STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

The rapid change in methods of communication, transportation, bookkeeping, accounting and general business conducting that has taken place in the 40 years since Idaho became a state are directly reflected in the costs of state administration.

Without exception the expenses of all of the executive offices have increased steadily, irrespective of the political complexion of the various incumbents. Such a general growth indicates an unavoidable trend caused by the state's rapid development and public demand for more diversified services.

Succession of legislatures has been continually adding functions and tasks and duties and jobs to the legal obligations of various offices, while subdivisions of this nature have been practically negligible, making state administration today a much more complex job than formerly.

The Treasurer

The first treasurer of the state of Idaho required a total of $2650 for the operation of his office for the two-year period, his salary being included in the amount. One person with fair knowledge of the use of black and red ink could handle the simple bookkeeping of those days and still have time for leisure.

The 1931 appropriation for the treasurer's office was $28,240—more than ten times as much as in 1891. But during that 40-year period many additional funds had been created, new duties had been added and new requirements legally imposed, all resulting in a highly elaborated system of state financing that is a far cry from the simple bookkeeping of 1891. Five persons are now regularly employed in the treasurer's office, receiving $22,960 of the 1931 appropriation.

In 1891 the state auditor's appropriation was $5850. At that time this office had only 18 individual appropriations, most of them comparatively small, to keep track of.

The last legislature provided $42,685 for the auditor's office. But, in the meantime, state expenditures had million to more than 19 million dollars annually and individual appropriations from 18 to more than one hundred. Instead of one, the auditor's office now has nine regular employees and $35,240 is expended each biennium for personal services.

The Attorney General

Idaho's first attorney general looked after the state's end of such legal questions as arose at a cost of $5850 for the biennium. His task was simplified; men preferred to settle their differences out of court in those days. But now it requires an expert staff of nine members to guide the commonwealth through the complicated legal tangles which continually confront it. Recent examples are the income, kilowatt and state bank tax controversies. The 1931 attorney general's appropriation was $54,500, and of that amount $47,000 goes to pay for personal services.

Idaho's school system in 1891 was supervised by a state superintendent of public instruction who required only $4350 for the biennium's salary and expenses. At that time our educational structure was in its infancy, consisting of a few elementary schools with local control predominating.

Today, with our institutions of higher learning, our various kinds of public schools and the new methods of instruction, the task of educating our youth is much more complex. The 1931 appropriation for the state board of education was $65,048—$38,500 of which goes to pay for personal services.

Secretary of State

The primary function of the secretary of state is to preserve the records. During our first biennium of statehood this was accomplished at a cost of $7585. But records in those days were few. At present a staff of seven members, receiving $29,480 of a $38,175 appropriation, is required to take care of the mass of documents that have accumulated and to attend to the recording of the various licenses, articles of incorporation and other business regulations and conveniences that have been wished on the department by the succeeding legislatures.

The comparisons made above reveal that the largest part of the increase in government administration costs since Idaho became a state goes for personal services, or salaries and wages, reflecting directly the penchant of the legislatures for creating new jobs and new duties.

Crop Production Loans

Anyone desiring or interested in obtaining a crop production loan should make their application through Geo. P. Barnum, secretary Kendrick Commercial club, Wade T. Keene, Voller-Clearwater warehouse, or through the local banks. Any of the above will gladly assist you in making the necessary application, which must be approved by a local committee, forwarded to the County committee, and then passed by the Spokane office, who will accept or reject the application and issue check to cover when accepted.

All applications must be in the Spokane office by April 30, 1932.

COUNTY AGENT'S FARM INSTITUTE HERE APRIL 9

County Agent J. W. Thometz (of Nez Perce county) was in Kendrick Wednesday of this week completing arrangements for the holding of a Farmers Institute in Kendrick on Saturday, April 9, in the Kendrick Theatre, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning and continuing until all subjects have been discussed and the speakers have answered questions upmost in the minds of the farmers regarding farm conditions today (to the best of their ability). Of course the speakers are not coming to try and furnish a solution of all the ills confronting the farmer, but they are going to tell him how he can get the most out of what he does do.

