Time to Wake Up

We read that in a neighboring state a short time ago a young man invited his mother for an auto ride and a little later suffered an accident in which she was badly injured. Her attorney promptly sued the son for damages and the insurance company in which he had a policy covering personal injury to others had to settle. Of course it was a frame-up, yet it was legitimate in the eyes of the law. It doesn't make any difference who you invite into your car, or to whom you extend the hospitality of a ride-you are running the L. O. Beyer vs. H. Steiger, dated risk of a damage suit in case they lowliest hobo has a legal claim for damages against you if he should be hurt while riding with you, and there are lawyers in every community ready judgment with the client. Isn't it about time to wake up and ask yourself if it pays to give the unknown hitch-hiker a ride ?-Pullman Herald.

"If happiness have not her seat and center in the breast, We may be wise, or rich or great, but never can be blest." (Robert Burns),

From the earliest times the people of the State We Live In, have recognized the importance of mixing at least a little love and joy with or terrific portion of hardship and privation, toil and danger. The oneeyed Cruzette, with Lewis and Clark, carried a fiddle and frequently used its Hunt's Frenchmen and half-breeds danced and sang on a diet of grass seed and dog meat.

Our first permanent white community has left us a record that they were a "happy and united people." Water was scarce, weather severe. the bread musty. Night and day on Little Mountain, a young man with constantly replenished knapsack and loaded gun stood guard. The upturned earth was fresh over the graves of scores of victims of diptheria. The wind rattled the split log blinds on the window openings; the roof leaked; the cellar was full of water; there was nothing to eat but boiled wheat and sego roots.

Yet one of our first buildings was a bowery, in which were held not only meetings, but dances. There was Peter Lowe, the unmarried man who drew No. 2 in the first land drawing in Idaho. He began very early in our history to take Mary Hull to the dances in the Bowery.

The dirt floor was sprinkled in dry weather to pack the earth for dancing; when it rained, no sprinkling was necessary. Pete and Mary both danced without shoes; the soles of his feet were so calloused he could slide on a pine plank with perfect safety.

Some of the girls wore moccasins obtained from the Indians in exchange for bread, butter, or pieces of home-made lace. One actually had a pair of shoes from Philadelphia, but wore them only to meeting. Mary | Hull was no aristocrat; she had neither shoes nor moccasins. Her pay as a hired girl was almost a dollar a week, which was a high rate. Her linsey dress had cost her fourteen weeks of fourten hour days.

The dances were not free. John Corbridge "called off" for nothing, but Dab Keele and Ike Vail, the musicians, had to be paid. So Peter Lowe got his ticket at the usual price, perhaps a squash, a peck of wheat, a few potatoes.

With bare feet Mary Hull danced with barefoot Pete, the ball beginning before sundown. Refreshments were served early; sorghum taffy well pulled and greased and filled with service berries and seeded black

About nine o'clock Peter Lowe whispered to her, "Let's go over to Preston Thomas's."

"Good even', Bishop Thomas," stammered Peter. "We was a lookin" for a place to git married." "Alright, folks," responded the bishop, "This is the place!"
