NO. 17

STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

A large portion of the expenses of modern government is necessitated by the recalcitrancy and cupidty of a very small fraction of our citizenry. This group, while small and unworthy of governmental consideration on its own account, must be controlled in the best interests of society at large and the burden naturally and rightfully rests upon the shoulders of constituted authority.

The most familiar examples of this class of citizens are those who violate our criminal laws, persons who steal, murder or commit other crimes. They are comparatively few in number, but the business of suppressing their activities constitutes one of the largest items of governmental expense. Because of them we must maintain police forces, jails, courts and penitentiaries, all at great cost. Protection of society is a foremost governmental obligation.

Much Policing Required

Suppression of crime is, however, only a small portion of the great mass of policing duties for which the government is responsible. All of our tremendous multitudes of laws, both state and national, as well as municipal ordinances and local regulations must be enforced. Laws are useless if they are not made effective.

Government policing is a business of tremendous scope, much wider than is generally recognized. It reaches into practically every department, it is the duty or a portion of the duties of virtually every government employee. It is the reason, either in part or in whole, for the existence of many branches, bureaus and departments. Crime suppression, enforcement of rules and regulations and the protection of the public require an expensive organization of many coordinated branches.

High Cost For Few

The majority of our citizens are law-abiding, but some are not, and these must be controlled, even at an exorbitant cost. To illustrate: Because a few farmers would ship potatoes in a manner violating the state shipping regulations, all shipments are inspected; because some carriers would over-charge their patrons, a public utilities commission is created to control all carriers; because a few persons will kill game out of season, the game department supervises all hunting; because one crook might sell impure goods, the department of public welfare inspects all food handling establishments.

One out of every fifty motorists will perhaps pass up a stop sign, but to protect the other 49 from him traffic officers must be employed to regulate the entire 50. In order to protect the public from the few who would steal automobiles, a complicated and expensive title system has been evolved.

Idaho's Police Force

Idaho, like all other states, has a tremendous policing force. Its various branches are known by different names, many of the policemen carry no gun and wear no badge of authority, but nevertheless they are essentially law enforcement officers as the uniformed cop on the street corner.

The department of agriculture with its duty of enforcing shipping, inspection and license regulations, is primarily a policing organization. The department of law enforcement, the fish and game department, the department of public welfare, the department of reclamation, the public utilities commission, the state mine inspector, the blue sky department, the department of finance, the insurance department—all of these, and all other departments responsible for the enforcement of laws and regulations, have a policing duty, to which in many instances they owe their actual existence.

Forty-Four Sheriffs

Idaho has, in addition to the state patrol force and the national guard, forty-four sheriffs, with their deputies and assistants. The cities have police departments, villages have marshals and night watchmen, precincts have constables. All of these employees are engaged directly in police work, the business of protecting the many from the few.

From the above it becomes apparent that the enforcing of our laws constitutes one of the largest items of governmental expense.

There will be less speed on the highways when there is more in the courts.

Billy Deobald Brought Home

Billy Deobald, who had been in St. Joseph's hospital, Lewiston, for the past three weeks, was brought home Monday, the ambulance arriving about 1 o'clock.

While Mr. Deobald is somewhat improved, he is still a very sick man, and doctors said that absolute quiet was necessary to his complete recovery. It is hoped that his many friends will please bear this in mind and help him get well.

CLEARWATER HIGHWAY DISTRICT IS DISSOLVED

The Clearwater highway district, the third organized in Nez Perce county, terminated its official existence Monday afternoon when the board of county commissioners canvassed the vote in Saturday's election for dissolution; passed a resolution declaring the district dissolved, and instructed its officers to turn over the books and all other records to the county, says the Lewiston Tribune.

A canvass of the vote shows those favoring dissolution carried the election by a majority of 50 votes, 120 to 70. Unofficial returns were 119 for and 71 against. The error occurred in district No. 4, where 10 voted in favor of and 9 against dissolution. The first returns were the reverse.

