THE REBUILDING OF KENDRICK IN SUMMER OF 1905

A few weeks ago we asked that some of the old-timers of this community write us a history of Kendrick, but no first-hand information was forthcoming. However, Roy Humphrey brought to the Gazette office last week a copy of the Lewiston Morning Tribune bearing date of February 8, 1905, which contains a write-up of how the town was rebuilt after the disastrous fire of August, 1904, and showed the progressive spirit prevailing at that time—and should prevail today in every live community.

Following is the story as told by the Tribune:

The town of Kendrick affords a striking example of the enterprise that is found in western communities and an example which as strikingly illustrates the forces that make possible the building up of strong towns and commercial centers in the west. Few communities have suffered more embarrassments in the way of floods and fires than the well known Potlatch town, yet today it is safe to state that no town in the west is being built up on a more permanent and substantial basis.

All the people of the Inland Empire will remember the fire of a few years ago that destroyed so many buildings there and with such a heavy loss of property. It will also be remembered that the town was later subjected to a flood that not only destroyed much property, but which also resulted in the loss of life. Then followed the disastrous fire of last August, which wrecked the entire business section of town, comprising several blocks, and also destroyed a number of residences, the loss reaching close to one-quarter million dollars.

It seemed that this last great affliction would kill the town, but before the smoke of the smoldering ruins had drifted away, enterprising business men were conferring with contractors and within a week, in instances, actual construction work on modern brick buildings was in progress.

Only five months have passed since that time and today Kendrick is built up on such a basis as assures beyond all doubt its permanency as a commercial center of greater prominence than it has ever been in the past, with the additional assurance of every line of business being represented that could be found in cities double the town's size. To date about $75,000 has been spent in new, modern structures and the new contracts for structures to be completed by spring or early summer, will bring the total to over $100,000. Already the blackened street of ruins has been transformed into a busy thoroughfare lined with fine structures.

A short time ago a Tribune representative visited Kendrick and was surprised with the extent and substantiality of the splendid work being carried out by the enterprising citizens. The gloom that followed the August disaster had passed away and the energy and thought of the people were directed along the line of achieving the single purpose, announcing even when the fire was in progress "to build up the town better than ever."

Kendrick's location is such, as regards the rich contiguous territory, that a large trade must essentially be handled there and the action of citizens has assured that this trade will always remain with the town, while additional territory will undoubtedly be reached. The action taken by the citizens there the past few days also shows that the work undertaken will not be limited to the construction of fine business blocks, affording accommodations for large stocks of merchandise of all characters, to meet every demand of the trade, but will also embrace public improvements.

Following the flood above referred to, a system of dyking was installed that eliminates all possibility of further damage from flood and now the citizens propose street improvements, waterworks improvements, etc.

In the work that the Kendrick people have accomplished and are accomplishing, they are receiving the congratulations and unqualified best wishes of every town in north Idaho.

The Tribune presents today several photos showing a view of a section of Main street after the fire, the bank building, a business block and a residence, these pictures illustrating the fine character of structures now being built in the town.

One of the pictures is of the Wild-White-Hall block, now occupied by the Red Cross Pharmacy, Long's merchandise store and J. F. Brown's

Weather Still Cold

The weather here, although we have only about four or five inches of snow, remains quite cold, the thermometer sliding up and down from about forty to five or six above. This is quite unseasonable weather for these parts and old-timers say that it will break soon.

We hope so, for one gets mighty tired of splitting wood and carrying coal, although George Barnum says this weather helps business.

MANY ENTERTAIN AT CHRISTMAS DINNERS

Guests at the Harold Thomas home were Mrs. Martin Thomas and her brother, Mr. Lemmons of Lewiston. Those who enjoyed Christmas dinner at the E. H. Dammarell home were: Mr. and Mrs. Philip Asplund and family of Troy; Mr. and Mrs. Kester Dammarell and family of Reubens; and Miss Edith Dammarell, who is teaching at Shelly, Idaho.

The E. T. Long home was the gathering place of Mrs. Flora Long, Marvin Long and wife, and Elbert Long on Christmas Day.

Ed. Deobald and family, Otto Schupfer and family, Mrs. Mary Deobald, Albert Wegner and family and Alice, Fred and Gus Wegner gathered at the W. B. Deobald home for Christmas dinner.