Prof. C. E. Lampman of the U. of I. will speak of "Poultry," F. W. Atkinson, U. of I., will speak of the "Dairy Business," Dean E. J. Iddings of the U. of I. will discuss "Outlook of Farm Conditions," while County Agent Thometz will discuss "Crop Loans." These are the all-important questions of this time and all farmers who would like to hear these farm topics discussed in an intelligent way should be on hand Saturday, April 9.

The institute will be along the lines of the one held in Kendrick last year, which was attended by about 100 farmers of this community. The speakers mentioned above are all conversant with the topics to be discussed—and it is not all theory, either. They will speak from a standpoint of actual tests on the experimental farm and a study of economic conditions.

It is expected that Kendrick merchants will offer many attractive specials in merchandise of all kinds for that day, making it doubly attractive for the farmer to come to town and reap the benefits of both the institute and the money-saving specials.

Grand Matron Visits

Mrs. Martha V. Guthrie of Emmett, grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star, made an official visit to the local lodge on Friday of last week and was greeted by about 25 members. A school of instruction was conducted during the afternoon and a dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock in the evening, after which the regular lodge session was held. During the evening Mrs. Guthrie gave a very interesting talk on her visit to the grand chapter meeting held at San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Harrington of Worley, Idaho, was also in attendance, she being grand representative, by appointment, of the state of North Carolina. The meeting was said to have been very entertaining and instructive.

Bailey Resigns As Game Warden

Mac P. Bailey, appointed state game warden by Gov. C. Ben Ross when he took over the reins of state government, has tendered his resignation to the governor, which it is expected will become effective April 15.

It seems that Gov. Ross and Mr. Bailey have not been able to agree on a few important points regarding the conduct of Mr. Bailey's office, hence his resignation. Mr. Bailey has accepted a new position at Portland.

Not All Four-Legged

Over at Toledo, Ohio, on Easter Sunday, Charles Hammye knocked himself out by eating 55 eggs and staggered to the throne as Easter egg-eating champion of Toledo.

Seeing a sign in a restaurant, "all the eggs you can eat Easter morning for 25 cents," Hammye spent a quarter, but was so groggy after eating one more than four and a half dozen eggs that he had to be carried to the street.

If the price of eggs get much lower we wouldn't blame the hens if they went on a strike.

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM JULIAETTA

Miles Hanks Passes Away

Miles Hanks, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hanks, passed away Monday noon at the family home. He was taken ill Sunday afternoon, after the family had returned from a community Easter dinner, served at the United Brethren church.

It was feared he was poisoned by something he had eaten, as others were also slightly ill Sunday evening. His condition did not become serious until a short time before death resulted from inward convulsions.

He is survived by his parents, a sister, Patty May, his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Pierce, of Juliaetta and Mrs. Hanks of Lenore, several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the United Brethren church. Rev. Presnal, assisted by Presiding Elder Calvert, had charge. Music was furnished by the choir. The pallbearers were Bruce Sherman, Walter Millard, Tommy Whalen and Billy Walsh, all high-school students. Interment was made in the Juliaetta cemetery.

We wish to express our thanks to the kind friends of Juliaetta and Lenore for their beautiful floral offerings, and their kindness and sympathy during the bereavement of our darling baby boy, Marion Miles.

Burke, secretary of the association.

THOMPSON'S ENTERTAIN AT DINNER BRIDGE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Thompson was the scene of one of the very pleasant social affairs of the winter-spring season Tuesday evening when some 38 friends were invited to their hospitable home to spend the evening. A delicious two-course plate dinner was served at 6:30, after which the tables were cleared and the game of bridge included in ten tables being used for play, each of which was centered with a dainty bouquet of wild bleeding heart, or dutchman's breeches, during the dinner hour. "Easter Egg" candy was served at the tables during the evening. Ladies' high score for the evening was won by Mrs. W. L. McCreary, while that for the gentlemen was carried away by Harold Thomas. ## Death of W. A. Stephenson

The following was taken from the Troy News of March 24:
Word was received Monday morning from Kendrick of the death of one of the former residents and pioneers of the Troy section—W. A. Stephenson.

