"Unrestrained Greed" a Cause

As to the real cause of the industrial confusion, Senator James Couzens of Michigan, wealthiest member of the upper house of congress, declares it to be "unrestrained greed." Capitalists control, he asserts, 90 per cent of the nation's wealth and are endeavoring to get the other ten per cent. Naturally they are meeting with opposition and the result is industrial depression. The senator warns capitalists that they must put their house in order or "the people will do it for them."

He says, in substance, that their greed to secure the other ten per cent is likely to cause them to lose the 90 per cent which they now control.

KENDRICK ELECTION WAS VERY QUIET AFFAIR

Contrary to the expectations of some, at least, the village election, held Tuesday from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m., was not as lively as had been expected. There was but one ticket in the field—at least only one was filed and printed on the ballots. Of course there were a few scattering ballots, cast for various citizens whom the voter thought might make better village councilmen than some of those on the ticket, and voted his convictions accordingly—and that is as it should be. No matter, whether a name is printed on the ballot or not, it is just as valid as if it headed the list of candidates on the printed form.

The election was harmonious in every way. There were 110 ballots cast out of a registration of 131, which gave a total far above the average usually cast at a village election, showing that the residents of Kendrick are interested in our little city—and that is as it should be—and they cast their ballots accordingly, some for one and some for another, but all presumably voting their choice.

E. A. (Eddie) Deobald led the list by receiving 103 votes out of the 110 ballots cast. The ticket as printed on the official ballot was elected.

The voting gave the following results:
E. A. Deobald ..... 103
Silvie Cook ..... 91
Dr. G. W. McKeever ..... 86

Major Butler To Oregon

Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, storm center of the marines, is coming to Idaho's neighboring state, Oregon!

If the fiery marine's past can be taken as an indication, the coast state is due some front page publicity, whether or not the state-wide police force which the general will assist in organizing, proves a success.

The State of Oregon requested the loan of the noted marine officer from the federal government as a consultant in the organization of a state-wide policing body to deal with crime. The request was granted and Butler is expected to arrive at Salem shortly.

Press reports say that the general, for whose utterances Mussolini demanded a formal apology from the United States, proposes to establish in Oregon a police force composed of young and unmarried men whose authority does not stop at city limits but covers the entire state and who are not concerned with only one division of crime but with all crime. The general specifies that the personnel of the force should be protected from political pressure.

Numerous other states in the west are reported to be watching Oregon's experiment with interest. It is asserted that this type of policing is less expensive than that now generally employed.

Kendrick Drops Game

The second game played by Kendrick, and the first of the real series, was played on the local diamond last Sunday with Potlatch, they winning to the tune of 12 to 6.

Potlatch scored two runs in the first inning, five in the third inning, and making various other scattered runs for a total of twelve tallies.

Kendrick made two scores in the first inning, one score in the second and various other runs scattered in the innings for a total of six.

The whole game was loosely played, errors being numerous on both sides.

Cook and Davis started as batteriers for Kendrick, Cook being relieved by Dammarell in the third.

Any citizen who gets three average meals a day and is able to sleep, has a lot to be thankful for.

JUNIOR PROM EXCEPTI- TIONALLY PLEASING

The Junior Prom, given by the Junior class of the Kendrick high school at the school gymnasium last Friday evening, proved to be one of the high lights, if not the high light, of the winter social season, which is fast drawing to a close.

The huge new gymnasium was a bower of loveliness and truly a delight to the eye, from the big flood lights to the floor it was decorated to a queen's taste. The children, under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Jarvis, had strung wires the full length of the big building, three overhead and one across each side and one down each end of the room, across these crepe paper in pink, yellow and white streamers, was looped and fastened to the floor, giving the whole an impression of a fairy bower or of another large, softly lighted room. Through the walls thus formed doors in the shape of arches were formed, permitting one to go to the seats, arranged along the walls.

The stage, on which was seated the seven-piece orchestra, was also decorated to perfection, and the whole surmounted in the front by a large gold '32 suspended from the ceiling.

The prom opened with a receiving line consisting of members of the school board, their wives and the faculty and junior class greeting all comers and welcoming them as their guests. The receiving line and get-together lasting from 8:30 until 9:00 p. m., promptly at the stroke of nine the dancing started.

The orchestra was indeed a splendid one, from whence it came or its name, the writer has not learned, but every dancer appreciated the fact that it was a good one and likewise played pieces in accordance with the occasion.

Dainty programs were furnished every guest and punch was likewise served to everyone who cared to partake. The whole affair was indeed a delightful one and everyone feels that the Junior class and Mrs. Nancy Jarvis, class advisor, are indeed to be congratulated on the wonderful evening given by them to the public.

Two Millions to Idaho Vets

More than two millions dollars have been distributed to Idaho World War veterans on their adjusted service certificates, commonly called bonus by the Veterans Administration at Boise, according to C. H. Hudelson, manager. Although over 5000 applications for loans have been received at the Boise office, the present loan work is entirely current.

Since March 1, 1931, when congress passed legislation allowing World War veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their bonus certificates, the Idaho office at Boise has been deluged with applications. Preference was given to those veterans suffering from illness or extreme need, Hudelson reported.

The total amount paid out on adjusted service certificates up to April 24, 1931, was $2,065,752.72.

Lack of proper execution of notes has caused considerable delay in some instances, these notes having to be returned to the applicants for correction. Where a loan has not been made previously, Hudelson explained, the service certificate must accompany the application.

Veterans desiring to secure loans on their certificates at this time are assured of prompt action. Applications should be sent to the office of the Bureau or to the bank holding the certificate.

Thirty-five "Wet" Cases

Thirty-five defendants, arrested since December by Federal Prohibition Agents Carl B. Madsen and O. R. Williams, with the cooperation of county and city officers of the five northern Idaho counties, will have their cases presented to the grand jury in the United States district court when it convenes at Moscow May 11. They are charged with violating the Volstead act in several phases, including conspiracy, manufacture, possession and sale of intoxicants; transportation of liquor and failure to pay excise tax on the manufacture and sale of intoxicants.

Besides the 35, it is expected that several secret indictments will be returned by the grand jury.

Ship Much Wheat

The Vollmer-Clearwater company this week were loading and shipping out some 50 cars of wheat from their Kendrick warehouse.

MAGPIE CONTESTANTS BRINGING IN TROPHIES

The boys taking part in the magpie contest seem to be following the general trend of the times—consolidation. Several of the boys have teamed up and are bringing in their "finds" and receiving credit jointly, instead of singly. This, of course, will give the boys a better opportunity of getting first prize, which they may be able to divide to advantage.