A delegation of citizens of the district met with the board to discuss its affairs, which included finances and the equipment. It was reported that the State Bank of Kendrick held $3,996 of the district's funds and the sinking fund account of $6,617. The bonded indebtedness of the district on March 1 was $12,000, $10,000 of which is payable in 1933. While the county takes over the administration of the district, which will be divided into three road districts, the taxpayers before dissolution took place, are responsible for payment of the outstanding indebtedness.

The new road districts will be known as No. 40, No. 41 and No. 42, and their boundaries will be worked out to the satisfaction of the people.

The Clearwater district is the first in Nez Perce county to be dissolved.

"Damming" Beaver Caught

Owen Morris, specialist with the biological survey, Tuesday exhibited at 519 Main street, Lewiston, a beaver he had trapped from Potlatch creek near Kendrick.

The beaver and its mate had been damming up the culvert near Kendrick, menacing the highway with high water. They had also destroyed trees and were considered a nuisance.

Morris had trapped two beaver but one of them escaped.

Under the law it is illegal for other than designated officials to trap beaver. Permits are necessary.

The captive beaver will be maintained at the show window for several days. His prison is a galvanized tank in which is water and a few sticks to keep his sharp teeth busy.

Parent-Teachers Meeting

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers association was held on Monday evening in the assembly room of the school building and was very well attended.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. W. B. Deobald, Mrs. A. K. Carlson, vice-president, presided. After a short business session a splendid program was given. The address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Chas. E. Holly of the department of education of the University of Idaho, which was attentively listened to and was well received. There was also singing by the male quartet and a violin solo by Miss Newman, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harold Thomas.

Refreshments were served after the program.

School Election Quiet

The school election held in Kendrick last Saturday afternoon was a very quiet affair, not more than half the number of votes being cast this year as was put in the ballot box last year.

Wade Keene was elected for the two-year term and Herman Schupfer for the three-year term, Mr. Keene succeeding Billy Deobald and Herman Schupfer filling the place of W. A. Watts, both of whose terms had expired.

HERE'S HOPING THAT THIS NEWS ITEM IS CORRECT

A news dispatch from Boise the other day carried this information: "The bureau of highways advertised today for bids on grading, draining and surfacing with crushed rock seven miles on the Ahsahka-Kendrick highway. The call provided that contractors specify wages and board charge. Bids will be opened May 3."

The above item seems somewhat misleading at this time, but we sincerely hope that the verbatim words are true. The heading (according to our understanding) should have said from Ahsahka to Cavendish, instead of Kendrick (but we hope they really mean Kendrick) for it is said the Clearwater Timber company has already put up some $32,000 for the making of a state highway from Ahsahka to Cavendish. But there it stops. The question now is: Where does (or will) it go from Cavendish.

Naturally the Clearwater Timber company expects to have the road go from there to Elk River, or Bovill, so it can be of use to them. But if the State of Idaho wants to build a road that will do the farmers of this section real good, the road will be routed from Cavendish to Kendrick.

It would thus pass through one of the richest farming communities in the state and would be a real benefit to the farms. Gov. Ross says it's farm to market roads we want now and not tourist or individual roads, and this certainly is a chance to prove that farm to market roads are what is wanted, especially where the state pays half (with your money and ours).

It is understood that the farmers of the Potlatch are anxious to have the road head in at Kendrick (their nearest railroad point) and it is more than probable that if the proper pressure is brought to bear, this can be done—and that pressure means that the farmers must get together and ask for what they want and show that they are willing to do their part.

Kendrick is with you from the word "Go!"

This seems to be a battle of the Clearwater Timber Co. vs. the farmers and—well, "Let's Go!"

Card Club Enjoys Luncheon

Another very enjoyable gathering was held on Thursday of last week by the Afternoon Bridge club at the home of Mrs. Geo. Leith, when the members of the club gathered at her home for a 1 o'clock luncheon to be followed by bridge in the afternoon. High score for the afternoon went to Mrs. F. H. Rider and second high to Mrs. A. K. Carlson.

