STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

(This is the eleventh of a series of articles dealing with taxation in Idaho, written by Glenn Balch, under the direction of the State Chamber of Commerce.)

Despite the recurring biennial pledge of economy, not only the cost of government but also the actual cost of official administration has continued to grow steadily over the 40-year period that has elapsed since Idaho embarked upon her career as a state. It is the political history of our state that well-meaning candidates who have succeeded in electing themselves on platforms advocating reductions in governmental expenses once they are in office, their hands tied by convention, expediency and necessity, to say nothing of duly enacted laws. It is one thing to promulgate reductions and entirely another to achieve them, as many a good candidate has learned to his sorrow.

Of course the task of administering a state government is much more complex than it was two-score years ago, still the essential functions of the various state officers have changed but little in that time and one is hardly prepared for such decided increases in costs as the records show.

Governor's Expenses
Let us consider, for illustrative purposes, the office of chief executive. Its duties of supervision and control being the same, theoretically at least, as they were 40 years ago.

In 1891 the governor's appropriation was $7850, this amount including the chief executive's salary and the expenses of his office for a period of two years. The governor's salary at that time was $3,000.

In 1931 the legislature appropriated for the governor's office a total of $27,325. The increased cost during the 40-year period was $19,475. Where, the question arises, does this additional money go? What duties does the governor have today that he did not have in 1891.

It is obvious that the additional cost is not in the governor's salary. He now receives $5,000 annually, or $10,000 each biennium, only $4,000 more than received by Governor Shoup back in 1891. Therefore it must be concluded that the increased cost is in what might be termed the incidentals of administration.

Employees Increase
We find that a large part of the present appropriation for the governor's office is expended for personal services, or in salaries to new employees who have been added from time to time to assist in carrying on the ever-growing details of administration. At present there are four regular employees in the office. They receive a total of $22,800 each biennium. In addition the sum of $200 is provided for "extra help."

The present governor has a private secretary, an office secretary and a stenographer. The greatly increased demands upon his office have made these assistants necessary for efficient administration. That they may be capable and render honest service in return for their wages is the chief executive's responsibility.

From the total appropriation for the governor's office, $23,000 is expended each two years for personal services, leaving, we find, the sum of $3,325 for other expenses.

Incidentals
What are these other expenses? They are stationery, stamps, telephone and telegraph bills, railroad fares, hotel bills, meals, typewriter ribbons, pencils, pens, paper clips, gasoline, tires, batteries and dozens of other small but essential articles whose combined price over a period of two years runs into considerable money. That there is no extravagance in their purchase is again the governor's responsibility.

The need for these things, like the need for additional help, has come with the changing of methods of transportation, communication and business, the judicious use of which doubtless enables a much more efficient administration than would otherwise be possible.

More affairs demand the present governor's attention. His presence is required on short notice in various and frequently widely separated parts of the state. Many questions of industrial and economical importance come to him for decision. He must, at home and abroad, preserve the dignity of his office. He is, if he gives his job the attention and time it deserves, a very busy man and the employment of time-saving and energy conserving devices constitute a real economy.

Five Demos Want Two Offices

It now develops that there are five democrats in the State of Idaho who would like to have the jobs of Burton L. French and Addison T. Smith as congressmen. Four democrats want Smith's job while only one hanker after that of French.

It won't be long now until candidates of all kinds for all political jobs, will be as thick as flies around a molasses barrel in the summer time and about twice as persistent.

FLOOD WATERS RECBDE TRAINS AGAIN ON TIME

Many anxious moments were spent by residents of Kendrick and the upper and lower canyon, beginning last Thursday evening, when the water in the Potlatch again reached flood stage and threatened to overflow its banks. With several feet of heavy snow in the hills and mountains and rain falling for several hours, made things look somewhat dubious for a time, but by Saturday evening the water had begun to fall and unless a long continued rain again comes, there is little danger of an overflow. A work train has made Kendrick headquarters for the past ten days or more and many cars of rock have been taken to points where the water was encroaching on the grade.

Brady Gulch as usual, sent down hundreds of tons of large boulders, completely covering the road and making crossing impossible for two days. There are perhaps more loose boulders up brady gulch than any other place of like size in the world—so it stems from the number brought down each year by flood waters.

Trains were off schedule and some failed to run, due to high water weakening embankments and bridges, but all are again on schedule and have been since Monday.

Death of W. A. Stephenson

W. A. Stephenson, residing on the old McKeever place, on Little Bear, died Monday morning at 6 o'clock, from heart trouble, after a lingering illness, aged 64 years, 11 months and 29 days.

