UNIVERSITY TO SHIP TREES THIS FALL

The University of Idaho forest and shade trees nursery, operated by the School of Forestry, announces that fall shipments will begin just as soon as rains this fall thoroughly soak up the ground so the trees can be removed safely. "Sometimes this is not until the first part of October," states C. L. Price, the University forest nurseryman, "but we like to have fall orders in by the middle of September so that we can make full preparations for immediate shipment. The fall shipping season is much shorter than in spring. However, we shall make every effort to supply the tree needs of Idaho's citizens."

A circular entitled "Forest and Shade Trees for Planting in Idaho" is available for free distribution from the School of Forestry at Moscow. This leaflet gives instructions for planting as well as recommended trees for each county in the state. "Some people have best success with evergreens by fall transplanting," continues Mr. Price, "and we have an assortment of 16 various species and sizes. We also list 22 hardwoods or deciduous trees, enough variety for almost any landscape plan."

Windbreak, shelterbelt or woodland trees can be obtained from the nursery for farm plantings at half cost of production since the federal Clarke McNary act is permitted to pay the remaining half of the cost. Ornamental and shade trees are distributed to citizens of Idaho at cost of production.

Market of Low Priced Grain

Marketing of the present low-priced grains and cereals through the beef cattle route will be demonstrated from every angle at the first annual Feeders' day, to be held at the Old Union stockyards, Spokane, October 7, according to Prof. C. W. Hickman, head of the animal husbandry department of the University of Idaho college of agriculture. The Spokane program is being sponsored by the agricultural college and extension services of the University of Idaho and Washington State college. On the speaking program Prof. Hickman will discuss some phase of beef cattle feeding.

Various aspects of fattening beef cattle, from market type to ration and financial experiences of leading feeders of northern Idaho and eastern Washington will be discussed. Beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning will be devoted to the demonstration of cattle grading and the inspection of cattle in the yards. A trip to a large commercial feedlot near Spokane will be included for those who desire.

Actual feeding experiences and observations of prominent northern Idaho stockmen will feature the luncheon at the stockyards at 2:30 o'clock. Prof. Hickman is selecting several leading feeders to represent Idaho.

Marketing grains through livestock, better feeding practices and the most successful types of beef cattle will be among the subjects to be considered on the luncheon program.

Henry Ford's Smoke Screen

It looks like Henry Ford, who has been universally condemned for his attitude toward labor, and who is said to have boasted that he never gave a dollar to charity in his life, is laying a smoke screen to divert public sentiment from his acts.

Ford's latest is that every man in his employ who does not take up gardening next year will lose his job. Just as though it was any of his business what a man does that is honorable on his own time.

Henry Ford has stood in a false light before the people, but the mask has been torn off and he will not fool anyone any more. He has made millions while posing as the friend of the common people, and may continue to make millions, but not by fooling the people.—Colorado Springs (Colo.) Independent.

ACREAGES TO BE CUT—NORTHWEST TO INCREASE

American winter wheat farmers, influenced by unprecedented low prices and burdensome surplus supplies, intend to reduce their acreage for harvest next year by 12 per cent.

The agricultural department said today that if intentions thus far reported are carried out, 37,344,000 acres will be sown this fall. This would mean the smallest crop since 1914.

A bumper crop of 894,000,000 bushels of all wheat has been indicated for harvest this year. This plentiful supply adds to a domestic carryover from last year's crop of 319,000,000 bushels, indicating a total supply in the United States of 1,213,000,000 bushels, nearly enough to meet two years' normal demands.

The intended winter wheat planting compares with 42,422,000 acres sown a year ago. Last fall farmers cut acreage 1 1/2 per cent as compared with 1929 plantings.

Low prices also had their effect on spring wheat plantings early this year when farmers slashed acreage by 15 per cent. The prospective yield of spring wheat has been further reduced by drought until the crop is expected to be one of the smallest on record.

The farm board has repeatedly urged a reduction of at least 20 per cent.

Kansas, which produced the largest winter crop on record this year, will cut next year's acreage 15 per cent, while Oklahoma plans to reduce its acreage 11 per cent and Texas 14 per cent.

The acreage to be sown next fall as expressed by intentions to plant and the percentage of the 1930 acreage by states includes:

Montana: Acres intended 826,000; per cent of 1930 sown 87.

