in to speak 'en I know what 'is he's fixin' to say. He fixin' to ax my sympathy on 'count of that tore-down limb of a unmarried daughter of his'n havin' got herself mixed up in a scandalizin' an' bel'n' hawked about all over the neighborhood. So, jest soon sez I wuz what he's drivin' at, I tho'ws up my right hand like this, an' I sez to him, I sez:

"'Rev'n, I sez, 'Hold! Yere last fall I sez, 'w'en my husband Isiah Carter, at the age of seventy-fo', w'en he should a' knowed better, wuz mek-kin' hisse'f kind of promisc'us by hangin' round two of the lady members of the congregation, an' I went to you, I sez, 'an' axed you, as the pastor, to 'monstrate wid him, what did you do? Jest because he'd done give you five dollars for the new organ fund, you tote me to shet up my black mouth an' go home an' tend to my own bizness."

"'Rev'n, I sez, 'en ye sows, so shall ye reap! Rev'n, pass on!'" (By the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The John Deere Tractor Is Hundreds of Parts Simpler

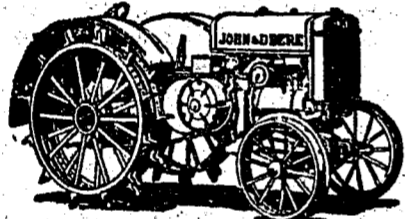

To you this means easier operation
... fewer adjustments ... fewer repairs
... less trouble ... longer life

Take a careful look at the cutaway view of the John Deere Tractor shown above. If you are acquainted with the interior mechanism of tractors, you will immediately appreciate the remarkable simplicity which characterizes the powerful, light-weight John Deere.

The John Deere is actually hundreds of parts simpler than other tractors of similar rating.

What does it mean to you to have a tractor of this simplicity on your farm? It means, first of all, that you have a tractor that is easier to understand and easier to operate. It means that you have a tractor that will last longer. . . the reduction in the number of moving parts means a corresponding reduction in the number of points of contact, possible sources of friction, wear and loss of power.

. . . And there is another important advantage. The fact that the John Deere Tractor is made up of fewer parts has made it possible to build those parts sturdier and more wear-resisting and still keep the total weight down.

JOHN DEERE MODEL D FARM TRACTOR

From engine to drawbar, you will find the John Deere to be a simple, but powerful tractor, with no unnecessary parts to add weight and cause loss of power.

Come in and see this dependable tractor that offers you every advanced feature of power-farming. You'll always find us glad to talk "tractor".

The school library has been enriched this week by the addition of several new books.
