Lodge Installation
Mrs. Cecil Gruell was installed as Noble Grand of the Rebekah lodge Thursday evening. Other officers installed were Mrs. Luna Deane, vice-grand; Mrs. Walter Cochran, R. S. N. G., Mrs. Ed. Taylor and Mrs. Frank Vincent, supporters to vice grand; Mrs. Henry Irwin, warden; Mrs. Lou Spray, chaplain; Mrs. Dennis Buckallew, secretary; Mrs. Eben Adams, musician.
Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Missionary Meets
The Baptist Missionary Society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Everett Custer with 19 attending. The officers were re-elected for this year. An interesting study of India was made, followed by a social hour. Refreshments were served.

Appendicitis Operation
Miss Beatrice Guthrie, daughter of T. J. Guthrie, was operated on at Lewiston Tuesday morning for appendicitis.

Personals
Miss Edith Adriansen visited relatives in Moscow over the weekend.

George Hutchison spent the weekend here with his family, returning Sunday evening to his work at Pullman.

A large number of Odd Fellows from here attended lodge at Kendrick Saturday evening.

Miss Thelma Spray entertained a large crowd of young people at her home Saturday evening.

Mrs. Anna Nourse is still confined to her bed with illness.
Ernest Walsh returned Monday to Spangle after spending the weekend with his family.

Are Remodeling Store
N. B. Long & Sons started this week the remodeling of the interior of their store building to accommodate their new change of policy, inaugurated January 1. The change will also make the different departments of the store in closer touch, making it possible to handle the trade to better advantage.

The change includes the extending of the shoe department to the rear of the store on the east side. The men's furnishings will be moved to the chinaware department and the grocery department will take the place now occupied by the men's furnishings department, on the west side of the main room, and in the archway between the two rooms the meat department will be placed and the room now used for groceries will be used as a store room for extra stock.

Marvin Long, manager of the Long store, states that they have had a nice business during the depression, but that it has become necessary to inaugurate a different system of handling accounts in order that they may be able to handle them to better advantage.

Parent-Teachers Association
The Kendrick Parent-Teachers Association will hold their regular meeting Monday evening, January 18, at 7:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the high school. All parents are requested to be present. The meeting will be opened with singing by members and parents, after which there will be a short business session followed by a program given by the teachers and students of the school. Light refreshments will be served and all those attending will be requested to bring spoon, cup and plate.

The association was sponsored by the Kendrick Commercial Club but it needs the help of all the parents in the school district and the community which this school serves. All it needs the help of all the parents. Information may be had by asking the president, Mrs. W. B. Deobald, or vice-president, Mrs. A. K. Carlson.

New Footbridge Over Clearwater
Everyone who has occasion to cross the 18th street bridge at Lewiston over the Clearwater river will be pleased to learn that a new footbridge is being built along the bridge over the river. It has indeed been a dangerous place for pedestrians and an aggravation to motorists, who have had to stop many times to avoid hitting a pedestrian, who had no other way of getting across the river.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HELD REGULAR MONTHLY MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the Kendrick Commercial club was held Monday evening in the Raby Hotel, dinner being served at 6:30 o'clock to 18 members. While this was the smallest number that has been in attendance at the club meeting for a long time, what it lacked in numbers it made up in enthusiasm—and doing things.

After the minutes of the preceding meeting had been read and approved the business of the evening was taken up.

A communication from the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce regarding the meeting of the State Chamber at Lewiston next Thursday and Friday was read, and while no delegation was appointed to attend, it was declared advisable that as many as possible attend this meeting. It was stated that Governor C. Ben Ross will be in attendance and it might be a good time to interview him on a few important matters concerning the Kendrick section.

A report was made on the community Christmas tree. The committee in charge of the work was very enthusiastic over the results, from both a pleasure and profit standpoint. The pleasure all received and the profit derived from the fact that the town had really given the youngsters an evening of pleasure.

A communication from the Northern Pacific railroad company regarding the stockyards situation had been received and representative of the company had also visited Kendrick and recommended that the yards be put in at the place designated by a committee from the club.

H. B. Thompson of the Educational committee reported that the Parent-Teachers association had been organized and was functioning in a very satisfactory manner. Supt. Brigham also stated his pleasure and gratification that the association is doing much good and will be a great help to both parents and teachers in reaching a better understanding of the problems confronting them.

The most important discussion of the evening was the unemployment situation and the manner of helping those who now need help and those who may need help later on. Many schemes and theories were put forth during the discussion and it was finally decided to open a store-house where food of various kinds could be stored and later given out to those in need. An appeal is made for food of all kinds in a large advertisement appearing in this issue of the Gazette. No matter what you may have that you can spare, it will be gratefully received by the committee in charge of the work—E. H. Dammarell, Rev. Edward J. Smith and Marvin Long—and will be given to the needy.

