STATE CHAMBER TELLS IDAHO TAX HISTORY

Administering justice to the people of a state is an expensive procedure, and the complexities and complications with which this thing called civilization has surrounded us make the task all the more difficult.

The district courts handle a large share of our legal business. The state is divided into what are known as judicial districts and each has its judge or judges and attendant attaches. District court sessions are held twice a year in each county, with frequent special hearings interspersed as the need may be.

The cost of Idaho's district courts, like that of practically every other branch of state government, has increased heavily during our two score years of statehood. The records show, however, a corresponding increase in the volume of legal business transacted.

Appropriations Compared

From the first biennial appropriation of $40,000 in 1891, the expenses of our district courts gradually increased year by year until a peak figure of $237,000 was reached in 1927. The 1931 appropriation was $233,450.

Believing an increase of this size enough to excite the average curiosity, we have gone through the records in an endeavor to discover some of the particulars. The first sizeable increase, it is noted, came in the 1901 appropriation, which totaled $56,000. The increase amounted to $11,000. Itemized, it was as follows: judge's salary, $6,000 (a new district, the sixth was created); stenographer's salary, $2,000; judge's traveling expense, $1,000; stenographers' traveling expenses, $2,000.

The addition of another new district, being a division of the Third, in 1905 added approximately $11,000 more to the state's district court costs. In 1909 the Eighth judicial district, comprising the counties of Kootenai and Bonner, was created. This legislature also authorized a wholesale salary boost that practically doubled district court costs, bringing the total up from $65,250 to $112,900. Stenographers benefited to the extent of $26,000, making the total appropriation for them $40,000, and $20,400 was provided for judges' traveling expenses.

More New Districts

The 1911 legislature not only created a new district, but went farther and authorized additional judges for the Third, Fourth and Eighth districts. As a result the appropriations for judges' salaries was increased from $50,000 to $93,750 and stenographic costs mounted from $40,000 to $58,400. The total appropriation this year was $181,350—a rather astounding increase for a 20-year period.

The next legislature to go on a court cost spending spree was that of 1917. It created the Tenth judicial district and authorized additional judges for districts five and seven. For the then total of 15 judges it appropriated $120,000 for salaries. The salary appropriation for the 15 reporters was $75,000. For judges' traveling expenses $20,000 was provided.

Four years later the 1921 legislature met and created the Eleventh judicial district, adding one judge-ship, with its attendant reporting and traveling costs to the state budget. This legislature also decided to increase the salaries of district judges to $4,000 annually.

Eleven Districts

When the smoke of the session blew away, the following itemized appropriations had been made: District judge salaries, $128,000; district court reporter salaries, $80,000; traveling expenses, $27,000. The total appropriation that year amounted to $235,000.

Summing up, we find that instead of five districts and five judges, as in 1891, we now have eleven districts and 16 judges; we find that incidentals, stenographic and reporter hire and traveling expenses, etc., that cost $10,000 in 1891, now cost $105,000.

Whether such expenditure increases are justified is for the legislature to decide, and apparently the legislatures of the past believed they were. The state bar association, believing modern methods of transportation greatly facilitate the carrying on of legal business, is now considering a reorganization plan of the entire judicial system with a view to decreasing the cost in time and money.

A man who lies in bed late in the morning loses much of the day for work, but saves much time for whoopee.

Car Registration Lower

By the end of March 28,675 automobiles were registered in Idaho, the department of law enforcement announced last Friday, but the number was expected to be more than doubled by the end of the present month.

April 1 was the expiration of the period of 1931 licenses. In addition to the automobiles, 3,895 trucks were registered.

Registration in 1931 was in excess of 100,000 passenger automobiles. Receipts for March 31 for automobile licenses were $583,279, which is divided 90 per cent to the counties and 10 per cent to the state.

It is estimated that spring work is from two weeks to a month behind time and when it does get raining things will certainly hum on the farms.