Idaho: Acres intended 726,000; per cent of 1930 sown 110.

Washington: Acres intended 1,824,000; per cent of 1930 sown 112.

Oregon: Acres intended 398,000; per cent of 1930 sown 109.

Where Cooperation Will Pay

Declining foreign trade is one of the factors most responsible for prolonging the business depression—exactly as it was a factor in bringing it on.

Few of us sufficiently understand how vital international commerce is to domestic prosperity. A decrease of a "mere" five or six per cent in employment and purchasing power means all the difference between good times and bad. And a decline of ten or fifteen per cent might mean the difference between stability and chaos.

The doctrine of economic and social isolation may have been workable in 1831 but it is suicide in 1931. No nation can, figuratively, remove itself to a high peak and look down on the rest of the world, depending on itself alone for sustenance. Cooperation between businesses and individuals has solved many of the industrial problems of our age—and cooperation between nations, both in commerce and in diplomacy, must solve those of international character.

The reason for the decline in foreign trade, divorced of argument and confusing details, is simple enough—foreign nations cannot buy from us unless we buy from them. We must look beyond state and national boundaries toward the world horizon, in the knowledge that foreign trade is one of the keys to domestic prosperity and industrial stimulation.

Why take life too seriously—you'll never get out of it alive!

United States Close to War With Spain in 1873

The "Virginius affair" in 1873 almost caused war between the United States and Spain. The Virginius, ship of American registry as the property of an American citizen, was captured by a Spanish war vessel on the high seas and taken to Santiago. Cuba was then engaged in the ten years' war against Spain and the Spanish officials contended that the Virginius was about to land arms and men for the rebels. Spain was at that time a republic under President Castelar, and while the President was having an investigation made, pending his reply to the demand of this country that the Virginius be released, Spanish authorities in Cuba took matters into their own hands. On November 7, 1873, Capt. Joseph Fry of the Virginius and 36 members of his crew were shot, and the following day 12 of the passengers were similarly executed. Numerous indignation meetings were held in the United States, with loud demands for war if Spain did not make amends. It developed, however, that the Virginius really had no right to fly the American flag at the time of her capture. The vessel was turned over to the United States navy on December 16, and the surviving passengers and crew released. Spain was not required to salute the American flag and the incident was closed.

Eggleston's Fine Story First Printed Serially

In a copy of the first edition of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" given to Hamlin Garland, the author inscribed these lines: "This story was published in Heath and Home in October, November and December of 1871, and in book form December 15. It sold about 10,000 copies the first six months and about 10,000 in each of the two following half years. It was pirated and sold in England in an edition of 10,000 copies, and has since been reprinted there with no profit to the author. Madame Blanc rendered it into French for the Revue des Deux Mondes. It was published in book covers in French, German and Danish and perhaps other tongues. This copy has all the original crudities, exuberances and violations of artistic canons that have helped to give the book a sale of more than a hundred thousand in the United States. These facts are set down here for my good friend, Mr. Hamlin Garland, with the sincere regards of Edward Eggleston."

Augsburg and Fugger Family

A visit to Augsburg in Germany is not complete without making some acquaintance with the Fuggers. This was a Swabian family of ennobled merchants, famous in the sixteenth century. It traced its descent to John Fugger, a weaver, who lived at Graben, near Augsburg, early in the fourteenth century. The tourist today will stand in admiration before the old home of these merchant princes. The town house is adorned with frescoes by F. Wagner, while the hotel, near by, known as Die Drei Mohren, was another Fugger town house. The Fugger museum is installed in the so-called Fugger bath rooms, which are decorated in the style of the Italian Renaissance. It contains the art treasures of the family, weapons, coins, medals and golden vessels. The splendid Fugger chapel can be seen in the Catholic church of St. Ulrich.

Indians Fear Lightning

No Navajo Indian will ever make a campfire of wood from a tree that has been struck by lightning or that he thinks may have been. If such a fire is made by the irreverent white man, the Indian will retire to a distance, where he can neither feel the heat nor smell the smoke, and will go to sleep in his blanket, fireless and supperless, rather than eat of food prepared on that kind of tree. The Navajo believes that if he comes within the influence of the flame he will absorb some of the essence of the lightning which will sooner or later kill him. In the mountains of the Navajo country more than half the great pines are scarred by lightning, but no wood from them is used.