Mr. Stephenson had for several months been suffering from chronic ailments, which later developed into dropsy. For a month past his condition had been serious. He was one of the highly respected citizens of the community and his passing caused great regret here.

William Albert Stephenson was born to McCConnell, at Sigourney, Iowa, and died near Kendrick, Idaho, March 21, 1932.

He was united in marriage to Nettie McCConnell, at Sigourney, Iowa, February 4, 1891. To this union seven children were born—four girls and three boys. He leaves to mourn their loss his wife and daughters, Mrs. Jesse Spencer of Troy; Mrs. Clarence Brown of Pierce, Idaho; Mrs. Ed. Reglin of New Ulm, Minnesota. The sons are Don of Peck, Idaho; John and Glen of Kendrick. The brothers are Tom of Lewiston; Sam and Butler of Craigmont, and a sister, Mrs. Harry Wagner of Johnson, Wash.; an uncle, Butler Stephenson of Pullman, Wash.; an aunt, Mrs. Armenia Byers of Troy. Three grandchildren also survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson came to the Troy section 34 years ago and lived here until about four years ago, when they moved to Kendrick.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church, Rev. L. E. Taber conducting the service.

The deceased was a member of Troy Lodge No. 39, I. O. O. F., uniting with that order about 20 years ago. The Odd Fellows attended the funeral in a body. Interment was made in the Moscow cemetery. He was buried on his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors of Little Bear ridge and vicinity for their kind help during the illness and after the death of our husband and father.

Mrs. W. A. Stephenson and Family.

Entertain at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Silvie Cook entertained at dinner last Wednesday evening Supt. B. B. Brigham, Mrs. Mary Adams and Miss Ferguson.

WHEAT MARKET LOWER WITH SLOW DEMAND

Domestic wheat suffered further declines during the week ending March 25, influenced largely by the continued slow demand for the large remaining supplies, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. While prices of hard winter wheat reached a parity with those in other exporting countries, export sales were negligible and domestic mills furnished practically the only outlet for current offerings, which were near the lowest point of the season to date. Corn and oats were weaker with wheat. Barley was again independently firm and prices held about unchanged. Rye also had some independent strength, but flax worked lower with wheat.

Crop developments and the rate of disappearance of the world's wheat surplus remained the dominant factors in the general wheat market situation. Recent freezes set back the domestic wheat crop in some areas, but the actual damage is still uncertain. In western Kansas much of the wheat was frozen down and soil blowing was also harmful. The condition of the winter wheat dropped 3 points to 80 per cent in Nebraska, with an estimated abandonment of 12.5 per cent, according to the mid-month report.

About 16,967,000 acres of spring wheat other than durum will be seeded this season if farmers carry out their intentions, reported as of March 1. This represents an increase of about 5 per cent over the acreage seeded in the spring of 1931 and of 53.3 per cent over the acreage harvested last season when dry weather caused an unusually heavy abandonment of spring wheat. Durum wheat seedings in 1932 will total 3,868,000 acres if farmers carry out their March intentions. This is about one per cent less than the acreage sown last spring, but represents an increase of 34.8 per cent over the acreage harvested last season. The harvested acreage of durum in 1930 was about 18 per cent greater than the acreage farmers have expressed an intention of planting this spring, while the 1929 harvested acreage was about 30 per cent greater. The acreage sown to winter wheat in the U. S. last fall totaled 38,882,000 acres, according to the December estimate. The extent of winter injury to fall-sown wheat is still undetermined, but average abandonment will reduce the acreage for harvest to about 33,820,000 acres.

JUMP

JUMP! Does print "Jump" before your eyes? If you wear bi-focals of the ordinary kind, they are likely to cause a "jump of vision" as you switch from looking out at distant objects to reading your paper. You may become accustomed to this
"jump" but it requires extra energy from your eyes. Today there is a new bifocal, better for distance and better for reading, that minimizes the "jump." See Dr. Jones at the Raby Hotel, Kendrick, Idaho, Friday,
April 1, 1:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m.