Mrs. Rider came up from Lewiston to spend Christmas at the home of her son, Frank Rider and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brocke and baby and Gus Blum were entertained at the Julia Brocke home Christmas.

Otto Herman was a Christmas dinner guest at the S. A. McAllister home.

Wallace Emmett and family enjoyed Christmas at the Jim Emmett home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carroll and daughter, Lida Jane, were Christmas dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Morehead.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Walker were entertained at the Herman Schupfer home Christmas.

T. C. Blevins and family were Christmas guests at Howard Sloans.

Mrs. Wade Keene's father, Mr. Hardeman of Peck, was a guest at the Keene home Christmas.

Egnaz Flaig and family of Orofino and Bob Spencer and family of Moscow were Christmas guests at the George Leith home.

Harry Ameling and family, Vera Ameling, who is teaching at Ferdinand, and Velma, who is teaching at Wellpinnit Wells, spent Christmas with Mrs. Lidia Ameling.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wegner of Kellogg arrived Tuesday to spend Christmas at the Perryman home. They returned to Kellogg Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Herres had Christmas dinner guests Rev. A. E. James and daughter, Eldwa.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schultz and family and Mrs. Theresa Schultz were dinner guests Christmas day of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schultz and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Blackburn and Mrs. Triplet were Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Raby.

Fractures Rib On Ice

While moving the Carrill place last week, Mrs. E. C. Grant had the misfortune to fall on an icy spot and fracture a rib.

garage, another business building is that of the Kendrick State Bank. A picture of the residence of T. B. West, showing the substantial character of the residences being built in Kendrick since are fire of last August."

It might also be stated that that issue of the Lewiston Tribune carried a line of pre-Volstead advertising, some of the ads being for Christ Weisgerbers' Brewery, the Pacific Bar, The Mint Saloon, Castle Saloon, Idaho Saloon, Horseshoe Saloon, The State Bar, and A. L. Thompson & Co., Lemp's beer. Of the old-time Lewiston business institutions, the advertisement of C. J. Vassar, undertaker and embalmer, occupied a prominent place. An ad. for the Hotel Kendrick also appeared in the list of Clearwater Country Hotels. Schill & Bornholdt were the proprietors. An ad. for The Palace Hotel, Juliaetta, also appeared. J. Watts was the proprietor.

Such items as these are just as interesting today (if not more so) as they were at the time they were first published. We are always glad to get old-time stories as well as those of recent happenings.

NEWSY LITTLE ITEMS FROM JULIAETTA WAY

Mrs. Lulu Buchanan and Sam Bryant were Christmas dinner guests of Mrs. Trenary and sister, Mrs. Robinson. On Friday, Mrs. Trenary and Mrs. Robinson entertained Mr. and Mrs. O. Dumbauld and Mr. and Mrs. Bishop at dinner.

Following the program Santa Claus arrived with 260 treats for all the children, which closed one of the first community programs ever held in Juliaetta.

O. E. S. Installs Officers
The installation of the officers of the Order of the Eastern Star was held in the Fraternal Temple building Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Because of the cold weather, Mrs. J. S. Heckathorne, installing officer was unable to attend, Mrs. John Woody then acting as installing officer with the assistance of John Woody, Paul Schulz, Dora Hull, Mrs. Deobald and Ruth Houck.

The officers installed were: Worthy Matron, Bina Raby; Worthy Patron, Paul Schulz; Associate Matron, Fannie Green; Associate Patron, Hugh Thompson; Secretary, Ernie Thompson; Treasurer, Annie Oppenbren; Conductress, Nellie Dammarell; Associate Conductress, Freddie Schulz; Chaplain, Dora Hull; Marshall, Mary Nutt; Organist, Grace Thomas; Ada Emma Davidson; Ruth, Nellie Biddison; Esta, Nancy Jarvis; Martha, Ella Benschotter; Electa, Elsie Taylor; Warner, Anna Long; Sentinel, Marvin Raby.

Following the installation of the officers Bina Raby, worthy matron, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Deobald and Mrs. Morehead. The meeting adjourning at six o'clock.

Audian Theater Closing

The last of the regular run of pictures at the Audian was shown last Sunday night, with Lawrence Tibbett in the Rogue Song.