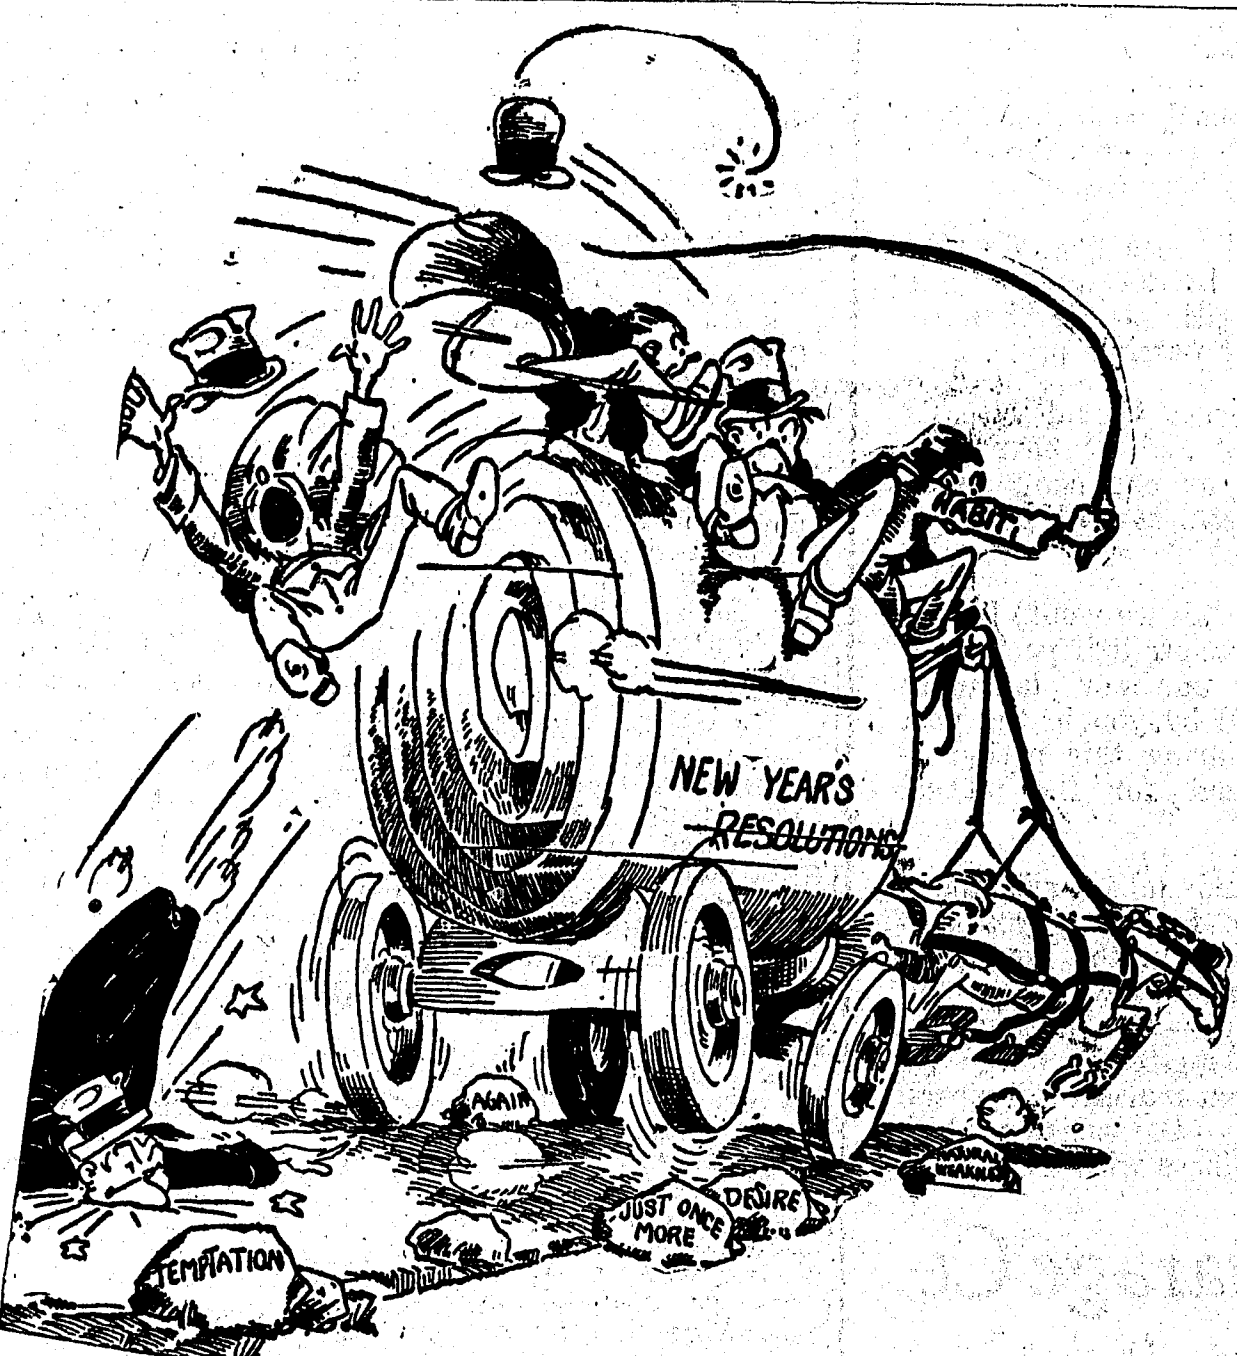

The Kendrick-Rochdale company has kindly consented to donate the use of their flour house for the storage of any food that may be donated and it will be in direct charge of the committee named above.
If you have anything that you are willing to donate for the poor, please bring it in, if you live in the country, and those who live in town will please notify the committee if you have anything to spare that will help in this emergency. Potatoes, cabbage, carrots, turnips, squash, fruit, beans, peas, apples, onions—if fact anything that is good to eat, will be thankfully received by the committee and properly distributed.

It was also decided to invite the wives of the members of the club to attend the next meeting and help solve some of the problems that have almost flooded the men.

Nature Story
European newspapers are full of the story of how thousands of swallows were shipped by airplane from Vienna to a point just over the Italian border, and released.

We might counter with the story of how tens of thousands of swallows are shipped by airplane from Canada to a point just over the American border and released, but it's a commonplace and scarcely worth mentioning.—Colorado Springs Independent.

Tax League Meet January 16
The Latah County Taxpayers League will meet in the courthouse at Moscow at 1 p. m., Saturday, January 16, at which time Forest D. Leeper of Lewiston will address the meeting on the tax question. All members and friends of the league are asked to be present.

CARROLLS ENTERTAIN AT NINE TABLES OF BRIDGE

Another one of those rollicking hard-times parties, given by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carroll Friday night of last week in the Kendrick Store building, was enjoyed by thirty-six people, who came in costumes of all kinds, ranging in all degrees of "repression."

The how of it all came about from the fact that there was a football game down in California between U. S. C. and Tulane colleges. Bill Watts bet on U. S. C. and Jack Carroll bet on Tulane—and Carroll lost. The bet was a chili feed for the "gang" by the loser. The Carrolls came across with one of the best "feeds" and the most fun that has been evident during the winter season. Everyone present had a jolly good time—and no foolin'.

After the games had been finished, the scores were put on a large "score-board" on the wall. The men were dubbed U. S. C. and the women Tulane. The women won by some 1000 points—vindicating, Jack said, his contention that Tulane should have won the football game in the first place.

After the games had been concluded, instead of giving the prize to the one with highest score, a jar of candy kisses was passed around and everyone given a guess as to the number of pieces in the jar. Mrs. W. L. McCreary guessed the nearest to the number of pieces in the jar and was given first prize. Harold Thomas was the farthest away from the number and was given the jar of candy.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames F. S. Curtiss, E. H. Emery, Silvie Cook, W. B. Deobald, E. A. Deobald, D. A. Christensen, H. B. Thompson, Harold Thomas, Wade T. Keene, Geo. Leith, W. L. McCreary, R. H. Ramey, W. A. Watts, F. H. Rider, A. K. Carlson, Edgar Long, Misses Rilla Davidson and Josephine Deagen, P. C. McCreary, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carroll.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wittman invited in several of their relatives and friends Sunday, January 10, to help them celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary, when a bountiful dinner was spread.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fruchtl, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wittman, Mr. and Mrs. Syd Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas and children, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lowe and family.