It is not yet known just what the Izaak Walton league of Moscow will give for a prize, but it will undoubtedly be something worth working for, and it begins to look as though every contestant will get a prize, in addition to the one cent a head it is hoped to get from the state game department as a bounty.

The Kendrick Commercial club will give two cash prizes—$5.00 and $3.00. N. B. Long & Sons have donated a pair of tennis shoes (which may be exchanged for the right size).

Geo. P. Barnum will give a jointed bamboo fishing rod.

The Kendrick Gun club will give some kind of a prize that will be suitable for a boy.

It might be added here that prizes will be gladly received from anyone who might care to donate something that would encourage and be appreciated by a boy, for this work. It is something that every sportsman should be interested in.

The contest will run until Monday, June 1, and the contestants will be entertained at a banquet by the Kendrick Commercial club on Monday evening, June 8.

The standing of the contestants is as follows:

Bolon, Reid and Reid	354
Dammarell and Ramey	173
Emery and Hartung	157
Charley Candler	85
Bud Carlson	58

Takes Big Tree To Make Cord

How big a tree would it take to make a cord of the fuelwood that is being fed to the old fireplace this winter? This is one of the questions the Forest Service of the United States department of agriculture recently was called upon to answer.

A standard cord, the Forest Service states, is a pile of wood four feet wide, four feet high and eight feet long. This equals 128 cubic feet. But there are many different laws and customs in various states and regions governing the amount of wood in a cord, and the Forest Service is recommending the adoption of uniform laws and terminology in this regard. A closely piled cord of wood has 20 to 30 per cent of air space in it, and loosely piled or ooked wood has somewhat more. Consequently, in customary practice a closely piled, well settled rick of the regular 4x4x8 feet size with a few inches thrown in for settling, contains about 90 cubic feet of solid wood.

A cord of wood might be the equivalent of a hardwood tree some 50 feet in height, and about 20 inches thick at the stump. If the main trunk is 30 feet high, 20 inches thick at the stump, and 12 inches thick at the top, its volume will be about 60 cubic feet. The branches of a well-formed hardwood tree, up to where they are about two inches thick, may have about half the volume of the trunk, or some 30 cubic feet, though there is great variation. So the tree will have about 90 cubic feet of wood, equivalent to 128 cubic feet of "rick" or one cord. Pine trees may yield 90 per cent of their volume in the trunk.

For those who may be conscience stricken at burning up such a good-sized tree in the fireplace, the Forest Service points out that more and more people are learning to cut only the crooked, diseased, and malformed trees, and the sound dead trees, for fuelwood, leaving the straight fast-growing trees for other uses.

And it is better, says the Forest Service, for a tree to give useful service in someone's fireplace than to go up in smoke to no purpose as the result of a forest fire.

Funeral of Emery Jenks

Funeral services were held at the Vassar chapel, Lewiston, Sunday last for Emery Jenks, who passed away at his home in Lewiston the latter part of last week, with Rev. T. M. Burlinson officiating. The Odd Fellows had charge of the service and interment was made in Normal Hill cemetery.

Mr. Jenks was well known by the old-timers of the Kendrick community, having formerly been a resident of the Cedar creek section for many years.

Junior League Entertainment

The Junior League entertainment given in the Methodist church Wednesday evening, under the direction of Miss Teachman, was a decided success.

The way the children took their parts was indeed enough to make any parent proud of them, and the character of the plays given were of the highest teachings of Christian principles of living.

No doubt the lessons brought out in these plays will be an influence for good in the lives of those who participated.

The Missionary Dolly play will be repeated Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, by request. No admission will be charged. Everyone cordially invited.

KENDRICK SHIPS 686 CARS LOCAL PRODUCTS IN 1930

Under date of April 18, an article appeared in the Lewiston Tribune regarding Troy, "The Best Little Town on Earth," among other things as a shipping point.

We do not wish to take issue with the author of the article, nor with the busy little city of Troy, but for the sake of comparison as a shipping point, we would like to give a few figures on shipping regarding our own little city of Kendrick.

We will admit, without argument, that Troy received more car loads of material and freight of various kinds than did Kendrick, since January 1, 1931. They report an out shipment of 130 cars of various products since January 1, 1931, beans appearing first on the list.

Kendrick has shipped 114 cars of various products during the time mentioned, 17 cars of which were beans—15 cars of these going to Troy. They were presumably re-shipped from Troy, but that being the case, they did not originate in Kendrick. Taking the 15 cars of beans that went out of Kendrick from the original figures given, would make 115 cars shipped from Kendrick that originated there, giving them one more car than Kendrick, from January 1, 1931, to April 18, 1931.

But granting that Troy did ship more cars during this period than did Kendrick, we would like to invite comparison for the year 1930. Kendrick shipped 686 cars of various local products during the year 1930, divided as follows: Wheat, 288 cars; lumber, 109 cars; logs, 102 cars; beans, 89 cars; poles, 44 cars; livestock, 16 cars; oats, 14 cars; barley, 12 cars; wood, 10 cars; posts, 2 cars.

American Ridge School Closes

The closing day of the American Ridge school, Miss Mildred Fuqua, teacher, was celebrated on Saturday, April 25, with a big community dinner and good time. The tables were loaded down with all kinds of good eats, including cakes, from nut to angel-food—the latter baked by Ben Callison, said to be famous in the culinary art—and there were three big freezers of ice cream and other delicacies. It was surely a pleasant day for all.

After inspecting the splendid work done by pupils and teacher, all departed for their homes, glad to have been there.

Those taking part in the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts and son Ernest, Ben and Nora Callison, Mr. and Mrs. Mattoon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Goldner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benschotter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Haven and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benschotter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dorendorf and family, Mrs. John Woody, sons and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dougherty, Mrs. Dougharty and son Lawrence of Juliaetta, Mr. and Mrs. Carol Cox and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen, Mrs. Sidney Dix, Mrs. Andy Cox and little son, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ameling and son, Mrs. M. A. Deobald, Mrs. Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Warner May and son, Carl Emery from Kendrick—nearly 60 in all being present.

By George, He Needed It!

A superstitious old gentleman who believed in the old saying, "See a pin, pick it up, and all day you'll have good luck," one day saw a pin on the pavement. Bending down to pick it up, his hat fell off and rolled into the gutter, his eye-glasses fell and broke on the pavement, his suspenders gave way, he burst the buttonhole in the back of his shirt collar—but he got the pin!