Mr. Stephenson had been a resident of this section of the country for the past several years and had resided on the McKeever farm for the past four years. He is survived by his widow and six children, three boys and three girls.

The body was taken from here to Troy by Jack Pickard, undertaker. Burial was made in the Moscow cemetery.

Spring Is Here Again

So says the calendar, but the little creature is somewhat shy in making her appearance. Guess the old groundhog knew his "onions" this time, for there was a good six-weeks of weather that could very easily be classed as "winter" since the little varmint saw his shadow was bak on February 2.

Spring was officially ushered in last Sunday, March 20, and we sincerely hope that she does not catch cold and have to stay in the house for a few weeks more. The grass is greening and occasionally you can see someone polishing the winter's accumulation of rust off their hoe and other garden tools.

Tornado Wreals Havoc In South

Two hundred and seventy-five persons were killed, hundreds of others were injured and made homeless and unestimated damage wrought by tornadoes that dipped into five southern states Monday night and Tuesday.

Alabama bore the brunt of the storm, one of the south's major disasters. Here 220 persons lost their lives when the howling winds blew down their homes in two score communities.

Thirty-four were killed in Georgia, 17 in Tennessee, two in Kentucky and two in South Carolina.

Campfire Girls Elect

The Campfire Girls met at the home of their guardian, Mrs. W. B. Deobald, Tuesday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, the purpose of the meeting being the election of officers for the ensuing term, the results being as follows: Burneda Cummings, president; Maxine Keene, vice-president; Mary E. Thompson, secretary; Rowena Ramey, treasurer; Kathryn Emery, scribe; Allene Rider, pianist; Maxine Keene, choirster.

Broke Collarbone

Wilson Bolon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bolon, had the misfortune to have his right collarbone broken Saturday afternoon while playing.

Evelyn Carlton is much improved after her recent operation. She will probably be able to leave the hospital in another week.

Two Southwick Matrons Pass

Funeral services for Mrs. Belle Cuddy, who passed away Sunday, March 20, were held Tuesday. Mrs. Cuddy was born in Nevada county, California, May 14, 1859, making her 72 years, 10 months and six days of age at the time of her death. The immediate cause of death was old age and complications.

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Lizzie Ellen Graham, 66, since 1902 a resident of Southwick, who died Tuesday following a lingering illness. Born at Bethany, Mo., she moved to Nebraska when 8 years old and later married Monroe B. Graham in 1888. Five children were born to them.

Two daughters, Grace Wells and Fern Crutcher, six grandchildren, two brothers and four sisters survive.

Mrs. Graham was a life-long member of the United Brethren church. Interment in both instances was made in the Southwick cemetery, with Rev. George Calvert conducting the services.

(We are very sorry that we are unable to give more detailed information regarding the lives of these two respected pioneer citizens. Perhaps we can do so in a later issue. Editor Gazette.)

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSN. MEETS MONDAY EVENING

The Parent-Teachers Association held their regular monthly meeting at the school house Monday evening and it all turned out to be a very delightful affair.

At the business session, held prior to the entertainment, the report of the treasurer was read, as was that of the executive committee meeting held March 17, and both were accepted.

The nominating committee reported the following nominations for officers for the next year: President, Mrs. W. B. Deobald; vice-president, Mrs. A. K. Carlson; secretary, Mrs. Silvie Cook; treasurer, Mrs. Edgar Long.

After a general discussion as to the effect of the hot lunches served the children at school during the noon hour, it was decided to continue serving for another month, and the following committee was appointed to act until the lunches were discontinued: Mrs. R. H. Ramey, Mrs. Wade Keene and Miss Rilla Davidson. The children are asked to please bring their lunches and something hot will be served at noon that will go nicely with the lunches.

The program for the next meeting was left entirely with the program committee. It may be that a dance will be given after the program for the parents, patrons and teachers, announcement of which will be made later.

Following the business session the following program was given by the ladies—mere man not having any part in it whatever:

The curtains were pulled back to reveal both ends of a radio system—sending and receiving—the sending presided over by Mrs. Silvie Cook and the receiving by Mrs. A. K. Carlson and Mrs. Frank Rider, as "mamma and papa," respectively. The first item broadcast over station "P. T. A." was the ladies sextette, composed of Mrs. Harold Thomas, Mrs. D. A. Christensen, Miss Newman, Mrs. E. H. Emery, Mrs. N. E. Walker and Mrs. R. H. Ramey.

The next number broadcast was a monologue on "Keeping Husbands," a la Cookery Way—broadcast by Miss Josephine Deagen.

Next Miss Elizabeth Carlson broadcast a piano solo.