The guests departed at about 2 o'clock Monday morning—and the only regret was that it did not last long enough.

They all wished Mr. and Mrs. Wittman the best there is in life.

Odd Fellows Entertain Visitors

The local I. O. O. F. lodge met in regular session Saturday evening, January 9, with visitors from Lewiston, Deary, Troy, Leland and Juliaetta in attendance.

The local degree staff conferred the second degree on a brother from the Troy lodge.
After the lodge closed the members and visitors assembled around the tables in the banquet room and partook of a feed, put on by the brothers. There were 65 in attendance.

The lodge renewed acquaintance with several of their own brothers, who had not been seen in the room for some time past.

UNCERTIFIED TRUCKS BARRED FROM HIGHWAYS

When the Chelan county superior court in Wenatchee, last week, granted the railroads and certified motor truck lines a temporary injunction against all trucks without certificates from the state department of public works, one thousand or more freight trucks were swept off the highways of the state.

The Northern-Pacific, Great Northern and Milwaukee united with Carter's Fast Motor Freight companies of Spokane and the Consolidated Freight Lines of Spokane, Seattle and Portland to obtain the injunction.

While there are 1300 trucks affected, only 52 operate under franchises, according to attorneys in the case.

"The injunction granted was quite broad in character," said Fabian Dodds, associate counsel for the Great Northern. "Any truck operator who violates the injunction will be in contempt of court, and the contempt not only will apply to the owner, but to any or all of his employees."

"No new certificates can be granted over routes already served by certified carriers unless it can be shown the existing service is not adequate."

Local managers of companies affected in Spokane had nothing to say, except that they would fight the case right up to the state supreme court.

Hooray For Bill

There is one thing that can be said in Bill Borah's favor: He has always been an advocate of reasonable salaries for officials at Washington, and for several years refused to accept a boost in his own senatorial pay check. He has introduced a bill asking for a cut in the pay of cabinet members and members of congress, as well as members of the farm board. This is one time we are going to agree that Bill is right and should be encouraged in his efforts along that line.

STATE CHAMBER SPONSORS IDAHO TAXATION EXPOSE

History reveals that governments, like individuals, are addicted to the habit of living as luxuriously as their means afford. A surplus of funds is something that governments seem to abhor as nature does the well-known vacuum. Governments never have had, haven't and never will have all the money they could see. Almost invariably governments, again like individuals, are in debt.

Idaho's political history from the day in 1863 when she attained the rank of a territory bear out the above assertions. Still, one can hardly complain at the progress that has been made. Reasonable indebtedness is not frequently a spur a greater achievement.

The first territorial legislature must have been of this opinion since its first financial transaction was to incur an indebtedness. Salary increases to the territorial officials totaling $13,660 were authorized from a territorial treasury that existed in name alone.

Not only was the state's first venture into debt, but, in a cursory glance at the records, this writer failed to discover any time when she has been out of debt, a condition that does not seem to have seriously hampered her growth.

That 1863 indebtedness, which would seem trivial today, is recorded in the early histories as a heavy tax burden upon the people, which discloses that the current problem is by no means the first of its kind. Tax burdens have always been heavy in times of adversity; in times of prosperity they are not so noticeable.

The first legislature prescribed a general tax for territorial expenses of 80 cents on the hundred dollars. Counties were permitted 100 cents on the hundred dollars, as well as the necessary special levies. In addition a $4 poll tax was collected from all males between the ages of 21 and 50. The assessable property value was $3,697,304.49. That is the picture of Idaho's first revenue system.

In 1864, the first year of collections, revenue totaling $29,578.39 accrued to the territorial legislature. This was sufficient to take care of the initial indebtedness of $13,660; but the busy territorial officers had by that time succeeded in increasing the governmental obligations to approximately $50,000.

The financial report for the following year, 1865, shows that the tax collections, totaled $20,999.98 and that the territorial obligations had mounted to the then staggering sum of $67,565.54.

This spread between expenditures and receipts was enough to dismay even the doughty old territorial officials and by the time the third legis-

GRAIN MARKETS STEADY ON LIGHT RECEIPTS

Domestic grain markets were generally steady during the week ending January 8, with milling quality wheat readily taken, but feed grains were meeting only a fair inquiry at most markets, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The sharp advance in security markets, some improvement in export demand for north American grain, together with relatively light marketings, were strengthening factors in the wheat market. A slow shipping inquiry continued to dominate the market for feed grains, but this was largely offset by very small receipts. Rye was slightly higher, while flax was barely steady despite scant offerings.

There were no outstanding changes in the general wheat market situation during the week. Rains and snow in the domestic winter wheat belt were very beneficial to the crop, although more moisture is needed in western Kansas. Wheat is going into the winter in good condition over most of the southwest. World wheat markets were quiet, but a firm tone was apparent as stocks of exporting countries were reduced and offerings were of native wheat in France and Italy of only moderate volume. Marketings are reported light, but in most areas sufficient for current needs. Italian bread wheat prices declined slightly during the week, but durum wheats were firmer. Milling regulations have been modified to permit the utilization of 50 per cent of foreign durum in milling mixtures. Supplies of good quality native milling wheat in Europe are reported to be relatively low. Continental port stocks are about normal, although below those of a year ago, while United Kingdom port stocks are still larger than at the corresponding date last year.

Black-Sea shipments have decreased materially and Russian exports for the week totaled only 512,000 bushels. Russian wheat shipments, however, have been heavy again this season, the total movement of wheat from August through December amounting to 65,500,000 bushels, as against 70,500,000 bushels during the corresponding period a year ago. Wheat procurings to the middle of December were reported to be only 69 per cent of the yearly plan, although trade advices suggest that they may have exceeded in quantity those of a year ago. Recent arrivals of Russian wheat in English markets are reported of considerably lower quality than earlier offerings, due in chief to deficient gluten. Soviet some instances to field damage, but authorities have recently announced their intention to concentrate on the quality rather than quantity next season and thus strengthen their competitive position in world markets. Plans for winter wheat seedings were not completely fulfilled this fall, but this may be offset by larger seedings of spring wheat which normally comprise two-thirds of the total crop. Seedings of spring wheat last year totaled around 63,000,000 acres.