WHEAT MARKETS WEAK —FEED GRAINS LOWER

Domestic grain markets were unsettled with prices mostly lower at the close of the week, ending April 25, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Generally favorable prospects for winter wheat, both in the United States and Europe, together with some slackening in export demand, under the influence of continued unfavorable business conditions in deficit areas, where the principal weakening factors in the wheat markets, increased offerings of feed grains, with no corresponding enlargement in the outlet, caused sharp declines in corn and oats prices. Barley and flax were in good demand and prices were generally unchanged from a week ago. Rye was weaker with wheat.

Crop conditions continued to be an important factor in the wheat market. Winter wheat in the United States is making rapid growth and prospects are promising at this time. Conditions of winter grain crops in Europe continue favorable. Official reports for Austria, Germany, Poland, and Czechoslovakia, show winter wheat average or above, although somewhat below conditions of a year ago. Unseasonably cold weather in northwestern Europe and in some parts of Lower Danubian countries, has threatened crop damage, but warmer weather with beneficial rains is now reported in countries of Lower Danube. Prospects in Spain are still favorable, although moisture is needed in parts of the southern district. Conditions in France have improved and the outlook in Italy continues satisfactory. North American wheat is beginning to head out in early districts and conditions are generally favorable, except in some local areas, where moisture is needed.

Prospects for spring wheat are now very uncertain. Seeding in the United States is finished in most sections of South Dakota, southern Minnesota and southern North Dakota, and is well started in more northern districts. Most districts have sufficient moisture for germination and to care for crops for two or three weeks, but there is still a deficiency in subsoil moisture in almost all sections. Generous and timely rains during the growing season will be necessary for a good crop. Seeding in Canada is much later than a year ago, with trade advices indicating only about 25% of the Manitoba acreage seeded, as compared with the official estimate of 73% at the end of April, 1930, and 10% in Alberta and Saskatchewan, as compared with 64% and 61%, respectively, a year ago. It is still early in the season, however, and although trade advices indicate some reduction in acreage, much will depend upon weather conditions in Canada. Only 31% of the crop had been seeded in Manitoba, 8% in Saskatchewan and 6% in Alberta at the end of April. Subsoil moisture during the year however, was more plentiful than at the present time, but the month of May was generally dry and it was not until the last of May and during June that seasonal rains provided moisture which resulted in an average yield of 23.5 bushels per acre and the largest crop on record.

Seeding wheat in Russia has been delayed by cold, wet weather, although with improvement in cultural methods during the past few years, the late season may not be so important a factor in determining the final output as in former years. The Indian wheat crop is now officially forecast at 346,827,000 bushels, or about 40,000,000 bushels below the record production of last year. Stocks of old wheat in India, however, are reported to be quite substantial and Indian wheat supplies for the current season appear to be only moderately less than a year ago. The Indian government has recently placed an import duty of 39% per bushel on what to assist producers to dispose of their surplus within their own country and exports of Indian wheat will probably be unimportant this season. Choice white Karachi wheat however, has recently been offered in English markets at 80c per bushel. This compares with sales at London during the week of No. 1 Manitoba from Canada at 80c, 63-lb. Argentine Rosafe at 65% and sales of Australian wheat afloat at Liverpool at 65% per bushel.

Domestic cash wheat markets weakened slightly along with futures. Receipts of winter wheat at the principal southwestern markets continued of

He's Here!

Al Jolson, the greatest dark-faced boy that ever made the talking and singing screen, is to be at the Audian Theatre this week for the first time.

This picture, "Big Boy," is his latest production, in which he plays the role of a lovable jockey. There is a supporting cast which includes Claudia Campbell, Lloyd Hughes, Lew Harvey, Colin Campbell, Noah Beery and others. The picture is full of fun, romance and comedy, and last, but not least, numerous songs, which Al Jolson sings with that musical voice of his that brought him to stardom in his other great pictures, such as "Mammy."

This picture was shown in Lewiston a few days ago and the report is to the effect that it is the best picture that Jolson has ever made. It is also said to contain some of the best music that has ever been in any picture on the screen.

Be sure to see this picture as there is no doubt but that you will laugh at it, feel romantic with it, and hum the music after it. In fact, it just has "It."

FUNDS FOR HOMES SUPPLIED BY BANKS

By ROME C. STEPHENSON
President American Bankers Association

A LARGE portion of the funds required in home building always has been furnished by banks. They have shown constantly a deep interest in the performance of this feature of national development. Upon it rests much of our country's future stability, and any contribution to its advancement is a contribution to the advantage of all. So banking has never permitted co-operative attitude toward home building to lessen. Practically all banks now accept savings deposits which can well be turned to the advantage of the home builders. The construction of individual dwellings requires a large amount of financing and is a thoroughly commendable enterprise. Necessarily, the aid given to home builders is governed by the sound banking rules which have grown out of the years of experience and the constant studies of bank practices. All of the efforts made to secure broader real estate loan privileges, to adjust resources to make it possible to lend larger sums for long terms, the standardization of mortgage loan formulas, and the actual lending of vast sums on mortgage notes evidence the desire of banks to contribute a full measure of support to the home-building movement. This is true of all classes of banks, but even in a more marked degree of those whose deposits are largely in the form of savings and whose loans are primarily for building or home purchasing purposes.

Both Sides Protected
The process through which bank loans are made on real estate is as simple as the nature of such an important transaction will permit. When money is advanced the lender must know that repayment will be made the specified time. Likewise the borrower wants to be assured that, after he has figured the loan on the basis of his conservatively anticipated ability to pay, he will not be disturbed in his efforts to work out of his obligations under those terms. Whether his agreement is to repay the entire loan in three or five years, or on a monthly or yearly basis, he wants the assurance that no additional burdens will be imposed upon him. All of this is settled definitely in advance.

There is no mystery about any of the details, and when the negotiations are complete the borrower knows just what he may expect and what he will be required to do to meet his obligations. Loans made to persons who wish to acquire homes are not necessarily building loans. One may wish to purchase a home already constructed. In this form of transaction bank loans are used very freely because it is the only kind of a real estate loan some classes of banks may make. Others of course, may lend upon real estate with improvements uncompleted and advance funds as the construction progresses. Different styles in home financing have developed in the various states, and banks have tried to adapt their facilities to the needs. Whatever character of assistance is required in any particular instance usually can be found in some bank in the local community.