"Cooper," Not "Cowper"

Few names in English literature are more commonly mispronounced than that of the English poet William Cowper (1731-1800), says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. There is conclusive evidence that the poet and members of his family, as well as his contemporaries, always pronounced the name "koop-er," of which it is merely a variant form. Cowper's ancestors spelled the name "Cooper." John Cooper, who was an alderman of London and who died in 1600, changed the spelling to "Cowper" and that spelling was followed by his descendants. But the pronunciation did not change with the spelling.

Ground Hog Superstition

The Scotch say, "If Candlemas is fair and clear, there'll be twa winters in the year." There is a Latin proverb of the same import. The French have a similar rhyme and so have the Germans, and peoples of other European countries, for according to the superstition, the ground hog, or some of his kind, performs on this day. In Germany it is the badger whose shadow portends cold weather; in France, the marmot; in England, the hedgehog; and elsewhere the bear. American pioneers merely fastened upon the ground hog an idea brought from abroad.

Bitter Comment on the Passing of George IV

"The remains of what once was George IV have now undergone the process of interment," said an article in the London Times a century ago, reprinted by the Detroit News. "We have been charged with two offenses, diametrically opposite, in behavior toward the late king. One set of accusers will have it that we persecute his memory with the same hostile spirit with which we assailed his living reputation. Another party reproaches us with mean sycophancy to the living, and still menacer malignity towards the defunct prince. It might be sufficient for us to state those inconsistent calumnies, and leave them to neutralize each other; but we disdain to shelter ourselves by such an evasion, and we give the flattest contradiction to them both.

"The truth is, however—and it speaks volumes about the man—that there never was an individual less regretted by his fellow-creatures than this deceased king. What eye has wept for him? What heart has heaved one throbbing of unmercenary sorrow? Was there at any time a gorgeous pageant on the stage more completely forgotten than he has been, even from the day on which the heralds proclaimed his successor? Has not that successor gained more upon the English tastes and prepossessions of his subjects, by the blunt and unaffected—even should it be grotesque—cordiality of his demeanor, within a few short weeks, than George IV—that Leviathan of the haunt ton—ever did during the 63 years of his existence?"

Sixteenth-Century Tale Popular With Writers

Faust and Faustus are different forms of the same name, and, according to tradition, the bearer of the name was a famous magician of the sixteenth century, a native of Sualba, an ancient duchy of Germany. A rich uncle having left Faust a fortune, he ran to every excess. He made a pact with the devil, (who assumed the name of Mephistopheles and the appearance of a little gray monk), that if he might indulge in his propensities freely for 24 years, he would at the end of that period consign to the devil both body and soul. The compact terminated in 1550, when Faust disappeared. His sweetheart was Margherita, (Margaret), and his faithful servant was Wagner. The German poet, Goethe, has a dramatic poem entitled "Faust," produced in 1798, and Gounod, the composer, an opera called "Faust et Margherita," produced in 1850. The English dramatist, Marlowe, who lived in Shakespeare's time, wrote a tragedy based on the same tradition.

Moon's Phases

The moon has no light of its own to give out but shines entirely by reflected light. Its phases depend on its position relative to the earth and the sun. When it is between, or nearly between, the earth and the sun, its unilluminated side is toward the earth and then its phase is new. A week after this, the moon is in the south when the sun is setting, its western half is illuminated and its phase is first quarter. In another week the moon is at its greatest angular distance from the sun, and the full moon rises as the sun sets, the whole face of the moon turned toward the earth being illuminated by the sun. A week after this, the moon is in the south as the sun rises, with its eastern side illuminated and the phase is third quarter.

Landmarks

It had been a very convivial reunion dinner, and when the time came for the guests to depart Smith and Jones found that their last train to the suburbs had gone, and they were faced with a five-mile walk home.

About an hour later, just as they had passed a church which had chimed out the hour of two, Smith broke a long silence.

"Does your wife miss you when you are late on such occasions as this?" he asked.

"Very seldom," his friend replied. "There are still two large lumps on the back of my head where she hit me the last time."—London Answers.