Prizes for the year were drawn by the ladies, each package being wrapped tightly so the contents were unknown. The high score for the season went to Mrs. Harold Thomas, who had first choice of prizes; the next high then chose, and so on down the line until all twelve ladies had drawn a prize.

The party was in the nature of a farewell or disbanding party, for the season and the six holding the highest scores were entertained by the six with the lowest scores. The rooms were tastefully decorated with daffodils and, at each place was a corsage of violets.

The club will not hold any more meetings this year.

The Magpie Contest

The boys of the Kendrick community are much interested in the magpie contest that is sponsored each spring by the Kendrick Commercial club and the Moscow Izaak Walton League, and have been working very faithfully gathering eggs and heads.

H. B. Thompson has charge of the contest as in the past and will give credit for eggs and heads.

No schedule of gifts has been received from the Izaak Walton League, but it is understood that the prizes will be equally as good as those given last year. As soon as the League has a meeting, definite word can be given.

WHEAT MARKET HIGHER—FEED GRAINS UP

Domestic wheat markets turned sharply upward during the week ending April 15, influenced principally by further deterioration in winter wheat and delayed seeding of the spring crop, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Diminishing European bread grain supplies, with a more active export inquiry for remaining stocks in surplus areas, were further strengthening factors. Feed grain were slightly higher, reflecting the advance in wheat and also some improvement in current demand.

Crop developments and the amount and location of remaining supplies are now the outstanding features in the wheat market situation. The advance of 5 cents to 6 cents per bushel in domestic wheat prices during the week was caused largely by reports of further deterioration in the winter wheat crop. Continued lack of rain with high winds resulted in additional damage to wheat in western Kansas and Nebraska, northwestern Oklahoma and eastern Colorado, where conditions were already poor. Dryness was also detrimental in Texas and California. Wheat made generally good progress in the Ohio Valley, but rains are needed generally in the central and southern part of the winter wheat belt. Spring seeding, while eight to ten days late, made good progress during the week in the northern states, except in a few areas where the soil is too wet. World wheat supplies are materially under those of a year ago. This, together with increased demand from deficit areas tends to be a strengthening influence in the wheat markets.

Stocks of wheat in the principal exporting countries, outside of Russia, at the first of April were around 65,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. United States stocks, exclusive of merchant mill holdings, were about 42,000,000 bushels larger than last season, but stocks in Canada, Argentina and Australia totaled around 107,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. In the United States most of the increase in supplies was in farm stocks which at the first of March were 43,000,000 bushels greater than a year earlier. County mill and elevator stocks were somewhat under those of a year ago and were the smallest since 1918. Canadian wheat stocks totaling about 243,000,000 bushels at the first of April were around 37,000,000 bushels under those of a year ago and also slightly below those of 1929, but with those exceptions were larger than for any other year for which data is available. Canadian farm stocks were about 30,000,000 bushels less than on the same date last season, but county elevator stocks established a new high record with a total of 33,500,000 bushels and reflected the progressive accumulations during the past eight seasons, when each year has shown a gain over the preceding one. Stocks in the Southern Hemisphere countries are around 70,000,000 bushels under those of a year ago, reflecting the smaller crops and the materially increased shipments to date this season.

Pacific Coast wheat markets advanced about the same amount as Eastern points, influenced largely by the same factors. Export inquiry was still lacking and domestic inquiry continued dull. Domestic mills were taking only sufficient wheat for immediate requirements and inquiry from California was less active. Marketings were relatively light with receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaling only 266 cars or a little over half as many as a year ago. Wheat and flour shipments from these markets during March totaled about 2,954,000 bushels or about 516,000 bushels more than during March, 1931. The cold, backward spring has retarded growth of both winter and spring wheat but prospects continue generally favorable. Prices advanced around 5c per bushel at both Portland and Seattle and at the former market Big Bend blue-stem hard white was quoted April 15 at 75c, soft and western white at 65c to 66c, hard winter, northern spring and western red at 62c to 64c per bushel, basis No. 1. Western white was quoted at Seattle at 67½c, western red and hard winter at 66c, sacked, basis No. 1.