Among banks and borrowers for home acquisition purposes a long established and thoroughly tested relationship exists. Banks are not the only agencies through which such funds are available; they do not embody all the spirit of helpfulness which abounds. However, through the years of their co-operation their aid has been of unquestioned value to the home builders whose efforts to establish a permanence for themselves have received constant encouragement. Bankers everywhere are ready to counsel with their customers about their home-building plans and to assist to the extent of their ability. This is being done constantly and the many advantages of it are not without recognition.

Farm Service by a Bank

A farm service department was inaugurated a year ago by a bank in Olympia, Washington, and a farm advisor appointed. Close co-operation has been maintained with the state college extension service. Work in dairying is carried on in conjunction with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Also a pasture contest was held in cooperation with the four banks in the county which offered prizes amounting to $100. Work in poultry was carried on in cooperation with the Co-operative Poultry Association and assistance was given in organizing an economic conference for the benefit of berry growers. The farm advisor of the bank is active in the Agricultural Council of the county composed of farm and other organizations interested in agricultural development, and also in the Farmers' Market. Six hundred farm business analysis blanks were distributed while farm account books and poultry record books were also provided to farmers and have been helpful in starting many farmers in keeping business records.

FAIRM STOCK

OHIO HOG GROWERS RETAIN OLD SOWS

Other States Use Greater Proportion of Gilts.

Swine growing practiced in Ohio differs decidedly from that in other states at least in one respect—the keeping of old brood sows from year to year to raise pigs, instead of producing the pigs from gilts which are marketed after they have raised one litter of pigs. Ohio is sixth among the states in the number of hogs on farms on January 1 this year, but near the top of the list when it comes to the number of brood sows kept from year to year. Many of the leading hog states west of Ohio produce the greater number of pigs from gilts. This spring 75 per cent of the litters of Ohio pigs came from sows which previously had produced one or more litters, while in Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Kansas, less than 20 per cent were from old sows, and more than 80 per cent from gilts farrowing for the first time. Only Pennsylvania ranked lower than Ohio this spring in the percentage of litters farrowed by gilts. Ohio's swine growers this year saved an average of 6.7 pigs to each litter. The average for the country as a whole was only 5.7 pigs.

Live Stock Diseases Cause Tremendous Loss

A timely and very attractive poster has just been gotten out by the Iowa State Veterinary association, in which attention is called to the tremendous annual loss which the live stock industry sustains on account of disease. Among other things the poster suggests eight practical ways in which the farmer can help reduce the losses. These are:

First, select sound, healthy breeding stock; second, keep buildings and premises thoroughly clean and sanitary; third, feed well balanced, wholesome rations; fourth, isolate diseased animals promptly; fifth, use officially approved disinfectants; sixth, dispose of the carcasses promptly by deep burial, burning or rendering; seventh, vaccination against preventable diseases; eighth, consult your local veterinarian promptly.

These suggestions are all very good, and there is no doubt that if they were methodically carried out millions of dollars would annually be saved to the live stock industry.

Influence on Quality and Quantity of Wool

Quantity may go hand in hand with quality in wool production. Investigations by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, show that length of staple and weight of clean wool per fleece are associated with superior quality. The inheritance of the sheep, its feed, management and seasonal environment are the most important factors that influence quality and quantity of wool. Successful sheep raisers have found that rigid culling of aged ewes and light producers is a good practice for the immediate improvement of their flocks.

Comfortable House Is Essential for Swine

It is a time of year when hog houses come into their greatest usefulness. We may differ on the size and style of hog houses but we can be of one opinion on the desirability of eliminating or avoiding slippery floors, floors with large cracks or holes in them, low doors, narrow doors, high door sills, heavy banging doors, poor ventilation, and such like. We can agree that a pig can stand considerable cold weather if it has dry sleeping quarters. Comfortable quarters, therefore, are largely a matter of a tight roof, a well-drained floor, and proper circulation of air—ventilation.

Short Feed Supply

Farmers who must choose between selling young stock or good dairy cows are advised to sell off the former, as producing cows will usually pay better for purchased feed than the young animals. Where animals must be sold on account of lack of feed, it is usually best to dispose of them as early as possible, since in that way more feed is saved for the animals to be retained, while a prompt sale of those that cannot be carried gets them to market in a fleshier condition than if they are held.

Avoid Wormy Pigs

The ease of having the young pigs free from worms removes all excuses for having wormy pigs. Just before the pigs are due, one should place the sows on clean ground in a good disinfected house. The udders should be washed with warm water to which has been added any disinfectant. After the pigs are farrowed, they should be kept on ground that has not been contaminated. If the lot has not been used for hog pasture the past six months, there is little danger.

Waving "Corpse Lights" Due to Decomposition?

There was in former days a firm belief in "dead candles," apparently a sort of natural rocket that issued from the ground and burned before the window of the room where a dying person lay. "Corpse lights"—blue flames that burned, or rather waved, over the grave of anyone who had been murdered—were equally believed in.

A certain weaver, early last century, took as his assistant an ill-looking journeyman. After a time the weaver disappeared, and the journeyman carried on the business, declaring that his master had gone on a long journey but would return after some months. It happened, however, that two gentlemen, driving past the weaver's cottage one night, saw the "corpse light" near the cottage, and brought the sheriff to the place next day. The journeyman, on being questioned as to the weaver's whereabouts, denied all knowledge of where he had gone, but persisted in his story that he would eventually return. The sheriff, however, set his officers to dig where the light had been seen, and when the weaver's body was found the journeyman broke down and confessed that he had murdered him.

It is said that about 1806 these lights, which were probably due to decomposition, might have been seen almost every night in the over-full churchyard of Greyfriars in Edinburgh.—Weekly Scotsman.

Exportations Now Meet Demand for Pine Nuts

How many people know that there is only one single-leaf conifer in North America, the pinyon or single-leaf pine, and that it not only yielded the winter provision of the Indians, but that it now yields an annual harvest of pine nuts convertible into cash? As early as 1833, Zenas Leonard, the clerk of Capt. Joseph R. Walker, who was the first westbound white man to cross the Sierras, makes note of this tree that played so important a part in the home economics of the Indian. John C. Fremont in his memoirs also refers to this species, which was the cause of bloody battles fought by the Plutes and Washoe tribes over possession of the territory in which the prolific trees grew. The Indians gather after hard frosts to collect the cones that yield the nutritious seed or nuts after being exposed to the sun or artificial heat. The seeds are eaten after they are roasted or are dried and ground into meal. The white man has now discovered this delicacy, and four carloads of pine nuts were shipped to distant markets after the past season. The Indians were paid about $35,000 for this commodity, which is new to eastern markets.