Low Barometer Pressures

The weather bureau says that one of the lowest authentic barometer pressures recorded in recent years was in connection with the hurricane of September, 1928. As the storm passed over Porto Rico a reading of 27.35 (reduced to sea level) was recorded on September 13 at 8 p. m. at Yabucon, on the southeast coast of Porto Rico. Other records of exceptionally low barometer readings in the centers of hurricanes may be cited: Havana, Cuba, October 10, 1846, 27.06; False Point, India, September 22, 1885, 27.15; Tananan, Philippine Islands, October 12, 1897, 27.32, and Guam, Pacific, November 18, 1900, 27.36.

Pluto Planet Is Deliberate

Conversations and calculations of the complete orbit of Pluto places the new member of our planetary family as the most distant from the sun and the slowest in its revolution. It requires 251 years for Pluto to complete its orbit around the sun. This is nearly a century longer than Neptune. Pluto's oldest neighbor, which requires 105 years for one circuit. Pluto's orbit will bring it nearest our globe 58 years from now. In 1938 the new luminary will be distant 39 astronomical units of about 3,000,000 miles.

Nation Christian Only
as It Is Understood

The assumption that the United States is a Protestant country is correct only in the sense that the great majority of its inhabitants belong to the Protestant religion. The federal Constitution does not state that the United States is a Protestant nation, or even a Christian nation. Article VI says in part that "No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States" and the First amendment says in part that "Congress shall make no laws respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." In a treaty signed with Tripoli, a Mohammedan country, in 1796, Article XI begins "As the government of the United States of America is not in any sense founded on the Christian religion." However, in a Supreme court decision rendered in 1892, it was declared incidentally by Justice Brewer who rendered the decision, that "This is a Christian nation." This, it should be remembered, was not the point at issue in the suit before the court.—Detroit News.

Variety of Acacia Used in Building Tabernacle

It is in Exodus XXV that we first find mention of shittim wood, when the Lord was giving directions to Moses for the building of the tabernacle, the temporary church of the Israelites, while like a tribe of Arabs they traveled about in the desert. No one doubts that the shittah tree, or shittim wood tree, is one of three varieties of the acacia, which is common in eastern lands. This particular variety is known as acacia-sepal, and is the one from which gum-arabic is obtained. It grows in the very driest situations at the present time, in that same desert. Every little oasis, every little declivity, on the side of every rocky hill it may be found, a sturdy good-sized tree. In the spring it is beautiful with its hairy-like yellow blooms, and during the summer it produces pods, gathered for provender but of very slight food value—in fact "the husks which the swine did eat" in famine times.

Saved Jackson from Trap

A wild ride by two loyal Confederate women saved Stonewall Jackson from marching into a trap set for him by Generals Fremont and Shields in the Virginia campaign, the Baltimore & Ohio Magazine recalls. One of these women, Esther Washington, was the daughter of George W. Washington of the same family as the first President. Her father had learned of the Union generals' plan to trap Jackson, and since his sons were in the southern army and he himself was unable to make the ride to Charlestown, Esther and Rebecca volunteered. They made the trip on horseback and were complimented by Jackson, who immediately proceeded to make things hot for Fremont.

Scottish Religious Shrine

Iona stands first in its religious significance among the islands of Scotland, for Scotland's destiny is linked with it, and it has stirred the imagination and rapture of poets, literateurs and religious zealots of many generations. Here the saint Columba founded in 563 the monastery which for a century and a half was the national church of Scotland and from which the emissaries of the Christian faith penetrated into the mainland. The existing monastic buildings are of later date than Columba's time, but they are linked with the beginning of Christianity in Scotland and are an object of veneration to countless pilgrims.

Ancient English Official

The original title of the office, Clerk of the Hamper, was hamper man, an official in charge of the hamper or treasure chest of the sovereign. In 1577, Sir T. Smith devised the office: "The Clarke of the Hamper is hee that doth receive the fines due for every writ sealed in this court." Murray's English dictionary quotes Shakespeare's Act 19 of King Henry VII, "Fine and fee to your highness in your hamper." The earliest allusion is that of 1392, when it is recorded that villains seized the king's hamper.

In One Sense

Scottishmen prefer blondes on account of the "light" overhead.

