IOWA UNIVERSITY WANTS METEOR INFORMATION

The following communication has been received by the Gazette from the University of Iowa regarding the meteor that was seen in this part of the country on Christmas eve, asking for information regarding the phenomena:

"Christmas eve at about 9:45 p. m. a brilliant meteor fell in northern Idaho, which according to newspaper reports was seen by hundreds in Spokane, two hundred miles away. The detonations or explosions accompanying the fall were pronounced at Lewiston, Bovill, Orofino, Troy, Elk River, Moscow, Orchards, Juliaetta and Kendrick, Idaho. It is well established that with a clear horizon and proper weather conditions a brilliant meteor may be seen at as great a distance as four hundred miles, and it should attract the attention of anyone out of doors at a distance as great as three hundred miles.

"To compute the path of this meteor through the atmosphere and derive the orbit in which it was traveling in outer space, we would appreciate receiving letters from persons who saw this meteor at any point within the area of its visibility. Such letters should give the direction in which the meteor was seen, its approximate path across the sky, and other information which the observer believes of interest. As meteors, even when stones care dropped to the earth, ordinarily become invisible at an altitude of perhaps fifteen miles, it is necessary to have additional reports from the community in which detonations were heard. Residents of this community, especially those who were out of doors, can give the direction of the point from which the sound of the first explosion appeared to come and the direction towards which the following rumble appeared to roll away. If a sufficient number of persons in this district furnish this information it will probably be possible to locate for purposes of search the point where meteorites fell if any such reached the surface of the earth, and from the newspaper accounts of the violence of the detonations it appears probable that some stones did reach the surface of the earth.

"We would appreciate it, therefore, if you would publish a note requesting that any of your readers who saw the meteor or heard it, write the Midwest Meteor Association, Iowa City, Iowa, giving the information they have."

Rural Patrons Are Pleased

Patrons of the two rural routes going out of Kendrick are very much pleased over the fact that they are getting "today's mail today" out of the Kendrick postoffice, whereas in the past they have not been getting their mail during the winter months until it was a day old.

Service is always the dominant note with Uncle Sam and the local rural carriers are being given due credit for their part in the present satisfactory delivery of the rural mail. The rural people are aware that it sometimes works a hardship on the carriers, but they want them to understand that they are duly appreciative of their efforts and they are hoping that the time is not far distant when post roads will be given the proper attention by both local districts and the federal government.

Was Other Bencscotter

A telephone call to the Gazette office the other day brought the startling information that the Gazette had tried to shift the parentage of a youngster from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bencscotter to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bencscotter last October, when a baby girl came to the Walter Bencscotter home to reside permanently.

It was thought such a good joke at the time that the error was not called to our attention until just the other day. We do not plead guilty, for we had no way of knowing why, by the name given us by the attending physician.

We are glad to get the young lady's parentage straightened out before she is old enough to have a home of her own, for it would be a terrible handicap to know just who her parents are. We humbly beg the young lady's pardon, but still maintain it was not our fault.

Has Recovered From Illness

Mrs. Fred Crocker, who has been ill for the past few weeks, has recovered sufficiently to be able to be out again.

Farmers Join Tax League

Farmers of Troy and vicinity, at a meeting with representatives of the Latah County Taxpayers' league, voted to join the county organization last week. The meeting passed unanimously a resolution against continuing the office of the Latah county agent. Twenty-six new members were taken into the league.

K. D. INGLE NEW KENDRICK STATE BANK PRESIDENT

At the annual meeting for election of directors and officers of the Kendrick State Bank, held on Tuesday of this week, K. D. Ingle was elected president to succeed Martin Thomas, who passed away some months ago. Other officers elected are: John Schwarz, vice-president; H. B. Thompson, cashier and E. H. Emery, assistant cashier. The board of directors consists of K. D. Ingle, John Schwarz, Wm. A. Watts, Mrs. Kate Galloway and H. B. Thompson.