Bright Pupil Answers

The annual inspection was taking place. Fortunately, the brightest class of all was the first to undergo this ordeal. One after another the inspector's questions were answered correctly. At last he decided to give the pupils a really hard test. "Now, who can give me an example of nothing?" he inquired. After a short pause a tiny hand was raised. "Well, little girl," said the inspector, "what's your definition?" The smallest child in the class rose to her feet. "Please, sir," she said, "it's a legless stocking with no foot in it."—Yorkshire Post.

Rhymes About Months

Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations" gives several versions of the rhyme, "Thirty days hath September, April, June and November," the earliest of which is in Latin and is found in William Harrison's "Description of Britain," prefixed to Holinshed's Chronicle, dated 1577. Other versions are in Richard Grafton's "Chronicles of England," 1590; "The Return from Parnassus," London, 1608, and one current in the New England states. A rhyme said to be current among the Friends in Chester county, Pa., ran: "Fourth, eleventh, ninth and sixth, Thirty days to each affix; Every other thirty-one, Except the second month alone."

Has No Scientific Basis

There is no known scientific basis for the popular belief that underground water, oil, mineral deposits or hidden treasures can be located by means of a forked twig carried over the surface in a certain manner, says Pathfinder Magazine. But the faith of certain people is not diminished. The belief is probably a relic of ancient methods of divination. Early in the Fifteenth century miners in the Harz mountains of Germany prospecting with hazel twigs, and this practice, which was introduced among the Cornwall miners in the time of Queen Elizabeth, later was adopted as a means for finding veins of underground water.

Thinkers

Beware when the great God lets loose a thinker on this planet. Then all things are at risk. . . . There is not a piece of science, but its flank may be turned tomorrow; there is not any literary reputation, not the so-called external names of fame, that may not be revised and condemned. The very hopes of man, the thoughts of his heart, the religion of nations, the manners and morals of mankind, are all at the mercy of a new generalization.—Emerson.

WHEAT MARKETS WEAK —FEED GRAINS LOWER

good volume, totaling 2,170 cars, or about 220 cars more than last week and about 65 cars more than a year ago. Mills were taking only moderate amounts for current requirements and a large percentage of the offerings went to domestic marketing agencies. At the close of the market April 24, No. 2 hard winter, un-Kansas City at 72½¢, with a premium of about ½¢ being paid for each ½% of protein above 12½%. No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Omaha at 71½¢, at Chicago at 81½¢, at Omaha at 71½¢ to 72¢, No. 1 hard winter at St. Louis at 80½¢, and at Fort Worth, delivered Texas common points, at 81½¢ to 82¢; No. 2 hard winter, F. O. B. Denver or Colorado common points, at 51¢ to 55¢ per bushel. Demand for soft red winter was also rather dull because of disinclination of mills to buy beyond current requirements. No. 1 soft red winter was quoted at Kansas City at 75¢, at St. Louis at 81¢ to 81½¢; No. 2 soft red at Cincinnati at 81¢ to 84¢ and at Chicago at 81½¢ to 81¾¢ per bushel.

Marketings of spring wheat fell off materially during the week and receipts at Minneapolis totaled only 606 cars. Mill buying was of sufficient volume absorb the arrivals at steady premiums and No. 1 dark northern was quoted at that market April 24 at 1-3c over the May price at Duluth at 78½¢ to 81¢. Canadian spring wheat markets weakened slightly and No. 1 Manitoba northern closed April 24 at Winnipeg at 60¢ per bushel. Durum wheat declined with bread wheat and the May delivery at Duluth closed April 24 at 73¢. No. 1 and No. 2 Amber was quoted in the cash market at Minneapolis at 70¢ to 74¢ per bushel and at Duluth at 74¢ to 75¢. No. 1 Durum was quoted at the latter market at 73¢, No. 2 mixed at 68¢ to 72¢ and No. 2 red at 63¢ to 64¢ per bushel.

Pacific Coast markets were steady, with prices practically unchanged from a week ago. A small export business was reported at Portland, where a sale of 1,000 tons to the United Kingdom and some small parcel sales to China and Japan were made. There were also moderate sales of flour to the Orient. Domestic milling demand for wheat was limited, but inquiry for feed wheat from California increased as a result of the drought in that area. Marketings in the Pacific Northwest continued of moderate volume and receipts at Columbia river and Puget

Arrangements have been completed at Portland to build immediately a new storage warehouse with a capacity of around 3,000,000 bushels of sacked grain. This will be available for the storage of remaining supplies, which must be moved from interior points before the harvesting of the new crop. Prices of Canadian wheat at Vancouver were slightly lower with No. 1 Manitoba quoted at 63½¢ and No. 3 at 55½¢.

California wheat markets were firm under the influence of unfavorable prospects for the new crop as a result of continued dry weather. Prices, however, held about unchanged, with trading almost entirely in Northern wheat. The California wheat crop now promises an outturn only about 50 to 60 per cent of normal, accord-

Picked Out Wrong Time to See Model Children

People wondered at our frolics, but enjoyed them, and droll stories are still told of the adventures of those days. Mr. Emerson and Margaret Fuller were visiting my parents one afternoon, and the conversation having turned to the ever-interesting subject of education, Miss Fuller said: "Well, Mr. Alcott, you have been able to carry out your methods in your own family, and I should like to see your model children."

She did in a few moments, for as the guests stood on the doorsteps a wild uproar approached, and round the corner of the house came a wheelbarrow holding Baby May arrayed as a queen; I was the horse, bitted and bridled, and driven by my elder sister Anna; while Lizzie played dog, and barked as loud as her gentle voice permitted.

All were shouting and wild with fun, which, however, came to a sudden end as we espied the stately group before us; for my foot tripped, and down we all went in a laughing heap; while my mother put a climax to the joke by saying, with dramatic wave of the hand:

"Here are the model children, Miss Fuller."—From "Louisa May Alcott. Her Life and Letters," by Edna D. Cheney.