California markets strengthened under the influence of unfavorable prospects for the new crop and higher quotations on northern and southwestern wheat. Practically no rain has been received in the Sacramento

Deer Loss On Selway Small

Deer loss in the upper Selway country did not exceed 6 per cent during the winter and most of them were fawns and old stock that had wintered the last two or three mild years. These findings were reported by Rangers Le Roy W. Lewis and George W. Case, who returned yesterday (Monday) from a tour of inspection.

The elk loss was estimated at less than 3 per cent. Heavy snows still cover the higher country so there is prospect of much high water this spring.

WHEAT MARKET HIGHER— FEED GRAINS UP

and San Jauquin valleys during the past nine weeks and the condition of the crop is now quite critical. Late seeded fields are especially poor. Offerings of local wheat were negligible with growers holding remaining supplies firmly because of the uncertainty concerning the new crop outturn. Mills demand for wheat was confined principally to purchases for immediate requirements but feeders increased purchases to replenish depleted stocks. Offerings were principally from Washington, Oregon and Texas, since very little inter-mountain wheat was moving to California. At the close of the market April 15, No. 2 soft white wheat, ordinary protein, from Washington and Oregon was being quoted F. O. B. docks at $1.22 to $1.25 and at Los Angeles at $1.30 per 100, sacked.

In the large deficit areas of Europe wheat stocks are reported to be unusually low. Stocks of wheat on farms in Germany at the middle of March totaled around 28,000,000 bushels and were somewhat greater than the corresponding date last season but were less than for other recent years. Italian stocks are also reported low and milling regulations have again been changed to permit the utilization of 85 per cent of foreign wheat in southern provinces and 90 per cent of foreign durum and 60 per cent foreign bread in milling mixtures in northern and central areas. The French milling quota for wheat is now 45 per cent, compared with a maximum of 30 per cent at the close of last season. This reflects the increasing dependence of French millers upon foreign stocks. Scarcity of domestic supplies in Spain is reported to be responsible for the authorization of wheat imports into that country of around 2,000,000 bushels.

The diminishing supplies of bread grains in these European deficit areas is reflected in a more active inquiry for foreign wheat and with the steady demand from ex-European areas has maintained world shipments substantially in excess of those of the past two years. Export sales of North American wheat during the week were estimated by the trade at about 30,000,000 bushels, including Manitobas, hard winters and durums. The prices at Liverpool strengthened slightly and at the close of the market April 15, No. 1 hard winter from Atlantic ports was quoted for April shipment at 66c.

Domestic cash wheat markets advanced with futures. The higher prices brought out slightly larger shipments but elevator and mill demand was sufficiently active in most markets to absorb current offerings readily.

Canadian spring wheat markets were firmer but did not follow the full advance of the domestic markets. No. 1 northern advanced about 4c at Winnipeg and was quoted in that market April 15 at 64 1/2c, which is equivalent in United States currency to 58c per bushel.

An Explanation
In mentioning the play, "Poor Married Man," to be given on Saturday evening, April 23, at the Vaughn school house, the invitation read: "Everyone invited." That is O. K. as far as it went, but a small admission charge will be made for adults, while children will be admitted free. This explanation is made so that people will not get the idea that the entertainment is entirely free. The invitation still stands good: "Everybody invited"—but adults please bring 25 cents to cross the palm of the door-keeper.

More Beans Shipped
The Bean Growers association last week shipped 800 bags of beans to the Portland market. Manager Ira Havens says that while the price is not very large, it is getting the general public acquainted with the fact that the Potlatch beans are second to none in quality.