Owing to the cold weather, with the resulting light attendance, no more regular shows will be given until spring, however, Mr. Zell plans to show about once a month, when he will show a super-special film of an outstanding sort on these occasions, the next show probably being about the first of February, the weather permitting.

Mr. Zell has given this community real shows, there being no finer to be seen. Where can anyone find anything any better than "Flight," "The Dawn Patrol," "Sally," "No, No, Nanette," "With Byrd at the North Pole," "The Rogue Song" and a host of others.

It is with sincere regret that we see this splendid type of amusement leaving our community, for Mr. Zell has given us the finest, at prices that everyone can afford to pay.

Mr. Zell says that perhaps in the spring he will again put on the regular schedule.

Delightful Bridge Party at Leiths

The evening of Christmas day saw a very delightful bridge party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leith. Five tables being in play.

Those present at this occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ramey, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Long, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spencer of Moscow, Mr. and Mrs. Egnaz Flaig of Orofino, Mrs. Wm. Watts and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leith and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCreary.

The evening ended at midnight with lovely refreshments served by the hostess, Mrs. Geo. Leith, assisted by Mrs. Flaig and Mrs. Spencer.

If you want to give your "friend" the acid test, try to borrow ten dollars from him just before Christmas.

Entertain at Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Herres had eight couples in for a bridge party Friday evening, December 26, when 4 tables were in play.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leith, Mr. and Mrs. Wade T. Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ramey, Mrs. Wm. Watts, Miss Rilla Davidson and Joe Gardner.

W. T. WRIGHT, PIONEER, PASSES AWAY DEC. 26

W. T. Wright, 93 years old and a prominent citizen of the Kendrick region for half a century, passed away at his home here at 11:10 o'clock Friday night from paralysis. He was stricken Monday night about midnight, December 22.

Mr. Wright was born at La Porte, Indiana on September 16, 1837, he was married to Emma Caroline Talmadge on July 2, 1868, she passing away Jan. 22, 1897 at Lewiston. He had by more than 23 years passed the three score and ten allotted years, and despite his years, he was actively engaged in farming until about six years ago.

Mr. Wright came west in 1864, while the country was in the throes of the great Civil war, and located in California. In 1880 he took up a homestead on Big Potlatch ridge, between the sites of Kendrick and Leland.

At the time Mr. Wright settled on the Potlatch that region was a wilderness and Lewiston a village of a few hundred inhabitants. Seeing the advantages of good roads and noting the lack of them in the section, Mr. Wright and three others constituted themselves a good roads committee and came to Lewiston and waited on the late A. F. Parker, then publishing the Nez Perce News, a weekly newspaper. This meeting resulted in a movement being inaugurated that brought relief to the region which was destined to become one of the richest farming communities in the northwest, the good roads program outlined being carried to fulfillment.

It was especially desired by Mr. Wright that some outlet from Lewiston allow communication and trade exchange with the Potlatch section. Much of the work was done by Mr. Wright and his associates.

Once when the settlers on Potlatch ridge were handicapped in procuring their food supplies on account of the dangers of crossing the Big Potlatch river Mr. Wright and others hit upon the scheme of transporting supplies across the stream by means of a bucket on a suspended rope. This was the forerunner of many tramways constructed in later years to handle grain where the warehouses were far removed from the farms. In those days the trams were termed "feeding lines."

A democrat in former years, Mr. Wright took an active interest in the affairs of his party; as a lodge man, he held membership in the Odd Fellows order for more than a half century, and as a churchman he had been a member of the Methodist denomination since boyhood.

Mrs. Wright, who passed away 32 years ago, was the third white woman to reside on Big Potlatch ridge. To the union of Mr. and Mrs. Wright seven children were born, two of whom passed away in infancy.

He leaves to mourn their loss Mrs. Myrtle Kuykendall, Kendrick; Dean Wright, Agatha; Pauline Harrison, Leland and Lillian Hill, Weippe. One son, Herschel Wright having passed away in Canada on May 26, 1924. He also leaves 11 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday from the Methodist church here, interment being in the Kendrick cemetery. Jack Pickerd had charge.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors, who so kindly aided us in our recent bereavement, the death of our father, W. T. Wright, especially do we thank those who furnished the music and the members of the I. O. O. F. lodge.