This was followed "on the air" by the "Coo-Koo College" professors—Schultz and Van, by Mrs. Harold Thomas and Miss Ferguson.

Next came a violin solo by Miss Nina Newman, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. H. Emery.

The next number to be broadcast was a "blackface" trio, composed of Mrs. Mary Adams, Mrs. N. E. Walker and Mrs. R. H. Ramey.

Over the air came a piano solo by Miss Eileen Rider. Next came a number familiar to anyone who ever whirled a dial—The Arizona Wranglers—consisting of Mrs. W. B. Deobald, Mrs. E. A. Deobald, Mrs. Lester Hill, Mrs. Herman Schupfer, Mrs. Wm. Watts and Mrs. Ed. Long. They sang, danced and played various musical instruments, mainly combs and various other un-named gadgets—but the whole was very pleasing.

Again Edna Wallace Hopper—in the person of Miss Newman—"took the air" and all we can say is that it certainly was true to life. The words tumbled out so fast they sounded like pouring shot into a pan, with now and then an intelligible word—plainest of which were the wisecracks on local people and things.

Closing the "broadcast" came the kitchen symphony orchestra, accompanied by Miss Eline Rider at the piano and Miss Nina Newman at the violin.

The whole program was interspersed with "wise cracks" and "slams" on various members of the audience, who, we will venture to say, enjoyed it as much as the performers.

And last, but not least, refreshments were served by the ladies in the domestic science room and everyone departed, voting it a very pleasant evening indeed.

It was the consensus of the men that they would have to turn the "loving" cup over to the ladies on account of the splendid program given, but the men will probably have another turn at it next winter.

The next program will be given April 18, when the children will probably have a part in it.

Mrs. Talkalot—Let's see, whom were we discussing? Mrs. Jabberby—I forgot. Who went out last?

Candidate Filing Start March 25

Friday, March 25, is the first day for filing the names of candidates for the primary election, to be held May 24, and April 23 is the last day candidates can file.

So far as known down this way, no candidates have made known their intention of filing for county offices. All county offices with the exception of county auditor will have to be filled again this year. It won't be long now.

TOO MANY LAWS ON STATUTE BOOKS NOW

Not long ago a man said: "We never hear much about Hon. So-and-So in Congress. What has he ever done?"

The answer is here, showing what other representatives have done—and also showing that what this country needs is not more laws, but the cancellation of about nine-tenths of what we have on the statute books, and the rest enforced.

A recent compilation of national and state figures on the number of bills and resolutions that have been introduced shows that of the 87,243 that were introduced in national and state legislative bodies last year, 16,178 were enacted into law.

Just to show you what becomes of many of the laws that are placed on the books and then forgotten, we reproduce a news item sent out from Boise under date of March 18:

"An unrecalled law that makes a felon daily out of many state officials has been dug up by George G. Barrett, state treasurer.

"The law, dating back to 1864; Civil war days, made it a felony punishable by 10 years' imprisonment for any state official to change coin into paper money or paper money into coin or cash checks.

"The law was aimed at preventing transactions in Civil war 'shin plasters' when the currency was not worth its face value and where a trade might bring a considerable profit to the state official making the exchange."

Don't Want To Work

The free commissary of Aimee McPherson-Hutton's Angeles temple, last Thursday became the second large charity "soup kitchen" in Los Angeles in two days to report an almost complete "boy-cott" because of a new plan requiring that those who are able shall work for their food.

Roy A. Watkins, commissary manager, said the "work test," requiring three hours of labor on a public project for two meals, had reduced the daily average number of applicants from 2,100 last week to 32 today, and 25 of these held doctor's disability cards showing them unable to work.

L. N. Brunswick, Los Angeles philanthropist who in nine months served 250,000 free meals at a personal cost of $20,000, yesterday closed his establishment when, he said, "customers" fell from an average of 900 a day to 13 due to his requirement that they present cards showing two hours work for two meals.

Gangsters Fail Lindberg

Again gangsters have failed to do anything that savored of honesty or decency. They have failed utterly to shed any light whatever on the whereabouts of the Lindberg baby—and how could anyone expect them to betray their own kind? There seems to be a "moral" code even among gangsters. They never give each other away, no matter what they do. No gangster ever told who shot him, even if he were able to do so, so why should Col. Lindberg expect them to aid in locating his baby?

They don't do things that way. They have a "moral" code that is never broken by a real gangster.

Bridge Club Entertained

The Afternoon Bidge club was very pleasantly entertained on Thursday afternoon of last week by Mrs. Harold Thomas, who also made high score for the afternoon. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess after play.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. H. B. Thompson.