Byrn's flat for a weiner roast. The Juniors, thinking that the Seniors were up to some mischief, immediately purchased some weiners and followed. But they were due for a disappointment, for the Seniors, upon arriving at the flat instead of going on around the hill as the Juniors expected them to do, stopped, built a fire and proceeded to roast weiners. After they had eaten all they had taken, they started back to town. However, two scouts were left to watch the progress of the Juniors. When they saw the unsuspecting Juniors standing around the fire they had deserted, the temptation became so great that the entire group slipped through town and reached the bluffs across the river on the east side of town by 10:30. As the moon was shining brightly they were able to paint the number without building a fire, which would arouse suspicion. After the number was finished, they gathered around a camp fire to await the coming of dawn and, perhaps, the Juniors. Their anticipation was fulfilled about 2:00 a. m., when they heard a noise in the brush and the Juniors crashed into camp. Seeing they were outnumbered, they soon withdrew and left their enemies in peace. Nothing more occurred to mar the perfect night, and after the sun had risen, legally establishing the number, the seniors left. A few of the Junior boys, not understanding that the number was legally established, slipped back and blotted it out. However, when they were told of their mistake, they repainted it. Although many sleepy students appeared in school the next morning, a good time was reported by all.

Defenbach Files For Governor.
Byron Defenbach has filed for the nomination to the office of governor—and he is going to give someone a mighty hard race for the place this time. He is thoroughly qualified—and is a north Idaho man. That old "slogan" which was adopted by south Idaho when the North and South highway was built some years ago: "No North, No South, Just Idaho," seems slightly out of date. The slogan adopted by south Idaho many years ago still seems to be: "No north—just south Idaho."

20,000 HOGS SQUEAL ON COUNTY RANCHES

Farmers and tract owners of Asotin county are planning to produce a normal amount of pork this year, it being estimated there will be between 15,000 and 20,000 head of hogs of different ages by the middle of April. This will represent a value at present prices of more than $100,000.

Hog producers did not receive as much revenue from this industry as for several years previously, the price ranging from 2 to 5 cents a pound less in many instances.

An average number of brood sows were kept over winter, and a number of late summer and fall pigs. Some of the pigs will be fattened and marketed during the spring and early summer months, and some will be kept until they get their growth and marketed in October and November.

The gross income to the producers from the hog industry runs from $180,000 to $200,000 annually in Asotin county, representing one of the substantial farm industries.

Five and six months' old pigs have netted some of the producers from $4 to $5 when the price was favorable. While some producers prefer that their herds mature before they are marketed, the majority of the growers sell pigs when they are from five to eight months old.

There are 250 persons in the county producing hogs, some on a small scale and others on a commercial basis.

Flour To Pacific Coast

With Red Cross flour moving into the Pacific area from the wheat distribution office of the organization at Chicago, A. L. Schafer, manager of the Pacific branch yesterday announced that approved requisitions of flour to meet the needs of family relief work in this territory now total 98,196 barrels.

At the same time he announced official advices from Washington to the effect that President Hoover has approved the second requisition of 5,000,000 bushels of wheat, making a total of 10,000,000 bushels made available to the National Red Cross for distribution. Of this amount 7,500,000 bushels have been drawn upon for flour and livestock feed.

In the Pacific Coast states, 193 requisitions for flour represent 98,196 barrels or 19,639,200 pounds. On the basis of bushels this Red Cross flour for the Pacific area alone is 687,372 bushels or 475 carloads.

At current prices the flour is valued at $490,480.

In addition to the orders for flour, 75 chapters in drought affected states in the Pacific area have placed orders for 1,127,586 bushels of processed stockfeed. This represents 37,586,000 pounds or 18,793 tons.

Paper Not Big Enough

If the Kendrick Gazette was twice as large as it is now, we wouldn't have half enough room to put in all the political dope that is sent under the guise of "news".

There are many who are willing to sacrifice themselves on the political altar because they "have been persuaded" by their friends to make the undertaking.

While there have been literally hundreds of such "letters", not one of them has contained a check to help pay for the space asked for by them—for advertising purposes only. The merchants pay for advertising—and the politicians will have to do the same thing, if they get the space.

Verily the mind of man (especially political candidates) often runs to foolish ideas.