SEASONAL DULLNESS PREVAILS IN GRAIN MARKET

Seasonal dullness prevailed in domestic grain markets during the week ending December 27. Marketings of the principal grains were fairly large at most markets, but demand was very light and moderate to sharp declines occurred, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Nearby old crop wheat future prices were held practically unchanged, but the July delivery declined sharply and premiums on cash grain were lower 2c to 3c at most markets. Corn declined to a new low level for the season to date, with demand slack. Oats, rye and barley were also weak and lower. Weakness in the Argentine flax market was a dominant influence in the domestic flax situation and this, together with the continued slow demand for oil, caused a further decline in prices.

Foreign wheat markets were relatively weaker than the domestic market, reflecting the generally favorable prospects in the southern hemisphere and the continued slow demand of Europe for foreign wheat. Unsettled weather delayed threshing in Argentina, but depressed economic conditions there are expected to force heavy shipments during the next few months. Threshing is progressing in Australia where shippers are offering new wheat at 73c. C. I. F. England-Russian shipments totaled about 2,000,000 bushel during the week and some further chartering of freight space was reported. North American shipments, including flour, were about 5,000,000 bushels, principally of Canadian wheat. Stocks on ocean passage totaled approximately 34,000,000 bushels.

Domestic cash wheat markets were generally dull. The relatively higher prices being maintained in the December and May future deliveries are bringing out increased marketings of cash grain. Cash offerings are meeting a very slow demand and premiums for cash grain were reduced 2c to 3c at most markets. With domestic prices well above an export basis, foreign demand for both wheat and flour has been practically cut off. Domestic mills are taking only sufficient wheat for immediate needs, while lower prices of corn and other feed grains have reduced the taking of wheat by feeders and feed manufacturers. Winter wheat is reported in generally satisfactory condition throughout the Ohio valley, although no material increase of sub-soil moisture occurred during the week, and some parts are still very dry. Cold weather curtailed growth in the southwest, but wheat has not frozen down much in Kansas because of snow protection. Many of the western and northwestern grain areas had more or less snow cover, but protection varied widely in the northern limits of the belt.

Demand for winter wheat was very dull, and protein premiums were materially reduced on hard winter wheat at Kansas City. At the close of the market Dec. 26 No. 1 hard wheat with protein up to 12 1/2 per cent was quoted at 70 1/2c and 13 per cent at 71 1/2c per bushel. No. 2 hard winter was selling at 1/2c to 1c under No. 1. Storage interests were the principal buyers since mill demand was slow. Elevator stocks increased 750,000 bushels in that market during the week. Trading at Omaha was fairly active, with receipts of moderate volume and shipments, principally to Chicago, slightly above those of the previous week. No. 2 hard winter, ordinary protein, was quoted in that market at 68c per bushel. Mills were taking moderate amounts of wheat at Fort Worth, where No. 1 hard winter, ordinary protein, was quoted at 79c to 80c per bushel, delivered Texas common points.

Marketings at Denver were reduced by soft road conditions and offerings of wheat were below average for this time of the year. No. 2 hard winter was quoted in that market at 50c to 56c per bushel. Soft winter was also in slow demand since mills were experiencing a dull inquiry for soft winter wheat flour throughout the southern states. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted at St. Louis at 82c per bushel and at Cincinnati at 82c to 83c.

Receipts of spring wheat were fairly liberal at the northwestern markets, but with domestic flour trade extremely slack, mills were buying only for immediate needs. Cash premiums were further reduced and at the close

WICKLIFFE R. SMITH WRITES OF METEORS

Since the appearance of a beautiful meteor in the sky last week many people have become more interested than ever before in the wonders of the universe, and are asking about the origin and possible results of such heavenly visitors. While the appearance of large meteors is comparatively rare, yet, for more than twenty-five hundred years, well authenticated cases of such phenomena have been recorded. About seven hundred years before the time of Christ a meteor fell in China, killing several men and breaking a number of chariots. At another time a block of stone weighing thousands of pounds fell into the Hellespont. Some of the emperors of those days believed that weapons forged from meteoric iron were unbreakable and a sure sign of success in battle.