Cameron Wins Cup

For having won it three consecutive years, the silver trophy cup awarded at the Nez Perce County Track Meet becomes the permanent trophy of the Cameron Rural school. Twenty pupils of the 25 enrolled took part in the meet held at Culesac last Saturday. High point man for the school was Willard Schoeffler. Cameron won 379 points as against 310 points won by the Webb school, which was Cameron's nearest competitor. Throughout Cameron held the lead on the rural school but late in the afternoon Webb began to gain slightly on us. Excitement ran high in the final events of the day, but after the final count Cameron lead with 69 points.

The Cameron community was practically deserted Saturday since every parent and patron of the school was in attendance at the meet. This wonderful support helped greatly in winning the cup. The school greatly appreciates this wonderful support and cooperation by the parents and friends.

Robert Wegner and Glenn Newman will accompany Mr. Cridlebaugh to Lewiston next Saturday, where they will participate in the County Musicale Saturday evening.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Kendrick Commercial club will be held in the Raby Hotel next Monday evening, May 9. All members are requested to be on hand and take part in the evening's proceedings.

The question of retaining the night-watchman will be discussed, as well as several other important questions, among them being the magpie contest. Anyway, you should be there.

Dinner at 6:30.

MAGPIE CONTEST NOW IN FULL SWING

Seven entries, comprising 16 boys, have been made in the magpie contest and to date there have been brought in 1340 magpie heads and eggs and 18 hawk heads and eggs.

Mr. Thompson asks that the contestants please bring in their trophies at least once each week—and even then it isn't altogether a pleasant task to count and handle over-ripe eggs and heads. The boys are doing good work and Mr. Thompson and the Kendrick Commercial club want to help them; but the contestants should also take into consideration Mr. Thompson's sometimes unpleasant part in it.

It has been decided not to give out the actual number of heads and eggs that each boy or group of boys have obtained, allowing them to guess at just how many each group has brought in, in order to stimulate all to their best efforts.

A full list of prizes has not yet been obtained, but the bounty of one cent a head or egg has been guaranteed. Just as soon as the prizes have been selected, announcement will be made.

Will Have To Try Again

Bill Watts, who claims to have brought home the largest fish caught with a hook and line and brought home to Kendrick, will have to try again, according to the following article, taken from the Lewiston Tribune of last Friday morning.

The biggest fish of the year here was caught yesterday by E. E. Lubcke, Spokane employe of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, his catch was a beautiful steelhead salmon that was 41½ inches long and weighed 22½ pounds dressed. The fish is on display at 528 Main street.

Lubcke snared the giant below the dam on the Clearwater on the south bank and landed it only after a long struggle.

Capone Must Serve Sentence

Fore once, at least, a gangster is going to get a small portion of what he has coming to him for disobeying laws. However, the crime for which he was sentenced is only one of the smaller ones of which he is undoubtedly guilty. He would have one of either of these, had he been in almost any other country besides the United States: The noose, firing squad, the gibbet, or some other form of oblivion.

There are not many nations on earth that would allow a gangster to run at large as long as "Scarface Al" Capone has in the United States. What we need is not more laws, but laws fitting the crime and then enforce them—and right now.

New-Fangled Mousetrap

An inquisitive little mouse smelled the oysters down at the Bell street dock, Seattle, and decided he would have an oyster supper.

Sticking his head into the innocent-looking crevice of one of those Willapa harbor bivalves he got the surprise of his life, and his last one. The shells clamped right down on his neck.

Smooth Up Streets

Thursday morning Bill Behrens drove his Pack Rat 25 up and down Main street and up the hill with a King drag, ridden by three men, tied behind it. The result was considerable smoother streets, very good work being done by the outfit.