Martin Thomas had been president of the bank since its reorganization in 1912 and had followed a policy that made for the solidity of that institution. Mr. Ingle had been vice-president of the bank for many years and is the only member of the board of directors that has been identified with the bank since its reorganization. The bank has prospered since its reorganization and Mr. Thompson states they have had a very satisfactory year, regardless of the depression that has hampered practically every business institution in the United States. The Kendrick State Bank is considered one of the strong banks of the Northwest.

Take Trip to Winchester

Sunday, January 18, six members of the Kendrick Gun Club drove to Winchester, at the invitation of that club, to take part in their regular Sunday shoot. Those taking the trip were: E. A. Deobald, Frank Rider, Marvin Long, Joe Gardner, Ira Bolton and W. L. McCreary.

The scores turned in at that club were very good considering the length of time that this club has been in operation. The three high scores were: Frank Rider 22, Joe Gardner 22 and E. A. Deobald 21. The scores of the others ranging from 17 birds, down, all being based on 25 birds.

The Winchester Gun Club proved to be ideal hosts and a wonderful time was reported by everyone. Sunday, January 25, is to be an open shoot at the Kendrick club, that is, everyone, whether a member or not, is invited to come down and shoot.

It is understood that a five-man squad has been arranged on one of the ridges and has challenged the high five men of the Kendrick club for a match. It is expected that this match will be shot Sunday, weather permitting.

Notice: All shooting starts at 10 o'clock on the Onstott place, just west of town. Be on hand if you wish to shoot.

County Made Weed District

By order of the Latah county commissioners, in session at Moscow, the entire county was created into a weed district. The order, in compliance with state law, makes eradication of certain noxious weeds, including Jim Hill mustard, bindweed, Canada thistle and fan weed compulsory. If property owners do not eradicate weeds on their own property, the work will be done at county expense and charged on the tax rolls. The state law provides a penalty of $150 for property owners who fail to comply with its provisions and refuse to let the commissioners have the work done.

An opinion given the county commissioners by County Attorney Abe Goff today rules that the state law makes it mandatory that all printing for county offices be done in the county if possible. The decision was given at the commissioner's request, to aid them interpret the state law dealing with official county printing.

WHEAT MARKET STEADY— ALMOST NO CHANGES

Domestic wheat markets strengthened somewhat early in the week ending January 17, under the influence of unfavorable crop reports from parts of the winter wheat belt and some improvement in milling demand.

Continued weakness in the foreign market situation, however, and lack of a broad outlet for the increased offerings of cash grain, exercised a weakening influence toward the close of the week and much of the grain was lost, according to the weekly market review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The corn market lost much of the recent advance as the result of continued limited demand for current receipts. Oats, barley and rye held about unchanged, but receipts were not large and about equal to trade needs. The flax market was dull, but the small arrivals were readily taken by crushers.

The general wheat market situation remained weak, with increased offerings of new wheat from Argentina and Australia competing with Canadian and Russian wheat in European markets. World shipments during the week totaled 13,745,000 bushels, of which 2,400,000 bushels were from Argentina, 4,056,000 bushels from Australia and 5,441,000 bushels from North America, principally from Canada. Based on official estimates of crops, stocks of wheat in the southern hemisphere available for export or carryover this season, are about 170,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago. Stocks of wheat available for export or carryover, January 1 were around 50,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago. Supplies in Russia are apparently considerably larger than at this time last season, although there are no definite statistics as to the amount that still remains for export. The Russian wheat crop was reported around 45,000,000 bushels larger than the 1929 crop, and Russian shipments to date have totaled approximately 75,000,000 bushels, compared with no shipments during the corresponding period last year. European port stocks at the first of January were more than double those of a year ago, mainly as a result of an accumulation of Russian wheat, large quantities of which were shipped unsold and have not yet moved into consuming channels.