In every country huge meteors have fallen, some weighing hundreds of tons. In 1819 the people of Massachusetts and Maryland saw one that was estimated to be a half mile in diameter. History tells us that one day in Italy, about five hundred years ago, a cloud of inky blackness overspread the clear sky at noon. From that cloud came lightning and thunder, and frightful explosions like the noise of giant cannon. Then followed a shower of intensely heated stones, some of which weighed a hundred pounds or more.

Very little is known regarding the origin of meteors. They travel in great shoals or rivers in regular orbits around the sun. When the earth in its orbit comes near or intersects the orbit of one of these shoals some of the meteors are drawn into our atmosphere and soon become heated, white hot. If they are small—and most of them are—they are usually consumed by the intense heat and fall to the earth as meteoric dust. If they are large and are coming directly toward the earth, or nearly so, they fall to the ground in a highly heated condition. Some times they explode and fall as small stones. If they are large and are traveling in a line almost parallel to the surface of the earth when they reach our atmosphere, as the one seen last week was doing, they speed along for a little while in the upper regions of the air, become glowing hot, and then pass out again never to return; or else they become so intensely heated that they explode with a mighty noise and fall to the earth as dust or very small stones.

One night about twenty years ago the writer, with his telescope, was observing the moons of jupiter, when suddenly in the southeast, almost in the field of his telescope, appeared a very large and brilliant meteor. It seemed to be about six or eight feet long and nearly a foot in diameter. It turned end over end just as if it had been hurled into space by some powerful giant. It traveled rapidly toward the northwest, perhaps 30 miles a second, leaving a luminous trail behind it which lasted several minutes. When about fifteen degrees past the zenith, it exploded with a mighty roar, sending fragments in every direction. This meteor was seen, and the noise of its explosion heard, in many parts of Canada. It was perhaps a hundred miles high, about the same distance above the earth as the one seen last week, when it exploded. Neither one fell to the earth except as dust or very small particles of meteoric rock, so it is worse than useless to look for either of them.

Star Dust Found
 Did an offshoot of the meteor pass over Lewiston Wednesday night hit in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Max Barton, 607 Twenty-ninth street and deposit a large piece and four minute particles of molten metal as evidence of the phenomena?

Mr. and Mrs. Barton feel sure that what they considered to be someone prowling in their yard with a flashlight on that night was nothing more than a fragment of the celestial visitor, and to substantiate their statements they collected at the very place where the "flashlight" was seen pieces of violet hued disintegrated metal which they have now sealed in a bottle to be kept as a memento. Speaking of what transpired, Mrs. Barton said:

"I happened to step into the yard sometime after 9 o'clock and about five feet from the house noticed a bright light some flickering down, sending out brilliant and snappy flashes. I was startled and thought it was someone in the yard with a flashlight, then the thought came to me that it might have been a falling star."

"The matter we found resembles porous steel, appearing to have been a hard substance before the process of disintegration occasioned by the air set in." One of those who examined the collection picked up a small particle and crushed it between his fingers. It resembled dust, but shafts of what appeared to be metal remained lighted, imbedded in the skin.

O. W. Hardman, of Peck, says: "It seemed to me that at its first appearance it was about five inches in diameter and of intense brightness. It was growing in size as it traveled and then seemed to expand like a gas fire or piece of celluloid when ignited. Then it dropped, I should judge about 50 feet, then bounded straight up five or six times that distance, growing in size as it sped and having the appearance of the ascension of one of the old-time balloons. As it ascended it continued to grow in size, appearing to me to be about four or five feet in diameter. It paused an instant when it reached the top of its last bound, arched for a short distance and sped across the sky almost due east and disappeared in the heart of the Bitterroot mountains, according to my judgement."

The above two statements seem to bear out the theories of Mr. Smith that the meteor itself did not strike the earth in its entirety, but exploded and small fragments undoubtedly did hit the earth, such as the one claimed found in Lewiston.

Fleshman Home Dinner Scene

The home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Fleshman at Leland was the scene of a very delightful Christmas dinner with the following present: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Fleshman and daughter Frances of Dutton, Montana; Mr. and Mrs. Manley Watson of Lewiston, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. James McVicker and sons, Virgil and Ernest and daughter, Violet and Wm. Hahn of Fix Ridge and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Yenni and son, Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fleshman and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fleshman and family and Mildred and Maxine Fleshman, all of Leland.