Popularity of Cuckoo

Clocks Well Deserved

Cuckoo clocks originated in Germany, in the Black Forest district. The first one was made by Franz Anton Ketterer, in Schönenwald, in 1780. Copies soon became popular, the appeal made by their quaintness and novelty being reinforced by their good workmanship and excellent time-keeping qualities. The mechanism of the cuckoo clock is very ingenious. By the thrust of a wire the body of the bird is bent forward, the wings and tail are raised and the beak is opened. Simultaneously two small bellows are raised and dropped. The notes are produced by little wooden organ pipes, one tuned a fifth above the other, to which the bellows are attached. Almost every home in the Black forest possesses one of these clocks, but on this continent they are now less popular than formerly, possibly because modern homes have not the right atmosphere. Moreover, the competition of other trick clocks has become increasingly strong.

Satisfied by Figures

You would think that a mathematician who had worked out the position of a new planet would be interested in having a look at that planet, when discovered, wouldn't you? Yet Leverrier, the Frenchman, who did the figuring that located Neptune in 1846, was once in the observatory with Flammarion, the astronomer, who at that moment had Neptune showing in the telescope, and asked Leverrier if he would like to see it. He replied:

"No, I have never seen it." He had discovered Neptune's position by mathematics and there his interest in it ended. The joy of a mathematician is the discovery of a theoretic truth, or the confirmation of a calculation by experiment.—Kansas City Star.

Ancient Weather Vans

Its use on famous old structures in England shows that the weather-vane must have been invented at a very early date. On towers, castles and secular buildings its usual form was that of a banner, but on churches it usually took the form of the rooster. The large tail of the cock was well adapted to turn with the wind.

Many churches have for a vane the emblem of the saints to whom they are dedicated. St. Peter's, London, is topped by a large key, and St. Lawrence's, a gridiron. St. Sepulchre's church has four pinnacles, each having a vane, leading to the saying: "Unreasonable people are as hard to reconcile as the vanes of St. Sepulchre's tower."

In Old Nuremberg

Trips on many days can be made in the beautiful old city of Nuremberg, one of the quaintest in the whole of Germany. Most Americans go first to the home of the great artist Durer. It is a fifteenth century Gothic structure, now owned by the city as a shrine. Here you may see beneath its heavy timbered roof the furniture of his own day as well as many of his works, though mostly copies, as the originals are in the greatest museums and galleries of the world. The modern Durers are toy makers and their products are in the happy nurseries of all nations.

Land-Locked Nations

Jests about the Swiss navy might be applied to many nations, the National Geographic society says in a bulletin noting that there are 15 countries that have no sea-coasts.

Europe has eight land-locked nations—Switzerland, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Andorra, San Marino, Liechtenstein and Luxembourg.

Switzerland is developing its aerial lines to the highest degree to make up for its lack of access to the sea.

Not Talking

Martha Lou was jealously watching her favorite aunt fondling her new brother and telling him how cunning he looked in his pink blanket. Presently the four-year-old said: "You might as well put him in his basket, he won't talk to you."

DUAL BANK SYSTEM FAVORED BY BANKER

State and National Institutions Supplement Each Other in Serving Country's Varied Financial Needs

RECENT suggestions that all banks in the United States be under Federal jurisdiction, doing away with the chartering of banks by the various states recalls the opposition to this plan presented at the recent convention of the American Bankers Association by R. S. Hecht of New Orleans, Chairman of its Economic Policy Commission. Mr. Hecht said:

"There are just as good reasons why there should be state as well as national banks, as that there should be state as well as a national government. I do not think that analogy is far-fetched. The states should not surrender all political jurisdiction to the central government, and the local business life of the states should not be made to surrender all control over financial functions to national financial instrumentalities. There are many variations of business conditions from state to state and there are special fiscal requirements of the various states."

"It is entirely logical, therefore, that the states should retain the right to charter banks so as to mold and direct their affairs in accordance with the states' governmental and business requirements and keep them adapted to localized sentiment and conditions."

"The argument is sometimes advanced that the dual system jeopardizes the life of the Federal Reserve System because under it there is a large group of banks that are free to remain out of or to withdraw from the system. Facts and figures prove that this is a specious argument."

"It is true that there has been some shifting from national to state charters especially in cases of mergers of large national banks with banks operating under state charters. However, the Federal Reserve System was not weakened in this process because the merged institutions almost universally retained their membership in the system on a voluntary basis. Moreover, the records show that state bank members are just as good members of the system as national banks and the ratio of state bank resources in the Federal Reserve System is constantly growing. In 1922, national banks held about 65 per cent of the resources of reserve members, and state banks about 35 per cent, while in 1929, the nationals held only 60 per cent, and state banks 40 per cent."

Banking Systems Help Each Other

"Reciprocally the state and national banks systems have helped each other. If the national banking law has served in some respects as something of a model code toward which state banking laws more and more have approached year by year, so have the state codes developed valuable reforms which have suggested improvements for the national laws. A great many undesirable competitive inequalities have been wiped out by this mutual evolutionary process and further progress along the line of uniformity so far as is desirable is anticipated."

"However, I do not believe that it is a disadvantage to have two banking codes that differ in some respects. It is quite probable that the state banking code in many instances represents a closer adjustment to local conditions than could be had under the national banking laws, and this is a situation that should be retained. There should, however, not be competition between the two banking codes. Competition should be between banks themselves and not between the laws under which they operate. The effort to offer too great allurements in one code as against the other could lead only to weak banking laws. But I do think that there should be the alternative opportunities that now exist which banking institutions and local business interests may choose, so that they can function or conduct their business relationships under that banking code which best meets the conditions of the times and of the place as they see them."

"This has been illustrated in both directions. In states where such unsound measures as the guarantee of deposits were operative state banks had the opportunity to escape the baleful effect of such laws. On the other hand, when a court decision was handed down in Worcester, Massachusetts, which rendered uncertain the position of trust assets acquired by a national bank through a merger with a state bank, it was a real advantage for national banks affected to take out and operate under a state charter, either on a temporary or a permanent basis, as circumstances make expedient."

"In my opinion, bankers, national as well as state, should combat the thought that conceives of depriving us of the vitalizing benefits of our dual system."

Finance Fights Erosion

Farm terracing to stop erosion is of major importance in Noble County, Oklahoma, the county agent said, and so one of the county's national banks bought five farm levels to be loaned to farmers without charge. The machines were immediately put to use and the farmers are showing keen interest in terracing. Two terracing schools were started for adults and 4-H Club boys.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ADVERTISE TO MOVE GOODS

When one is out motoring and comes to a steep hill, one does not shut off the gas and expect the car to climb the steep incline on the same power that was required to propel it along the level road.