Harvesting of southern hemisphere crops continued under generally favorable conditions, with early offerings showing good quality. Australian wheat has not been pressed upon European markets, since the Orient has continued a liberal purchaser, but offerings of new Argentine wheat have increased. Southern hemisphere shipments for the week totaled nearly 5,000,000 bushels. Estimates place the old wheat carry-over in Argentina at 16,500,000 bushels, which, together with the official estimate of the new crop, indicates a total supply for the season of around 235,000,000 bushels, compared with 251,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Marketings of domestic wheat were of only moderate volume, with 1964 cars received in the principal winter wheat markets and 271 cars at Minneapolis and Duluth. Milling wheat was in good demand and cash premiums were steady to slightly higher at most points. Ordinary protein No. 1 hard winter was quoted Jan. 8 at Kansas City at 50c to 52c. Arrivals at Omaha were mostly on previous purchases and very little cash grain was being offered for sale. Marketings at Denver remained of fair volume but demand was principally from local mills, as shipping inquiry was slow, particularly from western areas. Domestic mills in the Fort Worth territory were paying 60c per bushel for ordinary protein No. 1 hard winter. Very little hard winter wheat

Lower Prices Than Ever

Before

Owing to present financial conditions over which we have no control, we are forced to change our policy of doing business.

For your convenience all accounts, starting from January 1, 1932, will be due and payable the first of each month, with all merchandise and labor sold at the lowest possible price.

This garage has been very liberal with its credit customers in the past and we have gone the limit. Any courtesies you can show us in this new way of doing business will be more than appreciated at all times.

Space will not let us print all we would like to tell you, and we would appreciate it if you would come in and let us explain our new plan more thoroughly. We have stood by you in the past — let's all pull together during this period of depression and readjustment for the mutual benefit of all.

Tires, gas, repairs and labor are today lower than they have been for many years — tires lower than at any time in the history of the industry. Naturally such low prices cut down our margin of profit — the margin that has enabled us to carry long-term charge accounts in the past. Today that margin will permit of a month to month basis — the basis on which all wholesale houses do business with us.

An Appeal For All Surplus Food

At the meeting of the Kendrick Commercial Club held on Monday evening it was voted to establish an EMERGENCY FOOD DEPOT. The Kendrick Rochdale Co. offered the use of their flour house for this purpose.

The idea of this depot is to assemble surplus foods of all kinds from the people of this community that HAVE for the people that HAVE NOT.

Any Surplus Foods of any kind that you can spare or share for those among us that are needy will be very thankfully received and will be as carefully distributed. This surplus will be distributed WITHOUT COST — ALL CONTRIBUTIONS GOING 100% TO THE NEEDY.

PROMPTNESS IS A VIRTUE AT THIS TIME. FOR FURTHER PARTICULARS PHONE —

ECONOMY OF GOVERNMENT IN IDAHO

(By Fred E. Lukens, Sec. of State)
The Judicial Organization

In a discussion of the organization of the courts of the state, the writer does not assume to speak from the standpoint of an attorney, but from the standpoint of a citizen and official whose observation has led him to believe that decided economies can be realized by revamping the system. No successful attack or adverse criticism can be sustained against Idaho's courts. They have been uniformly administered, and the people of the state very evidently have confidence in them. Therefore, any suggestions which are made are made primarily with the desire for economy. The suggestions which follow do not apply to the Supreme Court. It should have five members, and function practically as it does now. On the other hand, the district courts have been established from time to time as the need for additional districts appeared. Population of various counties have not remained constant, and some districts have grown faster than others, some have decreased in population since they were established. Likewise, judicial business has not increased, and the present scheme of district boundaries is not based on the amount of litigation taking place in the courts now. Therefore, there should be a study of the continued needs for existing courts.

There are now 11 judicial districts, 6 of them having one judge and 5 of them two. The First District, composed of one county with a population of 19,060 people, has one judge. The Fourth District, composed of 4 counties with 16,000, has one judge; while the Ninth District, composed of 6 counties with 51,770 people, has one judge. Then, the Eighth District, composed of 4 counties, with 43,547 people, has two judges. From these comparisons it may be assumed that there is some need for readjustment. Therefore, the suggestion is made that the state be re-districted, perhaps with 12 districts, and that there should be one judge for each district. The groups of counties in each should, as nearly as possible, have approximately the same amount of judicial business.

The number of district courts should not be made too few. The work now done by the probate judges should be assigned to them, and the office of probate judge abolished. The clerk of the district court could perform the clerical duties now connected with the probating of estates. Thus the economy which would result would not lie in the material reduction of the number of district courts, but in the abolishing of the office of probate judge in the 44 counties of the state. This would not only result in economy, but would bring to the consideration of probate matters legal knowledge which is not available in all counties, because only a few probate judges are attorneys. This suggestion is not based entirely on theory. In at least one county of the state, it has been the practice for many years for the probate judge to act as clerk of the district court. Let us assume that the average salary of the probate judge is $1,500 per year. Abolishing the 44 offices would mean a saving of $66,000. Of course, this arrangement would in some counties require additional clerical help on the part of the clerk of the district court, but it is safe to estimate that the net saving from this arrangement would be at least $50,000. It would not be necessary, under this arrangement, for the district judge to take up his time with minor details, but to act where judicial decisions are required. Neither is this arrangement without precedent. For many years in the state of Washington, the superior judge has had supervision over probate matters.

Another suggestion which it is believed is worthy of consideration, is that each district should have a prosecuting attorney. It is not necessary that each county shall have such an official. There are 15 counties in the state with population of less than 5,000. One county has only 1,122 people. It is self-evident that such counties as these do not require an individual prosecuting attorney. Thus each judicial district would have its own prosecuting attorney. Utah, with its 7 judicial districts, has 7 prosecuting attorneys, while Idaho has 44. With a possible reduction of 32 in the number of attorneys, even though the salaries of the remaining district attorneys were increased, there would be a net saving of from $30,000 to $40,000.

It is safe to assume that with economies which would result from a rearrangement of the court system, a net reduction in expense would approximate $100,000 without in any way impairing efficiency, but with a possible increase in the quality of service done for the public.

What Does It Mean?

Down at Clarkston, F. L. Brown of that city, showing a lilac shrub the other day with opening foliage. He says that all his lilac plants show signs of spring growth.