All came with baskets filled to overflowing with all the good things that make up a real Christmas feast, and everyone voted the day one of the finest they ever spent and all departed for their homes at a late hour sorry that Christmas comes but once a year.

Taylor Players Coming Again
The Taylor players, who were very well received in Kendrick last winter are returning for three nights, starting January 9. The company, which includes many of the old favorites who were here last winter, is reputed to be better than ever this season. Some new vaudeville acts are carried and the acting cast is one of the best ever assembled by Mr. Taylor.
Doug Ankney is featured as the leading man. Mr. Ankney is well known throughout Idaho, as he was featured with a company at Boise for two seasons. Miss Leona Taylor returns as leading lady and Ferris Taylor as comedian.

Delightful Party at Ed. Long Home
The Edgar Long home in Kendrick was the scene of a very delightful Christmas season bridge party last Monday night, December 29, when sixteen gathered about the bridge tables for an evening of pleasure. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Morehead, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ramey, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rider, Silvie Cook and Rowena Ramey and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Long. A very pleasing midnight luncheon was served by the hostess. Dr. and Mrs. O. J. Morehead won the family prize.

Rather Late To Change Name
And now poor Sacajawea, or Sacajawea, is not allowed to rest after all the wonderful things she did while here on earth. The United States Geographic board has decided that her name should be spelled "Sacajawea" instead of Sacajawea, or in other words, the "j" should be changed to a "g". Well, what's in a name—and what's the difference, anyway? But it is peculiar how some of these big guys decided to change history after it has been on hand for hundreds of years. Not so long ago some of the would-be historians discovered that George Washington did not discover America, and someone else discovered that he was not an abstainer from strong drink, and some other busy-body that he gambled.
Oh, well, perhaps they (Sacajawea and George) will rest just as well as if the matter hadn't been brought up by someone who wanted to get in print. Just like the judge who a week or so ago decided that the 18th Amendment was unconstitutional. This judge had never been heard of outside of his small confines until he made his now famous decision, but now he is nationally known.

SEASONAL DULLNESS PREVAILS IN GRAIN MARKET
of the Market, Dec. 28 No. 1 dark northern was quoted at Minneapolis at the May price to 3c under. This included all proteins from 12 per cent up. May wheat held practically unchanged and closed Dec. 26 at 72½c to 73c.
Pacific Coast markets continued dull. With cash wheat being held above an export basis at Portland and Seattle, no export business was possible. Domestic mill demand was slow with mills confining their purchases to immediate requirements. Prices on both cash and nearby futures were practically unchanged. Farmers were selling rather freely but stocks at interior warehouses remained large. At the close of the market Dec. 26 No. 1 western white sacked was quoted at Seattle at 68c western red and hard winter at 65c and bluestem at 72c per bushel. Local No. 1 hard winter, 14 per cent protein, sacked, was quoted at 71c and the same quality in bulk from Montana at 75c per bushel. Local No. 1 dark northern spring with 14 per cent protein, sacked, was quoted at 71c and the same quality in bulk from Montana at 75c per bushel. No. 1 hard white bluestem variety was quoted at Portland at 71c, soft and western white at 67½c, hard winter, northern spring and western red at 64½c per bushel, sacked. No. 1 dark northern spring, 14 per cent protein, in bulk, from Montana was quoted at 77c per bushel.

California wheat markets were very quiet and prices held unchanged during the week. Trading at San Francisco was almost entirely in northern wheat, which was available at relatively lower prices than those at which California growers were willing to sell. No. 2 soft and western white wheats were offered from Washington and Oregon at $1.30 to $1.32½, on dock, San Francisco, with California growers asking $1.20 to $1.30 per 100 at Sacramento Valley warehouses for No. 1 hard white and No. 1 soft white, or $1.45 to $1.55 delivered at San Francisco. Sample grades of washed wheat from the north were offered at $1.27½, dock, San Francisco, or $1.35 delivered Petaluma. Inter-mountain states were offering No. 2 dark hard winter at $1.45 to $1.55 in bulk, delivered California points. Mills were reported purchasing moderate amounts of this wheat for blending purposes. California No. 1 hard white and No. 1 soft white were quoted at San Francisco Dec. 26 at $1.40 to $1.45 per 100.
Demand continued dull at Los Angeles, largely as a result of the holiday and inventory period. Current demand for feed wheat was being supplied mostly from Washington and region by water. Local mills were using some of this wheat for milling purposes. This grain was selling near $1.40 per hundred, delivered Los Angeles. Some Utah and Idaho wheat was being taken by mills for blending purposes. No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Los Angeles at $1.45 to $1.50, and No. 2 dark hard winter at $1.50 to $1.55 per 100 in bulk. No. 1 hard white wheat sacked was quoted at $1.45 to $1.50, and No. 1 western white at $1.40 to $1.45 per 100.