Quite the contrary is true. In every instance of this kind the driver "steps on the gas" as we say, and furnishes the motor with the extra power required to carry it to the top. The same thing is true of business, as long as everything is rolling along and conditions are normal, business comes in a good volume without a great deal of effort but when a depression comes, or hard times, as we say, it requires more effort, it takes more power to get the same amount of business.

"Stepping on the gas" in business is equivalent to larger advertising appropriations. When business is low, more pressure in the way of advertising must be applied.

Advertising is more important to business in times of depression than it is when all business is at a high tide.

The American buying public has become a race of newspaper reading people. They have become trained to read the advertisements and to look to the advertisements for guidance and information in the matter of their purchases.

That advertising increases sales has become too well proven to admit of argument. When the readers of a paper pick it up at a time like this and scan its pages and find no advertisements, two reactions take place. No new merchandise is offered for sale, no descriptions of desirable food products or furniture or clothing greets the eye or tempts the appetite or awakens the desire to buy. The possibility of a sale is lost.

The other reaction which perhaps means more at this time than actual sales of merchandise, is that if merchants are not advertising, times must really be hard and unconsciously the strings on the household purse are tightened and expenditures reduced whether the individual conditions warrant it or not.

Now is the time to "step on the gas!"

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION BE AT LEWISTON

Lewis-Clark Post No. 13, Lewiston, charged with the privilege of entertaining the Idaho State Thirteenth American Legion convention at Lewiston, starting August 13, leads in membership the 72 posts of the state, following an intensive membership drive which netted 122 new names and brought the post roster to 240.

Commander E. S. Rawls plans to keep after new members and push the roster to 300 if necessary to maintain the lead in Idaho. The membership contest ran for 40 days and teams headed by Felix Funke and Wayne Beloit tied with 61 members each. New members and the auxiliary will be entertained at a banquet and dance April 30.

The convention committee is making plans for the biggest and best show in the history of Idaho department. Not only will drum and bugle corps be brought here from Idaho posts, but a special out-of-state contest will bring corps from eastern Oregon and Washington. Enterprise, Oregon, and Spokane already have accepted invitations.

The possibility of the Northwest baseball series being held in Lewiston, the most central point in the area, has put enthusiasm into convention plans.

The Political Pot Simmers

Early tilling of the political soil is leading national party leaders to the belief that a campaign of unusual intensity is in prospect for the presidential election.

Activity in behalf of the nomination of President Hoover by the republicans is the latest development in the preliminary maneuvers.

However, the republicans are awaiting with some interest the candidate to be put forward by the anti-Hoover group being organized into a working unit under direction of Col. Horace Mann, Hoover director in the South in 1928.

The name of Calvin Coolidge is heard frequently in the republican discussions, together with Senators Borah of Idaho, Johnson of California and Watson of Indiana.

With Chairman Raskob of the democratic national committee on his way to Europe, little open activity in this party's campaign before the fall is in prospect.

In fact, no open hostilities are believed likely before fall. In December the national committees will assemble to select the convention cities. The selection of delegates will begin in the spring.

Residence Burned to Ground

Monday evening the fire siren sounded an alarm and it wasn't long until a large crowd had gathered on the hill overlooking the doomed house—for it was doomed from the start—the home of Charley Clark, in the east part of town, having caught fire from some unknown cause, between 6 and 7 o'clock. Very little was saved from the building, which was the property of F. C. Lyon and occupied by the family of Charley Clark. It was said to have carried insurance.

The cause of the fire is a mystery as the Clark family had been away from home during the day and it was said there had been no fire in the house since early morning. It was also said to have started at the rear of the house.

There was a rather stiff north breeze and burning embers were carried for several blocks, for the most part being burning shingles, although several pieces of perfect patterns of burned wall-paper were found several blocks away the next morning.

The display of burning embers and sparks was indeed a beautiful sight—or would have been, had they not carried destruction of property and a home with them.

LEWISTON PRISONERS STAGE SMALL RIOT

Harboring a grievance for some unknown reason against the sheriff's office, a mild uprising broke out at the Lewiston jail at 10:30 Tuesday morning and was repeated at 1:30 p. m. among the 15 prisoners confined in the cell portion of the county jail on the third floor of the courthouse, says the Lewiston Tribune. The bottom panes of six prism glass windows were demolished and some damage done the shower compartment.

There has been a feeling of unrest among the prisoners for about ten days and Sheriff Dent and his deputies watched the situation carefully. Monday night Jailer Steve Douglas entered the jail and made a request of one of the prisoners and he refused to comply with it. Sheriff Dent was notified and the jail was searched.

Evidence was found that an attempt was being made to saw four of the cell bars but this work had not progressed far. It was also discovered that a sheet of steel had been removed from a part of the shower bath. A spool of thread was also found and a leaden pellet attached to the end, evidently for the purpose, officers said, of conveying messages to and from persons on the outside.

In breaking the windows the person or persons responsible used the handle of a broom or brush used in the jail. The men are held back about four feet from the windows and this was the only way in which to shatter the glass. Eight prisoners are kept on the south side of the jail and these were in no way implicated, Sheriff Dent said.

Jacob Gibson Writes

In writing to renew his subscription to the Gazette, Jacob E. Gibson, now residing at Creston, Montana, writes as follows:

"I like the paper fine and enjoy reading the news from it every week. We are having nice weather over here now. We did have a hard wind and dust storm which tore down telephone lines and uprooted some trees. From reading other papers I see the whole Northwest experienced the same dust wave. The farmers here are planting peas now and doing other field work.

The Flathead valley, of which Kalispell is the county seat, compares with sections of Idaho and Washington in climate and raising grain, etc. There are parts of Montana where a jack rabbit would starve. Montana is a big state—third in size—and a person often hears of people running down Montana. We live about 30 miles from the entrance to Glacier National park and since the trans-mountain road was put through last summer we have a lot of tourists from all states.

Too bad Kendrick was visited by a flood, but such things cannot be helped. We generally have our high water here in May and sometimes it overflows the lowlands. This valley is about 20 miles wide and 30 miles long and is nearly level. It has hundreds of lakes and streams, where lots of fish are waiting for the fishermen.

Use Daylight Saving Time

Four hundred and eighty-three cities and towns in the United States and Canada went on daylight saving time at 2 a. m. Sunday. At that hour, theoretically, at least, clocks and watches were moved ahead to 3 a. m., to remain one hour fast until the same time on the last Sunday in September.

CONDENSED DIGEST LAST WEEK'S IMPORTANT NEWS

Murder—in Honduras, in Nicaragua—and of a 17-year-old girl in California, which brings the total of recent unsolved killings in the Coast state to three, held the lime-light in the news of last week.