They haven't anything on Kendrick. A couple of weeks ago a large butterfly was captured in Main street, and the other day another one was found in the Deobald garage office, as lively as you please. And the first of this week E. E. McDowell was out on the sidewalk above town with his dog, which he noticed making an unusual "dive" into the brush for something. When he came to where the dog was, he found that it had captured a ground squirrel.

It's about time Lewiston or California was coming forward with something to show that they are in "the banana belt."

Now comes news that the postmaster general wants to increase the postal rates: what an idea!

GRAIN MARKETS STEADY ON LIGHT RECEIPTS

was received at St. Louis, but No. 2 was quoted at nominally 56c per bushel. The same grade was quoted at Chicago at 56c to 57c.

Soft winter wheat did not share in the strength of hard winter at Kansas City, but declined about 1c, with No. 2 soft red winter quoted in that market Jan. 8 at 51c to 55c per bushel. Prices at St. Louis were also slightly lower, but demand was sufficient to absorb the relatively light offerings. No. 2 soft red winter was quoted in that market at 57c at the close of the week. Receipts at Cincinnati were also light, but there was a more active demand than at other points. Prices strengthened, with No. 2 red quoted Jan. 8 at 56c to 60c per bushel.

Pacific Coast markets were rather quiet. Futures at Portland advanced slightly, but cash prices declined as a result of a slow demand. With the local quotations above an export basis, no new export sales of wheat were consummated. Domestic inquiry continued of only moderate volume and was confined to immediate needs. Because of its scarcity this season high protein milling wheat was in urgent demand at firm prices and some 14 per cent protein hard winter was reported purchased from Kansas and Nebraska to supplement the small offerings of high protein wheat from Montana. Receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia River terminals totaled 384 cars for the week, compared with 932 for the corresponding week last year. Wheat and flour shipments from these terminals for the season through December totaled 34,938,000 bushels, compared with 30,802,000 bushels for the corresponding period last year. Oriental and California takings were considerably larger this year, but shipments to Europe were reduced almost two-thirds. At the close of the market Jan. 8, Big Bend Bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 77c to 78c, and other varieties at 63c per bushel, sacked, basis No. 1. Western white was quoted at Seattle at 64½c, western red and hard winter at 65c, and Bluestem hard white at 79c, basis No. 1 wheat.

California wheat markets were quiet but steady during the week. Prices were practically unchanged at San Francisco, where local No. 1 hard white wheat was quoted at $1.45 and

No. 1 soft white wheat at $1.32 to $1.35 per 100, sacked. No. 2 hard winter, 13 per cent protein was quoted at $1.30 in bulk from Texas and higher protein still higher in price. Offerings of California wheat were negligible, except at interior points, where northern wheat was at a big freight disadvantage. Requirements of mills and feeders have been mostly supplied from Texas, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. Offerings of intermountain wheat have been very light. Receipts at San Francisco for the season through December totaled 80,166 tons, according to trade reports, of which 72,052 tons were northern wheat. Seasonal receipts last year for this period totaled 63,073 tons, of which 38,418 tons were northern wheat.

Demand at Los Angeles was confined principally to immediate requirements and the bulk of the receipts were being taken by mills and feed manufacturers on previous orders. Current needs were being supplied largely from New Mexico and Texas. Receipts from Utah and Idaho were light and only a few cars arrived from California and Colorado points. At the close of the market Jan. 8, No. 2 hard winter, ordinary protein was quoted in bulk at $1.25 to $1.27, per 100.

We're All Swelled Up

The Gazette is all swelled up this week, due to the fact that the Lewiston Tribune on Monday (when news is always scarce) devoted about a third of one of its editorial columns to taking issue with us upon what we said about the newspapers of today devoting so much space to crime. Quoting the following from the Gazette:

"Newspapers in general today are records of crime, destroying faith in humanity and making us wary of our fellow men. We are led to believe that the world is made up largely of criminals."

Among other comments, the Tribune says:

"Of course, those who affect to see in the printed news of crime a social danger will say that they did not mean to go to extremes or to include the exceptional cases in their ban—but only that such developments should be reduced to the baldest skeleton, without flesh or blood or articulation. But when it comes to that, it will probably be found that the judgement of those who make the papers is rather better than that of those whose only office is to criticize the papers."

The Gazette fully realizes that there are times when the daily papers would have a hard time filling space did they not enlarge on crime. We are not taking issue with the Tribune in any particular. It uses crime material as a matter of news, of course. We do not claim that all crime news should be suppressed, but there are many sheets that gloat over crime and practically advise the sending of flowers to the "persecuted" prisoner instead of sending him to prison or to the gallows, where he perhaps properly belongs.

But we really can't see why the makers of newspapers should be any better judges of what makes good reading than the man who reads it and dares to express his opinion. There are many readers of papers and magazines who demand crime news and then there are those who take the opposite view and we can see no reason why their judgement isn't just as good as the man who gloats over crime.

"More Deadly Than The Male"

Under the heading "The More Deadly of the Species," the prohibition bureau's official weekly bulletin to its personnel related:

"Agents T. M. Vaughan and H. H. Sherman, St. Louis, Mo., December 10 were savagely attacked by Mrs. Rosie Balsama, who tried to wrest from Vaughan a kettle of whiskey which he had seized; and in a scuffle bit his nose so severely that he had to be taken to the U. S. marine hospital for treatment, and will be disabled for one week.

"In coming to his assistance, Agent Sherman was bit on the leg, and later Mrs. Balsama threw a bucket of ashes upon him."

Musical Notes Sterilize Milk

Score one more point for the farmer's wife and daughter (or whoever takes care of the milk), for now it is said to be possible to sterilize milk with musical notes. This would indicate, evidently, that all the farmer or dairyman will have to do to sterilize milk is to turn on the radio and set the milk can on the floor by the side of the machine and calmly read a book or the home town paper while the job is being done. Also score one more point for science and jazz.

STATE PURCHASING AGENT REPORTS ROAD MACHINERY

It will be noted by careful analysis of the above that the Purchasing Agent purchased four trucks of larger capacity at a saving of $2834.88 if the lower quotation on 3½ ton trucks were considered, or a total saving of $19,228.50 from the price quoted in the original Idaho Equipment Company lease-contract, under date of September 23, 1931, entered into by Alvin Harbour and H. Gusman, president of the Idaho Equipment Company.