WHEAT MARKETS WEAK
—FEED GRAIN FIRMER

Has accepted the proposal of the Farm Board for the purchase of wheat and flour to the amount of 15,000,000 bushels, to be used exclusively for famine relief purposes, on terms of payment over a period of years. At the close of the market September 4 Big Bend bluestem No. 1 hard white was quoted at Portland at 61c, soft and western white at 47½c, hard winter, northern spring and western red at 46½c sacked. No. 1 western white was quoted at Seattle at 47c, western red at 47½c, haard wintetr at 48c, and Bluestem haard white at 61c, sacked. 16 per cent protein No. 1 dark northern spring from Montana was quoted in bulk at 80c per bushel. California wheat markets were reported practically unchanged. Both mills and feeders continued to purchase for current requirements only. California growers were still selling slowly at current prices and mills and feeders were obtaining most of their supplies from Washington and Oregon, the Inter-Mountain states, or Texas. Of the 31,147 tons received at San Francisco during June, July and August, 26,675 tons were northern wheat. Of last season's receipts for this period, less than one-third was northern wheat. At the close of the market September 4, No. 2 soft and western white from Washington and Oregon was quoted at 91½c to 92½c delivered dock San Francisco, white Utah and Idaho No. 2 hard winter was quoted at $1.00, and No. 2 dark hard winter, 13 per cent protein, at $1.04, delivered California points. Local No. 1 hard white, sacked, was quoted at San Francisco at $1.05 to $1.10, and No. 1 soft white at $1.00 per 100. No. 2 dark hard winter, 13 per cent protein, was selling at Los Angeles at the close of the week at $1.07½, with ordinary protein No. 2 hard winter quoted at 97½c per 100. No. 2 or better soft and western white wheats in bulk, from Washington and Oregon, were quoted mostly at 95c delivered Los Angeles.

Domestic wheat markets were fairly steady, under a good demand for the relatively light offerings and increased premiums for high protein and good milling quality wheat largely offset the decline in futures. Marketings of winter wheat were further reduced, with receipts at the principal markets totaling only 4,193 cars, compared with 6,188 cars last week. The average protein for the first two months' inspections of the current crop year at Kansas City was 11.9 per cent, compared with 12.52 per cent last year. Current offerings were being readily taken by mills, although relatively large amounts were reported going to concerns operating spring wheat mills. At the close of the market September 4, 12 per cent protein No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Kansas City at 39½c to 41c, 12½ per cent protein at 41c to 42½c, and 13 per cent at 43¼c to 45½c. Mills in the Fort Worth territory were bidding 48½c to 49c for No. 1 hard winter, ordinary protein, delivered Group 3 or Galveston export rate points. Premiums of ½c were being paid for each half per cent protein over 13 per cent. Export bids at the Gulf were reported to be 4c to 5c below current prices paid by domestic buyers and local export sales were therefore negligible. Receipts of winter wheat at Denver were extremely light, totaling only 47 cars. Local mills were taking the better grades, while light weight wheat was moving to southern and southwestern points. No. 2 hard winter was quoted FOB Colorado shipping points September 4 at 31c to 33c per bushel. Receipts at Chicago totaled 387 cars. Shipping demand was somewhat improved and sales of about 100,000 bushels were reported for the week. No. 2 hard winter was quoted in that market at 48½c to 50¼c on September 4. Demand for soft winter wheat remained rather dull. Mills were taking only moderate amounts at most markets. Prices at Kansas City declined ½c per bushel, although there was a fair inquiry for the light offerings. No. 2 red was quoted nominally in that market September 4 at 42c to 44c per bushel. The St. Louis market declined slightly compared with a week ago, with No. 2 soft red winter quoted at 47c at the close of the week. Elevators were the principal buyers at Cincinnati. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted in that market at 49c to 50c per bushel. Spring wheat markets remained relatively firm, largely as a result of the light movement this season. Receipts at Minneapolis totaled 1,816 cars, with an unusually large proportion winter wheat. Inspection of winter wheat during the week totaled 641 cars. Receipts of spring wheat at Duluth totaled 314 cars. Protein premiums were well maintained at Minneapolis, with No. 1 dark northern spring 12 to 15 per cent protein at 5 cto 10c over the September price, which closed September 4 at 59½c, the same as a week ago. No. 1 hard winter in the southwest was quoted at 3c to 11c over the Chicago September price of 46½c. No. 1 dark northern was selling at Duluth at the close of the week at 66½c to 72½c, and No. 1 northern at 66½c to 71½c per bushel.