Truck Load of Beans to Portland

A large truck that brought up a load of merchandise from Portland to Lewiston last week, came up to Kendrick with the intention of taking a load of beans back to the coast city, but had to be content with only half a load (50 bags) as the Bean Growers association had only that amount of cleaned beans on hand.

GRAIN MARKETS LOWER—DEMAND VERY POOR

Wheat prices declined sharply during the week ending March 18, and feed grains turned weaker, influenced by the lower wheat market, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Burdensome domestic supplies, lack of any serious damage to the new winter wheat crop, continued heavy marketings of southern hemisphere grain and weakness in futures were the principal weakening factors in the wheat market, and future prices at Chicago declined to the lowest point since mid-January. Cash prices were lower with futures. Corn and oats weakened also, but a dull demand also was a weakening factor. Barley had independent strength because of the continued active inquiry from the drought areas. Rye declined with wheat, while flax held fairly steady, supported by the extremely light offerings.

Relatively large supplies were a depressing factor in the general market situation during the week. The world's visible supply, according to trade estimates, totaled 639,754,000 bushels, or nearly 5,000,000 bushels more than at the corresponding date last year. U. S. stocks comprise a large percentage of the world's total, since stocks in other exporting areas are below a year ago. The Australian crop estimate has been revised upward to 190,170,000 bushels, and together with the carry-over of old wheat and flour and supplies in Argentina, give a total Southern Hemisphere supply of 449,495,000, or about 30,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. Shipments from these countries since the first of January have amounted to over 106,000,000 bushels, compared with less than 81,000,000 bushels for the corresponding period last year, so that remaining supplies appear to be around 55,000,000 bushels below those at the corresponding date a year ago. Stocks in Canada available for export are around 40,000,000 bushels smaller than last season, largely as a result of the short crop. Harvesting of the new northern hemisphere winter wheat crop has begun in India. Yields below average are in prospect as a result of inadequate moisture during the filling period, but the acreage is the largest since 1918.

While the recent cold weather probably caused some injury to the domestic winter wheat crop, no very serious damage has yet been reported. Some freezing occurred in the upper Mississippi valley and northern Great Plain area, where the snow cover was inadequate and the more advanced crops suffered some damage in the Ohio valley. Crop conditions in Europe, outside of Russia, appear to be somewhat less favorable than at the corresponding date last year, although final crop outlooks will be largely determined by conditions during the coming months. Some damage from winter killing has resulted in the countries of the lower Danube and in a few sections of northwestern Europe, particularly in Poland and Germany. Additional rainfall is needed in Spain, France and Italy, but conditions in these countries are generally favorable, with no serious injury to growing crops yet apparent. In eastern and northern Europe, dryness and cold weather, with lack of adequate snow covering, is threatening damage to winter seedings.

European grain markets were somewhat irregular. English markets weakened slightly under the influence of continued liberal offerings, although demand was fairly active and deliveries were of only moderate volume. Native grain in Continental markets held firm and inquiry for foreign wheat was more active following the recent changes in French milling regulations. The French milling quota of foreign wheat was increased to 30 per cent. Southern hemisphere shipments were again large, totaling 11,350,000 bushels. Black Sea and Russian shipments, however, continued dull. At the close of the market on March 18, No. 2 hard winter from Atlantic ports was quoted at Liverpool at 63c, Argentine Rosaf at 58½c and No. 2 Manitoba at 70c per bushel. Native milling wheat was quoted at Hamburg at $1.63, at Paris at $1.76 and at Milan at $1.67. Canadian durum wheat was quoted at Marseilles at 80c and at Naples at 78c per bushel. Sales of North American wheat totaled around 3,000,000 bushels for the week, according to trade estimates, including about 200,000 bushels

SCIENCE VS. ADVERTISEMENT

Independent research conducted at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology indicates that the volatile CO₂ gas in coffee (on which taste and aroma evidently depends) gradually escapes into the surrounding air, and that the escape of these elements from the coffee is hastened either by currents of air or by the use of vacuum.

The action of vacuum is to exert a pull on the gasses, drawing them out of the coffee into the spaces between the grounds. Once the container is opened these gasses escape—and the flavor with them!

A copy of this report by Professor S. C. Prescott may be had on request.