Of course, there is some difference in the equipment inasmuch as the price accepted does not include auxiliary motors for the operation of snow plows. However, in the opinion of the engineers of the Department of Public Works the auxiliary motors on the Walters 5 ton trucks were unnecessary. In addition, the Howard-Cooper Corporation executed a written guarantee to furnish auxiliary motors for a delivered and installed price of $1,443.75 each, said motors to be of the identical make and capacity as those quoted by the Idaho Equipment Company at $2657.50 each. This agreement further guarantees delivery of these motors at any time within one year of the date hereof, which the state may desire. In the event that it should be necessary to add the auxiliary motors at a delivered price of $1,443.75 each, which amount, if added to the price submitted by the Walters people on the 5 ton trucks would make a grand total of $42,670. In addition, the state will have 5 ton trucks fully equipped, mounted and delivered, instead of 3½ ton trucks, unmounted as offered by the Idaho Equipment Company with the mounting, delivery and service charges extra.

A great deal has been said by those individuals who would criticize the administration for not accepting the prices submitted by the Ashton implement company. The principal reason was that their prices as quoted were on 90 H. P. motors, which, in the opinion of the engineers, were not sufficient to operate snow removal equipment in some of our higher altitudes. The prices quoted by other concerns were based on motors rated 100 H. P. or more.

State Purchasing Agent

Ford — Great American (?)

Nizhni-Novgorod, U. S. S. R., Jan. 1—Soviet Russia's newest and largest automobile manufacturing plant, reared in record time by American engineers to turn out Ford cars, officially began operation today after the ceremonies with which Russians always greet the opening of new industrial enterprises.

Officials hailed the new factory as the foundation of a motorized era for soviet Russia, in speeches at the plant and in formal reports to Joseph Stalin and government leaders.

Around the factory, which occupies 300,000 square yards and is said to be the largest of its kind in Europe, is being built a new city some 14 miles from the old city of Nizhni-Novgorod, once the great market place for middle Asia and China.

Construction and equipment of the plant, named "Molotoff" after Premier Vyacheslav Molotoff, cost approximately $119,000,000. The construction, under the direction of the Austin company of Cleveland, Ohio, was completed November 1, fifteen months after the work started.

The production schedule for the first quarter of this year concentrates on the manufacture of necessary factory instruments, contemplating an output of only 700 automobiles. After that the program calls for progressive production on a scale commensurate with the factory's capacity of 144,000 machines annually of which 94,000 will be ton-and-a-half trucks and the remainder passenger cars.

The automobiles will be manufactured under an agreement with the American Ford company under which the Detroit manufacturer permits the soviets to use his patents in exchange for orders for a large number of American-made cars. Russian materials will be used.

CATS AND COYOTES KILL MANY DEER IN IDAHO

State of Idaho and the Idaho Equipment Company. This company further offered to mount, deliver and install said equipment and render service for one year at an additional 10 per cent of the original price.

On Saturday, December 19, the state purchasing agent, two engineers and the chief mechanic from the department of Public Works met and considered these figures and propositions and after due consideration and discussing them all, decided that the purchase of heavier equipment (5-ton trucks) which would eliminate the use of auxiliary motors, would be advisable under our conditions. After considerable discussion with representatives of each firm who had quoted prices, the purchasing agent, together with the engineers, decided to purchase from the Howard-Cooper Corporation of Twin Falls, four 5-ton Walters trucks, equipped with 100 H. P. S. R. L. Waukesha motors, 4 to 5 cubic yard Wood's underbody hoist and body, at a price of $6,343.75 each, together with four Snow King rotary snow plows, Model 747-CB, at

A heavy death toll among deer in the mountainous regions of Clearwater county is being exacted by hordes of coyotes and the state game department has asked aid of the United States biological survey to assist in controlling the coyotes, which George Lowe, state hunter, reports more numerous than for more than 10 years, and increasing.

"Unless something is done at once hundreds of deer will be sacrificed to the coyotes," Lowe said while in Lewiston Saturday, with Jess Robertson, chief deputy game warden, for a conference with Owen Morris, of the biological survey, which is undertaking the control of predatory animals and rodents in Idaho.

Lowe returned Friday from a month's visit at the head of the Selway river, 135 miles southeast of Kooskia. On the trip he killed three cougars, averaging 175 pounds in weight after they had been treed by his dogs. The cougar, Lowe said, had killed several elk and were headed for the higher altitude frequented by big horn sheep.

"The cougars killed were the only ones seen on the trip," Lowe said. "It is my impression that we have them weeded out in that section."

More deer and elk were killed in 1931 by hunters than for several years, Lowe reports, but that the animals are still plentiful and were it not for coyote raids the deer increase in 1932 would be large, he said.

On the Nez Perce pass and Bald mountain the snow ranges in depth from four to five feet, Lowe said, and because of being crusted, causes the deer to fall an easy prey to coyotes. The deer sink through the snow he said, while the coyotes are able to skim over the top without any trouble.

Lowe said the only way to control the coyote was by poisoning. Arrangements will be made by the biological survey to furnish Lowe with sugar-coated pills containing strychnine for distribution. Mr. Morris will make an inspection of the region.

Cougars are reported numerous along the Salmon river between Riggin and Dixie and Lowe left for that section Tuesday afternoon.

Much Falling Weather

So far this winter we have had more than the usual amount of falling weather, snow and rain alternating to keep moisture always falling. Snow on the level in the bottom of the canyon shows a measured depth of 5 inches. Farmers from the ridges say the snow ranges in depth on top of 15 inches to two feet and that the ground is full of moisture and wheat is doing fine. Some of the farmers expressed fear that the ice coating underlying the snow might choke out some of the wheat, but the additional snow falling now will probably do away with that danger.

Hopes are held that the snow will go off gradually and not with the rush of last year, as more than high water would result were this snow to go off with a long warm rain as did the snow of last year.

TEXAS HAS LIVED UNDER SIX FLAGS

In its brief modern existence, brief especially as compared with the history of the Old World, the commonwealth of Texas has lived under six flags. The history of these flags and how they happened to fly over Texas is told in an interesting way in the current Issue of the National Republic by Carrie J. Crouch, writing under the caption "Six Flags of the Lone Star State." In part, Mrs. Crouch says:

"Dabbling into history one finds that more than six flags have added romance song and story to Texas. While only six have represented nations, others have been unfurled with great and rousing cheers, waved over little bands of men marching to victory—to death—and have been the standard of highest courage and of ideals.