Gun Club Froze Up
The regular shoot of the Kendrick Gun Club, scheduled for Sunday at 10 a. m. almost went begging, for only four members showed up to shoot, they being Ed. Deobald, Joe Gardner, Marvin Long and George Barnum. There wasn't even an extra man to pull the trap or do the scoring, so the "tough ones" had to shoot in squads of two, with the following results on a 25 bird basis:
Joe Gardner 19
Ed. Deobald 17
M. Long 9
Geo. Barnum 7
It has not been decided when the next regular shoot will be held, but it is presumed not until the weather moderates, as it seems impossible to get enough men out.
However, the traps are open to the use of members at any time and there is a possibility of a shoot on New Year's Day or the Sunday following, if enough wish it.

Recovering From Wreck
Fred Flaig, St. Maries, who was hurt in a wreck two weeks ago last Sunday, when the truck he was driving was struck by a fast passenger train into Spokane, is getting along very nicely. He was taken to the Deaconess hospital where an examination showed a broken jaw, a broken nose and deep cuts about the face and head.
He was operated upon Christmas Day and is rapidly improving. The man riding with him was instantly killed.

Little Flashes of This and That

Vol. 1. Kendrick, Idaho, December 19, 1930 No. 28

Published in the interests of the People of the Entire Potlatch Country by the Kendrick Hardware Company, Harold Thomas, Editor.

GREETINGS AND BEST WISHES TO EVERYONE

Ho, hum! Well folks, here it is 1931. We can't say that feel any different this year than we did last, though the calendar says we are older. Well, never saw a bunch of people so intent to put the price of hardware, in Kendrick still lower, and don't forget, 5% off for cash.

We note that the gun club was frozen up Sunday and only four case-hardened shooters on the job, well, we were almost froze up ourselves.

Jim—Well what happened to McTavish?

George Wright—Ed. Deobald told him he could get his pants pressed free by letting a steam-roller run over them.

Jim—Why did that kill him?
 George—Ed. forgot to tell him to take them off.

Sure that Scotchman was close, but our hardware prices are closer. Just think, a dozen chip-proof, tinted water glasses for only 89c and a set of six cups and saucers, white, for only 57c. What more could anyone ask?

We note where Rolla Clark of St. Louis has made his living for five years by eating tacks, glass and razor blades. Well, we have the first and last mentioned, but who the heck wants to eat 'em.

Did you break that axe handle the other morning? Well, never mind, we have lots of them and they are priced right.

What did you say? Lamps, electric or kerosene? Yes, we have both and believe me they are dandys.

We note where a man clorformed a woman in England and cut off her hair. Well, he couldn't have been using a pair of scissors sold by us or the job would have been so slick as to avoid comment.

Nails, hammers, screws, hatchets, axes, wedges, chisels, hammers, saws, planes, jack-knives, every sort of edged tool right here at this store, the "Store of Exceptional Service".

Mrs. Hazel West is quite ill this week with a very severe cold on her lungs.

Mrs. Veda Butler and Mrs. Jesse Erlwine were callers at the Wm. Groseclose home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. H. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Erlwine and Ray Butler went to Cedar Creek Tuesday to visit at the home of Mrs. Butler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hunt.

The Christmas Workers Society reorganized Sunday evening, elected new officers for the coming year, and instead of one acre for missionary potatoes as they had last year, they have decided to plant three acres this year. L. Clamin and Clarence Clamin each donated an acre ground and Wm. Groseclose an ac

In Need of Repairs

Some people who claim to have minds ought to close up for a 1 for repairs.—Altouna Mirror.