The week's news review: American refugees from Nicaragua arrived in the United States last week and told of the slaughter of nine American citizens by bandit followers of Augusto Sandino. Eight other foreigners were killed. Later a force of 1300 Nicaraguan guardsmen were dispatched into the jungle to bring the rebel leader to justice and afford protection to foreigners in the interior.

The revolution in Honduras, asserted to have been fomented by U. S. money supplied by persons engaged in the banana trade, was last week practically stamped out and peace was restored. American capital to the amount of seventy million dollars is invested in Honduras, chiefly in timber, fruit and mining properties.

Former U. S. Senator Robert N. Stanfield of Oregon was last week run down by a car and seriously injured in what was apparently a range-war over a fence. John Stringer, Weiser sheep ranch foreman, is said to have been the driver of the car and denied that he had intentionally run Stanfield down, although the action occurred following a quarrel between the two. Doctors described Stanfield's injuries as "serious" and his condition as "not critical."

Louise Teuber, 17, San Diego girl, was found murdered last week. Death was due to strangulation. Two other recent murders that still baffle California police are those of "little Virginia" Brooks, school girl, and Mrs. W. B. Bibbens, widow, who were also strangled to death.

A mile-a-minute gale swept over southern Idaho and northern Utah last week doing an estimated crop and building damage of more than a million dollars.

The King of Siam, with a royal party of a dozen or so attendants and companions, completed last week a 12,000-mile journey from his kingdom. His object was to secure eye-treatment from a New York surgeon. He plans to visit Hollywood. Edward Dampier, former Rupert attorney, twice convicted several years ago of sending obscene letters through the mail to a young woman, committed suicide in California last week rather than face court charges of grand theft.

Ruth Nichols, well-known aviatrix, announced last week that she is contemplating a solo flight to Paris, taking the route following "Lindy" in his epoch-making crossing of the Atlantic.

Vol. 1. Kendrick, Idaho, April 24, 1931 No. 46

Published in the Interests of the People of the Entire Potlatch Country by the Kendrick Hardware Company, Harold Thomas, Editor.

Reports from all over the country are to the effect that Girls respond most nobly to the appeal of observance of PAINT-UP WEEK.

No special "appeal" is necessary for people to recognize the merits of our Four-Hour Enamel. It is truly a fine product. Priced at this store so you can afford to use the best.

We are selling quite a lot of new window shades now. Priced the cheapest they have been in years. Are you going to get yours?

It must be love when a boy walks home from school with a girl, knowing he must lick seven of his tormentors later.

Well, the wife won't lick you when you bring home those new tinted water glasses, those new cups and saucers, that new kettle, bucket, percolator, pan or tub. Things are now priced cheaper than ever before.

One of Mr. Wrigley's best customers remarks: "Kissing is about to be carried so far that ladies will get tired of it and it will go out of fashion." Well, perhaps so, but from our observation, we would say it had not yet been carried to that point.

Speaking of carrying, why not carry one of our new .22 rifles and several boxes of our shells. We have the best and priced like the poorer. Come in and see for yourself.

Yes, we still have a few of those butcher knives, priced at 17c each. They are the style you have always wanted. Real quality at a real price.

Long faces or smiling ones make all the difference in the world in the spirit of a community, let's SMILE.

The smiling man is the one who uses tools purchased from us to put in the nails, screws, steeple bolts and lag screws purchased from us. The combination is a daisy when fixing farm property and wagons.

See us for chain, too.

Cameron School Notes

School was dismissed last Friday in order that the pupils might attend the Field meet at Southwick. It was an ideal day for the event and many of the parents attended. At noon the Cameron folks enjoyed a lovely picnic dinner, which had been prepared by the ladies.

This day was taken by the pupils in place of their annual school picnic which usually comes later in the term.

The Cameron boys and girls made a wonderful showing considering the number of pupils they had to enter the various events. They won third place, having won 129 points, as against 144 for Southwick and 168 for Leland, both of which are two-room schools. The trophy cup offered by the Southwick school was won by the Leland school to keep. We feel that we have a good chance at the county meet, which will be held at Southwick, Saturday, May 2, and look forward to bringing the trophy cup home again.

We are planning for all the parents from Cameron to prepare lunches so that the Cameron folks may enjoy a picnic dinner at Lapwai. Let's all turn out and give our support.

Road Work Progressing

N. E. Walker reports that the making over of the various roads in the Kendrick Highway district that were practically destroyed by the late flood, are being taken care of as fast as possible. It is impossible to take care of them all at once, but he says they will do the work just as fast as possible to do so—and as far as the limited amount of money to be had will go.

Work has been done this week on the Pine creek road and in Brady Gulch.

REAR ADMIRAL BYRD NOT WHOLE THING

Praise often goes to popular figures while real heroes remain unclaimed in the background.

Such would seem to have been the case in two of Rear Admiral Byrd's most noted flights—to Europe and over the south pole—if the assertions of Anthony H. G. Fokker, famous aircraft designer, in his recently published autobiography, can be accepted at face value.

Bernt Balchen, modest Norwegian flier, was the real hero of both flights, according to Fokker.

It was Balchen, Fokker states, who took over both the piloting and the navigation of Byrd's trans-oceanic ship on the flight to France and succeeded through sheer courage and resolution in bringing it back from fog-ridden Paris to the coast, where it was landed safely. Regarding the leader of the expedition, Fokker said: "Byrd seemed confused and completely lost."

The south pole flight was successful, according to the autobiography, because Balchen just managed to lift the ship over polar plateau after hastily dumping several hundred pounds of food which Byrd had insisted on carrying against Balchen's advice. Asked regarding Fokker's chapter on Admiral Byrd, Balchen said with his customary directness: "I didn't find any mistakes in it."

What Prospectors Are Seeking

When prospectors led the vanguard of civilization into the Northwest, they picked the right place to produce wealth, according to figures which have recently been compiled by the University of Idaho school of mines from the United States Geological survey and bureau of mines reports.

According to the latest calculations, Idaho has produced in its history $502,000,000 in lead, $222,000,000 in silver, $138,000,000 in gold, $70,000,000 in zinc, $26,000,000 in copper and an estimated $42,000,000 in these and other metals not reported.

The total is a billion dollars—not so bad!

Oiling Street

Herman Schupfer has been applying considerable oil to the street in front of his home during the past few days and it is a great help in keeping down the dust.