Crop conditions are becoming an increasingly important factor in the market situation. Lack of snow covering over most of the domestic winter wheat belt and deficiency of moisture in some areas in the eastern part of the belt, have caused apprehension relative to the condition of the crop, but because of good root development very little damage has been reported to date in the main part of the belt. European wheat crops have for the most part been protected with good snow coverings and conditions are generally satisfactory, except in a few local areas where some frost damage has been reported. The condition of the Indian crop is not favorable, as the result of deficient moisture during the monsoon season in important producing districts. North African crops have been improved by recent rains.

Domestic cash wheat markets held generally steady during the week. The maintenance of cash prices well above new crop futures and current export bids brought out increased offerings. Receipts at the principal winter markets totaled 2,909 cars, an increase of about 500 cars over the previous week and 1,125 cars over the corresponding week last season. Mill elevators, feed manufacturers and industries all took moderate amounts, but a large percentage of the arrivals at Kansas City went into storage.

Around 500,000 bushels of hard winter wheat was sold by Kansas City elevators to Chicago, which will somewhat relieve the elevator space situation at the former market. Prices held fairly steady, with 12½ per cent portein No. 2 hard winter quoted at 79c to 69½c and 13 per cent at 70c to 71c per bushel. Fairly large sales of ordinary protein wheat to Chicago were also reported from Omaha. Local mills were taking sufficient wheat for immediate needs. No. 2 hard winter, ordinary protein, was quoted in that market at 68c per bushel, and 11½ per cent at 69c per bushel. No. 1 hard winter was quoted at Fort Worth or delivered Texas common points or Galveston export rate at 79½c to 80c per bushel. Mills and elevators were fairly active buyers.

Mrs. Cox was formerly Miss Hazel Stanton and was employed in the Kendrick postoffice for several years.

Lewis, assistant general manager in charge of sales. Mr. Lewis states further that the Washington Water Power Company took over the Lewiston territory from the Inland Power and Light company during 1930, and this change of rates makes all the Washington Water Power Company's rates outside of Spokane the same, from Oroville, Washington at the northwestern point of the system to Grangeville, Idaho, its southeastern point.

Why The Delay?
We have been wondering just why it is that so much red tape has to be reeled off at Washington, when thousands of our own people are in dire need of the necessities of life in the famine-stricken central and semi-southern states.
When there is a famine in China or an earthquake in Japan, aid is forthcoming from our Uncle Samuel immediately. He does not wait for the untying of red tape, but immediately clips the purse strings and allows untold millions to roll out.
It would seem that a little of the same rule should be applied to our own people in a case of this kind.
Just why, when Uncle Sam owns millions of bushels of wheat, a little of that wheat has not been shipped the sufferers is too deep for our understanding. Apparently more tape.

WHEAT MARKET STEADY—ALMOST NO CHANGES

Denver at 49c to 52c per bushel, with offerings slightly higher than for the previous week.
Soft winter wheat markets were about unchanged, with milling inquiry scattered and of small volume. Illinois mills were reported obtaining sufficient wheat locally and south-eastern mills were taking only small amounts of grain at St. Louis. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted in that market January 16 at 81c per bushel. No. 1 soft red winter was quoted at Kansas City at 74c per bushel. Elevators were taking the very light offerings at Cincinnati to replace depleted stocks. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted in that market at 81½c per bushel. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted at Chicago at 81c to 81½c, compared with 80½c for No. 2 hard winter.
Receipts of spring wheat continued moderately large, running well ahead of the same period a year ago at Minneapolis. Demand held fairly good with mills and elevators taking current arrivals. Premiums held about unchanged, with No. 1 dark northern quoted at Minneapolis January 16 at 3c under to 1c over the May price, which closed at 77½c on that date.
Pacific Coast wheat markets were steady, but trading was of small volume. Domestic prices were held practically unchanged, but well above export prices and no new export business was reported. A ship loading at Portland for the United Kingdom was said to be taking the last wheat booked for export so far this season. The movement of wheat from interior elevators to terminals continued rather large, but outside of a moderate domestic milling demand, the remainder of this grain was reported going into storage. Prices at both Portland and Seattle were not materially changed during the week. Western white wheat was quoted on January 16 at Seattle at 68c, western red and hard winter at 65c, all sacked. 14 per cent protein local hard winter sacked was quoted at 70c and the same quality in bulk from Montana at 75c per bushel. 14 per cent protein local dark northern spring sacked sold at 70c and the same in bulk from Montana at 76c. Big Bend Bluestem sacked was quoted at 70c per bushel on a basis of No. 1 grade. Big Bend bluestem No. 1 hard white was quoted at Portland at 70c, soft and western white at 67½c and hard winter, northern spring and western red at 64½c per bushel, sacked.