A NEW BIFOCAL THAT IS VERY DIFFERENT

For years, the reading part of bifocals has occupied more of the lens than the eye required for close vision. New Ful-vue bifocals are designed to give better vision for both reading and distance. They are optically better, reducing "jump" and avoiding rainbows before your eyes. Let us demonstrate these improvements. NEW FUL-VUE BIFOCALS. See Dr. Jones at the—

Being Late
Being late has been a subject of discipline ever since schools were organized. In France and England about the 13th or 14th century, the pupils had causes for being late, such as a revolution threatening, or the head of the family leaving for a foreign land to fight. Later in America in the Colonial times the pupils were usually on time, except for such drastic interferences as being scalped by the Indians or being burned at the stake, etc., even with these conditions and with no alarm clocks to awaken them the children were seldom late.
But today things are changed. The young student will sit up until 12:00 playing ping-pong or reading, possibly his history, but more likely a Western Story. He will read how Dirty Dan Baxter holds up the stage coach and gets the "swag." Then along will come "Horseless Harry," or Sheriff "Roarin' Roger," who will, after many hardships and personal dangers, shoot "Dirty Dan," get the money and take it back just in time to pay off the mortgage on the heroine's homestead. And then, of course, the hero marries the heroine and then everyone is happy.
After the pupil has read this very interesting story, he will crawl to bed and get to sleep. Ten minutes later, so it seems, the alarm clock, which is one of those purring-roaring varieties, will go off. First a boiler factory starts working. It makes a hundred boilers and then, after they are taken about a mile high, they are dropped along with the whole factory, right by the side of the bed. By this time the pupil is either frightened to death or very much awake.

But soon he will get over his fright and softly doze off to sleep. His mother will call him at 8:00, but he won't hear her. Soon his father will come in and pull him out of bed by his ears. The pupil will slowly dress, slowly eat breakfast, and very slowly get to school. He will come in sleepy, late, and having no knowledge of the lesson. Was there ever such a terrible combination.
An hour after school you may see the pupil laboriously writing at his desk in the school room with the teacher standing over him. Eventually he will finish and go home, where he will be greeted by his father with a large whip. Then we will lose sight, but not sound, of him.
After his painful exercise, the pupil will quietly eat his supper and quietly go to bed. Truly, 'tis the end of a perfect day.

The Junior Play
The Juniors are working hard on their play, "The Blossoming of Mary Anne." The crude, awkward little country girl, Mary Anne, goes to New York and blossoms into a lovely lady, a belle of society. And as Teddy states there is danger of duel and such between the men after the fraternity dance, given at Elaine Jewett's, Mary Anne's rival, in winning the heart of Bill Barkely.
But in Farmdale things progress as before, with the gossipy old maid, Miss Slissy, still sticking her nose into everybody's business. But Miss Simmons is especially bothered by her because the old gossip seems to have taken an odd delight in tormenting her and finding out all she can about Mary Anne.

We are sure the play will be very good. Many a laugh will be created and the evening will be positively enjoyable to all who attend.

Operetta
Don't forget the operetta, April 15. Wouldn't you like to come out of your long winter trance and see something really enjoyable and comical—all in one?
The absent-minded professor's mistakes and proud Aunt Martha's fussings promise a hilarious comedy with laughable plot and pleasant music.
Mrs. Jarvis—How much time did you put on this English?
Thomas Blevins—Oh, about half an hour, railroad time.
Mrs. Jarvis—What do you mean, railroad time?
Thomas—Including all stops and delays.
George Jones (while gazing at a set of false teeth in the dentist's showcase)—Those are the kind of teeth I am going to get when I get big.
Elma—George, how many times have I told you not to pick your teeth in public?
Mr. Brigham—Why does a dog hang out his tongue when running?
Carl Hund—To balance his tail.
Miss Deagen—What is etiquette?
Reva Berreman—Saying "No, thank you" when you mean "gimme."

IT IS with pleasure that we announce that this is now the authorized local headquarters for De Laval Separators and Milkers, as De Laval machines have long borne the reputation of being the finest possible to build. The De Laval Separator group consists of four complete lines. It is headed by the famous Golden Series line—the cleanest skimming, easiest turning and longest lived separators ever built. Next comes the Utility Series possessing the same efficiency and quality but without various exterior features of convenience, and selling for slightly less. There is also the Junior Series and the Europa Series—small capacity separators selling in the low price field and intended for the small dairyman to whom price is a limiting consideration. The famous De Laval Magnetic Milkier is considered the most perfect method of milking ever devised and offers the dairyman more in the way of time and labor saving, greater profits and pleasure than any piece of equipment he can buy. However, they report many citizens are not complying with the Ordinance of the City passed on March 13, 1918, which specifically specifies that all fowls must be penned up. Anyone who shall permit them to run at large is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to fine. The City Marshal has been instructed to corral any fowl running at large on and after April 1. Many people have gardens, flowers and other vegetation growing on their premises and do not like to have chickens destroying such plants. If the chickens cannot be penned up they will be cleaned up in the same manner as dogs without licenses. By Order of Village Board.