The CLOUD in the SKY

This is the title of the following editorial in a daily newspaper, quoting Roger Babson in a recent article as saying that "The only cloud over the utilities is politics"

In a recent article, Roger Babson said that the electric utilities of the nation "are in a preferred position." In support of this he pointed out that 10,000,000 American homes are not yet served by electricity, that there is a vast and almost untouched field for the use of labor-saving electrical appliances, and that utilization of power is constantly on the increase.

Then he said: "The only cloud over the utilities is politics. Propaganda for government ownership is with us to again. The thing the industry fears is not reasonable regulation, but radical and oppressive laws aimed at destroying private operation."

It is common for those who attack the utilities to pose as "friends of the people. But it may be more logical to suppose that many of them—those who go in for misrepresentation and senseless vilification—are in reality enemies of the people. When they fight the utilities they are not fighting a great trust, owned by a few capitalists, but they are fighting a basic industry, owned by hundreds of thousands of Americans, an industry which supplies jobs and taxes on a scale equaled by few others.

This is not to say that utilities should not be criticized. It is possible that individual companies have gone in for financial operations that do not pass muster—but such isolated cases, if they exist, certainly give no grounds for seeking to destroy an entire industry. These attacks on the utilities, if successful, would scuttle our American principle of private initiative and enterprise and only an active and informed public can prevent it.

Cream Separators and Milkers

IT IS with pleasure that we announce that this is now the authorized local headquarters for DeLaval Separators and Milkers, as DeLaval machines have long borne the reputation of being the finest possible to build.

Next comes the Utility Series possessing the same efficiency and quality but without various exterior features of convenience, and selling for slightly less. There is also the Junior Series and the Europa Series—small capacity separators selling in the low price field and intended for the small dairyman to whom price is a limiting consideration.

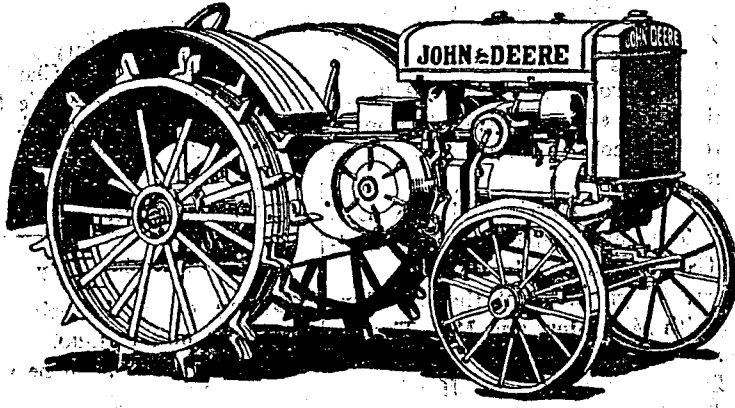

The famous DeLaval Magnetic Milker is considered the most perfect method of milking ever devised and offers the dairyman more in the way of time and labor saving, greater profits and pleasure than any piece of equipment he can buy. There is also the DeLaval Utility Milker—a splendid outfit for the low price field.

Mr. Larson was stricken with the flu about three weeks ago and Mrs. Larson, who was at Bremerton, Wash., was called home. On Wednesday, March 23, he was taken to a Lewiston hospital, passing away Friday morning at 4 o'clock. Death was due to complications of sugar diabetes with dropsy and the flu.

Mr. Larson was born in Sweden, Sept. 18, 1861, being 70 years, 6 months and 7 days old at the time of his death. He came to the United States when about 18 years of age, settling near St. Paul, Minnesota, and later moving to Washington, where he met and married Miss Marie Koepf, about 38 years ago. Mr. Larson had resided on the Potlatch near Cameron and Leland for the past 28 years, where he had endeared himself to his friends and neighbors by his kindly ways, which was shown by the number crowding the church at the funeral services.

Music was furnished by a quartet consisting of Mr. Goudzward, Mr. Haase, Mrs. Walbeck and Mrs. Peters.

Interment was in the Leland cemetery with Frank Flesman, Robert Smith, J. M. Woodward, Paul Silfow, Frank Whitman and August Wegner acting as pall bearers.

Besides his widow, a brother, Charles, three sister and six grandchildren survive.