All-Day "Sunsets"

Most of us think of Anarctic "scenery" as barren and colorless, but W. C. Haines, of the United States weather bureau, who was meteorologist with the Byrd Antarctic expedition, says that gorgeous colors and queer figures appear in the Antarctic sky. When the sun skirts the horizon before disappearing for the long polar night, there are brilliant "sunsets" lasting all day. The colors most often seen are red, orange, yellow, violet, and green. The Aurora Australis, southern counterpart of the northern lights, makes bands of varcolored lights running from the horizon up to the zenith. Different kinds of rings are formed by tiny ice particles in the air breaking up the sunlight and moonlight. There may be a circle around the sun or moon, or a cross, or a cross within a circle. Sometimes the geometric figures are more complicated and on the rims of the circle are parts of other circles, with streaks of light called sun dogs on each side of the sun. These designs vary, says Mr. Haines, because of the way the crystals of ice in the air are turned toward the light.

It Can't Be Done

There is one born every minute! This time a young man in New Jersey decided to try out the old theory that a lighted match would be extinguished is quickly plunged into gasoline. Result! He is now in a hospital in a critical condition, his body badly burned. Theoretically a lighted match could be extinguished by gasoline if it could be quickly plunged through pure air into the liquid. Unfortunately, it is impossible to fulfill these requirements, as wherever there is gasoline there is also gasoline vapor immediately above it. This vapor mixed with air forms a powerful explosive, the same as that which propels motor cars. In the foregoing experiment the lighted match had to pass through a layer of vapor mixed with air which immediately exploded and covered the victim with flaming gasoline. As an interesting sidelight of this experiment, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported a 1929 fire loss of $15,000,000 caused by petroleum and its products and listed under the heading "Strictly preventable." It also points out that people who attempt to do dry cleaning at home with gasoline are courting a lot of trouble and disaster.

Many Burglaries

Burglaries are being reported from all sections of the country at this time and it behooves everyone to be on the safe side by taking extra precautions to make their homes and places of business secure against such. Three stores were robbed at Lewiston Sunday morning with a consequent loss of some $1000 in cash. The places entered were Montgomery Ward, MacMarr and the Peterson Market. A burglar was caught robbing a store at Kamiah at 2 o'clock Saturday morning, the alarm having been turned in by the night telephone operator—and yet all they generally get is cussings!

Better be safe than sorry—see that your places of business are as near "burglar proof" as it is possible to make them.

Cork In Shoes

Cork finds still another use in shoes as innersoling. There are several kinds of cork material for this purpose. One consists of ground cork composition with a linseed oil cement or binder calandered on a single fabric facing. A number of manufacturers use it for full size and half size innersoles which are sold through retail shoe dealers and also through five and ten cent stores. These insoles are frequently worn in skating and sport shoes, as they provide added warmth, insulating value and resiliency.—N. E. WALKER, shoe and harness repairing, leather goods. 37-1

For Benefit of Ducks—Not Hunter

In some sections of the country hunters are protesting Pres. Latah County Taxpayers League

A number of farmers and taxpayers of Latah County appeared before the Board of County Commissioners on September 8 asking that county levies be kept at the same rate per one hundred dollars as last year, or lowered, and that there be no increase in levy to offset the decrease in assessed valuation.

Eric Oller, the president of the League, G. P. Mix, lieutenant governor, Arnold Lyons, Oscar Anderson, Jim Nelson, O. E. Bell and J. H. Felton, attorney for the association were among those present on behalf of the taxpayers league.

The Taxpayers League respectfully called attention to the fact that in the year 1921 the total expenditures of Latah County for all purposes was the sum of $66,717.80; that in 1930 the total expenditure for all purposes was $92,802.07; that the proposed budget as submitted by Harry A. Thatcher, County Auditor, makes possible an expenditure in 1932 of $113,395; that in the year 1921 the total assessed valuation, less exemptions, was $21,022,398.00; that in 1930 the total assessed valuation, less exemptions was $17,976,213.00; that this fall the assessed valuation upon which the levy will be made will be under fifteen millions. This calls for a decrease for expenditures or an increase in taxation.

The League officials feel that a 20 per cent cut in expenditures is necessary and possible.