"The first flag planted on Texas soil was the 'Lillies of France,' which LaSalle unfurled in the name of Louis XIV, whose reign was the most glorious in French history and for whom LaSalle added honors and possessions.

Had not the sword of a traitor taken the life of LaSalle the fleur-de-lis might have been firmly rooted, might have spread further the possessions of the Bourbon kings.

"Marching into the wilderness of Texas came the Franciscan monks, carrying the Holy Cross and the flag of Spain before them, and trampling the withering bloom of France's lillies. For Charles II they erected the banner of Castile and Aragn and for almost two hundred years never permitted a flag to rise above the one of Spain.

"When Mexico pulled herself from the clasp of the mother country in 1824, declared her independence and established a new Spain, she made one more flag for Texas, unfurled it over her prize possession and not until she had met her second defeat from the Americans did she officially relinquish her rights.

"Above the fire and shell of revolution rose the Lone Star flag, waved for ten years without allegiance to another, and of its own volition came down, bowing to the supremacy of the Stars and Stripes, choosing to be a satellite in the constellation of the Union, instead of the star alone.

"When the Civil War clouds formed and the decision of the states was unavoidable, Texas voted herself out of the Union, pulled down Old Glory for the star and bars of the Confederacy, but Old Glory rose again, and as every Texan reverently says, 'Never again to be lowered, God willing.'

"The flag of Texas, with its three broad stripes of red, white and blue, and the great white star on the blue, that waved over the revolutionary battlefield, over the Republic, and is today the state flag, was designed and made by a woman.

"Sarah Dodson designed it, made it of calico, and drew the star from an old army button. The only change that has been made in the original is the position of the red and white stripes. They were changed in 1839 from a perpendicular to a horizontal line.

"It was in September, 1835, that Sarah, the young wife of Lieut. A. B. Dodson, was inspired to make a flag for the Harrisburg company in which her husband was an officer. She had nothing but a calico with which to make a banner, nothing but an old army button from which to copy a star, but she fashioned the flag that is immortal in Texas history. No record was made of the date on which she presented it to the company, though history tells of keen appreciation by the men, and of appropriate ceremony. Shortly afterward, the little company was ordered to Gonzales to join troops under Col. John Moore, and the Lone Star flag, carried by James Ferguson, floated before them. The flag went into active conflict, and all traces of it became lost, but the design was never forgotten."

The yellow peril is not a race—it's a streak.

The inventive genius of legislators is sorely taxed by the necessity of inventing new taxes.

commotion caused by the entrance and ejection of some self-invited guests. A search of all the halls and corridors revealed the culprits hiding in a closet. Toasted marshmallows, pop corn and peanuts were served and the party broke up about 10:30 p. m. The party was capably chaperoned by Miss Newman.

but during the last quarter the score see-sawed back and forth between the two teams, Kendrick finally winning by a 20 to 24 score.

Long and loud were the vocal acclaims and cheers which could be heard throughout the gymnasium whenever the Kendrick boys made a score. Tom Blevins, a well-known basketball fan, added to the general excitement by going through a series of gymnastics every time a score was made. Almost the entire audience was standing, before the final whistle, as the teams fought with rapidity and skill.

The students of the High School will admit that this game with Elk River is far superior to any other game played this season. We will also maintain that Elk River has a splendid team and that they are mighty hard to beat; but just the same we can claim a victory over them this time.

All High School Play
 Attention folks! Did you know that the High School is giving a mystery play at the Kendrick Theatre, Friday, January 22, at 8 p. m.? We promise you plenty of thrills to last throughout the coming year. Do you like comedy? Well come and laugh! The characters are great, the lighting is weird and the Tiger—well come and see.

Who is the Tiger? What makes the eyes in the painting light up? Where is the collar of jewels hidden? Who killed Aunt Sylvia? The cast will wager that no one will be able to solve the mysteries before the last five minutes.
 Come and bring the whole family! 3-1

Basketball Games

The month of January opened with a double-header basketball game at the High School gymnasium last Friday evening. The girls' team played the women's town team, and the boys played Elk River.

The girls' game was played first with some remarkable basket shots made by the High School girls. It was rather hard for the town team to compete with the High School girls due to the fact that they have not had the practice and experience of the girls; but just the same we give them credit for their effort and sportsmanship in trying even if they did lose the game 48 to 4.

The boys' game being the next in succession, opened with high spirits, the boys utilizing every effort possible to make a score. Anxiety ran high in the sidelines as the audience watched the game with great eagerness. The home boys kept the lead all during the first three quarters,

BUSINESS EXPERT SEES STORM AND GOLDEN ERA

American business may have to weather a new and final storm, blowing out of Europe early in 1932, but is now scraping bottom and will emerge stronger than ever, according to Irving T. Bush.

"When we get through this storm," he said, "American industry will make more operating at 80 per cent of capacity than it ever did before, going at even 100 per cent."

Bush, former president of the chamber of commerce of the state of New York and founder of the international freight and forwarding terminal business which bears his name, described in an interview present adversity as the vitalizing tonic for heightened future prosperity. But before we reach that happy state, he added, we must earn the right to enjoy it by facing further hardships that remain to be overcome.

"I am an optimist, but not a fool optimist," said Bush. "There is a difference. If we were on our own, as we were 25 years ago, I believe we would go ahead from here. But, as things have changed, we are tied into the troubles of Europe by reckless and inexperienced lending. We have tried to be good samaritans and have only succeeded in being good things."
 "I look for further financial trouble from Europe, and, with it, a storm. It will be a blessing in disguise. For when the storm is over, I expect the useless slaughter of security values to be ended. Business men will then think about their business, and forget the price of their securities."
 "The upturn in business will follow and by fall, 1932, we will begin a new golden era."

Fraternal Temple Elects Officers

At the regular meeting of the stockholders of the Fraternal Temple company, held Tuesday afternoon, January 12, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: E. A. Deobald, president; B. ### Open Season On Candidates

UNCLE SAM PLACED IN EMBARRASSING POSITION

From the Blue Valley Farmer of Oklahoma City, Governor W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray's paper, the following is taken:

"Uncle Sam was placed in an embarrassing predicament last week when a United States court at Kansas City, declared that the sale of grape concentrate was in violation of the prohibition laws.

"His embarrassment is due to the fact that the federal farm board has placed several million dollars back of manufacturers of grape concentrates to enable them to market their products.

"Under the decision of the Kansas City court, which is the law until it is overruled by a higher court, the government finds itself in the position of financing an illegal business and contributing through one branch to the violation of laws that another department is endeavoring to enforce.

"Peddlers of grape concentrates convicted of bootlegging declared they bought their product from the California Fruit Industries, Ltd., which has obtained more than $8,000,000 in loans from the U. S. farm board.

"Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant U. S. attorney-general in charge of prohibition enforcement, was attorney for the California grape cooperative in negotiating loans and in getting the sanction of the department of justice of the very thing which a federal court declares is illegal. It is reported that for this service Mrs. Willebrandt was paid a fee of $60,000.

"The California 'Portia' has had a spectacular political career. She came to Washington with the advent of the Harding administration, largely through the influence of Senator Sam Shortridge. She loyally 'stood by' former Attorney-General Harry Daugherty and the 'Ohio gang' established in the department of justice."

3 RULES big help to BOWELS

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

STATE CHAMBER SPONSORS IDAHO TAXATION EXPOSE

lature convened it was admitted that "things were bad."

Territorial bonds were authorized by the third legislature to cover the government's indebtedness, bringing according to the histories, some measure of relief to the struggling tax payers. The rate of interest, by the way, was 12 per cent.

The records of the first three legislatures reveal that taxation was from the very first one of the most perplexing problems with which Idaho has had to deal. At this time, 1865, there were only 12 schools and 1239 pupils in the state, and no tax money was expended for educational purposes.

D. W. Ballard, territorial governor, said in a message to the legislature, "The financial affairs (of the territory) are far from being in a satisfactory condition. The remedy suggested is a most rigid economy and a thorough and stringent revenue law."

It is enlightening to note how well Ballard's statement might be applied to present conditions.

In 1866 we find that the territorial indebtedness had increased to $95,046.99 and the treasury balance was $7,089.91.

Quite conclusive evidence that the budding young territory was having its financial difficulties.

A better idea of the size of the burden is had when one learns that the estimated population at that time was 17,000 whites and 1000 chinamen. Of this number 3480 were tax payers.

The history of the territorial legislature from 1866 to 1890, the year Idaho became a state, is largely one of financial troubles. Debts increased faster than revenue accumulated and the territorial legislators were constantly faced with the necessity of devising ways to raise additional funds. But despite their best efforts the indebtedness at the time of entering statehood was $236,170, with $35,000 due the following January from the counties, leaving a net obligation by the new-born state of some $200,000. The annual cost of the territorial government was about $75,000 and the assessed valuation was 21 millions, according to the records.

The last territorial legislature, meeting in 1883, initiated the branching out policy which has been so faithfully carried on by the state. In this year $15,000 was appropriated for the University of Idaho at Moscow (to secure grounds and provide for building plans) $15,000 for the asylum, $14,630 for improvement of the capitol grounds and $50,000 (a bond issue) to build a wagon road from Mt. Idaho in Idaho county to Little Salmon Meadows in Washington county. Already, so it seems, pressure for public improvements was being brought to bear upon the legislators.

In his address to the first state legislature in 1890 Governor George L. Shoup advised that $177,535 be appropriated for state expenses during the first year. This amount, he said, could be reduced later to $130,000, but the governor neglected to take into account the ever increasing demand for more and more improvements and governmental service.

The legislature followed his advice as to the amount and placed a levy of 72c per each $100 of the state's 28 millions in assessable property to raise the needed revenue. The levy was apportioned as follows: 65 cents for general purposes, 5 cents for the University of Idaho; and 2 cents for the wagon road fund. Thus, Idaho, full of high hopes, entered her statehood.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT—

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes: just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria have him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging.

Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Ghandi Again In Jail

England has again decided that they should deprive Mahatma Ghandi of his freedom for daring to take salt and a few other things from the ocean and other places for his people. There is no question but that the people of India are oppressed by England—but whether they are capable of taking over the reins of government and making a success of the venture is another question. However, again there is no question but that England could give them more liberty than they have been enjoying without in the least materially injuring themselves.
 The struggle will undoubtedly be a long one.

When the politicians begin their campaign talk you can't believe anything that a truthful man says.

STATE CHAMBER DISCUSS IMPORTANT SUBJECTS

An exhaustive program has been outlined for discussion at the meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce meeting at Lewiston on January 21 and 22, the main problems for discussion being game resources, taxation, silver and the five proposed constitutional amendments.
 The subjects were selected as those upon which capable opinions rendered by such an organization as the State Chamber will be most valuable to the state at this time.
 R. E. Shepherd, Jerome, president of the State Chamber, will preside over the meeting. J. L. Priest, Boise, will be the banquet toastmaster and Governor C. Ben Ross will deliver the principal address at the banquet.
 The Chamber has been successful in securing a large group of the best informed men in the state to discuss the various topics, and some practical conclusions that will be beneficial to the future welfare of the state are anticipated.
 Game Warden Mac P. Bailey will lead the discussion on Idaho's game resources. "Silver and Its Relationship to General Economic Conditions" will be the subject of an address by Charles W. Beale of Wallace.
 Senator Donald A. Callahan of Shoshone county, member of the state-wide tax executive committee, will open the discussion on taxation and explain the program that has been outlined for the state-wide tax study now being carried on under the direction of the State Chamber.
 The five proposed amendments to the state constitution, which Idaho voters will be called upon to approve or reject next fall, will have a thorough discussion at the meeting and the Chamber officers hope that authoritative decisions that can be recommended to the public will be reached.

A Disgrace To Intelligence

At the end of 1931, the National Safety Council said that it had become increasingly evident that the traffic toll would reach an all-time record of 35,000 fatalities for the year.
 Here is a record that none of us want. It was within our power to prevent it last year, exactly as it is within our power to prevent the establishment of another grisly record of automobile deaths in 1932. Safety on streets and highways comes as a result of the realization of the individual's duty to drive his car at all times in a prudent and intelligent manner. Carelessness, ignorance, and drunkenness at the wheel, an irresponsible attitude, lack of ordinary courtesy—these things have caused practically all of the 35,000 deaths. The really unavoidable accident is extremely rare.
 An informed and active public consciousness can do much, as the National Safety Council has found out. In nearly one-half of our cities united action on the part of public officials, civic organizations and public spirited individuals held the death rate in check. But in the remainder there has been a woeful apathy toward a problem that menaces the lives of us all.
 We have entered a new year—a year of many problems. And we should remember that one of the most important of these is to do our bit to promote the cause of carefulness and competence in automobile driving.

Educators are beginning to wonder whether football is the tail that is wagging the college dog.