California wheat markets held very steady, with prices mostly unchanged. Trading in California wheat continued light with growers asking prices well above quotations on Northern wheat. No. 2 soft and western white wheat was offered from Washington and Oregon at $1.25 to $1.28 sacked, delivered docks San Francisco, while $1.40 to $1.50 was being asked by growers for No. 1 hard white and No. 1 soft white, Sacramento Valley wheat delivered in San Francisco. Inter-mountain wheat was quoted at $1.40 to $1.45 per 100 in bulk, delivered California points for No. 1 dark hard winter, while No. 1 dark northern spring, 14 per cent protein wheat from Montana was quoted at $1.43 per 100 delivered docks San Francisco.
Mills were filling their requirements principally from the northern wheat. The demand for feed wheat has been restricted by low prices on poultry products and cheaper barley and mill feeds.
Washed sample grades of northern wheat were being taken at $1.32½ per 100 delivered at Petaluma. A steady demand prevailed at Los Angeles for limited amounts for immediate requirements. Current milling needs were being supplied principally from Utah, Idaho and the Pacific northwest.

The Flashlight

Little Flashes of This and That
Vol. 1. Kendrick, Idaho, January 16, 1931 No. 32

Published in the Interests of the People of the Entire Potlatch Country by the Kendrick Hardware Company, Harold Thomas, Editor.

Radio season is on full blast these days. Come in and get some new tubes, don't miss programs with those old ones.

"Woman, dat ain't white mule in dat bottle--dat am Pluto water. Yo' ain' gwine drink dat, am yo'?"

Farmer: "I miss the old cuspidor since it's gone."
Jim: "You missed it before. That's why it's gone."

"Big Bby, I ain' gwine do nothin' else."
"Yas, yo' is honey; 'deed yo' is!"

Other things are missed here too, but chief among them is the prices we used to get. Come in and see how low they are today.

Go over to your neighbors and see his Alladdin lamp. Note its clear, brilliant light. Then come in and let us show you how cheap they are to own.

Water glasses, pretty ones, with matching beverage glasses, at just 89c per dozen. And cups and saucers, yes sir, at 57c the set of six.

Let us fix you up with edged tools for your farm and wood work. Axes, wedges, saws, handles of all kinds, pitchforks, shovels, and what you will.

Ever try one of our electric light globes? Note its clear shadowless light. Customers say they last longer, too.

Say--This warm weather reminds us that spring is on the way. And we want to say right here that we are going to have one of the finest assortments of garden and lawn seeds you ever saw.

Take home that percolator, that coffee pot, that kettle or tea pot that your wife has been wanting so long. They cost so little.

Bill McCreary says the Winchester Gun Club is a wonderful host, but has nothing to say about his score.

See that beautiful cream and green enamel ware we are showing. It will delight you.

Need a new tube for the old set? Or for the old car? Come in, we have both!

Glorious Winter Weather

We read of the delights and the summery temperature of California and the coast, but really, what finer winter weather could one ask than that we are having these days. Perhaps the thermometer drops to the freezing point at night, but the sun shines and its lovely and warm out during the day. We say no one can wish for a finer winter to date.