WHEAT MARKETS SLOW—FEED GRAINS WEAK

Beneficial rains over the principal wheat areas in both the United States and Canada during the week ending April 29, weakened the wheat market and prices declined to three and four cents per bushel, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Continued lack of export demand for U. S. wheat, increased offerings from Australia and Argentina, large remaining domestic wheat stocks and further decline in securities, contributed to the weakness in the wheat situation. Materially increased offerings with only a moderate demand weakened the corn market. Oats and barley were also lower. Rye was independently weak under a continued absence of export business. Flax declined five to six cents a bushel as a result of improved seeding conditions and a limited demand for current arrivals.

Crop developments are now a dominant factor in the wheat situation and the improvement in U. S. winter wheat prospects as a result of widespread moisture, was largely responsible for the sharp decline in domestic wheat prices during the week. The crop made excellent progress in Missouri and Kansas, but growth was only fair in Iowa and Nebraska. Rains in the Ohio valley benefited wheat in that area. Weather was very favorable in the spring wheat belt. Wet soil delayed farm operations in some areas, but seeding in the U. S. spring wheat belt is expected to be practically completed by May 1, with soil conditions good. Seeding in Canada also made good progress under favorable weather and soil conditions. Trade estimates placed the area prepared for spring wheat in the Prairie provinces at 20,430,000 acres, compared with the official estimate of 18,581,000 acres in 1931.

Crop prospects in foreign countries improved somewhat during the week with more favorable weather conditions in important winter wheat areas in Europe and better conditions for spring wheat seeding in Russia. In the North African countries where harvesting will begin next month, conditions are fairly good, although some damage has occurred in certain areas. Rains in Algeria brought relief where hot, dry winds threatened severe damage, although yields may be below earlier expectations. No serious injury has been reported in Tunis or Morocco and conditions in these countries are generally favorable. In the European countries along the Mediterranean, conditions continue satisfactory and prospects are generally good. The U. S. agricultural commissioner at Berlin reports from personal observation that crops in Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria and Poland are two to three weeks late, although conditions have been improved recently by more seasonable weather. Many sections are still showing the effects of the winter drought, but winter killing appears not so severe as earlier reports indicated. The damage incurred appears quite generally distributed, resulting in a poor stand, uneven growth and unsatisfactory stooling. Lack of funds in some of these areas where poor winter seedings are normally offset by increases in spring acreage, is preventing re-seeding this year. Russian seedings of spring wheat are about the same as last year, but considerably below those of 1930 when a record crop was produced. Seedings to April 20 were reported at 6,642,000 acres.

Pacific coast markets followed the decline at eastern points and were two to three cents lower than a week ago. There were practically no developments in the local situation. Weather in Washington and Oregon was more favorable over the wheat-growing sections. Seeding of spring wheat has been delayed by cold, wet weather but prospects are much better than last year, particularly in the dry, light soil sections. Farm work continued to restrict country marketings and receipts at Puget Sound and Columbia river terminals totaled only 386 cars, a considerable portion of which was for delivery on earlier sales. Demand was principally from local mills since no export business was reported and inquiry from California buyers was negligible. Export bids were well below local prices and no sales were reported. Export wheats declined with futures but milling grades were fairly steady. At the close of the market April 29, No. 1 Big Bend bluestem hard white was quoted at Portland at 73c, soft and

Act of Vandalism
An act that might come under the head of vandalism was perpetrated the other night when the beautiful tulip bed of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Emmett was almost completely stripped of the many beautiful tulips that were in bloom. It is said that Mrs. Emmett did not pick the many flowers for the reason that she wished others to see their beauty and enjoy them. People put in much work raising flowers—for it is no easy task to raise them—for their own enjoyment and to make their home-yard pretty and it is indeed discouraging and disheartening to have some one either thoughtlessly or maliciously, pick and destroy them.
We are sure that the ones perpetrating the act would not want the Emmetts or anyone else to do a thing like that to them. The Golden Rule would be an awfully nice thing right there.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL DO IT!
When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced. That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments; contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. You can safely give it to young infants for colic pains. Yet it is an equally effective regulator for older children. The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's own remedy. Genuine Castoria always has the name:
