Are You Ready?

Those who paid income tax in 1931 will this week, more than likely, receive their blank for the making out of their "profit and loss" account, so Uncle Sam can see whether you made a few pennies or not. If you did so, the chances are that you will have to pay tribute to your Uncle Samuel and the state government, both of whom want to know what you have been doing in a financial way.

The income tax is payable on or before March 15 and may be paid in quarterly installments of 25 per cent.

9,000 Bills — 14 Days

Just think! Congress had been in session two whole weeks and only 9,000 bills had been introduced to that time—with six passed. There are now more than several times that many bills on the statute books that the senators and congressmen of this big United States know nothing about. Most of them seem to think if they don't introduce a few bills each session, their constituents feel that he is a useless appendage.

It would be better if many of the would-be introducers of bills were at home instead of trying to pile up useless bills that will be forgotten as soon as they are passed and signed by the president—if they ever are.

COASTING ACCIDENTS ARE FAST AND FURIOUS

Three coasting accidents have happened in Kendrick within the past few days—two of them on Sunday evening and one Monday evening. One of the accidents happened when a bobsled containing eight young people started in the street between the Keene and Leith homes and headed down the short, steep hill. Garth Hill was at the helm and was unable to steer the sled away from the city water pump that sets down on the flat, the sled striking it. Three of the youngsters had their legs pretty badly skinned, but none of them badly hurt. The injured are Garth Hill, Mildred Kite and Phoebe Carley.

Betty Jane Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Thomas met with a coasting accident Sunday, cutting a short gash in her scalp which required two stitches to close.

Frank Homer Rider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rider, met with a painful accident Monday evening while coasting near the bottom of the school-house hill. Just how the accident happened is not known, and Frank is unable to tell just now, he having bit his tongue almost half in two and it required two stitches in that member to put it back together. His sled tracks show that he coasted across the rock garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leith, evidently striking one of the large rocks in his descent. It is a very painful wound.

Another Drive On Lights

The annual roundup and drive on poor lights will start January 15 at Lewiston, according to State Traffic Officer Harry Clark, who, with the police officers of that city and the sheriff of Nez Perce county, will undertake the roundup. It is no uncommon thing to meet many cars with only one light, glaring lights, no tail or stop lights, almost any evening between here and Lewiston, especially on the river road.

Complaints are received daily, Clark said, of cars operating with one light, some with no lights and others with lights improperly adjusted as to make driving unsafe for others.

"Front and rear lights must be used on vehicles when there is not sufficient light to render clearly discernable any person or other object on the highway at a distance of 200 feet ahead," Clark said.

After Jan. 15 drivers will be asked to show light certificates or display a sticker that the lights have been tested and found all right.

The official light testing station for this section is at Deobald Brothers and it might be a good idea to have yours tested and taken care of at once. It will probably save trouble and expense in the near future.

Deer Near Town

Six deer are reported to be staying near the Everett Fraser place up the gulch from town, Everett having reported seeing them two different times. They have also been seen by Lester and Frank Crocker.

On Monday authentic information reached town that these deer were being shot at, and possibly some of them killed. The names of these parties doing the shooting are known and the Kendrick Gun Club advises them to desist.

The deep snow has driven them down for feed and they are said to be in poor shape. Why anyone should wish to kill them is too deep for understanding, as at this time a good steak could hardly be cut from even a large buck.

Oscar Slind reported seeing three in the road on his way home from town the other day. He said they ran along in front of the car and did not appear to be the least bit afraid.

GRAIN MARKETS STEADY AS YEAR CLOSES

Grain markets were generally steady at the close of 1931, but trading was of small volume and prices of all grains, with the exception of barley and durum wheat, were well below those of a year ago, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Marketings for the season have been unusually small, but demand has been correspondingly light, with the result that market stocks have held at relatively high levels, particularly for wheat.

Reviewing the market situation, the past year has shown many unusual developments. A year ago wheat prices were considered low, when No. 2 hard winter wheat at Kansas City was selling at 67c to 70c and No. 1 northern spring at Minneapolis at 74c to 76c per bushel. These stabilized prices were maintained well up into June, but with the arrival of the new crop no further stabilization was attempted and prices worked very sharply downward until early in October, when ordinary protein No. 2 hard winter sold as low as 35c per bushel at Kansas City and No. 1 dark northern spring was bringing only 60c to 65c per bushel at Minneapolis. Wheat futures at Chicago reached the lowest point in the history of that market and prices at Liverpool were claimed to be the lowest in three centuries.

At the beginning of 1931 world stocks of wheat were unusually large as a result of good harvests in Russia, India and Australia and increased supplies in the United States and Canada. On top of these large stocks came the new crop, first a record wheat outturn in the United States and slightly larger harvests in Europe. The large supplies in the United States, together with the restricted demand from Europe, were largely responsible for the declining prices in August and September. Unsettled economic conditions in Europe, high tariffs in such important deficit countries as Germany, Italy and France, together with drastic milling restrictions requiring high utilization of native wheat, all contributed to a slack inquiry from importing countries. Towards the last of August Russia began shipping out unusually large amounts of wheat and this was an additional weakening factor in the situation.

One bright spot in the picture was the relatively large world shipment during the early part of the new crop year. While Europe was not taking large quantities of foreign wheat, the areas outside of Europe, including Central American countries, Brazil, the Orient and some countries in Africa, took much larger amounts than usual, with the result that world shipments established a new record for the period August through October. Cheap ocean freights and the extremely low prices of wheat both favored the increased movement of wheat last fall.

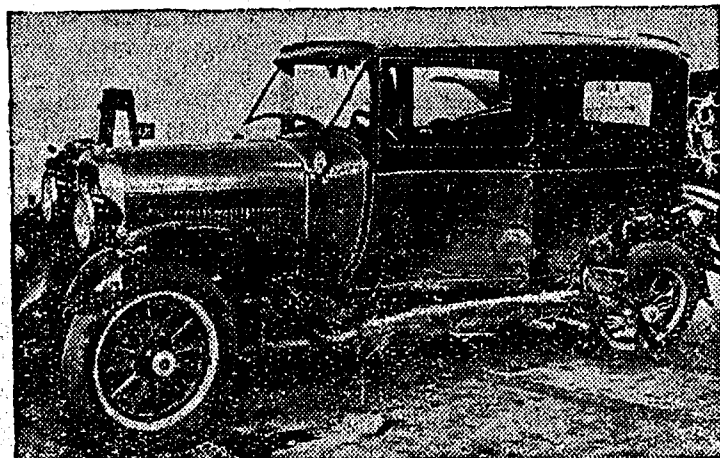

During October the wheat market strengthened and prices tended upward. While the advance of around 25c per bushel took place between October 5 and November 9, was accelerated by active trading in the futures markets, which later subsided, bringing about a sharp decline, there was some fundamental changes in the situation which placed the market on a firmer basis.

One important factor was the confirmation by official estimates of very short crops of spring wheat in the U. S. and Canada. The United States had less than half a crop of spring wheat while Canada harvested hardly three-quarters of a crop. Sharp reductions in acreages to be harvested were officially reported in both Argentina and Australia. Along about this time also Russian shipments slackened and there were prospects of some modification of restrictions on imports and milling of foreign wheat in some of the principal deficit countries of Europe. Unsettled world economic conditions were still a depressing factor, but world shipments continued of good volume and the burdensome stocks in most exporting countries decreased at a fair rate. The reduction was slow in the U. S., where growers and dealers appeared unwilling to sell at prevailing prices.

At the close of 1931 the world supply situation was about as follows: World stocks of wheat appeared to be materially smaller than a year ago, although United States stocks were unusually large. Supplies in the U. S. at the beginning of the

 Through some friends of ours we received the Kendrick Gazette and we want you to know how much we enjoy it.

There was one small item that we especially enjoyed in last week's paper—the one about some of your citizens catching a butterfly. Some people here wish to know if that sort of business is very prosperous in that part of the country and if so there are plenty of husky men here that are unemployed.

Hoping your paper is a prosperous one in the coming year, we remain

No individual, no business can really be a part of a community without living in that community. A true understanding of the real needs of the community can only be had from the closest of associations.

That is why we feel that this bank holds such a favorable position in this community. The people of the community feel and know that it understands their needs and because it is a vital part of the community itself.

central western markets at the close of December this season. Big Bend bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 79½c, compared with 71c a year ago, when supplies of this class were relatively larger. Soft and western white wheat, however, were quoted at Portland December 31 at 63½c, compared with 67½c a year ago. In California the short crop has been a strengthening influence in the market, with the result that prices of local milling wheat are about the same as last season. No. 1 hard white was quoted at San Francisco December 31 this season at $1.45 or about the same price as a year ago. Soft white wheat, however, was bringing $1.32½ to $1.35 at San Francisco at the close of December this season, compared with $1.35 to $1.40 at the close of December, 1930.

present crop year were about fifty million bushels larger than a year ago. Since the beginning of the season exports of wheat and flour have fallen about 13,000,000 bushels below those for the corresponding period last season, while mill grindings have decreased about 11,500,000 bushels. Canada, on the other hand, has reduced her supplies and at the first of December had about 30,000,000 bushels less wheat for export and carry-over than a year ago. Statistics on European wheat supplies are rather incomplete, but it appears that supplies of native wheat in all important deficit areas of Europe have been materially reduced since harvest as a result of the smaller imports and enforced utilization of home-grown grains. There is little authentic information available as to Russian wheat supplies, but most trade authorities estimate Russian stocks available for export somewhat below those of a year ago. Supplies in the Southern Hemisphere are smaller than last year. The combined wheat crops in Australia and Argentina, according to official estimates, total about 60,000,000 bushels less than last season, but this decrease in production is partially offset by an increased carry-over of old wheat, principally in Argentina. The world's visible supply of wheat at the first of December, according to trade estimates, totaled 571,403,000 bushels, compared with 541,530,000 bushels on December 1, 1930.

Prices of most classes of wheat are sharply lower than a year ago, but well above the low point reached in early October. On December 31, ordinary protein, No. 2 hard winter was quoted at Kansas City at 49c to 50c, compared with 69c to 70c a year ago. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted at St. Louis at the close of December at 57½c, compared with 81c a year ago. No. 1 dark northern spring, ordinary protein, was selling at Minneapolis December 31 at 69c to 72c, compared with quotations of 73c to 76½c a year ago. The scarcity of durum wheat however, has held the prices of this class were relatively firmer with high protein types of No. 2 Amber Durum quoted at Minneapolis December 31 at 85c to 89c, compared with 67c to 68c at the close of December, 1930. Ordinary No. 1 durum was selling at Duluth about 3c higher than a year ago.

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

Student Body Play

"Tiger House," written by Robert St. Clair, to be presented at the Kendrick Theatre, January 22, by the high school student body, under the direction of Mrs. Jarvis, promises plenty of thrills and suspense.

Following is the cast:
 Erma Lowerje ..... Jane Plummer
 Yami, a Hindu ..... Ralph Blevins
 Aunt Sophie ..... Kathryn Emery
 Peggy Van Ess ..... Nona McAllister
 The Mystery Woman.....Rowena Ramey
 Arthur Hale ..... Lovick Walbeck
 Macintosh ..... Harold Abrams
 Murdock ..... George Davidson
 Thompson ..... Robert Smith
 Oswald Kerins ..... Garth Hill
 The Tiger ..... ? ? ?

It is the odd construction which gives this play its chief charm. St. Clair has a gem in Peggy—St. Clair, with his cruel Tiger theme, the lighted lantern in the painting, and the rain effects, has enough business for several shows. It reveals a new method of playwrighting.

Troy Games

On Wednesday evening of last week the high school basketball squad met the Troy team on our own floor. After a fast and hard-fought game the score stood 21 to 22, the home boys losing by the narrow margin of one point. Buoyed up by their near success in this game, the following evening they journeyed to Troy, where they were defeated by a score of 39 to 27. A number of the regular players did not go to Troy and for that reason a number of substitutes were played.
